GOOD DEMAND FOR HAY IN THE CITY

HIGHER PRICES LOOKED FOR AS THE SEASON ADVANCES

Hay is coming slowly into the city, according to Market Clerk Maloney, and the farmers selling hay are having no trouble getting rid of it. Only two or three loads a day have been on the market and this is not enough to supply the demand. In his opinion six loads can be sold daily on the market, this amount being necessary to maintain life in Peterborough's quadruped population.

The farmers who bring in hay do not need any of the arts of the salesman. All he has to do is to sit on top of the load, and inside of an hour or two hours, if he has any luck at all, a buyer will appear on the scene. One farmer the other day came in late and went to have lunch, to find when he got back a man waiting to take the load off his hands.

Farmers claim hay will go higher for the crop this year, both of clover and timothy, was not up to par and a good many of them will have none of the fodder for sale at all.

SUNDAY STREET CARS SUSPENDED SHORTLY

REPORTS AT THE CAR BARN INDICATE THAT SPECIAL SERVICE WILL TERMINATE WITH SEPTEMBER.

Street railway crews state that they have been posted for work in their turn on Sunday, but that this service will terminate with September. The impression among the men is that Sunday cars will be discontinued after September 25th. No definite announcement to that effect has reached them but everything points to an early suspension of the special service until summer comes again.

AT THE CAPITOL TO-DAY AND TO-MORROW

CHILDREN use up a tremendous amount of energy every day. Every mother of a healthy, sturdy youngster will testify to this. Children need richly nourishing food to supply this energy, and also to supply food for growth.

The selection of this food is your most important duty. You cannot give too much care to this matter. Grape-Nuts, the rich, wholesome cereal, made from whole wheat flour and malted barley, with milk or cream, supplies very necessary requirements for the growing child.

If you want to help your children to be rosy, sturdy, full of vitality and vigor, give them plenty of delicious Grape-Nuts, crisp, sweet and satisfying

Go to your grocer today and get a package of health-building Grape-Nuts. Give the youngsters this invigorating food with milk or cream, and see how they will thrive on it and grow strong, robust and sturdy.

A ONE-TON TRUCK STALLED ON TRACK

THE DRIVER HAD A NARROW ESCAPE—TRAIN HIT THE TRUCK

A one-ton truck owned by J. E. A. Fitzgerald stalled in a perilious place at 9 a.m. today endangering the life of the driver and resulting in some damage to itself. The truck it was stated in coming north on Bethune street went to cross to the east side in front of an approaching southbound G.T.R. freight train at the corner of Hunter but when the hind wheels were squarely on the track the engine stalled. The driver jumped to safety just as the engine struck the rear part, caught on the mudguard and dragged the truck 35 feet before the train was brought to a stop.

The truck would have crossed to the other side of Bethune stree easily had the engine not failed. The gates were down keeping other traffic from crossing but the driver was confident he could get across. Eyewitness were horrified to see the truck stall and the engineer pulling up the heavy 19 car train of grain so quickly was praised by those who saw the smash.

After some difficulty the truck was extricated and the damage was found to have not been as great as first expected.

Mr. Mills of Montreal personal claims investigator for the G.T.R. happened to be at the station when the smash occurred and his investigation assured him so the Examiner was told at the station that the driver was responsible in cutting across in front of the approaching train, that the gates were intended to be as much as warning to those inside as to traffic approaching the intersection.

RAPID PROGRESS

THE GRAFTON STORE FRONT BEING QUICKLY HANDLED BY LOCAL CONTRACTORS.

The new front is all made, and ready to set up, and will very soon be in place. The local contractors are certainly demonstrating that they can accomplish a big undertaking safely, quickly and thoroughly.

The contractors, Messrs. Ephgrave and Barrett are making rapid progress an the new front for the Grafton store. The big beam that was placed last week is now carrying the wall, and Mr. Conway manager of the store is greatly pleased with the progress that is being made.

TENTATIVE AGENDA

PARIS, Sept. 23 — (Canadian Press.—The tentative agenda of the approaching conference at Washington on armaments and Far Eastern matters was received at the French Foreign Office yesterday. It is being examined and is understood to meet with the French Government's approval except the clause concerning the limitation of land armaments. Premier Briand personally is studying this clause and has asked the advice of Marshals Foch and Fayolle before making suggestions regarding modifications.

PREMIER RETURNS.

LONDON, Sept. 23.—(Canadian Press Cable.)— A Reuter despatch from Perth, West Australia, says Premier W. M. Hughes of Australia had an enthusiastic reception at Freemantle and at Perth on his return from Great Britain and the Imperial Conference.

Addressing a great gathering at Perth he dwelt chiefly with the question of a white Australia. He believed Australia would eventually support a larger population than the United States.

ANOTHER LONDON BOROUGH REFUSES TO IMPOSE TAXES

FOLLOWS THE EXAMPLE OF POPLAR COUNCILLORS NOW LANGUISHING IN JAIL—SUGGESTED ABOLISH BOROUGHS.

LONDON, Sept. 23.—(Canadian Press Cable) Bethnal Green is another Borough which has decided to follow Poplar and refuse to levy taxes for the County Council. Poplar councillors are more or less languishing in prison although indications are that general interest in their welfare is less, even on the part of fellow objectors. The action of the councillors has revised the suggestions that Boroughs should be abolished and their duties taken over by the London County Council.

PROVED TO BE A FRIEND IN NEED

TORONTO WOMAN DECLARES TANLAC HAS BEEN A JOY AND BLESSING TO HER.

"I have all the faith in the world in Tanlac, for it has certainly been a joy and blessing to me,' said Mrs. Barbara Dawson, 571 Church street, Toronto, Ont.

"The "flu" a year ago is what broke my health down," she continued. " had pneumonia following the "flu" and was down in bed seven weeks and was left almost a wreck. For some time I was unable to get around I was so weak I was almost helpless. My appetite was gone and my nerves were shattered and my whole system seemed to be disordered. I suffered from headaches and dizzy spells, couldn't sleep well and just seemed to be troubled in one way and another all the time.

"But I'm so glad I gave Tanlac a trial, for it was just the thing I needed. My appetite returned and time I finished my sixth bottle I was my nerves quieted down, and by the in just splendid. With the coming of spring I began having that tired feeling which most everybody has this time of the year, and I am going to take some more Tanlac just as a tonic. It is grand medicine. It certainly proved to be a friend in need in my case."

STRIKES IN ENGLAND CAUSE OF DISTRESS

LONDON, Sept. 23.— (Canadian Press Cable.)—With one or two exceptions, the manifesto just issued by the Labor Party on the unemployment situation is generally regarded here as a moderate expression of opinion, although remedies that the manifesto advocates for relief receive little approval from the public. Many newspapers claim that the acute situation would not have arisen if the country had not had so many big strikes.

TAKING NO CHANCE

DUBLIN, Sept. 23.—(Canadian Press.)—For the first time since the proclamation of truce in Ireland, passengers arriving here from Holy head, Wales, were searched to-day by Auxiliary Police who examined their baggage for arms.

DID REJETED LOVER KILL WHOLE FAMILY

DOWAGIAC, Mich. Sept. 23.—(Canadian Press).—Efforts of the authorities to solve the mystery of the murder of William Monroe, his wife and daughter Neva, centered to-day on William Kinney, a former resident of Dowagias, who was arrested on his farm near Temple, Mich., yesterday. His detention is prompted by the report that he had been warned to discontinue attention to Neva.

WINTER SUIT

Here is a new suit of velours cloth in navy blue, which has combined with carricul for color in its scheme of blue and gray. The loops that finish collar, cuffs and pockets, and also follow the side seams are interesting—they are picot edged strips of the same material as the suit itself. Straight paneled front, bloused back and very long coat are features worthy of especial attention.

FINANCIAL AND MARKETS

NEW YORK, September 23. — Canadian Press. —Rails, equipments, steels and oils led the list to irregularly higher levels at broad and active opening of to-day's stock market. Norfolk and Western rose 2½ points, Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, Lehigh Valley and Louisville and Nashville gaining one point each. Crucible, Westinghouse Electric, Mexican Petroleum and General Asphalt averaged one point advances. Shippings motors, rubbers, coppers and textiles were fractionally higher.

The list of strong industrials, notably steels and equipments, broadened substantially. Famous Players, Wells Fargo, May Department Stores, International Paper, allied Chemical and Corn Products were prominent at one to two point gains. But Products fell to another low record. Call money opened and extended into next week at 5 per cent.

Mex. Petroleum set the pace for another advance to-day, recovering the greater part of its loss. General Asphalt showed a two point gain. Canadian Pacific, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific and Reading featured the further accumulation of high grade rails.

STERLING EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, Sept. 23. — Canadian Press. — Sterling exchange steady. Demand 3.74 3-8; cables 3.74 7-8; Canadian dollars 92 9-32, discount.

GRAIN MARKET.

CHICAGO, September 23. — Opening wheat quotations, which varied from the same as yesterday's finish to 1c higher with Dec. 1.26 to 1.26½, and May 1.30 1-4 to 1.30 1-2, were followed by moderate gains all around; corn and oats were firmer with wheat. Corn started 1-8 to 1-4 up including Dec. at 52 5-8 to 52 3-4, and then hardened a little more.

Oats opened unchanged to 1-8 to 1-4 higher; Dec. 37 3-4 to 37 7-8, and later scored slight additional gains.

MONTREAL MARKETS

MONTREAL, September 23. — The local stock exchange at its opening to-day gave promise of more active session than has occurred for nearly a fortnight. During the first half hour ticker displayed unusual activity and several of the leaders put in an appearance. Abitibi was unchanged at 29. Atlantic Sugar weakened half a point, while Laurentide dropped one and a half point. National Breweries was the most active issue, a number of the shares being sold at 52.

TORONTO MARKETS.

TORONTO, September 23. — Toronto rails were the predominating issue on the Stock Exchange here to-day. The announcement made by the company of the terms of the Mackenzie "clean up" by which the subsidiaries of the company are to be sold, was evidently well pleasing on the street. After opening at 71½, the same as yesterday afternoon, the stock mounted to 74 1-2, but dropped to 73.

Canada Permanent was another active issue, the sales totalling 919 all going at 16 1-2. Buying was scattered over the remainder of the list, with little variation in prices.

LITTLE WANT ADS.

At this time of the year, there are any number of things that are badly needed, either by the man or woman.

These things can be done without, but the Summer is going to be not quite so happy without them, and they need not cost you nearly as much as you think, if you only use the Want Ads. to get them.

So many people lose a vast amount of pleasure simply because they have never learned the value of a simple little appeal to the Examiner Want Ad. Column. Don't let this bright month of June go by without satisfying little extra Summer wants through the Want Ads.

Class in Sight Singing

Mrs. Golding herself is an enthusiastic member of Toronto famous "Mendelssohn Choir" for a number of years.

"SHORT SKIRTS" AT THE GRAND

FILM HAS ARRIVED AND WILL BE SHOWN THIS AFTERNOON AND EVENING.

Owing to some error in shipping arrangements, 'Short Skirts," the feature film advertised for the Grand Opera House last evening, did not arrive in time, and as a result the performance had to be cancelled to the disappointment of many patrons. The film is here today, however, and will be shown at the Grand this afternoon and evening.

"SHORT SKIRTS" AT THE GRAND

The modern girl, half woman, half devil, all angel, is analyzed in 'Short Skirts,' Gladys Walton's newest Universal photodrama which is to be shown for the first time locally at the 'Grand" theatre tonight

The story concerns a seventeen-year-old girl who hates the idea of being a little girl and gets herself, and her family, into an amazing series of difficulties from which she is extricated only after a big dramatic climax 'Short Skirts' is considered by Miss Walton to be even better than 'Pink Tights," "The Man Tamer," and "Desperate Youth," her recent Universal successes and is, for that reason, elaborately produced.

It was a fortunate coincidence for Harry B. Harris, directing Gladys Walton in 'Short Skirts,' the current attraction at the 'Grand" theatre, that the filming of this story occurred while the mayoralty campaign in Los Angeles was at its height.

While 'Short Skirts" is really a study of a modern young girl and her determination to follow the example set by her older sisters before she is out of her pinafores, one of its most important counterplots has to do with a mayoralty campaign. As the picture was filmed at Universal City in May, during the heat of the election excitement, Director Harris had plenty of opportunities to secure good atmospheric scenes which would otherwise have been almost impossible of duplication.

THE ROYAL PIERROTS.

Some people never tire of singing, some never lose their taste for dancing and nearly everybody likes wholesome, refined entertainment, accompanied by good music. Such is the programme for Saturday afternoon and evening, September the twenty-fourth at the Grand Opera House. The comedy is of a very high order and the show is ideal for the whole family. It is just the sort of thing for young people and it seems fortunate that we are to have Miss Alma Gray and her excellent cast with us on Saturday when so many will be at liberty to see them. I heard a person behind me at the theatre the other night, reading aloud the advance bill for "The Royal Pierrots" say: "I certainly hope there will be a big house for this attraction. I have seen these clever people many times, and they are worth going a long way to see and hear." Personal praise is the best guide as to "who's who" in the theatrical line, so there is a treat in store for us and I feel sure the Royal Pierrots will have a big house to welcome them to Peterborough. There will be no straining effect, no appeal to strong emotion—no exaggerated interest—just a few hours of delightful, artistic, musical entertainment

"FAIR AND WARMER."

The date for 'Fair and Warmer" is growing nearer. On Monday night next, the Rex Stock Company will play the Avery Hopwood farce, together with the usual vaudeville acts. A very clever specialty by Mr. William Yule will be an added feature of the program and judging by his popularity with the "Grand" patrons, he should win added laurels during this engagement. By special request he will give a recitation entitled, "Sweet Hour of Prayer." It is a humorous thing with an underlying vein of seriousness, giving ample scope for Mr. Yule's dramatic ability.

As a farce, "Fair and Warmer" holds an unique place among others of its kind. The play is a splendid vehicle for Mr. and Mrs. Snelgrove. Handled less skilfully, it might not hold the place it does in the field of good comedy, but Miss Zana Vaughn displays so much refinement in all her work that, together with our 'polite comedian," Rex, the combination is hailed everywhere as the greatest triumph of the Rex Stock Company. The play will be given Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights with special matinee on Wednesday.

AT THE REGENT.

THE ONE-MAN TRAIL

Fox's cowboy star gives a good account of himself in this Western melodrama. The action is swift and sure and the suspense well sustained. Bernard Dunning, director.

In this five-reel feature Buck Jones is given plenty of opportunity to display his histronic ability as well as his horsemanship. here are several thrilling incidents, notably the chase of the gambler which ends when Buck Jones leaps from his horse to the wagon of the runaway team and saves the life of the girl Cressy, and also the fight in the gambling hall. There are many splendids shots of a winding road, and the typical Western cattle ranch scenes. As a comedy relief which is in sharp contrast with the picture's tragic opening scenes, there is an amusing bit where Buck Jones' horse is dressed in chaps with spectacles and an old straw hat and Buck is compelled to ride him until the horse rebels and chases the cowboys indoors.

The locations are excellent and the Western atmosphere carefully maintained throughout the picture's length. Jones has the role of Tom Merrill, whose father is killed by Crenshaw a gambler who has induced the daughter, Grace Merrill, to elope with him. Tom takes up "the one-man trail" and after wandering from town to town, finally comes upon Crenshaw, who has assumed the name of Kirk. Having tired of Grace, Crenshaw attempts to kidnap the daughter of his henchman, but Tom interferes and saves her, while Crenshaw meets death at the bottom of a cliff. Beatrice Burnham, a pretty and talented ingenue, appears opposite Jones. A good western, full of thrills and suspense.

AT THE CAPITOL.

There is a good ventriloquist, Morin, at the Capitol for the last half of this week. He makes Charley, his life-size doll, tell jokes, cry and sing in a most life-like manner. Barrett and O'Neil are a couple of clever steppers with a number of new ideas.

The serial, "The Purple Riders" takes its audience into San Francisco where the unsuspecting hero and heroine are enticed into a mysterious Chinese laundry and imprisoned therein. Mack Sennett's comedy, "Sweetheart Days" has a lovelorn school teacher and his pet pupil as the star performers.

The hero Joe Loudon, is the bad boy of a town whose chief anxiety is a concern for the respectability of its inhabitants. Joe is the "bad egg" of the community, and even his subsequent education and return as a lawyer fail to clear him of his childhood stigma of his daring escapades. As a lawyer, he clears an old friend of a murder charge exposes the true character of the Pharasaical Judge Pike, and incidentally captures the beautiful heroine.

AT THE ALLEN.

Nothing was too high that wouldn't engage the covetous attention of Tom Moore as "Fancy Charlie," in "Beating The Game." In his newest Goldwyn production he starts his career as an expert safe cracksman, and aspires to be the biggest man in his line, but strange events cause him to take the straight road and in one year he becomes known as "Honest Tom Smith," and Mayor of a hick town. A picture worth seeing twice, but be sure and see it once.

Opens with a big punch, action all the way through and a mighty punch at the end. Tom Moore carries you speedily through a series of thrilling situations in his newest dramatic comedy, "Beating The Game," produced by Goldwyn and appearing at Allen Theatre Friday and Saturday. The story teaches a lesson every person should heed.

NOON EDITION DLY SPORTS—THREE DRIVERS INJURED IN BAD SPILL ON TRACK

SPRINGFIELD, MASS., Sept. 23.—Three drivers were injured yesterday afternoon, in a bad spill in the second heat of the 2:17 pace on the race track of the Eastern States Exposition, when Miss Rico, driven by Harry Brusie, went into a break at the turn and crossed directly in front of Leon Gambetta, driven by Dr. Bradley. Both horses went down in a heap and the drivers were unseated. Al. Martin, driving Guesswork, attempted to clear the struggling horses and was thrown from his sulky. Guesswork continued around the track driverless. The animal finally leaped a fence near the stables after nearly running down trainers and spectators who attempted to stop her. Each of the drivers was badly shaken up but escaped serious injury.

MAULER ACCUSED OF LAYING DOWN IN FIGHT

JERSEY CITY, Sept 23.—A precedent in championship boxing annals was set by the New Jersey Boxing Commission when it deprived Johnny Wilson, middleweight title-holder, of the $35,000 purse he was to have received by his Labor Day bout with Bryan Downey of Cleveland. Wilson was found guilty by the commission of failing to put forth his best efforts in the Downey bout. Withholding of the purse was deemed as the proper punishment.

The commission announced, in making its decision, that it was not certain as to the legality of such action, and would take steps to learn the extent of its authority. Meanwhile, Tex Rickard, promoter, was directed to place the purse in trust.

Counsel for Wilson indicated that the case would be taken to the courts for settlement.

GRAND CIRCUIT RACING RESUMED AFTER LAPSE

Peter Manning Starts Out to Lower the Track Record.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 23.—(Canadian Press.)—Grand Circuit racing was resumed here yesterday after a lapse of two afternoons due to rain The program abounded in features and the spectators were entertained not only by thrilling finishes but also by the time trial of Peter Manning, 1:58, who started just before sundown to lower the track record of 2:01, set nearly a decade ago by The Harvester. Accompanied by a runner, the champion gelding went to the half in 59 seconds and it appeared for a moment as if he would equal his own record or break it However, a wind blowing down the home stretch slowed him up and he passed the wire in 1:59¼.

THE FANS ARE UP ON THEIR TOES—THE WORLD'S SERIES WILL GO TO THE WINNER

(BY HENRY L. FARRELL)
(United Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Any other town but this big blaze burg would close shop for an event like to-days.

Even the World's Series baseballs biggest classic hasn't much more to promise than the four game series starting this afternoon between the New York Yanks and the Cleveland Indians. The pennant and the big cut of the series change is at stake. Both clubs have been pointing for it for two weeks. The bugs have been waiting for it longer, with a prospective outpouring of 140,000 all attendance records for a four game league series are expected to be broken. All the reserve seats for the series were sold two days ago. Early this morning a small crowd of early birds were camped outside the bleacher gates. Officials of the Club estimate that 30,000 will see to-day's and Monday's games and that 40,000 will be in the yard Saturday and Sunday. Inspect. Cahalane who has handled baseball crowds for years, said this morning that he had doubled his force of coppers for the service. Tris Speaker and his Indians were in town this morning, confident, but as usual saying nothing.

This is a tough series all I can say is that we'll be out there trying." The gray thatched leader of the champions said. Miller Huggins the sawed off pilot of the Yanks, dismissed all attempts at Comment with a polite—"We're ready" Stanley Coveleskie, the Shamokin miner and spit baller de luxe probably will be selected by Speaker to go after the first and fourth games. The stocky pole hasn't done much at Yank killing this season as he has won one out of five starts against the Hugginites.

Waite Hoyt the "boy wonder" or Carl Mays the portly underhand tosser, will be sent against the Indians by Huggins.

Figuring on the previous series between the two contenders, the Yanks ought to win the series as they have taken eleven out of eighteen games this season from the Indians.

But it is never safe to apply figures to those Indians.

It is doubtful that Speaker will be able to play. He may bat in a pinch but Smoky Joe Wood likely will patrol centre field ,the Indian chief is still in bad condition. He nearly collapsed yesterday in running out an infield hit walloped in a pinch against the Red Sox.

At an even split in the series will mean very little difference in the present standing of the clubs with the Indians two points behind the leading Yanks.

HARD TEST FOR C. G. E. IN TO-MORROW'S BATTLE

Everything is ready for the intermediate O.B.A.A. game at Riverside Park tomorrow afternoon between Picton and the C.G.E. Although the Peterborough Central League team failed to make the grade, the city is right in the running for two O.B.A.A. championships—the C.G.E. for the intermediate honours and the Bankers for the juvenile title. C. G. E. have their hardest test of the season before them tomorrow in meeting the Picton team. The latter are leaving for Peterborough today, breaking their journey by staying over night in Cobourg, and they will be right on edge tomorrow. The game starts at 3 o'clock.

COLLEGIATE RUGBY SQUAD STARTING DAILY PRACTICE

The Collegiate rugby squad is practicing daily now and will likely have a general turnout on Saturday afternoon. Dr. A. u. McPherson took charge of the practice at the Oval on Thursday afternoon after school and reports that the students are showing a lot of enthusiasm. They had two teams of seniors in line and the juniors are just as numerous. Copies of the new rules have been received, and the boys are plugging at the rudiments of the game. Under Dr. McPherson's coaching they should soon begin to show a marked improvement, and it is expected will be able to give a good account of themselves in the intercollegiate league.

JUICY STEAKS DO NOT TEMPT HUNGER STRIKER

JANNEY LOST 55 POUNDS DURING FORTY-TWO DAY HUNGER STRIKE--AUTHORITIES WORRIED.

A STUBBORN STREAK

Special to the Examiner.

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., Sept. 24.—Only a will to live will save the life of Captain Elloyd Janney, the hunger striekr, that was the substance of a statement made to-day by Dr. Wray, the jail prysician, to your correspondent. With only the signing of his name to an application for bail, standing between him and his liberty—and juicy steaks—Capt. Janney prefers to remain in the hospital and starve. He can have bail on his own personal recognizance of $100, which means that he does not have to put up a cent, but a stubborn streak, born possibly of his long fast, has entered into the calculations with the result that the authorities are plainly worried.

Janney is fast approaching the stage where it will be impossible to save him, and where he will die a lingering death in spite of every effort on the part of his physician, Dr. Wray is plainly worried. Whether the hunger striker has already reached the stage where his condition leaves him no incentive to eat is what is bothering the doctor. Certain it is that Janney has lost absolute 55 pounds. Normally he is a fairly big man, about 175 pounds or thereabouts, and he is under 120 today.

All along during the 42 days of the first lap of his hunger strike, Janney seemed to be kept up by the excitement and the hope of making somebody pay up for what he termed the iniquities heaped upon him when he was held in the jail pending trial on the charge of false pretenses against him. With the investigation ordered he broke his faith last Saturday and for four days he took light food. But on Thursday after the inquisition had been made and the report forwarded to the Attorney-General, Janney suddenly decided that he still had grievances, which he outlines in a signed statement just made public.

Offers have been made to Janney, and the hunger striker therefore was personally responsible for the outcome of the affair. Saturday is his 49th day without food, except for the light meals he took during the time of the investigation.

SIXTY BOATS ARE SMUGGLING LIQUOR

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 24.—Sixty boats, the names of which are known, are being looked for by the United States' customs service for smuggling liquor to the United States from the Bahama Island, Norman C. Brooks, special treasury department agent here, said to-day. These boats are loading approximately 20,000 cases of whiskey a week at Nassau, bound for northern waters, Brooks said. The sixty which Brooks said he could name are exclusive of the fifteen that have been recently libelled on charges of smuggling booze.

"These rum runners make it possible to establish whiskey centres in hotels in all prominent cities in the east. Here the agents call their clientele by telephone and take orders for whiskey, said Brooks. He said prices for the rum are high because of the risk taken in smuggling it.

IDEAL CONDITIONS EXISTING IN RUSSIA DECLARES LABOR MAN

WINNIPEG, Sept. 24.— (Canadian Press).—"Any attempt by capitalistic interest in world to crush Russia would result in utter collapse of entire world civilization", Joseph Knight who recently attended sessions of third international in Russian told an audience here last night on his return from that country. He described Russia in most attractive colors and said that ideal living conditions existed.

NEWSPAPER FIGHT IN COURT TO-DAY

TEN MILLION DOLLAR LIBEL SUIT AGAINST CHICAGO TRIBUNE

CHICAGO, Sept. 24. — (United Press).—Precedent for muzzling the press of America will be established if the City of Chicago wins its $10,000,000 libel suit against the Chicago Tribune, Attorney Weymouth Kirkland argues in court to-day for the newspaper. Kirkland appeared in defence of the demurrer filed by the Tribune.

The only libel suit of its kind ever filed in the United States will go to trial if the demurrer is over-ruled. The suit was filed by Mayor William Hale Thompson for the city, following the publication in the newspaper of a statement that Chicago was "broke." The city holds that the printing of such stories harmed the credit of the city and made it impossible to sell bonds.

"Newspapers have a perfect right to criticize the Government," said Kirkland in rebuttal to arguments of Chester Cleveland, the Corporation counsel. In public policy is the business of every good newspaper. If it believes the Government is not functioning as it should the sacred duty of a paper is to say so.

"I do not believe a newspaper can be touched for anything it says in criticism, of course. Sedition is a different thing. Experience has shown that a dishonest newspaper cannot prevail; neither can a dishonest Government. A paper that prints attacks on a Government without foundation of fact is bound to be forced out of business."

Kirkland said the city's credit had not been impaired, because returns on the bonds and the money bonds represented are protected by law.

MAN KEPT TWO WIVES IN FASHIONABLE QUARTER—ARRESTED ON BIGAMY CHARGE.

SUICIDE IN CASE

PITTSBURG, Pa., Sept. 24—(United Press)—Pittsburgh Detectives toda were following into half a dozen cities the "Love Trail" of Clinton R. Miller, an inventor. Alleged threats to kill Mrs. P. W. Miller if she "squealed on him" led to Miller's arrest and the disclosure of an alleged 'Love' Nest" in which Miller kept two wives in a fashionable quarter of Pittsburgh. Police also say that they have found that Miller frequently visited a seventeen year old girl in Johnstown, Pa., That he carries on with a woman in Alabama and that a woman in New York City committed suicide shortly after she learned that Miller had transferred his affections to another Another trail led police to Cleveland

Miller is in jail here on charge of bigamy and is held without bail.

According to police their investigations here disclosed that Miller had two wives in his "love nest" One was Mrs. Ruth Miller and the other Mrs. Pauline Welch Miller. Both came from Florida and are standing by each other.

Mrs. Pauline Miller has been ill at a hospital. Before that Ruth nursed and cared for her at the love nest.

TRADE CONDITIONS GENERALLY SHOWING SL'GHT IMPROVEMENT

COOLER WEATHER HAS GOOD EFFECT ON VARIOUS LINES—COLLECTIONS FROM RETAILERS FAIR TO SLOW—SHOPPERS' EXPOSITION.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 24. — Little change has taken place in business conditions during the past week, the improvement then noticeable having continued, both east and west, states the weekly trade report of the Canadian Creditmen's Trust Association.

Montreal and Quebec advices say that cooler weather is apparently having a good effect on various lines. Wholesale dry goods houses report an increase in orders, also wholesale gent's furnishings, wholesale grocery houses and women's and children's wear. The improvement has reached manufacturing circles, but only to a small extent as yet. Retailers report improvement in seasonable lines. Collections are fair to slow.

Toronto and Ontario report slight improvement in wholesale conditions, business still being mostly a sorting character. Retail trade is fair to quiet, with seasonable requisites giving impetus to business. Collections from retailers are not satisfactory, and this is having the effect of tightening credit.

Winnipeg wholesale and manufacturing trades generally report trade improving. A big "shoppers' exposition" is to open at Winnipeg on Monday next, the primary idea being to show consumers the difference in 1920 and 1921 prices. Wholesalers are also co-operating, retail trade is on the up-grade. Collections are slow.

Saskatchewan reports, while saying that the improvement in general trade conditions still holds good, things during the past week have quieted down to some extent owing to the very wet weather and the consequent bearing on crop conditions.

IMPROVEMENTS IN VULCANIZING

A new and much improved method of vulcanizing rubber tires, which has been introduced in Peterborough by Mr. W. Juniper, of the Reliable Tire Shop of this city, is now being utilized by other vulcanizers here and elsewhere.

The improvement consists of repairing the tire from the inside, beneath the break, and avoiding cutting into the top, reinforcing and vulcanizing from beneath the break. This forms a protection from the inside of the tire, where the pressure is greatest. This method is said to save expense in repairing, as well as prolong the life of the tire.

Mr. Juniper reports having quite a demand for the special machine for carrying out these improvements, and will be glad to give any further information required regarding them.

O'Brien to the bishopric was celebrated this morning by a Pontifical High Mass sung at 8 o'clock at St. Peter's Cathedral by His Lordship. The church was filled for the occasion. Monsignor W. J. McColl, of the Church of The Immaculate Conception, acted as High Deacon of the Mass, assisted by Rev. Father Cantillon and Rev. Father Gillogly. Rev. J. McAuley, of Ennismore, was Deacon of the Mass, and Rev. Jas. Guiry Sub-Deacon. In the sanctuary were Rev. J. J. O'Brien and Rev. J. McHinery, of the Church of the Sacred Heart, and Rev. Father Garvey.

Yesterday afternoon Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament was given to the assembled school children of the separate schools, who were addressed by His Lordship.

WITH BASKETEERS ON LOCAL MARKET

HENS MORE PLENTIFUL THAN EGGS—FRUIT AND VEGETABLES IN LARGE QUANTITIES

High prices in butter and eggs featured today's market. The plentitude of hens may have accounted for the scarcity of eggs at any rate there were pullets and old hens in great quantities and fine two-pound chicken could be had at 55 and 60 cents for the choicest birds of their flock. Practically all butter was 45 and eggs were 50. This was at 10 o'clock and it was possible many of the eggs would bring 55. The basket market was about average size.

The Outside Market

The open market was fairly large and was featured by large quantities of apples. Snows made their debut today at 50 cents a peck or $4.50 a barrel. One of the apple buyers told the Examiner snows were early this year and the crop was not large. It was a little early in the apple season and he was selling his for $4.50 although later on he believed they would be about $7.00

Greenings could be had at $4 a barrel. Crabapples were bringing 25 cents a peck.

Tomatoes Cheap

Considerable quantities of tomatoes were offered today and sold as low as 50 cents a bushel although most of the farmers asked 60 or 70. Winter onions were 75 cents a peck, pickling ones 25 a quart. Some very fine cauliflower were being sold from 10 to 40 cents each, depending on size. Cabbages were as low as 10 cents. There were radishes and lettuce galore at 5 and celery at 10.

Potatoes were not noticed in any remarkable quantities and farmers were easily getting 50 cents a peck. By the bag they were $2.50.

Pumpkins of enormous size and squashes of every kind were sold at prices from 10 to 25. Citrons were 15 and 20 cents and muskmelons or canteloupes, as specified in restraunt menus, were 15, 20 and 25.

Porkers in Crates

Six week old pigs very lively, scrambling over each other in a two by four crate were $10 a pair or single porkers were $5. Legs of lamb were selling at 23 cents a pound.

There were lovely flowers on sale today. Uustairs many ladies had bouuets for sale in the entrance way there were more beauties and outside glowing purples, reds and yellows announced the flower vendor. Prices of flowers ranged from 10 to 25 cents.

As tender and beautiful as the flowers were several pairs of demure white fan-tail pigeons a little boy was offering for sale at the entrance way. The spotless pigeons seemed in constant alarm at all the racket about them. Their youthful owner asked $1.00 a pair guaranteed them thoroughbred and told a man who priced them that they could be let out and depended upon to return safely to their loft again.

2900 MOTOR DRIVEN VEHICLES IN THIS CITY

Since Jan. 1. H. P. Lindsay, issuer of motor licenses has given number plates to 2900 motor driven vehicles in the city of Peterboro. This is a high level mark, several thousand over 1920 figures, although Millbrook, good for one or two hundred licences, has been removed from Mr. district.

In 1917, 1920 licenses were issued so in four years the number of cars motorcycles and trucks in the county has increased by 1000.

From September 1 till the end of the year all who buy the new models get "cut-rate" licenses. The government each year reduces the price of registration by one-half on September 1.

From Ape Mere Man

RACE IS ON THE VERGE OF A NEW EVOLUTION TO HIGHER PLANE CIVILIZATION

THE MISFIT PROBLEM

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—(United Press).—Man—descended from the ape—is on the verge of a new evolution to a still higher plane of civilization. Major Leonard Darwin, son of Charles Darwin, author on the theory of the evolution of man from monkey, to-day outlined the processes of his new transition.

He told the United Press this new Darwinian theory could not be accomplished unless Co-habitant is prohibited among the criminal, the physical defective and the weak-minded.

Sex knowledge is spread to all the peoples. A plan of careful breeding is adopted among present-day people.

"The wisdom of paying attention to breed in cattle is universally admitted," Darwin declares, "but some argue that it does not follow that the methods of the animal breeder should be adopted by men. That is foolish.

"It is wrong to bring a child into the world without a prospect of its being able to live up to a certain standard of civilization.

"Degradation of the feeble in mind is perhaps the most important question, but I would like to see steps taken to lessen the fertility of the habitual criminal, the wastrel and the grossly unfit generally.

"The belief that man sprang from an ape-like progenator gives rise to this new hope that the upward march will be continued. Out of this hope has sprung the eugenic idea. Progress in eugenic lines would make mankind become continually nobler in character, healthier and happier.

"It is immoral and unpatriotic for couples sound in mind and body to unduly limit the size of their families. There ought to be a moral campaign against selfish regard for personal comfort. The United States should consider whether its best or worst stocks are now multiplying most rapidly.

"There are from 300,000 to 400,000 feeble-minded in the United States to-day, who should be segregated and confined in comfort, the sexes being separated.

"Eugenists have been accused of wishing to abolish love as a guide, but this is false. We only want to purify love of all harmful influences. We want to increase the rate of multiplication of good stocks and decrease the rate among the less fit, thereby saving civilization from degradation."

NEW FORMULA FOR IRELAND

NEW PLAN OF ACTION ACCEPTABLE TO BOTH SIDES OF THE CONTROVERSY.

IRISH SITUATION

LONDON, Sept. 24. — (United Press).—Premier Lloyd George has evolved a new formula for settlement of the Sinn Fein problem which will be acceptable to both sides it was learned here to-day.

This new formula will not necessitate a compromise from the position of either side, it was said.

It was believed Eamonn de Valera's desire for a conference would prompt him to accept this reported new proposal as it will not provide that he withdraw from his previous standing in which he insisted the Irish delegates were representatives of a free nation. The Daily Mails Dublin Correspondent interviewed Arthur Griffith, Sinn Fein Minister who explained de Valera's attitude as expressed in his recent notes to the British Premier. Ireland insists on independence he said but he does not insist that England recognize this independence before a peace conference.

Only the agreement reached in conference would be binding, he pointed out.

DUBLIN, Sept. 24. —United Press).—British police secretly are patrolling the entrance to all Irish ports to search for arms on incoming steamers, it was believed to-day.

Passengers arriving here reported their ship had been searched. British authorities claimed Sinn Fein was arming. They feared an outbreak among the Republicans who have been drilling actively.

"Profoundly" Disappointed

DUNDEE, Sept. 24.—(Canadian Press.—Mr. Churchill said the government was 'profoundly disappointed by De Valera's rejecton of the offer of Dominion Home Rule".

The Colonial Secretary said the Government's offer was generous, sincere and unanimous, and could be carried into effect immediately. Allegiance to the king, must be insisted upon, he declared. Ulster, Mr. Churchill said, had made a real sacrifice and no longer was a stumbling block to the rest of Ireland.

SOVIET DIRECTOR SEES A WORSE FAMINE NEXT YEAR

LIMITED ACREAGE SEEDED THIS YEAR—UNABLE TO OBTAIN SUEFICIENT SEED.

45 PER CENT. CROP

(By Edwin Hullinger

MOSCOW, Sept. 24. (United Press) Russia faces another famine which will come next year and which will reap death among the poor of the provinces with even more swiftness than it did this year This was the prophesy of M. Kamenoff director of famine relief, expressed in an exclusive interview with the United Press today.

Kameneff declared the farmers had been unable to obtain sufficient seed for autumn planting.

"We have obtained only about enough to sow approximately two-thirds of what we planted last year in the fertile regions of the Volga, Kameneff declared. He told them of frantic efforts to sow full seeding before winter. He said thirteen million poods of seeds had actually been distributed among the Volga farmers He declared a million and a half additional poods have already been bought in foreign countries and are now ready for shipment.

"The 1921 harvest was entirely consumed by the middle of October. There after the Volga gave absolutely nothing. Everything we ate had to be imported from other provinces of Russia where the harvests were only forty five per cent normal, he declared.

WOMAN TOOK A POT SHOT AT MONTREAL MOTOR CAR MECHANIC

CORNWALL, September 24.—Special to the Examiner—A near tragedy was enacted at Hurley's garage in the north end of the town last night, when Mrs. J. J. O'Neil, of Isabel street, Montreal, whipped out a 32 calibre revolver, and shot at Emile Mischkie, of Mance street, Montreal a mechanic in the garage, striking him in the left jaw, and knocking out a few teeth. The man was taken to the general hospital, and the woman was arested by Officers Cowhey and Crites, and placed in the jail, where she is on remand for a week. The trouble, which culminated in the shooting, commenced about five weeks ago in Montreal, when Mischie is alleged to have induced Irene Knapik, the 18 year old daughter of Louis Knapik, to leave the city with him.

MONEY SPENT ON HOUSING THE CAR

FORTY-FIVE GARAGES ERECTED IN CITY SINCE FIRST OF YEAR

City Hall figures show that forty-five garages have been erected in Peterborough city proper this year. They represent an estimated value of $6,085.00; an averageg of over $135 each. Some of the garages are flimsy affairs of one-ply lumber; others are worldly things of brick and stone. Two garages costing only $15 have been erected, but most of the car bedrooms have set the owners back more than this. There are only two that were erected for $25, a good many costing $50 or $60, and the rest ranging in cost from $100 to $900.

The Average Cost.

The average cost shows that the "garden or common" variety of wooden garage is most popular. Nearly all the permits for these read alike. Four $100 garages have been built, two $125, three $150, one $175, three $200, one $300, one $500, one $550, and one $600. All garages costing over $500 have been fine brick buildings, substantially erected. The costliest garage was built in the south-end. The permit was taken out for $900 to erect a repair garage.

The number of permits issued in April indicate that with the spread of the "automobile" fever in that month, garage building begins. Every new car must have a home, so, judging by the garages built, sixteen brand new car-owners blossomed forth last April.

Opened in January.

On January 28th one man began making the season by putting up a $50 garage. In February a $125 one was built. March saw four spring up, April 16, May 8 and June 8. Two were built in July, four in August, and so far only one this month. The garages built in April were worth $2,755, nearly half the season's total.

Till the end of October, 1920, only 27 garages had been constructed, so it is altogether likely there will have been twice as many garages built this year as last. Last year the number of garages far exceeded the number of houses built, and in this connection it was mentioned that the people seemed to think more of housing their cars than their families. This statement, it is pleasant to say, cannot be repeated this autumn, for, despite the fact that double the number of garages have been put up, the building of houses has kept in advance of it.

"THE SKY PILOT."

We are presenting with this picture Joseph Plunkett's Broadway Strand prologue. This arrangement is entirely new to Canadian audiences and is being used for the first time by the Allen Theatre in this city. Featuring Mr. Geo. Wesley as "The Sky Pilot" with Mr. Vern. Morphet and his cowboy quartette. This feature made a decided hit with Broadway theatre patrons. Do not fail to see this added attraction.

ELECTION NEWS

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

BRANTFORD, Sept. 24.—The Brantford Independent Labor party, as distinct of the Brantford branch of the I. L. P. of Ontario, met in convention last night, and the Labor Temple was crowded to the doors, it was the most enthusiastic meeting that has been held in Brantford for many years.

The nomination of A. W. Burt as the Labor candidate for South Brant was unanimously repudiated. M. M. McBride, M.P., received a wonderful reception when he rose to speak. The applause lasted for several minutes. He was at his best and delivered a fighting speech. He threw down the gauge of battle to the Simpson-Buckley combination. He declared his intention of going up and down the country from end to end to fight the establishment in Ontario of a dictatorship of men not elected by the people. He told the people of Canada to settle their own family quarrels and not throw down the tariff bars and let in the hungry hoards of Wall Street.

Nominations were called for, and the names of M. M. McBride, Earl Biggar, and John Shotten were proposed. All of these withdrew, but Earl Biggar's withdrawal was not accepted. It was evident that he was the choice of the Labor force of Brantford. Mr. Biggar declared that he was an out and out Protectionist. He is a farmer near Brantford, and is an economist of nation-wide repute. He is also one of the bitterest opponents in Ontario of the Morrison-Burnaby dictatorship.

SOUTH WINNIPEG.

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 24.—The name of ex-Mayor W. Sanford Evans is mentioned prominently this week as a candidate in South Winnipeg. Evans to-day said he had heard of the movement, but nothing definite has been arranged.

Hon. Robert Rogers to-day declined to make any statement of the policy of the situation either in South Winnipeg or Lisgar, where petitions for his candidacy are being circulated and largely signed. He will await the announcement of Hon. Arthur Meighen at Portage La Prairie before entering publicly upon the campaign.

R. L. Richardson, M.P., sitting member for Springfield, will not be a candidate. He is critically ill.

AMERICANS INTERESTED.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—(Canadian Press).—The New York Times today devotes almost a column to the Canadian political situation. It pays particular attention to the indications that the United States-Canadian issue, paricularly along tariff lines, are to have an important part in pre-election campaign. It informs readers that the outlook is most uncertain, with the "strong probability" that neither Conservatives, Liberals nor Farmers' party will have a clear majority in the next Parliament.

PRONOUNCED SWING.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 24.—(Canadian Press). — There is a pronounced swing in the East toward the belief that it is no longer a question of whether the Liberals will have the largest group in Parliament after next election, but whether they will have a clear majority.

TURNING BACK CLOCK.

ALABAMA, Sept. 24.—(Canadian Press.)—Daylight saving in thirty-eight cities of the State will come to an end at 2 o'clock to-morrow morning, when the watches and clocks will be turned back an hour, thus agreeing with standard time.

RURAL SCHOOL FAIR HELD IN MILLBROOK

SEVEN OUT OF EIGHT SCHOOLS REPRESENTED IN THE PARADE--LIST OF PRIZE-WINNERS

MILLBROOK, Sept. 24. — The Rural School Fair for this district was held in the agricultural park, Millbrook, on Thursday afternoon, September 22nd. The weather being favorabe there was a large attendance and apparently all were well pleased with the management and results of the fair.

Only seven out of the eight schools which are included in this section entered the parade, which proved the most interesting of the outside events, and reflected great credit on the teachers who had certainly gone to considerable trouble in preparing costumes, training, in marching, singing, school yells, and physical culture drill.

The display, in the building, of cooking, vegetables, fancy work, flowers etc. was very creditable and showed that the scholars no doubt urged thereto by parents and teachers had worked hard to make this part of the fair a success.

PRIZE-WINNERS AT THE CAMPBELLFORD EXHIBIT

Morley Smithson of Otonabee Regarded As Likely Choice Of East Peterboro' Farmers

Election gossip from East Peterboro indicates that the U.F.O. forces are on the move in nearly all parts of the riding. At a recent meeting in Norwood the executive of their political association, elected a set of officers and decided to hold their convention, for the purpose of choosing a Federal candidate at Norwood on Monday October 3rd beginning at 1 p.m. The officers of the political association are as follows:—President, G. A. Brethen, Secretary-Treasurer, W. G. Barrie, Directors, M. E. Smithson and Fred McIntyre, Otonabee, J. O'Connor, Douro, Rufus Payne, Dummer, W. E. Griffith, Belmont and Methuen, Wm. Tucker, Burleigh and Anstruther, Dan Whitemore, Harvey and Chandos, Thompson Braden, Lakefield, Wm. Robb, Norwood, Joseph Johnston, Havelock.

Lady Directors:—Miss Pearl Petrie, and Mrs. Samuel Comrie of Otonabee, Mrs. John Rorabeck, Norwood, Mrs. James McMillan, Belmont, Miss Stella Burgess, Norwood, Mrs. Rigby, Havelock, Mrs. Arthur Carveth, Douro, Mrs. Ed. Hamblin, Douro.

Lakefield, Burleigh and Anstruther Harvey and Chandos have yet to appoint their lady directors.

J. W. Kennedy, U.F.O. member for Glengarry in the Legislature will address the convention, which is bound to be interesting. The opinion has gone abroad that the U.F.O. choice for East Peterboro for the Dominion contest will have a walk-over. That idea seems generally entertained, whether it is correct or not, and the aspirants for what has been mooted as an easy berth may be expected to put forth a big effort during the days preceding the convention.

Meeting in Havelock

Advertisments are out for a meeting in the Orange Hall in Havelock tonight for the purpose of selecting delegates for the convention in Norwood. It is signed by Warden W. E. Griffith as President and W. H. Johnston as Secretary. Not only are the members of the district U.F.O. invited to attend, but also villagers generally, no matter what their occupations or economic standing may be. The following is a passage from the notice—"As all villages are having representation at this convention we would therefore appreciate if if all citizens of the village who wish to be represented at this convention would come to this meeting and say who shall be their delegates. The matter of selecting delegates from the village is left entirely in the hands of the citizens of the village, and they have the sole right to say whom they shall send."

Three Villages

The villages to which this representation is given are, Norwood, Havelock and Lakefield, suggesting a broadening out that neither Mr. Wood nor Mr. Morrison has officially sanctioned.

Possible Candidates

Echoes of the gossip in the East riding carry most frequently the names of Warden W. E. Griffith, G. A. Brethern of Norwood and Morley E. Smithson of Otonabee. All three are said to have been brought up in the Conservative fold, and to have been more or less closely indentified with politics even before the Union of farmers was born of the Borden-Crerar betrayal of the farmers in 1918 after they had helped elect the so-called Union Government in December 1917. Just how the electors of East Peterboro can overlook Colonel Tom Johnston of Otonabee after all his activities during the war and the confidence he has won among the people of the county as a whole, including Peterborough city, is not clear from a distant prospect unless the candidate must necessarily spring from the inner councils of the U.F.O. and disclose an anomalous socialistic leaning which several of the reported aspirants are said to have at times expressed.

Wallace Anderson of Warsaw has also been mentioned in U.F.O. discussions and might be expected to win a big following were it not for the fact that the provincial U.F.O. member is from the same township. Warden Griffith with his experience in township and County affairs should be a dominant figure at the convention, and likewise Mr. Brethen whose general experience must have fitted him for equality at least among East Peterboro's best political material. Morley Smithson stands high among Peterboro county farmers. He is a representative of its wealthiest township, and if he is sent up as Otonabee's choice he will be well launched in the convention's deliberations. Reports reaching the city all intimate that Mr. Smithson has had a slight advantage in the early discussions of the result of the coming convention.

PRELIMINARY HEARING OF THE ARBUCKLE CASE

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 24.—(Canadian Press.)—The preliminary hearing of Roscoe ("Fatty") Arbuckle, charged with the murder of Miss Virgina Rappe, was resumed in police court yesterday. Alfred Semnacher, the first witness, went into the already known details of the party in Arbuckle'ssuite of rooms following which Miss Rappe's death occurred. Arbuckle, appearing more cheerful than heretofore, entered the court room with his wife and mother-in-law.

Semnacher, reported to have sold the Grand Jury in Los Angeles of admissions he said Arbuckle had made, named Arbuckle, Fred Fischbach, Lowell Sherman, Ira Fort Louis, Miss Rappe, Mrs. B. M. Delmont, Miss Zeh Prevost, Alice Blake and Mrs. Mae Taube, and he thought one or two others, as being present at the party. Arbuckle and Sherman were dressed in pajamas and bathgobes and slippers, Semnacher said. The rest were in street attire, except Mrs. Delmont, he continued.

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 24.—Robert L. Bean, cashier of the Megunticook National Bank, of Camden, was arraigned here as a defaulter to the amount of $257,000, on a secret indictment returned by the Grand Jury in the Federal District Court. Miss Ella M. MacKay, a bookkeeper in the bank, was indicted on the charge that she aided Bean.

Bean pleaded not guilty, reserving the option of withdrawing his plea within 30 days, and the case was carried forward to the December term. He furnished $10,000 bail. He is a well known ship builder.

Normal commercial deposits of the bank amount to $100,000 and savings deposits, $400,000. These have been adjusted, it was said, without loss to depositors, but the capital stock of $50,000, has been wiped out and the five directors have taken an assessment of $12,000 each. The balance was advanced by wealthy summer residents along the Camden and Rockport shores. They took such security as Mr. Bean could give.

Cyrus H. K. Curtis, Dr. William Phelps, and T. Charleton Henry, of Philadelphia, Chauncey Keep, Chauncey Borland and H. H. Windsor of Chicago, and Robert Law, Jr., of Rockport, advanced substantially equal amounts.

The good will and business of the bank have been sold to the Security Trust Company of Rockland, which

THE HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY.

It is rather disappointing to find that the booth established by the Peterborough Horticultural Society at the Exhibition only succeeded in securing thirty-three new members and that it is necessary for a further appeal to the citizens to take advantage of the opportunities offered by membership in this splendid society. It might be thought that the fine options in bulbs that are given the members would of themselves provide sufficient inducement to all citizens interesetd in flowers and gardens to join the Society, but in spite of the fact that Peterborough possesses many beautiful gardens and well kept grounds the membership here falls considerably below the average of Horticultural Societies elsewhere. The local society has been doing splendid work and with a larger membership and more active co-operation on the part of the residents of Peterborough, is prepared to extend its activities next season and to launch out on a more ambitious programme. The officers and members of the organization deserve hearty congratulations upon the work they have already succeeded in accomplishing and upon the zeal and interest they have shown.

TIME FOR A HALT.

The continued influx of immigrants from Great Britain into Canada is under present conditions a matter not only for regret, but for action. According to a Toronto journal, they are coming in by the train load to the Queen City. The present industrial situation makes it imperative that for the time being the flow of immigration should be completely checked, for a winter of unemployment faces thousands of Canadian workers, and every newcomer adds to the seriousness of the situation. Canadian authorities are eager to advertise in Great Britain the advantages offered by the Dominion in prosperous times; they should just as quickly use the same medium to tell the people of the Mother Land that just now Canada offers nothing but the prospect of months of idleness for immigrants who happen to be industrial workers. The time will come, sooner even than the most optimistic among us perhaps expect, when the bar can be safely lowered and a warm invitation extended to our fellow Britons to come out and help us develop the resources of this great country. But while this temporary depression continues there is nothing for them here, unless they are farm labourers and domestics, and even the former will not be much in demand until next spring.

SIR GEORGE FOSTER.

Appointments to the Senate as a reward for political services rendered are usually viewed with disfavour by the maojrity of Canadians, for party service is not always national service, and men have gone to the Senate as a reward for effacing themselves in favour of Ministers without a safe seat, or from some other reason that does not appeal to the country generally. The elevation to the Red Chamber of Sir George Foster, however, will be received by citizens of all shades of politcs in better spirit, for the veteran statesman has served his fellow countrymen for almost forty years, and even political foes will not begrudge the eloquent Sir George a comfortable seat in the safe haven of the upper chamber. He has been a member of five Governments, has held three different Cabinet portfolios, led his party in the House during one session in the opposition, served as Acting Premier on several occasions and has been one of the most prominent figures in Canadian public life for two decades. No speaker on either side of Parliament could cause the galleries to fill more quickly than Senator Foster in his prime as an orator, and even now at seventy-four years of age Canada has few better debaters. His eloquence and Parliamentary knowledge will make him a foremost figure in the Senate, and most of his countrymen will be glad to learn that he has safely landed in that refuge to spend his days in "peace and slumberous calm" and to say with Moore:

"How calm, how beautiful comes on
The stilly hour, when storms are gone."

THE DUTY OF THE ELECTORS.

Speaking of the coming election, the Catholic Register says:

Therefore, whilst we are advocates of no party, we are in duty bound to lay down certain principles which should govern every party, both as to its platform leaders and supporters.

The first of these principles is that the Moral Law obtains at election times and in political caucuses as well as elsewhere. "Elections," we are told, "are not won by prayers." That has been abundantly evident in some of the elections we have had. If this statement means that politicians are privileged to use shady methods, then it is utterly immoral. Our governments derive their authority ultimately from God. "There is no power but from God," declares the great Apostle. The instruments of that God-given power, therefore, should be clean, and clean they cannot be unless they are chosen by clean methods.

This, then, is the first duty imposed on the electorate. Each and every elector is bound to see that we have clean candidates and clean election methods. We use the word duty here in its most solemn and binding sense. Democratic government is defined to be government of the whole people by the whole people, for the whole people. The people have the making of this government. It is a trust of the highest and holiest character. And the voter who does not discharge this trust honestly and intelligently is a traitor to liberty, to country, to God. For our part we are out and out in favour of compulsory voting and hold that the elector who neglects to use his franchise should be subject to fine and disfranchisement, and thus publicly branded as unworthy of citizenship in a free country. If the word politician has come to have a sinister meaning, if corruption and bribery and perjury be regarded as legitimate or at least inevitable accompaniments of elections, the indifferent voter has to bear the principal responsibility. There is, as we sadly know, an unprincipled leniant in every constituency, an element eager for spoils, an element also ready to win by any means for the sake of gratifying its rabid partisanship. The so-called decent citizen who leaves the field open to these is a more contemptible enemy of good government than even they. They have at least some purpose; he has a none. He does not, forsooth, wish to mix himself up with knaves! Does the policeman who arrests knaves mix himself up with them and put himself on their level? We do not ask or want any voter to identify himself with knaves. What we insist on his doing is to be a terror to knaves and drive them off the field.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

ACCIDENTS AND INEFFICIENCY.

In the last five years the executives of American industry have become thoroughly convinced of the value of organized accident prevention, some because of the dollars-and-cents possibilities, others because they hated to see their men killed or injured. Even today discoveries are being made in the science of accidents prevention. Within the last year, for instance, there has been enunciated the principle that every accident is the symptom of an inefficiency; that everything which is really efficient is safe, and that every machine or process which is really safe is efficient.—Melville Nix, in the Nation's Business.

RIOTS IN BELFAST.

BELFAST, Sept. 24.—(Special to The Examiner.)—A corps of armored cars patrolled the streets of Belfast to-day after a wild night of rioting. Fighting, which broke out shortly after midnight, spread throughout a section of the city. Gunmen hidden in doorways poured their fire into the streets and rioting crowds surged along the main thoroughfares.

BY-ELECTION RESULTS.

LONDON, Sept. 24.— (Canadian Press Cable.) —The result of the Louth by-election was not unexpected. The successful candidate attributes her victory to the "splendid work of the women."

The electorate numbers 27,572, of whom 11,267 are women, Mrs. Wintringham is the first woman of English birth to be elected to parliament, as Lady Astor is an American and Countess Markievicz, who was returned for St. Patrick's, Dublin, in 1918, but never sat at Westminster, is Irish.

GOOD SALMON FISHING.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. A TEST CASE.

LONDON, Set. 24. — (Canadain Press Cable.)—Reuter's Melbourne correspondent reports that after a fortnight's inquiry before a federal arbitration court, judgment was given in the test case in which the court was asked to adopt the recent recommendation of a royal commission that £5, 16 shillings and six pence should be adopted as a basic wage for the Commonwealth.

The request was refused, the court declaring that the commission's standard was at present impracticable as a flat rate.

Last February the Federal Basic Wage Commission recommended that provision should be made for a minimum wage varying in different capitals of the Commonwealth. The highest was that proposed for Sydney, namely £5, 17s, and the lowest for Brisbane, namely £5, 6s, 2d.

SOME THINGS EXPLAINED.

Chapter 71.

"It all happened so suddenly," Tom Barney explained. "Ofcourse, it surprised me to find Kent Jr. alone, and then that fellow suddenly bolting down the street before I could collect my thoughts or get my hands on him!"

Kent Jr. smiled up at Tom from over his glass of milk as though he was quite enjoying the story.

"I didn't want to leave the boy and run after the fellow and I couldn't chase him with Kent in my arms. I just had to let him go."

"I went over to the taxi driver and tried to get some information from him," Tom went on. "He didn't know much—just said the fellow had tried to engage him, but that he was waiting for a party and had told him so. Then I questioned the boy." Tom turned suddenly to Kent Jr., who sat curled up in my lap. "Say, kiddie, tell us about the bad man who took you for a walk this afternoon."

"He was a nice man, 'Barnee'," Kent Jr. declared, his big brown eyes opening wide.

"Well, all right, but tell us about him, won't you?" Tom agreed laughingly.

I shuddered and drew Kent Jr. up closer to me. He was too friendly, and entirely too believing in the virtuosity of all men.

"He was a good man," he insisted again between bites of bread and butter.

"Tell mother, Kent," I entreated. "What did the man say to you?"

"He gived me some candy. Nancy said he was a good man, and would take care of me," he affirmed.

At the name, Nancy, we all started, and stared at each other. Kent jumped to his feet.

"Where is she, Babs?" he demanded, anger and fear darkening his features.

"She has gone Kent—gone." I answered. I was beginning now to comprehend all that had ha- I thought of Nancy's tears and aggitation when I had come in suddenly and found her with her hat and coat on. And I remembered how quickly and eagerly she had hurried out to look for Kent Jr. at my suggestion.

"Tell mother what Nancy said. Did she tell you to go with the man, dear?" I asked, turning again to the boy.

"Yes, Muvver," he said shaking his golden head. "Nancy said I must be good boy. The man took me for a walk—only he have dirty hands, Muvver," he added a trifle doubtfully.

Past remarks and acts of Nancy's were suddenly taking on a new significance, I turned to Kent.

"Here—take Kent Jr. for a minute. I want to see about something," I told him rapidly, a thought suddenly flashing into my mind.

I went down the hall to Nancy's room. I went in and looked around carefully. The closet and bureau drawers were all empty. Under the edge of the bed I discovered a large suitcase packed and ready to take away. The room was entirely cleared of all her belongings.

Then I was sure of what had happened. I knew that my early and unexpected arrival in the afternoon had thwarted her plans. She had not intended that I should catch her. She had expected to get away long before Kent and I returned from our trip up in Connecticut.

And then I remembered the man that she had spoken to that day on the park bench—and of what might have happened. Just the thoughts of what we had escaped, made me shudder.

BANK SHORT

is continuing the bank as a branch institution. The details of Bean's shipbuilding and banking business, which could not be closed up immediately, have been taken over by the Camden Securities Company, Inc., and financed by the visiting capitalists who came to his assistance.

Bean is said to have sustained heavy losses when he held too long to the ship-building business.

Mrs. Bean joined with her husband in transferring her property to meet the shortage.

A special examination of the bank by National Bank Examiner T. A. Cooper disclosed that it was carrying Bean's notes for $119,000, nearly twenty times the amount the bank was authorized to loan any one borrower. Miss Mackay, whose duties included those of assistant cashier, is alleged to have admitted that she had some knowledge of the transactions, but said her confidence in Bean was unshaken and that she received no financial benefit from him.

THE TORTURE OF INDIGESTION
Thousands Made Miserable By This Trouble
"FRUIT-A-TIVES" Relieves It

What is Indigestion and what causes it? As you know, solid food must be changed into a liquid by the stomach before it can be taken up as nourishment by the blood.

The stomach acts as a churn. It is covered by a strong, muscular coat and lined with a soft, delicate membrane which secretes the Gastric Juice which digests or dissolves solid food.

When food enters the stomach, the muscular coat squeezes and presses the food from end to end, or churns it, with the gastric juice to dissolve or digest it.

But—if the stomach muscles are weak—or if the dissolving fluid is poor or insufficient—then food cannot be digested properly and you have Indigestion.

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" is the most wonderful medicine in the world for strengthening the stomach muscles and providing an abundance of pure, full-strength dissolving fluid to completely digest every meal. "FRUIT-A-TIVES" does this because it keeps the kidneys active, the bowels regular and the blood pure, which insures pure Gastric Juice.

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" will correct your Indigestion or Dyspepsia and enable you to enjoy every meal. Try it.

50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size 25c. At all dealers or sent postpaid by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

Demand Good Milk — and Get It

The housekeeper of today has the right to demand the best milk for her family. If she knows what good milk should be, she can have it.

From a health standpoint there are five general classes of milk to choose from—pasteurized, certified, inspected, tuberculin tested, and just milk produced and handled under no regulations as to its purity, cleanliness, and safety. Of these five classes pasteurized milk is generally acknowledged to be the ideal as far as the average family is concerned.

The mothers of a town or city can have the kind of milk they want. In many larger cities pasteurization is required by the authorities. Where it is not there is one thing certain, and that is the pasteurizing plant is the most sanitary and the most particular one in town.

WINTER DELIVERY
Consumers are notified that beginning on Sunday, our milkmen will be three hours later in the morning in making their deliveries.

MILK BOTTLES
Consumers are expected to deal fair with the milk dealer in caring for milk bottles. Milk bottles belong to the milk dealer and is the ideal container for milk.

CRITICISM AND REMINISCENCE

(By PATERFAMILIAS)

SWEET MEMORIES OF THE LONG-AGO!

Did you ever stop to consider what a marvellous connecting link a modern newspaper is between the city or town in which it is published and the world at large. Hot from the impress of swiftly revolving cylinders in a huge rotary machine, inking, printing, folding and trimming papers at the speed of from fifteen to twenty-four thousand copies per hour, according to need, it is safe to say that scarce a day passes but what a copy of The Examiner starts on its long, long journey across continent—eastward or westward—to constitute an ever-welcome letter-press connection between some Peterborough wanderer or settler in a far-distant land and human ties regretfully severed in life's uncertain journey toward its inevitable end. Borne on the wings of the penny post (to use the original vernacular), by rail and ocean, and even stage and saddle horse, newspapers are daily—despatched by warm-hearted friend or loving relative—finding their ultimate destinations in the uttermost corners of Mother Earth, carrying cheer—but, alas, at times inflicting sorrow—to the hearts of many a news-hungering self-expatriate, and awakening sweet memories of the dear old distant home town, together with its happy associations of the long ago.

These thoughts are inspired by a letter just received from Whitdorf, Hamburg, Germany, and written by Mr. Charles M. Rubidge, who evidently found real, unalloyed pleasure in the recent receipt of a copy of The Review, of November 5, 1917, containing a history of St. John's Church, this city. The Review having passed into The Examiner's subscription list, Mr. Rubidge's request that we publish his letter in this connection is cheerfully complied with, together with mention that "Paterfamilias" wrote that history for The Review, as also a subsequent story on ancient, church-like, picturesque and historic St. John's in The Examiner, treated from another angle. Mr. Rubidge writes as follows:

Premier Church.

SIR,—The writer has recently come into possession of "The Review" of November 5, 1917, containing the history of St. John's Church.

The fact that my grandfather (the late Capt. Charles Rubidge, R.N.), was the first warden of Peterborough's premier church, enhanced the writer's interest in your historic sketch.

Capt. Rubidge not only had the above distinction, but to him belonged the honor of laying the corner-stone of old St. John's, as you will see from the following extract from "Our Forest Home," written by that most gracious and gifted lady, the late Mrs. Stewart, wife of the late Hon. Thomas Stewart of Douro, County of Peterborough:

"In the year 1822 the back parts of the districts of Newcastle in Upper Canada were little better than a wilderness. But in 1826 the town of Peterborough in that district began to assume an importance considerably beyond the anticipations of its founders, and some efforts were made to supply the spiritual wants of its increasing population. A school house was built in which Divine Worship was regularly performed, but it could not contain more than 150 persons. In a few years the anxiety for accommodation expressed by many families forcibly appealed to the respectable part of the settlers, and convinced them of the necessity of making some efforts to raise a church.

"A meeting was held, and it was unanimously resolved to erect a stone church, and if possible, add galleries, so that it might contain about 800 persons out of a protestant population of nearly 2,000 souls. A subscription was immediately commenced, which, by the blessing of God, amounted to nearly $700. Early in 1835 the building was commenced, and in 1836 the church was opened for Divine Worship.

"The building committee, having taken upon themselves the responsibility of finishing the work which they had begun, are not able through want of funds to erect the proposed galleries, the debt on the building amounting to nearly 500, but they trust the Lord will raise up friends to extricate them from their difficulties. They are very anxious to complete the building, as the church at present is not large enough for the increasing congregation, part of whom are the proprietors of the soil.

"The gentleman who laid the first stone of the sacred edifice is now in England. Prior to his leaving Canada he was urged by the building committee to lay these facts before the christian public of England, feeling assured that, if the case were only made known that in a district 500 miles from Quebec the population were looking to them for assistance to complete the building of the Lord's Sanctuary where Jehovah might be worshipped by Indian, Irish and English Episcopalians the appeal would not be in vain.

"The gentleman whose address is given will be happy to receive subscriptions, or give any information relative to Upper Canada, on personal application, or by letter (post-paid), addressed to Charles Rubidge, Esq., 22 Arundel Street, Strand, London."

May I, in closing, indulge in the hope that the above gleaning from Mrs. Stewart's intensely interesting book (a veritable encyclopedia relative to Peterboro's pioneer days) may prove a pleasing postscript to "The Review's" delightful history of old St. John's.

It must also be of interest to the Peterborough Historical Society, "who had not," a few years ago, any knowledge of who laid the corner-stone.

Hoping I am not trespassing too much upon your patience and space, and thanking you in anticipation,

Yours faithfully, etc.

Pleasurable Anticipation.

No, my dear Mr. Rubidge, you are not trespassing at all on either patience or space, and "Paterfamilias," who edits this department, will await with pleasurable anticipation receipt of extracts from Captain and Mrs. Rubidge's letters you mention for publication.

SIX NATIONS INDIANS.

Despatches of Thursday carried the news that Chief Dakka-leh, of the Six Nations Indians, had returned from England, after having won King George's assent to respecting a treaty made with these Indians in the reign of King George III respecting certain racial rights of self-government and control of the tribal acres, secured by the Six Nations in 1784 by treaty signed by Sir Frederick Haldimand, on behalf of the British King.

I cannot find this particular treaty recorded in my British history taught in Canadian schools, and it may be that this agreement, like so many others entered into with the aborigines of North America, was not accounted by its white subscribers either of sufficient binding force or momentous enough to find a place in historical mention.

Prior to and in George III's time, from the inception of British rule in the Americas, and more especially in that territory now known as the United States, it was far too customary for agreemens with the Red man to be flagrantly repudiated by representatives of the Great White Chief across the seas. In fact, North America was in those times the Eldorado for impoverished favorites of a roystering English court, who, given royal grants of huge slices of this continent, made what terms they could with the Indian owners, to whom their wealth in national hunting lands was then a national heritage, and failed to take such agreements seriously. Away back, before and perhaps following that "pound of tea' incident which led to revolution against the British crown, many an Indian chief had cause for complaint that the White Chiefs were not men of their word in respect to treaties, which treaties, however, or bargains for Indian holdings, entered into under conditions which permitted of no "self-determination" for the Red Man, were not representative of British constitutional warrant, and found no place in Imperial archives.

Self-Government.

But to revert to Chief Dakk-aleh's position, the treaty he seeks to have perpetuated, savors of a document bearing the warrant of the British Crown in 1784, but, it is doubtful if its implementing to permit of self-government for the Six Nations Indians in Canada, would be justified, either in the interests of these aborigines themselves or of their white neighbors. However the scope of this treaty may not be so broad as it reads from Chief Dakka-leh's lips, and his conception of self-government may prove mere tribal local privileges, not conflicting in any way with Canada's constitutional self-governing laws, which bind together her Provinces and peoples in one Dominion whole, in the consummation of which George III had no voice or implementing.

Loyal Allies.

And here it might be interesting to indulge in a brief retrospection of the history of the Six Nations as recorded by their white contemporaries of early days.

The Six Nations Indians were originally the Iroquois, a fierce warrior race, whose organization, once that of the terrible Iroquois league, continues more or less perhaps to this day in the Reserve on the Grand River which the British Government granted as an asylum for their race. They formed a confederacy, originally seated in what is now New York State, but whose hunting grounds extended and whose villages were constructed over the entire lake region and valley of the St. Lawrence. Their settlements constituted a number of good sized houses surrounded by a wooden rampart, each dwelling built solidly of wood and well protected against the elements. These houses were generally from a hundred to a hundred and fifty feet long, containing quite a few fire places, and a number of bunks, in which men, women and children slept promiscously together. Their drink was water, their food meat and fish.

The Iroquois, or Six Nations, irrepressibly aggressive, were aptly called the "Romans of the Western World," enjoying a political organization, with extensive settlements of allied Indian tribes, which enabled them to conquer the other aboriginal races throughout the whole of Canada. They exterminated the two powerful tribes of Hurons and Erie, and served England as an important ally in her wars against the French and English colonists, previous to the conquest and in the two wars with the United States which followed.

The annals of Iroquois warfare show no instance of treachery to their allies from abject cowardice, like that shown by the Huron allies of Danlac des Ormeaux at the critical turning point in the disasters of Carillon. In fact, in many respects, the Iroquois, now known as the Six Nations, stood head and shoulders above the Indians for unalienable loyalty to their allies, and for undaunted courage under all conditions.

Public Library Will Be Open For the First Time on Sunday Commencing October the Second

This idea originated with the Otonabee Chapter of the I.O.D.E.--A Good Place to Spend Sunday Afternoon

The 2nd of October will see the Public Library thrown open for the first time on Sunday for the convenience of would-be readers. This idea, which originated last year with the Otonabee Chapter of the I.O.D.E. and was carried to a successful conclusion through the influence of the Local Council of Women, should be a popular one with many of the citizens of Peterborough. The library of the Holy Name Society, formerly the old T.A.S. Society, has always been open on Sunday for the convenience of its members, and books may be taken out also during the afternoon hours, but this is the first time that the Public Library has been opened on Sunday.

The philanthropic motive which the ladies who fostered the movement had in mind was the provision of a comfortable place, warm and well lighted, where anyone who wishes may come on Sunday afternoons between the hours of two o'clock and five-thirty. No books may be taken out, but readers have free access to the magazines on the tables. Strangers, Normal students and those who sometimes in the colder weather are obliged to pass most of their Sabbath in bed in badly-heated rooms, should welcome this privilege.

The exhibit of Miss Katherine E. Wallis, which will be carried on in the Chateau Laurier in Ottawa on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week under the auspices of the Women's Art Association of that city, will doubtless be a credit to Peterborough, the birthplace of this talented sculptress. Miss Wallis is taking most of the work which was so successfully exhibited here last winter, and also a large marble piece which has been in the keeping of the Montreal Art Association in that city, and which is entitled "Flower and Root." A number of water-colours will be exhibited, with three pretty scenes which the artist completed during her summer visit to Charlottetown, P.E.I., showing small sailing-boats at anchor off the quays.

A unique relief has just been completed, symbolical of the Province of Prince Edward Island, which includes two foxes (fox-farming being one of the chief industries of the island), a tiny kingfisher (the third of the Province) and the three low-hung trees which are a noticeable part of any crest of this district. The relief is entitled "Abegweit," the Indian name for the Province of Prince Edward Island.

About Canada

"She said that Canada is like a great, big beautiful house that has been given to us Canadian women to finish. It is just far enough on so that you can see how fine it is going to be—but the windows are not in—the doors are not hung—the cornices are not put on. It needs polishing, scraping, finishing. That is our work. Every tree we plant, every flower we grow, every clean field we cultivate, every good cow or hog we raise, we are helping to finish and furnish the house and make it fit to live in. Every kind word we say or even think, every gracious deed, if it is only thinking to bring out the neighbor's mail from town, helps to add those little touches which distinguish a house from a barn.

"We have many foreign people in this country, lonesome, home-sick people—sometimes we complain that they are not loyal to us—and that is true. It is also true that they have no great reason to be loyal to us. We are not even polite to them, to say nothing of being kind. Loyalty cannot be rammed down any one's throat with a flag-pole."—Pearl Watson, in "Purple Springs."

TO AVOID A COLD.

The next time you feel that you are catching a cold, stoop over and tie your shoe. While you are at it you might as well tie both shoes. Loosen the strings and make a good job of the tieing. The principle of the shoestring remedy is that in stooping over the blood is brought to the head and the circulation is otherwise favorably affected. Where there is perfect blood circulation there is immunity from the taking of cold.

No man knows how to hold a baby properly—but he is willing not to learn.

The "Y" Season

The attractive little folder just issued by the Y.W.C.A. has for a slogan, "Friendship, Good Times, Opportunities; Have You Made It Yours?" It is divided into sub-sections. In the "Gymnasium and Growth," there are classes for "Old, Young and In-Betweens," which commences on Monday, September 26th, for little tots, juniors, seniors, beginners, ladies' classes, and classes in aesthetic dancing for juniors and seniors. There is also a basketball league.

In the "Classes and Cleverness" section, there are educational night sessions during the fall and winter for members and non-members in English and arithmetic, in French, for beginners and advanced students, and in basketry. A series of musical and literary evenings will be held on the first and third Tuesdays of each month, beginning on October 18th, which will be both entertaining and instructive. The initial session will be devoted to the consideration of "Il Trovatore," with selections from the opera, and the literary meetings will take up for this season" Canadian Authors and Poets."

In the "Fun and Frolics" section, there are hikes, talks, picnics, snow-shoe tramps, girl ad boy parties, sleigh drives and skating parties, with the swimming-pool open until the last of September.

DELICATE GIRLS NEED NEW BLOOD

RICH, RED BLOOD MEANS HEALTH AND STRENGTH

The anaemia of young girls may be inherited, or it may be caused by bad air, unsuitable food, hasty and irregular eating, insufficient out-of-door exercise and not enough rest and sleep.

It comes on gradually, beginning with languor, in disposition to mental or bodily exertion, irritability and a feeling of fatigue. Later comes the palpitation of the heart, headaches, dizziness following a stooping position, frequent backaches and breathlessness. In a majority of cases constipation is present. There may be no great loss of flesh, but usually the complexion takes on a greenish-yellow pallor.

Cases of this kind, if neglected, become more serious, but if taken in time there is no need to worry. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which are free from any harmful or habit-forming drug, are just the tonic needed to remedy this wretched state of health. Though it is not noticeable, improvement begins with the first dose. As the blood is made rich the pallor leaves the face, strength and activity gradually return and the danger of relapse is very slight.

If any symptom of anaemia appears, prudence suggests that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills should be given at once, and the sooner they are taken the more speedily will their action improve the blood. You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Recipes

(By Florence Taft Eaton.)

Delectable dishes made from elderberries are a left-over from old-time housekeeping, when table luxuries were not so varied and abundant as now. At the present time, however, when automobiles and trolley cars have brought the resources of the countryside to everybody having a fondness for the open road, everything holding a promise of conserved future delectability is eagerly sought for. The rich, purple clusters of the elderberry, seen in such abundance everywhere along country by-ways, tempt the ambitious housewife who is not afraid of novel combinations.

The culinary possibilities and delicate flavor of this wayside product, which some think resembles that of the blackberry, are not generally known. Tasted au naturel the fruit seems slightly bitter. This quality seems to disappear entirely when cooked, and the dishes in which elderberries are used seem not unlike those ordinarily made of blueberries and huckleberries, these latter often expensive and difficult to obtain. The abundant purple clusters of the elderberry may be piled in a large basket when one is "tripping" and stripped from the stem later on. Try these recipes. Muffins and griddle cakes may be made, using them just as you would blueberries or even the smaller huckleberries.

Elderberry Pie.

Line a fairly deep pie plate with pastry; wet a half-inch strip of the paste and lay around the edge; fill with elderberries which have been washed; sift over them a teaspoonful or so of flour; add half a cupful—three-fourths if you like very sweet pies—of sugar, and two tablespoonfuls of water to start steam. Cover with the paste and pinch down well. Bake as a blueberry pie, in a hot oven.

Elderberry Betty.

Butter a glass baking dish and fill with alternate layers of thin, buttered bread and elderberries, sprinkling each layer of the fruit with one to two tablespoonfuls of sugar. Plan to have the bread for the top layer, add dots of butter, pour half a cupful of hot water over and bake slowly, covered, about one and one-half hours, or until well cooked and rich; uncover the last half hour to brown. Serve with snowdrift sauce.

Elderberry Breakfast Jam.

Boil required amount of elderberries with enough water to keep from sticking and to make sufficient juice; add about one-third of the quantity in sugar, and cook, stirring until like a thin jam. This requires about half an hour. Thicken slightly with a little corn starch dissolved in cold water, so that the jam will just pour—like a thick blackberry jam. Serve a spoonful on cereal before adding cream. This may be made and canned for winter use by omitting the corn starch, which you can add before using.

Elderberry Juice.

Cook elderberries in the proportion of one quart of berries to one cup of water, until soft and broken, mashing and stirring to thoroughly break. If it seems too thick to yield juice freely, double the quantity of water. Let drip in a jelly bag over night. Next morning pour the juice very carefully—so as not to disturb the sediment—through three thicknesses of wet cheesecloth and bring to a boil, add one-third of a cup of sugar to each quart of juice, boil a moment and can, boiling hot, in pint jars. The amount of sugar may be varied according to taste. The juice should be sweet enough so that, when added to water and chipped ice in desired proportions when used, no more sugar is necessary.

Elderberry Jelly.

Elderberries are not rich in pectin and should be used, when making jelly, in combination with apples. The berries should be picked when just underripe. Use about two parts of berries to one part of fruit—or half and half. Strip the berries from the stems and cut the apples in small pieces, add enough water so that it may be just seen through the fruit when pressed closely down. Mash and stir well while cooking and boil until all is a mush. Drain through a jelly bag, boil the juice rapidly twenty minutes, add equal measure of sugar, boil five minutes, or until it sheets from a spoon, and pour into hot, sterilized glasses.

Elderflower Crisps.

Pick sprays of elderblossoms before they begin to fall. Dip in an ordinary frying batter (one egg yolk and white beaten separately, one-fourth of a cupful of milk, pinch of salt, one teaspoonful of olive oil, one teaspoonful of sugar, one-half cupful of flour, or enough to make almost a drop batter before the egg-white is added, which should be last), and fry an instant in smoking hot fat until crisp and brown. Pile lightly on a hot serving dish.

A Tested Raisin Conserve.

Three cups rhubarb.
Three cups sugar.
Six oranges.
1 cup Sun Maid seeded raisins.
Three-quarters cup chopped walnut meats or blanched raisins.

Cut rhubarb in small pieces. Add sugar and cook until tender. Add orange pulp and raisins, cut in small pieces. Cook until thick for about twenty minutes. Add nuts and cook five minutes. Pour into pastry shells for tarts or serve as jam. This may be served as a dessert with whipped cream, if desired. If made in a large quantity it may be poured into sterilized glasses and sealed with paraffin.—Sun Maid Recipe Book.

In this jam we find excellently blended the fruit flavors. While perhaps the raisin predominates the acid of the rhubarb and orange give a distinct tang.

We suggest adding a little water—about one-third cup—at the beginning to prevent burning, as is usual in making rhubarb sauce.

In reality this is a rich, delicious conserve that well accompanies the meat or fowl course. Serve very cold, for it is then at its very best.

This quantity will make two and a half pints at a cost of about 95 cents.

Lack Knowledge

Commenting on a sermon by Rev. A. C. Williams of Toronto, when he declared that 80 per cent. of parents are sending their children to the Public schools and then out into the world without proper knowledge, that Dr. James Roberts, Medical Health Officer of Hamilton, says that he has no abiding faith in Health Department propaganda and blames most of our social troubles on the housing conditions that permit of the erection of three-room dwellings.

And Hon. Mrs. Ralph Smith, who is a Minister with portfolio in the British Columbia Cabinet, says the lack of proper housing is to blame for the decay in home life.

Fosil Hunters

Well, Mr. Levi Sternberg, in charge of a field party of fossil hunters, with his three assistants, has just completed a three-and-one-half months' successful endeavor at collecting dinosaurs for the Toronto Museum in the Alberta fossil-beds. These beds have been worked continuously since 1913, and it is very hard to find indications of skeletons in them. However, the party succeeded in unearthing two nearly-complete skeletons of duck-billed dieurour or proselourolophyus, and the complete tail of a third specimen of a duck-billed dinosaur, also the tail club of a large armoured dinosaur. A car loaded with 28 large boxes, weighing about 16,000 pounds, has been loaded for Toronto.

Then Dr. J. A. Allen, a member of the University of Alberta vertebrate palaeontological field party, operating on Sand Creek, eight miles northeast of Patricia, Alberta, has just discovered a rare and valuable specimen of a carniverous dinosaur, which became extinct, according to conservative estimate, 3,000,000 years ago. Much difficulty is being experienced in this section in collecting specimens, with a great many tons of rock to be removed. Dynamite has been used to remove the rock which was over the skeleton and the large sections have had to be hauled to the prairie level, some 200 feet up, over a narrow trail.

Of course, it's a free world, but it seems as if we might be able to get along pretty well if we never even heard of a proselourolophyus, and an animal that has been dead for 3,000,000 years might reasonably expect to be left in peace for the short space of time the scientists tell us we have yet to walk on this earthly sphere. Just in contrast to the dead bones excavating of these dusty hunters, comes the account of that man of over seventy years of age, somewhere over in the United States, who is now engaged in erecting one of a long series of houses which he has built with only his own hands to do the carpentering, and plumbing, and painting, and glazing. Everything his own handiwork, and he means to keep right on building these houses, which he sells for a moderate figure. One might reasonably wonder which is the most profitable endeavor for humanity and the world at large?

BABY HUTT.

"Owes his life to Virol."

Ottawa.

I should like to testify to the benefit of VIROL. Our baby boy when born and up till he was one month old was healthy, then he began to fail, nothing would agree with stomach or bowels. We did everything possible, but he kept getting worse, till at last we were advised to try Virol. He was then 5½ months old and only weighed 9½ lbs.; we could scarcely handle him. In 10 days we saw a vast improvement, and in 3 months he sat up alone. He is now 18 months old, has 12 teeth, weighs 32 lbs., and never has been sick for one hour since we gave him Virol. I am sure we owe little Jack's life to Virol only.

CAPITAL INVESTED IN THE CANADIAN AUTO PLANTS LAST YEAR $34,844,739

IN AUTOMATIVE SUPPLIES $8,364,991, AND AUTO REPAIRS $13,628,288 — INFORMATIVE ADDRESS BY JOS. J. DUFFUS, PETERBOROUGH.

When in Ottawa, attending for the first time the Central Canada Exhibition, Mr. Joseph J. Duffus, of the Duffus Motor Sales, Peterborough, at a luncheon tendered to leading good roads advocates of Canada, last Wednesday, delivered an exceedingly interest-holding address on the progress of the automobile industry the past few years, and its importance as a big Canadian national asset. Mr. Duffus said in part:

The automobile had grown far beyond its first intended use—that of a pleasure car. It was now an integral part of modern life and civilization. Business could no more be done or efficiency maintained without motor cars than the people could do without telephones, lights or sewers in cities. The modern car was just as much a necessity as a delivery dray or a locomotive. The man who had bought a car to gratify a desire for pleasure, had become so dependent on it for business that he might just as well think of going about without shoes as without a car.

Makes a Family Happy.

From the standpoint of pleasure, the automobile had done a great deal to weld the family into a happy, healthy group. Families were able to go out evenings, Saturdays, week-ends and holidays as a jolly crowd in quest of health and enjoyment. The investment of a reasonable amount of money in a car in keeping with the owner's position was as justifiable as that amount paid on a home.

Many young men who were on farms to-day would long ago have deserted the farm for city life had it not been for the motor car, which enabled threm to get to and from town frequently and quickly. Perhaps the United Farmers of Ontario movement could be credited or charged, according to viewpoint, to the automobile. How could farmers have met frequently enough to form a party without the use of motor cars?

Mr. Duffus remarked that the automobile had played such a part in fostering community spirit that many people had ventured to say that had there been the number of cars in the United States at the time of the American civil war as there are to-day, such a war would never have taken place.

It was a fact that the automobile industry was the first to shake off depression and resume operations on what was close to a normal business basis, notwithstanding the general belief that improvements in automobile business would follow, not lead, the general business improvement. The reason for this was that the automobile business in the final analysis built transportation, and efficient transportation was the life-blood of industry.

Mr. Duffus, after stating that the automobile had become an absolute necessity, went on to deal with the importance of the automobile industry, and the relation of motor trucks to transportation. The short haul system by motor truck was established beyond recall. It had at first been thought that railway companies would be antagonistic to the advent of motor trucks, but the opposite had been the case. Automobiles and trucks acted as feeders to the main and branch railway lines. Short hauls between towns and cities had relieved the railways to advantage. Quick delivery to retailers, particularly of a perishable nature, such as fruits, vegetables and milk had resulted. This meant an annual saving of hundreds of thousands of dollars. Perhaps the best way of getting some conception of the utility of the automobile was to try to imagine what would happen if the use of all automobile were stopped for 24 hours.

Autos and Accidents.

On the subject of accidents, Mr. Duffus said that when the electric street cars first came into use the same opinion prevailed about them in regard to danger as obtained to-day in respect to the supposed "deadliness" of the motor car. As in the case of electric cars, familiarity and experience had reduced the proportion of accidents, until to-day, according to statistics, it had been found that the motor car (mileage considered) was the safest vehicle on the public highway. There had been an average of only one death to every 1,500,000 miles, notwithstanding the fact that motor traffic had increased from 25 per cent. to more than 75 per cent. of the total vehicular traffic. Despite the considerable increase in car registrations, there were fewer so-called "motor fatalities" during the first six months of the current year than in 1920.

Mr. Duffus expressed the opinion that the majority of the automobile men were too modest about the business in which they were engaged. Looking up a few statistics, he noted with surprise that for 1920 the automotive industry showed a position he hardly realized. The statistics covered the operations of 1,289 individual plants in Canada, divided between automobiles, 11 plants; automotive supplies, 42, and automotive repairs, 1,236.

The total capital investment in automobile plants was $34,949,739; automotive supplies, $8,364,991, and automotive repairs, $13,628,288, or the surprising total of $56,943,018. The number of employes and the wages paid in automobile plants were 6,776 people, and a payroll of $9,712,788. The aggregate for all phases of the automobile industry was 12,139 employes, and a total payroll of $15,39,742.

The selling value at the plants of all products made during the year in automobile plants was $80,619,846; automobile supply lants, $8,371,890, and automotive repair plants, $12,004,970, forming a total of all products of $101,196,706. The total number of automobiles manufactured in Canada for 1920 was 89,929, at a value of $69,656,416, while Canada imported from other countries 8,748 automobiles valued at $13,410,515, of which 99.6 per cent. came from the United States.

In Ontario alone over $7,000,000 had been paid into the Provincial Treasury for licenses since 1904. This year, $2,800,000 will have been paid by Ontario car owners on 451,000 automobiles. Ten years ago, there were 21,682 automobiles in Ontario.

Staggering Total.

In the United Staes, approximately twenty billion dollars had been sent in the automobile industry. A total of over 300,000 people were employed in the construction of cars, and another 300,000 were engaged in the selling and repairing business. A total of 9,200,000 cars were under license in the United States.

Business, pleasure, comfort health, education were among the fields the automobile had invaded not as a violent conqueror but as a universal beneficiary.

Canada, the Federal and Provincial governments, Canadian cities and business men, should carefully consider what the autmobile had and is doing for the country and what the future holds for it. "We should," Mr. Duffus said in closing, "take into consideration that no industry can and will bring within our borders more worth-while citizens and home builders than the motor. Why not put Canada on wheels of her own making? There could only be one result, and that would be a community of interests, a brotherhood of better business relations and trade expansion, a general building up of great industries in this marvellous young country, upon which God's munificence abounds so plentifully."

Will You Ever Be a Millionaire?

THAT DEPENDS UPON YOUR HEALTH.

Health, wealth and happiness go together, but you must have health to have wealth and happiness. You cannot think clear, you feel tired, all out of sorts, you may have indigestion, headaches, constipation, kidney trouble rheumatism, etc. These are all signs that your liver is out of order and is not excreting bile into the intestines, your bowels become filled with waste, and poison is carried to all parts of the body by the blood, causing all these aches and pains. You are only about 10 per cent. efficient, and you cannot expect to attain anything when you are in this condition. Doctors say take one Tanated Calomel Tablet before each meal or two at bedtime. Doctors recommend this because it is the only thing known that acts directly upon the liver. Tanated Calomel is sold by one druggist in each city—F. C. Weber is agent for Peterborough.

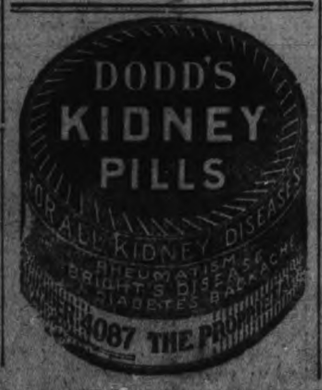
A TESTIMONIAL.

The increased mental activity and endurance of the British aviator is due to his constant indulgence in tea, according to Dr. Allen Starr, of Columbia University. In a recent lecture, Starr declared that American aviators invariably prefer tea before making a hard flight, therein following the example of the British aviators.

The American aviators' testimonial to tea is the greatest that has ever been given, for it is absolutely pure of any suspicion of undue predilection or prejudice, concludes Starr. Those United States flying fighters faced death on tea in preference to any other drink.



Finely Built to the Least Detail

There is so much enthusiastic comment on the fine Chalmers motor, that other excellent Chalmers features seem to be taken for granted.

But they are worthy the careful consideration of all motor car buyers. For here is a car that is finely built to the least detail. Engineering and car building experience have applied themselves in masterly fashion.

Design and Finish Beautiful

Every element of beauty and style is incorporated in the Chalmers.

The wonderful motor is satin-smooth in its pickup, starts easily, and warms up at once. The car rides with remarkable ease and comfort.

The Fuel is Pre-Heated

The Chalmers motor has played its important part in winning this reputation. Fuel is pre-heated by the hot-spot. This means greater mileage on gasoline; and very much better motor performance for longer periods without overhauling.

We invite you to investigate the Chalmers and permit us to demonstrate superiority.

TWO WAR VETERANS HELD HAPPY RE-UNION.

DOWNEYVILLE, Sept. 23. — When Jasper Forman, of Kirkfield, who served with the Canadian forces overseas, and Victor Callaghan, of Downeyville, another Great War veteran, unexpectedly met at a recent meeting of the U. F. O. Club here, a very happy re-union followed.

It appears that during the period of bloody fighting in which the Canadians were engaged, and in which both veterans participated, Victor Callaghan was taken prisoner by the Germans. Mr. Forman believed that he had been killed and had heard nothing further regarding his fate. Imagine his surprise, after four years, when he met his comrade in arms in Downeyville. Both re-united veterans spent an enjoyable time narrating incidents of the great war.

A MOTHER'S ADVICE

Once a mother has used Baby's Own Tablets for her little ones she is always happy to recommend them to others. Her advice, given after a careful trial, can be readily followed with assured good results. The Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which never fail to regulate the bowels and sweeten the stomach. They always do good — they cannot possibly do harm even to the youngest babe. Concerning them Mrs. P. Laforest, St. Nazaire, Que., writes:—"For three months my baby was constipated and cried continually. On the advice of a friend I gave him Baby's Own Tablets and now at the age of five months he is perfectly well and weighs twenty pounds. I am delighted to be able to advise other mothers to use them." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

GRAPES WILL BE SCARCE NEXT WEEK

AND PRICES ON THE UP-GRADE —GOOD YIELD OF ONTARIO APPLES.

Advices from Niagara are that grapes will be scarce next week, and prices on the upgrade. American buyers have been offering good prices for Canadian grapes for making grape juice (?), and by their competition have forced prices up. The crop has not been as large as in other years, and the combination against Canadian householders has been too strong for them. Grapes are almost twice in price what they were last fall.

A survey of the apple crop along the front indicates a good yield. Walter J. Oke states that an unusually good crop of winter apples is promised.

Peaches, pears and plums cling tenaciously to the market. Colorado peaches are $1.50 and $1.75 a six-quart basket, preserving pears are 90 cents and $1 a basket, while picklers sell as low as 75 cents. Prune plums at 20 cents a quart are favorites.

A VISIT TO JORDAN BROS.' GREENHOUSES REVEALS A WEALTH OF BLOOM AND DECORATIVE GREENS.

Jordan Bros. greenhouses are full to capacity of the finest stock of bloom, and decorative plants for their fall trade that they have ever produced. The preparations for weddings, entertainments, balls, or for funeral designs was never better, and the large number of prospective fall brides will have the big event well taken care of by Jordan's. A house of Ferns shows exceptional quality, and blooming plants are in splendid condition.

The Jordan's are artists in the production of designs, hand corsage or table boquets, and their home grown cut flowers stand up well when made up.

The two salesrooms at 428 George and 220 Charlotte streets are always well stocked with seasonable flowers and the service is prompt and courteous.

As members of the Florists Telegraph Delivery, they can deliver orders in any part of the country at shortest notice.

CORN CUTTER EXPLODED.

LINDSAY, Sept. 23. — Henry Kittle, aged 16, son of a Verulum farmer, was severely injured when working at a corn cutter, which exploded and inflicted a deep gash under his eye and cuts and bruises about the head. He is undergoing treatment in the Ross Hospital here.

He who hopes for tomorrow seldom worries about the failures of yesterday.

SUMMONED HOME.

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 24. — Hastily summoned home by a hurry call, intimating a British general election in November, Neil McLean, M.P. for Govan District, Glasgow, Scotland, passed through Winnipeg to-day, after a trip to the Pacific coast. McLean cancelled all speaking engagements. The Asiatic Exclusion League to Prevent Immigration of Orientals is rapidly gaining strength in Vancouver, McLean said.

It makes a woman knit her brows when her husband tells the children yarns.

IN THE LAST FIVE INNINGS CLEVELAND ONLY GOT THREE MEN ON BASES--YESTERDAY'S GAMES IN THE BIG LEAGUES

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—(American.)—Splendid pitching by Waite Hoyt and strong hitting by "Babe" Ruth and Walter Pipp enabled the New York Americans to win the first of an all-important four-game series with Cleveland yesterday by a score of 4 to 2. Hoyt was in trouble in only one inning, the fourth, when Cleveland scored its two runs on Gardner's single, Sewell's triple and a wild pitch. In the last five innings Cleveland only got three men on bases.

Coveleskie also pitched well for Cleveland, but met with his usual poor luck against the Yankees, who have defeated him five times in six games this season. New York also clinched the year's series from Cleveland, yesterday's victory being their twelfth as against seven for the Indians. Ruth emerged from a batting slump, knocking three doubles and drawing a base on balls in four times up. He scored after each of his three hits, though he pulled up lame after running to second on his third two-bagger. Pipp also was a strong factor in New York's victory as he drove in three of New York's runs.

New York scored its first run in the fourth on doubles by Ruth and Pipp, and took the lead with two runs in the sixth scored on Ruth's double and singles by Meusel and Pipp. Ruth scored again in the eighth on his third two-bagger, Meusel's sacrifice, and Pipps sacrifice fly. The fielding on both sides was sharp and clean, Ward excelling with several brilliant infield plays. Score:

REAL HAPPY EVENING AT Y.W.C.A. LAST NIGHT

PREPARATIONS FOR THE FALL RALLY—CAMP ROOM AN ACCEPTABLE FEATURE.

A crowd that filled the gymnasium and the prettily-decorated rooms to overflowing assembled at the Y.W.C.A. last evening for the Fall Rally. Every person present, from the small kiddies to the dignified seniors, seemed to be having a real good time all evening. Pleased and bright faces were the rule on every side.

The first item on the program was a swimming meet in the pool, where the crowd watched skilful divers and where several races were run, one for girls of twelve years and under, one for sixteen and under, one over sixteen years, and one first-year pupil, under the direction of Miss Emma Carroll, the swimming instructress.

Real Camp Fire.

In the library, which had been turned into a campers' room, a real camp-fire burned, with a miniature white tent and decorations of spruce and balsam. Here the girls sang their camp songs and gave the camp yell and played their ukuleles during a jolly quarter of an hour. A cooking lesson in the making of candy took place downstairs, under the direction of Mrs. N. D. Seaton, and a fast and furious exhibition basket-ball game was the centre of much interest in the gymnasium, with Miss Jean McLaughlin, the new physical directress, as umpire. Some exceptionally pretty posters depicting various "Y" activities and excellent examples of the work of the basketry class in work and waste baskets, jardinieres and a lamp, occupied the attention of the visitors in the club room. The main hall, very attractive with its huge bowls of glowing salvia, formed a meeting place for different friendly groups.

Physical Exercises.

After the games were over, the company repaired to the gymnasium, where Mrs. E. E. Ingall, one of the members of the Board, spoke a few words of welcome and introduced Miss Jean McLaughlin who will have charge of the physical exercises during the coming season. Miss McLaughlin in reply, explained the order of the work in her department for the fall and winter, followed by Miss Charlotte Layton, the general secretary of the Association, who outlined the general programme of the years' work.

Refreshments Served.

Refreshments were then served to the grown-ups in the green-room at a table beautifully centred with cosmos and mauve asters in a silver basket. Silver candlesticks with mauve candles completed the table decorations, and mauve asters in tall vases were tastefully arranged around the long room. The juniors were accommodated with plenty of good things in the gymnasium.

The dainty refreshments were carried out under the supervision of members of the Social Committee: Mrs. R. H. Turner, Mrs. McVannell the Misses Florence Cameron and Florence Scott. Mrs. W. D. Scott and Mrs. W. H. Hill poured coffee and assistants were: Mrs. Roy McKenzie, the Misses Hazel Miller, Marjorie Best, Gertrude Kirn, Ruth McLeish, Mabel Young and Florence Johnston.

Among those who helped as guides were the Misses Agnes Stout, Doris Hutchinson, Rose Williams, and Nellie Thomas.

The following telegram has been received from the Walter P. Evans Co., Limited, Representatives at Vancouver of Ye Olde Firme Heintzman & Co., Limited, Toronto. They wire: "I have just sold Madame Nellie Melba Style E Grand, to be shipped to her private home in Australia, and will be placed in her own special boudoir studio. This, we think, is a very gratifying tribute to the Heintzman & Co. Piano, more particularly as she has purchased it for her own personal use, and it will be constantly used by her."

Madame Melba is known as one of the world's greatest prima donnas and with her wonderful voice has charmed the musical people and crowned heads of the whole world. She has travelled the world over, and like Tetrazzini, Caruso, De Pachmann and many other great artists whenever the opportunity presented itself of using a Heintzman & Co. Piano, this was done, and now with Melba, when it has come to the making of a personal choice for her own use in her own home, she does not hesitate to select a Heintzman & Co. Grand as the world's best piano.

This old Canadian firm have reason to be proud of the honors that are constantly crowding in upon them. The firm's warerooms are situated at George and Hunter streets, Peterborough.

BRITONS ARRANGE HALF CAR SHARES.

LONDON, Sept. 24.—Many people are solving the problem of dearer motoring by becoming joint-owners of cars.

"Several of the cars here are owned jointly by two or three people," said a west end garage proprietor. "They were under 'sole ownership' until the petrol increase and higher motor taxation came.

"One of my clients, who sold a half share in his four-seater car, told me that on an income of £1,000 a year he felt no longer justified in driving anything heavier than a cycle-car. One uses the car in mid-week and the other makes a welcome week-end break by two days' motoring. They have no hard and fast rule, and the arrangement seems to work amicably."

SAYS POLICEMEN HELD HIM UP.

Shows Badge, Robs and Assaults Taxi Driver.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—A man in plain clothes, who said that he was a policeman and displayed a patrolman's shield, held up, assaulted and robbed a taxicab driver in daylight at Ninety-third Street and Columbus Avenue. The robber escaped and the police began an investigation to determine whether he was a policeman or an imposter.

The victim was Sam Rosenzwig of 831 Fremont Street, the Bronx. Rosenzwig drove his taxicab to the West 100th Street station and made a complaint to the desk lieutenant. He said that he had just discharged a male passenger at the southeast corner of Ninety-third Street and Columbus Avenue. Before he had time to pocket the fare, he said, a stranger in civilian attire walked up and seized him by the arm.

"I'm a police officer," the stranger announced.

"Let me see your shield?" asked the taxi driver.

"Here!" said the man, taking a patrolman's shield out of his pocket. "Now, I want to see your license card."

Rosenzwig then displayed his card, bearing the license number 14719.

"That's all right!" the stranger said. "Give me a dollar, will you?"

The taxi driver refused. Then, according to his complaint, the man punched him and grabbed a dollar bill out of his hand. Sticking the money into his pocket, the robber walked away.

Rosenzwig drove along Columbus Avenue until he came to the nearest policeman on post, but by this time the robber had disappeared. The driver then went to the station and made a formal complaint. He was told that a detective would be assigned to the case, but that the search was handicapped by his inability to remember the number of the shield. He described the man as six feet tall, dressed in a dark suit and a brown fedora hat. He said that he could identify him if he saw him again, and was told to return to the station at 12 o'clock last night to see if he could pick out his assailant at the midnight change of patrols.

ASK FEDERAL AID FOR ROADS.

Political Leaders Asked to Pledge Themselves To This End.

The forthcoming federal election has brought to the attention of good roads enthusiasts throughout the country, the importance of a continuation of the federal aid for the improvement of the main highways. Several of these organizations have approached their local members and enlisted their support. The parent association, the Canadian Good Roads Association, which is a non-political organization, has sent a letter to the leaders of the three parties with the same object in view. The Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, the Hon. T. A. Crerar and the Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King have each received this week a letter which states: "In view of the popularity of good roads and the important place which improvement of highways is given by the public, and in view of the extensive programs for roads improvements which have been adopted by the various Provincial Governments this made possible by Federal aid; and in view of the fact that further grants for highway improvement will be asked from the Federal Government when the present appropriation has been exhausted, it is the desire of the Canadian Good Roads Association, representing all of the good roads interests in Canada that you made Federal aid to highways a plank in your platform. Trusting that you will give this important matter your earnest consideration, etc."

CENTRAL ONTARIO OIL FIELDS, LIMITED

Subject: Oil.

To the Edtior of The Examiner:

1. There has been no time in the country's history when Oil was in a greater demand.

2. The reason for this is not hard to find. For instance, all the merchant shipping of the future will be oil driven. The navies of the world are converting their battle cruisers into oil burning. Passenger ships are being driven by oil.

3. There is to-day more motor transport than ever before. All this means that there is a 50 p.c. greater demand for oil than can be supplied.

4. New fields are looked for in every part of the world to supply the fuel of to-day.

5. The Central Ontario Oil Fields Co., Ltd., has one of these new fields in which they are already authorized to sink their wells at an early date. But are asking the citizens of Peterborough to give their support in order that they may prove that the Central Oil Fields Ltd., are second to none in the Dominion of Canada. The time is drawing to a close when the stock of this company is complete. So, in order that you may secure the number of shares you want, it would be advisable for you to see some one of the company before it is closed.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for the space allowed in your valuable paper, I remain.

Three Destroyed One Roof Escaped

The picture tells the story.

Mr. Offer's letter confirms the fire-resistant qualities of

Brantford Asphalt Slates

He says:

"I covered the roof of 201 Marlborough Ave., Toronto, with your Asphalt Slates some time ago. This house is one of a row of four, the remaining three were covered with Cedar shingles.

"These houses were close to a railway track and on the night of August 15th, 1918, these roofs caught fire from a spark from a passing train.

"As you can see in the picture, the roofs on three houses were completely burned through, including the sheeting boards and rafters. The boards and rafters on 201 were also burned through, so that the fire passed over and under your slates without harming them in any way.

"I have rebuilt the roofs and covered them with your Asphalt Slates since I have had such good proof that if the four roofs had been covered with your slates no fire would have occurred."

And here is another letter, from G. F. Wingrove of Walsingham, Ont., dated December 2nd, 1918.

Mr. Wingrove says:

"The house I live in is a large frame with dry pine rafters and sheathing. I covered same with Brantford Roofing last May.

"On November 24th, at eight in the morning, we discovered that it was all aflame inside of roof of one part, 18 x 30, with a fine breeze fanning it. But by the use of the telephone and the splendid fire-proof qualities of your roofing, we got the fire out and found spaces where the rafters and lumber were burnt out from in under the roofing and the roofing still doing its duty of resisting fire. Also remember this is out in the country where it took the best part of half an hour for help to arrive."

The Inspector of the Waterloo Mutual Fire Insurance Company, has this to say about Mr. Wingrove's fire:—

"I inspected this risk after the fire. It was particularly evident that the fact that the roof was covered with Brantford Roofing kept the fire confined below the roof. If it had been possible for the fire to break through I do not see how they could have saved the building. As it was the loss was comparatively trifling."

When roofing a building, it pays to put on a fire-resistant roof as well as a beautiful one. Brantford Asphalt Slates (individual size shingles) and Brantford Asphalt Slab Slates (four shingles in one) are fire-resistant, durable, economical and beautiful.

Samples and prices furnished on request.

LARAMIE HOLDS THE RANGE

By Frank H. SPEARMAN.

FIFTEENTH INSTALLMENT.

Barb Doubleday Sees the Light.

"I'll tell you, Kate," said Laramie, "you can easy enough hire a fellow to kill a man. But you can't really hire one to hate a man. And if he doesn't really hate him, he won't be as keen on your job as you'd be yourself. These hired men will booze once in a while—or go to sleep, maybe. It's work for a clear head and takes patience to hide in these rocks day after day and wait for one certain man to ride by so you can shoot him. If you doze off, your man may pass while you snore. And the kind of man you can hire isn't as keen on getting a man as the man himself is on not getting 'got'—that's where the chance is, sometimes, to pull out better than even."

Because his aim was to reassure, to relieve her anxiety, he did not tell her that all the unfavorable conditions he had named, while never before arrayed against him at one time, were now pretty much all present together. Kate herself, he knew, stood more than ever between him and Van Horn. Stone had been twice publicly disgraced by Laramie at Tenison's—he would never forgive that. He had the patience of the assassin and when hatred swayed him he did not sleep—these were still. Laramie knew in his heart, bridges to be crossed.

But why spoil an hour's happiness with the thought of them now? Laramie drew his hand across his heated forehead as if to clear his eyes and look again down into the face close to his and assure himself he was not really dreaming. "What do I care 'about them all, Kate," he would say, "now that I've got you? No, now that you've given yourself to me—that's what I'll say—what do I care what they do?"

But she would look up, sudden with apprehension: "But, don't you think I care? Jim, let's leave this country soon soon."

Laramie laughed indulgently. "Somebody'll have to leave it pretty soon—that's certain."

A rude knock at the door broke into his words. Kate threw her hands against his breast. She stared at him thunderstruck, and sprang from the sofa like a deer, looking still at him with wide-open eyes and then glancing apprehensively toward the door.

Laramie sat laughing silently at her getaway, as he called it, yet he was not undisturbed.

Nothing, in the circumstances, could have been less welcome than any sort of an intrusion. But a knock at the door, almost violent, and coming three times, stirred even Laramie's temper.

The door was not locked. Laramie rose, his fingers resting on the butt of his revolver, and stepped lightly into the dining-room, turned down the lamp. He stood in the shadow and beckoned Kate to him. His face indicated no alarm.

"This may be something, or it may be nothing. You step into the kitchen. I'll go to the door."

She clung to him, really terror-stricken, begging him not to go. As he tried to quiet her fears the heavy knock shook the flimsy door the second time. Kate, declaring she would go, would not be denied. Laramie told her exactly what to do.

She reached the door on tiptoe and stood to the right of it. The key was in the lock. Kate, reaching out one hand, turned the key. With the door thus locked and standing close against the wall she called out to know who was there. Laramie had followed her. He stepped to where he could look from behind the window shade out on the porch. He turned to Kate just as an answer came from outside, and signed to her to open. Standing where she was, Kate turned the key swiftly back in the lock and threw the door wide open.

Stooping slightly forward to bring his hat under the opening, and looking carefully about him, her father walked heavily into the room.

Laramie had disappeared. Kate, dumb, stood still. Barb closed the door behind him, walked to the table, put down his hat, and turned to Kate. "Well?" he began, snapping the word in his usual manner, his stupefied daughter struggling with her astonishment. "You don't act terrible glad to see me."

Kate caught her breath. "I was so surprised," she stammered.

"What are you staying in town so long for?" demanded Barb. His voice had lost nothing of its husky heaviness.

She answered with a question: "Where else have I to stay, father? I've been waiting for money to get East with and it hasn't come yet."

"What do you want to go East for?"

"I've nowhere else to go."

"Why don't you come home?"

"Because you told me to leave."

He sat slowly down on a chair near the table and with the care of a burdened man.

"Well," he said, "you mustn't take things too quick from me nowadays." She made no answer. "I've had a good deal of money trouble lately," he went on; "everything going against me." He spoke moodily and his huge frame lost in the bulk of his big storm coat overran almost pathetically the slender chair in which he tried to sit. His spirit seemed broken. "I reckon," he added, taking his hat from the table and fingering it slowly, "you'd better come along back."

She was sorry for him. She told him how much she wished he would give up trying to carry his big load, and she urged him to take a small ranch and keep out of debt. He laid his hat down again. He told her he didn't see how he could let it go, but they would talk it over when she got home.

This was the point of his errand that she dreaded to meet, and putting it as inoffensively as possible she tried to parry: "I think," she ventured, "now that I've got some clothes ready and got started, I'd better go East for awhile anyway."

"No," his ponderous teeth clicked. "You'd better wait till fall. I might go along. Tonight I'll take you out home. Put on your things and we'll get started."

She did not want to refuse. She knew she could not consent. She knew that Laramie in the shadow, as well as her father in the light, was waiting for her answer.

"Father," she said at once, "I can't go tonight."

"Why not?" was the husky demand.

"Belle is sick in bed," pleaded Kate.

"Is that the only reason?"

She saw he was bound to wring more from her. "No," she answered, "it isn't, father."

"What else?"

"I'm afraid——" she hesitated, and then spoke out: "I can't come back—not just as I was, anyway."

"Why not?"

"It's too late, father."

"What do you mean?" he asked.

"When I come back from the East," she spoke slowly, but collectedly, "I expect to go into a new home."

"Where?"

"In the Falling Wall."

For a moment he did not speak, only looked at her fixedly: "What I've heard's so, then?" he said, after a pause.

"What have you heard?"

"The story is you're going to marry Jim Laramie."

Kate, in turn, stood silently regarding her father, and as if she knew she must face it out.

"Is that so?" he demanded harshly.

She burst into tears, but through her tears the two men heard her answer: "Yes, father."

Barb picked up his hat without wincing: "I guess that ends things 'tween you and me." He started uncertainly for the door.

"Father!" Kate protested, taking a quick step after him as he passed out. "You don't do him justice. You don't know him."

But, slamming the door shut behind him, he cut off her words. If they reached his ears he gave them no heed.

By a happy chance, on the night of Laramie's great hour, Sawdy and Lefever returned from Medicine Bend. It was late when they arrived—into the early morning hours, in fact, and at the Mountain House the bar was not only closed but securely closed—barricaded against just such marauders. Even the night clerk had gone to bed. But this was less of an embarrassment, for the two adventurers, turning on the lights, took his pass keys from the drawer, and, opening the doors of one room after another in the face of a variety of protests, kept on till they found satisfactory quarters that "seemed" unoccupied—quarters in which, at least, the beds were unoccupied.

The hardy scouts slept late. They breakfasted late, in what Sawdy called the hotel "ornery," and while they were reducing the visible supply of ham and eggs, Tenison walked in on them to ask about complaints made at the office by indignant guests whose privacy had been invaded during the night. Regulled on this subject, all knowledge being disclaimed, Tenison was called on for the story of events since the two had been away, and of these Laramie's escape from the canyon came first. Tenison reported further, in confidence, Laramie's success with Kate. Had the news provided every man in the Falling Wall with a brand-new wife, it could not have been more to the humor of Sawdy and Lefever.

Sawdy rose and stretched himself from the waist down to make sure his legs touched the floor: "I've got to have a good cigar on that," he declared. "Take away, Mabel." He nodded courteously to the waitress. "Harry, we had the dustiest trip I ever seen in my life," he added, as with his companions he left the table. "The Ogallala trail wasn't a marker to it. Why, the dust was a mile deep. My tonsils are plumb full of dandruff yet."

Not every one in Sleepy Cat was so quick to credit the news that Kate Doubleday was going to marry Jim Laramie. The cattlemen sympathizers looked grumpy, when approached on the subject. They preferred not to talk, but if taunted would retort with an intimating oath: "That show ain't over yet."

"Jim Laramie acts as if it was anyway," grumbled Belle, when the butcher told her what they were saying. In fact, all of Laramie's intimates were out of patience with him when he announced he was going to rebuild the cabin on his Falling Wall ranch and live there.

"Wait till this cattle fight is over," they would urge.

"It is over," he would retort. And, heedless of their protests, he spent his time getting his building materials together.

"What do you want me to do?" he demanded, stirred at length by Belle's remonstrances against going back to the Falling Wall. "I've got to live somewhere. Danger? Why, yes, maybe. But I can't keep dying every day on that account. Here in town a man was run over just the other day by a railroad train."

Kate said little either way. She heard all that Belle could urge and held in her heart all the men said. But when Jim asked her what she wanted to do she told him, simply, whatever he wanted to do. Then Belle would call her a ninny, and Laramie would kiss her, and Belle in disgust would disappear.

There came one morning the crowning sensation in the suspense of the situation. Barb Doubleday drove into town in the buckboard, headed his team into Kitchen's barn to put up and gave McAlpin a cigar.

An earthquake, where one had never been known, could not have stirred the town more. When McAlpin ran up street to the Mountain House to be first with the news, he was reviled as a vender of stories calculated to start a shooting.

But McAlpin, with a cigar in his mouth—where no cigar, except a free cigar, was ever seen—his face bursting red with import, stuck to his guns. He walked straight to the billiard room bar, and attracted attention by brusquely ordering his own drink. This, it was known, always meant something serious.

When Sawdy saw the commotion about the barn boss he walked in, and, after listening, began a stern cross-examination.

"Explain?" McAlpin echoed, scornfully. "I don't explain. No, he wasn't drinking! Nor he wasn't crazy!" McAlpin took the burning cigar from his mouth. "That's the cigar he gave me, right there—and a bum one. Barb never smoked a good one in his life—you know that, Henry? I don't explain—I drink. Hold on!" he exclaimed, as he emptied his glass with a single gulp. He was looking across the street and pointing. "Who's that over there comin' out of the lumber yard with Barb Doubleday right now—blanked if it ain't! It's Jim Laramie, that's who it is."

Doubleday had, in fact, run into Laramie in the lumber yards. With nothing more than a greeting, he opened his mind: "I want a talk with you, Jim," he said, bluntly. "Where's Kate?"

Not even the freedom of the bar fully established could hold McAlpin after he had seen Laramie and Doubleday walk out of the lumber yard and start down Main street together. McAlpin had the reputation of having missed no important shooting in Sleepy Cat for years. He had been witness in more than one inquest, and did not mean to imperil his importance by slacking now.

As he hastened out to trail the long-day bitter enemies, he was framing in his mind the preliminary answers for the coroner. He would be compelled to testify, he felt, that the dead man had showed no sign of intoxication or excitement when he drove his team into the barn—for in the circumstances the barn boss already figured Barb as the inevitable victim.

Thus ruminating, he trailed the unsuspecting pair as far as Belle's. At Belle's, without sign of heated argument, they knocked and entered the cottage together. This left McAlpin across the street with nobody but the butcher to talk to, while he listened intently for the first shot.

Lefever was bolder. He followed the two men unceremoniously to Belle's porch and bluffed Belle herself into admitting him to the living room. Laramie had gone into the back part of the house to hunt up Kate; Barb, alone, sat in the rocking chair, chewing an unlighted cigar.

Lefever greeted the big cattleman effusively; Barb's response was cold. He looked Lefever over critically. "What you doing?" he asked, without warm interest in any possible answer.

"Buying a relinquishment now and again."

"Railroad man, eh?" muttered Barb, irrelevantly.

"No, no. I've quit that game; I've got a claim up near you. I'm going to try to live the life of a small but dishonest rancher, Barb."

"You ought to do well at that, eh?"

"Why, yes and no. But I'm thinking if I can't figure out the game, some of my neighbors can help me catch on—what?"

Barb's retort—if he had one—to Lefever's continued laugh, was cut off by Laramie's entrance with Kate. John saw that he was de trop, that it was a family conference, and only extracting from Laramie a promise to see him about nothing whatever, before leaving town, he made what he termed a graceful get-away.

Kate and Laramie faced her father. Belle, too, was for going out. Doubleday stopped her: "No secrets, Belle; stay if you want to."

All sat down. Kate was for a chair, but Laramie, domineering, made her sit with him on the sofa. Barb spoke first: "This Falling Wall fight is off," he began briefly. "Anyway, I quit on it. I've got to, Jim. The settlers there are in to stay," declared Barb philosophically. "They've got to be recognized." The settlers, in this instance, meant Jim Laramie, since practically everyone else had been driven or frightened out. But all understood what was intended; for if the fighting ceased the park would fill up.

"Since yesterday," Doubleday went on, "I've found out something else." He was speaking direct to Laramie. "That man Stone has been robbing me."

The old man paused. No one made any comment. Abe Hawk had long ago told Laramie as much. "He's been misbranding on me—him and that rascally Van Horn have been selling my steers to the railroad camps on the Reservation. "I've got the evidence from some Indians that came over yesterday with the hides. Last night," continued the victim, coolly, "I fired Stone. He went right over to Van Horn's. I told him that's where he belongs. I'm through with 'em both."

"Why don't you have him arrested?" demanded Belle.

"I might yet," muttered Barb vaguely.

Laramie held his peace; but even Kate realized that would never do. Jim and me has had our differences," added Barb, "but they're ended. If you two get married——"

"There ain't goin' to be any 'if,' Barb," interposed Laramie, "there's just going to be 'married,' and married right off."

"Well, that's for you and the girl to say; but when you say it, you've got to have a house to live in. I met Jim," added her father, speaking now to Kate, "over in the lumber yard this morning. When you get your house up, turn the bill in to me."

Kate's kisses confused and stopped her father. Belle made a ready good dinner. The four ate together. Belle was excited, Kate happy, and Laramie content. But for the old man it was somehow hard to fit in. Having had his say, he relapsed into grim silence and taciturn responses. Even his presence would have repressed Belle but for Kate's happy laugh. She looked at her father, talked to him, thought of him, studied him, and, throwing off lingering doubts—for she never felt she quite knew her father—enjoyed him, eating as he was in peace, with her husband-to-be.

SINN FEIN POSITION REGARDING CONFERENCE.

LONDON, Sept. 24.— (Canadian Press)—British recognition of claims of independence for Ireland as a preliminary to the conference were never asked by the Sinn Fein, said Arthur Griffith yesterday.

"Our entrance into a conditionless conference would not give Ireland any fresh international status, and if the conference failed Ireland would have the same position that she has at present," he said. He held it would be unjust to ask the Sinn Fein to stultify its attitude by abandoning its standpoint.

THE SONS OF ENGLAND OPEN NEW CLUB ROOMS

THE PROCEEDINGS LAST EVENING

A goodly gathering of stalwart Sons of England congregated at the S.O.E. Hall on Hunter street last evening, the occasion being the opening of the new Billiard and Club Rooms belonging to the Lansdowne Lodge, No. 25.

Alderman J. J. Turner officiated as chairman, and a genial and humorous chairman he made, too. Interprising his speech with anecdotes that must and would have raised a laugh from the veriest Jeremiah.

At 8.20 p.m. the meeting was called to order, and, as become loyal Englishmen, the proceedings commenced with singing the National Anthem, "God Save the King." The chairman opened up by announcing that the formal proceedings would be but brief as he desired there should be time afterwards to enjoy the purposes for which the new rooms were to be used, to say nothing of refreshments which were to be part of the programme. He went on to say that the committee charged with carrying out the work deserved a large meed of praise for their assiduity, the result of which we should shortly see. It was the intention to provide healthy amusement for the younger as well as the older members of the society.

Times change, said the chairman. When a lot of us were young it was not considered so necessary to provide amusement for the young folks. He said that on one of his visits to the Home Country he came across a man who had been to see an old nurse and he told an amusing anecdote of this old lady. Time had made many alterations in manners. We have nowadays to look after the social side of things, which formerly used to be lost sight of. Now the members and friends have provided billiard and card rooms and conveniences for carpet ball, which will be available every week night from seven until eleven, as well as a recreation room for mutual talk. Things are different to the days of our childhood. Different treatment is accorded to the youth of today to that which used to be in vogue in our young days. Therefore the committee was to be congratulated on their efforts, and he expressed the hope and desire that the best of feeling and brotherhood should prevail. (Loud applause.)

Brother Percival Webb then followed with some trite remarks as to the work carried out to bring the club rooms up to their present state of efficiency, and he eulogized Mr. Turner, who was quite an old member of the Lodge. Incidentally he mentioned Alderman Turner's intention of entering the race for the Mayoralty which remark evoked loud cheers and applause. Mr. Webb went on to say that the society consisted of English born men and the sons who may have been born in Canada; that the billiard table was one of the best procurable, because nothing was too good for "Sons of England." (Cheers.) Mr. Chris Wood had been their treasurer for twenty years and had been indefatigable in his general work in connection with the society, and especially in the improvements now being dedicated. The cost had been considerable, but the assistance had been generous and still yet more was to be done in the near future to make the rooms more cosy if possible. (Applause.)

Ald. Turner said he should be an ingrate did he not appreciate the kind remarks made by the last speaker as regards the question of the Mayoralty. He briefly enunciated his views as to the duties of a Mayor and that his view would be to give the citizens in every case one hundred cents for their dollar. If he gets a nomination he will do his utmost to merit their confidence. He would not ask any one to make a promise to vote for him, as his experience in electioneering was that lots of promises were made which it was never intended should be carried out. He instanced a friend of his who remarked that he never knew there were so many liars on the face of the earth until he went canvassing for his election: he found promises in plenty, but they were not kept when the time came for the poll.

The chairman then said he would proceed to unlock and throw open the new rooms and declare the same open. At once he broke balls in the and billiard table were at once in a carpet ball game. The card tables and billiard table were at once in requisition for some time. Then followed refreshments, sandwiches, cakes, coffee, etc., which were much appreciated.

Mr. Chris. Wood proposed a vote of thanks to Alderman Turner for presiding, which was heartily accorded; three cheers and a tiger were added, and the procedings terminated by the hearty rendering of "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, September 24. Canadian Press. — The popular stocks were inclined to make further upward progress to-day, but the usual closing of weekly accounts together with the heaviness of foreign oils exerted a restraining influence.

Royal Dutch declined almost five points, Mex. Petroleum 3 1-4 points, and General Asphal 1 1-2. Rails were one to three points higher at best but yielded all their gains in the final dealings.

Securities market pursued divergent courses this week, stocks showing occasional pressure, while bonds of almost every description mounted steadily higher on greatly enlarged dealings. Liberty bonds and victory notes were in greater demand than at any time in many months and their average rose to the highest levels of the year. Call money was offered as low as 4 1-2 per cent., but 5 percent. represented the ruling rate except where prime collateral was offered.

Rails led the stock market to higher ground. Junior as well as investment transportation were higher by large fractions to 2 points. Oils, coppers and equipments also showed a strong tone.

THE GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, September 24. Canadian Press.—After opening at 1.27 for December and 1.31 1-2 to 1.32 for May, the wheat market made a slight rally but had reverted to around the opening figures at the end of the first hour. Corn showed some strength and oats were steady.

MONTREAL MARKETS

MONTREAL, September 24. — Canadian Press. — The local stock exchange was fairly active during the first half hour this morning, although nothing of any importance transpired. Atlantic Sugar was weaker by 1-4 point at 29. Brazilian and Brompton which have been quiet of late, appeared at 24 1-2 and 15 1-2 respectively. National Breweries strengthened quarter to 52 1-2. Some Riordon shares sold at 2 3-4.

TORONTO MARKETS

TORONTO, Sept. 24. Canadian Press. — The closing session of the week on the Toronto stock exchange was an active one with sales for the short session totalling 1360 shares. Toronto Railway was the leader, with Abitibi and Mackay contributing sales above the 100 mark. Price changes were not great, however, Toronto Rails and MacKay being confined within 1-2 point radius and abitibi sales being put through at the one figure, 30.

UNLISTED MARKET QUIET

A. J. Pattison Jr. & Co., report that the Unlisted Market this week was exceedingly quiet. Prices as a whole moved down slightly. This was largely due to dullness following the the demand for stocks which occurred in the week previous and which owing to the lack of stock in the market caused advances that were not healthy. The demand for Industrial Bonds of the better class improved very considerably. Many blocks of bonds that had been in the market for some weeks were absorbed without satisfying the demand.

Imperial Oil eased during the week to 83-88 improving at the close to 87-93 on steady demand in a market bare of stock at these prices. Dominion Iron and Steel 5's rose to 63-66 on a small amount of trading without bringing any quantity of bonds into the market even at the improved figures. Dominion Power and Transmission Common was freely offered at 26 without any bid and the Preferred lost a point to 85-84 1-2. Goodyear Tire Preferred was freely offered early in the week at 52a 1-2 and later at 52 but buyers were reluctant to absorb stock at these prices. Gunns Preferred changed hands at 57-58 in small quantities Alberta Pacific Grain Common improved slightly to 127-134, the Preferred continues unchanged at 78-80 1-2. Canadian Woollens Common which was very active last week eased two points to 20 bid while the Preferred moved up two points to 1-2-61 1-2. Whalen Debentures were offered during the week as low as 35 without interesting buyers. Robert Simpson Preferred harrowed slightly to 75-76. Considerable demand developed for Nova Scotia Steel 6 per cent. Debentures, some blocks changing hands at 70. Canadian Westinghouse x-dividend 2 per cent. was quiet at 98-100. Massey Harris at 65-72 and Cockshutt Plow Preferred at 45-50 were in good demand.

MOTIVE FOR SHOOTING IS UNEXPLAINED

MRS. LAWS MAY HAVE BEEN INFATUATED WITH HER VICTIM'S MALE COMPANION, OR FEARED HER FRIENDSHIP WITH MISS HANAN WOULD BE BROKEN.

MISS HANAN MAY DIE

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—(Canadian Press.)—Physicians at Long Island College Hospital, to-day were doubtful about the recovery of Miss Mildred Hanan, shot down in a Brooklyn street yesterday, by Mrs. Grace Lawes.

The heiress of the millionaire Shoe Manufacturer, is in a grave condition; it was said. She failed to improve following a relapse which caused physicians to resort to blood transfusion.

Jealousy Aroused?

Meanwhile detectives had failed to hit on an adequate explanation of the early morning tragedy in which Mrs. Laws killed herself after shooting Miss Hanan, although they believe jealousy was the motive of the shooting. Whether the jealousy was aroused by Mrs. Lawes' secret infatuation for John S. Borland, Miss Hanan's companion, or by Mrs. Lawes' fear that their intimate friendship with Miss Hanan was about to be broken, investigation did not disclose. Messages received here from Mrs. Lawes' relatives in San Francisco stated positively that Mrs. Lawes was not in love with Borland, and that she had even introduced him to Miss Hanan.

She won on twenty first green, having won eighteen of twenty holes played, halving two and losing one. Miss McBride, obviously nervous, played patchy, erratic golf, being away below her form, while Miss Leitch was masterful at all times. Cards of two players follow:

GAGE NOT ALWAYS A SURE GUIDE.

Sticking of Float or Position of Car Causes Variation.

The crankcase oil-level of most engines is indicated by a buoyant float, which rests on the surface of the oil and rises and falls with it, the stem of the float carrying a pointer, which can be read with relation to marks made upon the float tube or elsewhere, indicating a full or a low supply. Sometimes in addition to or in place of the gage, one or more petcocks are set into the oil pan wall, the opening of which indicates, by the escape or non-escape of oil through them respectively, whether the oil-level is or not up to them. This is fully as reliable but not as convenient a device as the float gage, which occasionally sticks either up or down, indicating respectively a higher level than really exists. To test the gage, its float should be pushed down by hand, occasionally and if it rises freely and assumes a definite position, it is probably working faithfully. As the float is usually located on one side of the crank-case, it indicates a fallaciously high oil level if the car is standing so as to be lowest on the side where the gage is mounted and vice versa. The gage should always be consulted with the car standing level and with the engine stopped. The gage mark which reads "full" or at any rate the highest of the marks is quite accurately determined by the maximum supply to be carried, and a great many instances of overlubrication are due to filling the reservoir above this point, "in order to be on the safe side." The danger is, that in filling above the "full"-mark, the connecting rods of a full fore-feed lubricated engine may dip into the oil and splash a detrimental excess of it up through the cylinders in addition to he normal supply furnished by the escape from the pin bearings. In the case of a circulating splash system, with distribution of oil from pump filled pockets by the rod ends overfilling may swamp the splash pockets and cause an enormous excess of oil to be splashed. Of course the low mark on the gage is the real danger indication and, of the two much more important to be heeded than the "high" one as low oil means likelihood of serious engine damage, but if rapid carbon formation, impaired ignition and smoky exhaust are to be avoided, the temptation to overfill must be resisted.

"HARUM-SCARUM" IS PERFECTLY GOOD WORD.

Harum-Scarum is a perfectly good word used in connection with a person who is exceedingly wild, reckless or thoughtless. The word probably originated from a combination of the two English verbs, "hare," to excite or worry, and "scare," to frighten. Locke, in his "Essay on Education," uses "hare" as a verb in this manner:

"To 'hare' and rate them is not to teach but to vex them."

In this country, it is generally supposed that "harum-scarum" is an Americanization, due probably to Washington Irving's use of it in his "Alhambra," where he wrote:

"From a walk, the horse soon passed to a trot, from a trot to a gallop and from a gallop to a harum-scarum scamper."

Have headlight dimmers, and use them when meeting and passing other motorists at night.

When picnicking do not trespass to gather wild flowers, tree branches, blossoms, fruit or shrubs.

WANT SCHOONER ENTERED IN RACE

BOSTON, Sept. 24.— (Canadian Press.)—Resolutions urging reconsideration by the Canadian trustees of the International fishermen's championship cup of their decision debarring the schooner Mayflower as American defender, were unanimously adopted by the New England Fish Exchange here. THANKSGIVING DAY.

OTTAWA, Sept. 24.—Legislation passed at last session of Parliament provides that Monday of the week of November 11th, the anniversary of Armistice Day falls, shall be Thanksgiving Day. Thanksgiving Day this year will thus be Monday, November 7th.

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS MAY BE OVERCOME

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or are even just a little hard of hearing, or have head noises go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone losing hearing or who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.

HOW TYPEWRITERS GIVE CLUES TO CRIMES man man

The Spacing Between the Letters Depends Upon the Mechanical Construction of the Typewriter. By Writing Upon a Carefully Ruled Surface, the Difference in Type Spacing May Be Determined.

a a a

How the Small "a" Looks on Three Different Machines. Although Appearing Alike at First Glance, the Scientific Examiner Would Be Able to Demonstrate Their Difference by Actual Measurement.

WITH the blackmailer and many other types of criminal, the anonymous letter has always been a very useful expedient.

It is a common belief that a letter written by a typewriter cannot be identified. That this idea is ill-founded was proved in a recent case. It will be remembered that this case collapsed with dramatic suddenness when certain anonymous typewritten letters were traced to a witness who had denied all knowledge of them. This startling revelation was brought about by an expert typewriter detective.

"Despite the supposed standardization of machines," said this sleuth, "there are really no two machines in the world which are exactly alike.

"The cause of this individuality among typewriters is that the type is not engraved—which would be a far too laborious and costly task—but goes through a process called 'rolling up,' in which it is struck out by a revolving stamp. This produces irregularities obvious to an expert eye. In fact, when a typewriter leaves the factory, a specimen of its writing is always retained and signed by the adjuster. Should any complaint arise, a letter written upon the machine will always enable us to trace it back to the mechanic who passed it.

"One typewriter will reveal to the expert an incomplete 'o,' or a 'p' which always strikes a trifle below the line, while a few minutes' further study will show him a dozen different idiosyncrasies which serve to make that particular machine unique.

"Again, the individuality of the operator always shows through his or her typing. In a recent case the typist in question revealed herself by her habit of writing long words on a fresh line, instead of dividing and hyphenating them.

"I have never failed to trace a document to the machine used in writing it. Most persons who are the recipients of unsigned letters of a blackmailing or blackmailing nature have a vague idea as to who the sender is. In investigating a case, therefore, my first step is to secure a specimen of writing from a likely machine, and compare it with the offending letter. This leaves no doubt as to the innocence or guilt of the suspect.

"I once investigated a very dramatic case which demonstrated the extremely tell-tale nature of the typewriter. A man, wishing to bring about the death of a certain woman, wrote on his typewriter an anonymous letter to her doctor. In it he suggested to the physician that it would be worth his while to poison his patient.

"After a short time, however, he learned that the doctor, so far from acting upon his dastardly suggestion, was probing the matter. Growing alarmed as the net of investigation was closing around him, he took a poker and battered his typewriter, explaining on inquiry that he had had an accident and dropped the machine.

"But in spite of the rogue's attempt to mask his guilt, the damaged typewriter still retained enough evidence to secure him a well-deserved sentence."

Not only has the typewriter been the means of affording such clues as to enable the authorities successfully to track down criminals, but, as Alfred Gradenwitz points out in Popular Science Monthly, the issue of many legal cases turns on the authorship of a given sample of typewriting. Now, though by no means a hopeless task, the identification of typewriting affords incomparably greater difficulty than that of handwriting. According to Prof. W. Scheffer, a microscopist who acts as legal expert in such cases, the first step is to ascertain the general type of writing—Roman, Gothic, italics, imitation of handwriting, etc. Next comes a closer analysis, partly by the microscope and partly by this connection."

"Then, assuming that a given sample is the product of a number of different factors. Apart from the form of type, the mechanical arrangement of the type levers and letters and differences in the arrangement of the various letters of a given machine should be taken into account. There comes the personal factor—the variable strength and uniformity of touch and the speed of the typist—and, finally, the structure of the ribbon, which is liable to alter the form of individual letters.

"In investigating the letter types of a machine, the expert can resort to one of two methods: He can inspect the types by means of a magnifying-glass, either in their natural position or after removing them.

"The second method, generally preferred in fixed-type machines, consists of removing the ribbon and substituting a sheet of high-class carbon paper. This will bring out the most delicate details in the shape of the types.

"The A in most machines with a horizontal A-lever shows a decided tendency to strike double. When the A stands beside a letter with a vertically swinging lever, its relative position may be higher or lower, according as the typist is writing quickly or slowly or striking hard or soft, and the same may occur in connection with other letters. The relative position and alinement of letters, therefore, does not allow the kind of machine to be ascertained, though it may afford a useful clue as to the identity of the typist."

Prof. Scheffer also uses a special gaging process. On the basis of the dimensions of the corresponding parts of the machine, as ascertained by the most careful measurements, in conjunction with measured samples of typewriting, he prepares a photographic grating into which the writing of a given machine fits exactly. If, now, the sample at issue, on being covered with the grating, is found to fit into it accurately, there is evidence of the sample having been written on a machine of the same make.

IS THE AMERICAN FACE UNDERGOING A CHANGE?

IS the American face changing? It seems so, in the opinion of E. O. Hoppe, a well-known English photographer who has made a study of American physiognomy. According to this artist the American face is assuming the typical characteristics of that of the Red Indian aborigines of North America.

"It is not strange to me," Mr. Hoppe replies to The London Graphic, "but it is nevertheless startling to me, the racial picture which exists in the United States. It is always asserting itself, the characteristics of the so-called 'Red Indian'—distinct, so that typical appearance by which we know them. Many theories as to whence the Red Indians originally came have been advanced, and it is generally agreed that they migrated to what is now the United States from the Old World. It is reasonable to assume that the facial formation of these original Americans, the Indians, was the gradual result of the undefinable influences of 'atmosphere' or climate, rather than of a blood relationship with tribes which had inhabited the continent centuries before them. I feel inclined to ascribe to the same cause the resemblance of the present-day American to the Indian. One point requires to be noted. Whereas the Indian's hair is always coloured, of medium coarseness and black, the American's, past and middle-age, is very fine and almost always wavy. It is much finer than that of most Europeans. In many cases it falls over the forehead—not by design, but naturally. This is not so marked elsewhere. It is not an American fashion, but an American characteristic.

"Curiously enough, in America the Indian touch is shown clearly in men's faces, whereas national characteristics in almost every other country are more definitely expressed in the faces of women. As the result of a search, extending over a period of eight months, for the 'ideal' type of American feminine beauty, I have come to the conclusion that such a type does not, as yet, exist. It is still in process of evolution. The American man-type, on the other hand, is perfectly established—the American of pure white blood, whose genealogy dates back for several generations on American soil. It is usually in the fourth or fifth generation that the facial formation gradually assumes the physiognomic characteristics of the Red Indian.

"The average American man is bigger than the average Englishman—not in width or height, but in a certain massiveness. The features are sharp and clear-cut, the cheek bones pronounced; the nose is prominent and long in proportion to the face. The lips are thin and when full, firmly set and tightly drawn, denoting a resolute and determined character. The well-shaped chin points to will-power.

"I have said how alert people are. 'Hustle' applies to everything in America. Americans walk well, and they do not stumble more than do we Europeans. Their physical motions are not more rapid than ours, but I believe they think harder and faster than any other people. The American business man's characteristic is of shrewdness than of a leaning towards pugnacious-ness. The average American you look you in the eye, you think; then you find that he is looking through your eye into your mind.

"Of course, the whole theory of intermarriage between the aborigines and present-day White Americans would break down if it depended for verification upon the question of skin color. It has been conclusively proved that Indians were not necessarily copper-colored. The early settlers saw Indians painted red, and perhaps a reddish tone was present in the skin of the Eastern woodland stocks, with whom European immigrants first came into contact. In the vast majority of the Indians no such tint is discernible."

How SCIENCE AIDS the FARMER

IT is an encouraging sign that in spite of the migration from the rural districts to the cities, and in spite of the tremendous increased cost of farm labor, and the difficulty in obtaining it, the product of the nation's soil has been about doubled in so short a time as 20 years. For this favorable condition a writer in The Illustrated World gives two causes: First, the introduction of scientific methods, and second, the general use of new and improved farm machinery.

There has been developed a wonderful fund of agronomic science, and a wonderful system of correlating the resources of the various agricultural institutions and the technical schools of various authorities. The testing plants and bureaus, and the field agents, have worked hand and glove. Thus, almost as rapidly as science has discovered and systematized new processes, the man in the field has shown the farmer how to put this new knowledge to immediate and practical use.

It is only within the last few years that science has been brought to rotation of crops. The method had been followed for centuries, but the underlying reasons for this have neither been known nor even investigated. Now the science of agriculture has reached such a fine point that it is possible for a farmer to take a sample of the soil, and by sending it to an agricultural station, have it analyzed so that he may know just what crop that soil will take, and under what conditions, and the length of time that may pass before it is necessary to supplement it with some other sowing.

The matter of fertilizer, too, is not the haphazard thing it was a few years ago. The quantity that is laid on is now subjected to measurement. The old practice of using unlimited quantities is no longer followed by the farmer who is running his lands on an efficient basis. Moreover, fertilizers other than those naturally to be obtained in the barnyard are now brought to the fields.

Nitrates obtained largely from the mines of Chile have become common purchase by farmers in all parts of the country as a commercial fertilizer. The discovery made some years ago, and first put into practice in Norway, that these same precious nitrates may be extracted from the air, is proving to be a revelation. The Germans followed up the Norwegian discovery by establishing large electrically operated plants to perform this work; and the English did something in the same line in faraway India.

To use adequately the new knowledge and the new resources that nature has offered, machinery, as everyone knows, has been brought extensively into use on the farm. Without such implements as the reaper and the harvester, it would have been impossible for the United States to gain its world-famed agricultural pre-eminence. Because of machinery we have been able to carry on agriculture on a grand scale. Americans have often been reproached by the peoples of other nations, and have frequently reproached themselves, because of failure to cultivate intensively the soil as do certain European peoples, particularly the French, Belgians and Danes; but there has been, except in a few limited sections of America, little need for intensive cultivation of the soil. The fact that, in a comparatively rough and ready way, such remarkably large crops have been produced, augurs extremely well for the future.

Why LEMONS Put "PEP" Into ATHLETES

IT isn't such a bad thing, after all, to have some one "hand you a lemon"—especially if you are an athlete. This popular slang is not taken as a compliment, for grand stands may pass out a metaphorical supply of the yellow fruit after a race, if expectations have not been lived up to, but what of the coach who gives his sprinters or distance men half a lemon to suck before and during their most important speed test? Is he expressing a lack of confidence in them, or trying to scare them into traveling the stipulated distance in record time?

Not by a lemonade jugful! exclaims Charles W. Paddock, who explains in Physical Culture Magazine why the greatest sprinter of all history urges the value of fruit juices for physical conditioning.

"A lemon seems to suggest hardly any relationship to athletic vigor," says Mr. Paddock, "yet athletes are coming more and more to depend upon this fruit to supply that certain 'something' which moistens the mouth and enlivens the nerves before strenuous physical exertion.

"The coach knows that sucking a few drops of the clear juice of the fruit affords one of the most beneficial refreshments that a runner can enjoy.

"If you should go to a track meet and witness one of the long-distance races, you would probably be surprised to see that almost every athlete carries a half-lemon in his hand, from which he gains refreshment from time to time.

"When Hans Kolehmainen, the greatest marathon runner of modern time, finished the 10,000 metres race at the Stockholm Olympic games in 1912, he still carried the remnants of a shriveled lemon in his hand. In the more recent Olympics of 1920, which I had the good fortune to take part in, Hans 'came back' after a period of eight years and once more won his race, this time breaking his own previous record. As he broke the tape after the long grind, his hand again held the remains of a lemon. His old habit had stuck with him and proved its worth again.

Out at the training quarters of the University of Southern California, the matter was thoroughly discussed a short time ago in the presence of Coach Dean B. Cromwell. Someone made the statement that modern science had discovered in the citrus fruit an important food principle called vitamines. There was no adverse criticism to this and all agreed that the yellow fruit is a great help in conditioning an athlete.

"Sucking a Few Drops of Lemon Juice Is One of the Most Beneficial Refreshments an Athlete Can Enjoy."

Cromwell has trained four world's champions in the course of his experience and is an authority on matters of this nature. In former days he perfected the form of Howard Drew, the great colored sprinter, and made Fred Kelly the swiftest hurdler of his time. Earl Thompson, present world hurdling champion, was trained by Cromwell for over a year.

"The Dean," who has recently proved decisively that his days of training champions are not over, readily admits the value of lemons to runners and to field athletes as well. It is a familiar sight to see him appear on the field with a grip filled with lemons, which he picks from the trees of his own orchard, for Cromwell is a grower of lemons.

Dean Cromwell says that he would never attempt to punish a boy for 'swiping' lemons from his grove. "For," say he, "who can tell—maybe the youthful marauder of today will develop with the aid of the healthful fruit into another world's championship athlete of tomorrow."

SUGAR DIET for TYPHOID PATIENTS

THE horrors of the old starvation diet for typhoid fever patients are rapidly being done away with, owing to newer knowledge of the requirements of the body in health and in disease, and also to increasing knowledge of the chemistry tissues, which is brought about because of two factors—the excessive metabolism during the fever and the once prevalent idea that the patient must not have food. It has been found, however, that if plenty of food of the right kind is given there is far less wasting away and a speedier recovery. The question then arises: What is the proper food?

Physicians explain that all fevers, and typhoid in particular, are characterized by great production of body heat, which means that the fuel requirements of the body are much greater than in health. A normal adult requires about 2500 calories per day in the food; a man at hard work about 3500; a lumberjack close to 5000. Now a typhoid fever patient has to have over 3500 calories if he is to keep up with the demands of the disease. This excessive amount of food must be easily digested and not be of a bulky nature.

The two classes of food materials that furnish the greater portion of bodily energy are the fats and the carbohydrates. The fats are not readily assimilated in large amounts, so this fact rules them out of the present consideration. Of the carbohydrates, starch cannot be incorporated into foods in large amounts without its becoming pasty. Cane sugar is very good, except for the fact that its great sweetness makes it unpalatable after a time. All sugars are about equally well digested; they all have the same fuel value; but lactose, or milk sugar, is the least sweet of all the common sugars. A few trials have demonstrated that this sugar has great possibilities in the typhoid fever diet.

The medical school of the University of Minnesota, in conjunction with the department of home economics, is now working out recipes which will utilize large proportions of milk sugar. Frozen dishes are very palatable, but only 8 per cent. of this sugar can be incorporated into these dishes because of its sparing solubility at the low temperature. Puddings appear to offer many possibilities, and the patients do not find any amount of the sugar objectionable, since it is so nearly free from taste. Fortunately, too, the cost item does not enter into the consideration, for lactose can be prepared fairly cheaply from dairy by-products, such as skim milk and buttermilk.

Very ODD USES Are FOUND for the MONOCLE

THE monocle, which has become somewhat popular as a novelty among some American women during the past several years, will serve in many useful ways to sportsmen.

In photography, for example, a monocle makes an excellent direct-view finder for the camera, where a picture is to be taken too high up for the operator to see into the side view-finder. A writer in the Illustrated World says that looking through the monocle placed at the top of the camera box when it is pointed at the object to be photographed gives an absolutely accurate view. The eye-glass also serves as a useful portrait lens for making tiny images to be photographed larger on the negative by holding the monocle over the ordinary lens while the picture is being taken. Used for this purpose, in time exposure or bulb work, the monocle must be held firmly in place by a clamp or support. For snapshots the trembling of the photographer's hand holding it before the eye would not blur the picture. In all cases, however, the ground glass must be used with a black cloth for focus, unless it is a grudge.

In the event that the doctor or pathologist who desires to perform a "blood count" test—counting the blood cells according to their number, shape and kind (called the "differential count") by gathering a few drops of blood from the patient's ear or arm—is without a glass slide, the monocle serves as an ever-ready substitute. It can be put directly under the microscope for study.

The automobilist also finds a monocle useful about the car. The monocle of average thickness makes a good spark-gap tester for the car with battery ignition. If the points of the plug are set at the thickness of the monocle they will be correct.

Why the Shells Used in Shotguns Are Grooved

WHIR-R-R! Bang! Bang! Missed again. As you reload, your eye falls on an empty shell and it occurs to you that the grooves in the brass cap seem to be rather flattened out. On comparison with a loaded shell this proves to be true.

Do you know why the grooves are made in the cap? No? If they weren't there the paper tube would "cut off" from the brass cap, explains a writer in Popular Science Monthly.

When smokeless powder first came into use for shotgun shells there was endless trouble on this account. At the moment of explosion, the expanding gases jammed the cardboard against the sides of the barrel, while the brass cap was forced back against the breach bolt, thus tearing the paper tube and the brass cap apart.

Finally it occurred to one of the big manufacturers to stamp grooves in the sides of the brass cap to allow it to lengthen slightly without separating from the paper tube. This was done, and the cutting off ceased.

Dancing by Chart

"DO you dance?" "No." "Why not?" "Don't." Such conversations are heard time and time again. "Ah, but everyone can learn to dance," says Max Rothkugel, of New York. "It is time we danced by chart."

The chart, which is described in Popular Science Monthly, directs each dance step into its individual foot movement, and matches them to the notes of the music. The chart may be either book-sized or life-sized. If you use the life-sized one, you follow up the footprints painted on it. They are numbered consecutively, and each number corresponds with a note of music. If one foot is stationary for two beats, then the two numbers are marked on the footprint. If the step is taken on the toe, the number is marked in the toe of the footprint; similarly, if the heel is dropped the number appears in the footprint's heel. When you swing around, a dotted line points out the path you are to follow.

The Chart, Which May Be Life-Sized, Dissects Each Dance Step Into Its Individual Foot Movement and Matches Them to the Notes of the Music.

WEEK-END DRAMATIC NOTES AND A GLANCE AT NEXT WEEK

It was a source of great disappointment to Mr. Furlong, the courteous manager of the local Allen Theatre, to have to announce a change of progamme for the last three days of this week. The feature picture was burned in Collingwood Tuesday evening, thereby giving no time in which to procure another release of the same film. With great expedition another feature was sent for, and in replacing "Love's Penalty" the management secured a first-class picture, Tom Moore in "Beating the Game." I saw the picture in Toronto where the lovable Tom captivated every heart in the audience, male and female. He has a winning smile, he does funny things in such an off-hand manner that one never suspects the roguery beneath, all the time looking at one with that innocent, good-natured Irish face. And he is Irish, too—he and three brothers, Joe, Matt and Owen, were born in Ireland. A sister, Norah Moore, is a favourite on the London stage, and it is her little son, Pat, whom we often see playing with one or the other of his clever uncles.

Ralph Connor, the fighting parson, has won name and fame in literature as well as in the pulpit, but his story, "The Sky Pilot," had phenomenal success upon the stage, and I believe the film version is one of the best photoplays of the year. In casting, direction and detail there is nothing left to be desired, and it is a big advantage to movie lovers to have such big attractions as will be offered in Peterborough next week.

Many people have asked within the past week for the exact date of Gloria Swanson's coming in "Her Great Moment." The star herself is exceedingly popular, and deservedly so, because she has worked hard from the days when as an extra she sat on "the outside looking in" until the present time, when she finds herself a Paramount star of first magnitude, but still going strong as far as making feature pictures is concerned. Her powers of strong, emotional acting are very great for a woman still so young; she depicts intense feeling without overdoing and is always artistic, graceful and beautifully gowned. "Her Great Moment" was written especially for her by Elinor Glyn, the author of "Three Weeks." Madame Glyn, as she is called, is a Canadian by birth, the daughter of Magistrate Saunders of Guelph and a sister of the famous Lucile, Lady Duff Gordon. Undoubtedly, Elinor Glyn is clever, though I am not personally found of literature of the "Three Weeks" type, yet Madame could write even better than she does, only she frankly admits she likes the money from "best sellers." In "Her Great Moment" the authoress plays a part—that of a gentlewoman with a title. She is supposed to typify English female aristocracy and claims to have done much to achieve correct detail in this super photoplay. For the past few years I've been constantly amused by the efforts made by "nonveau riche" to furnish their homes correctly in period furniture. We betide the unfortunate owner of furniture who places a William and Mary sofa beside a Jacobean chair! It matters not to the self-appointed critic that the two articles are thinly veneered, modern imitations made up in vast quantities by machine at the nearby factory. Middleclass self-suffigiency overlooks such details; but Elinor Glyn says she made possible the correct picture of a nobleman's home which has descended for many centuries from one generation to another, containing furnishings of every period since fine cabinet-making first was practised in Europe.

Gloria Swanson became famous as the spoiled, petted noblewoman in "Male and Female," and she is also featured in "The Affairs of Anatol."

Advices from Kingston proclaim a triumph for "Rex" and company, and playing that city as they did in Fair week, they have to their credit a big undertaking successfully carried out. Three plays a week—that means some energy. With renewed vigour, they open in Peterborough on Monday night with an extra special, Avery Hopwood's farce, "Fair and Warmer," and specialties by William Yule.

In these stric, straight-laced days of total prohibition, it is a rare sight to see a "real party," at least, in public—one right out in the open and the marvellous effects thereof. I have heard of fun being staged which ended in slight inebriation—but—hotel dining-rooms are staid and hushed places these days, theatre lobbies no longer accommodate the jovial, slightly red face of the bon viveur, clad in irreproachable dress clothes, who used to smile radiantly on the less fortunate line of ticket buyers who had not eaten plum pudding and drank champagne—at dinner. And the old days have given way to our own time, when a "treat" means a whisper, a nod—then a mysterious disappearance—and a "party" takes place "somewhere out on the road" in a closed car, or—"up in Mabel's room." So let us welcome the exhilarating farce, "Fair and Warmer," wherein for a few moments we shall see, frankly and candidly, men and women enjoying themselves in the good old-fashioned way. No doubt, tender memories may be awakened by the cocktail scene, one set of husbands may rejoice that their better halves are not inclined to wander along the Gay White Way, while others may wish that wifey had a little more "pep"—but whatever one's sentiments or principles it is only a play, and the curtain descends leaving us just as firm in our belief in prohibition, just as well satisfied with the great achievement of the century—the Temperance Act—which restrains the individual from using his or her discretion.

Mr. William Yule is one of the most popular members of the Rex Stock Company. He is an excellent actor, his particular forte being character work. Usually he portrays a loveable faithful friend or local celebrity, such as Captain Jogifer in "What Happened to Mary." One might while listening to the deep, resonant tones of his voice, I thought, think what excellent work he could do in serious dramatic work, but I think you will agree with me a good hearty laugh is the best thing in the world, and Mr. Yule puts across his lines every time, elicting a quick and ready response every time. Mr. Yule is an old Kingston boy—I hope he won't mind my saying "old"—I only mean that it has been twenty-five years since he left Kingston, never returning to it until he went there with the Rex Stock Company. As you may well imagine his appearance there caused an ovation. During this time he has been constantly playing roles of every description, mostly in stock companies, but never wanting an engagement. He has been for many seasons with Mr. and Mrs. Snelgrove and is a valued member of their organization. During the run of "Fair and Warmer" Mr. William Yule will favour us with his recitations—a specialty which is well worth going to hear. He has a very clever line of work, and by special request he will recite a piece called "Sweet Hour of Prayer." LAURA.

A REAL FIGHTING PARSON. AT THE ALLEN

John Bowers as "The Sky Pilot"

MONDAY, TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY.

ALBERT DE COURVILLE IN "HULLO, CANADA!"

There has been rumours, advance notices and promises by Trans-Canada Theatres that a big season is just ahead. It seems to me it has arrived. Marie Lohr, with a reputation in England and on the Continent like that of the Barrymores in the United States, has met with great success in Ottawa and Toronto. Ethel Barrymore will be in Toronto next week in "Declassu," her greatest Broadway success, and now comes the master of English revue, surrounded by a cast of favourites, among them London stars known to thousands of play-goers everywhere. Albert de Courville was the originator of a show which he put on at the Hipprodrome about eleven years ago, and it met with instantaneous success. Since then he has produced no less than ten revues, every one an unusual and novel entertainment. The first show was called "Hullo, Ragtime!" The last is "Hullo, Canada!" Sounds like a nice friendly greeting from friends across the water, doesn't it? It will also awaken echoes of those terrible, happy, wonderful hours or weeks all you dear returned soldiers spent in London on leave, won't it?

Speaking of "revue"—just what does it mean? I have often been asked, and the answer usually sounds indefinite and not quite to the point. We are all familiar with vaudeville, comedy, farce, burlesque, musical comedy, light opera and all other forms of amusement which are not straight drama or tragedy. Yet "revue" is something different still. Vaudeville is "variety" in England, and as nearly as I can define it, "revue" is a "show without plot, story or theme," but it contains sufficient interest and amusement to entertain huge crowds for two or three hours. With Mr. de Courville are his wife, Miss Shirley Kellogg, Miss Violet Loraine, Miss Ethel Dovey, Mr. Harry Tate, Mr. Billy Morson, Miss Daphne Pollard and Little Tich. LAURA.

NEW YORK CRITICS PRAISE "SKY PILOT"

A production declared to run almost the entire gamut of movie possibilities is "The Sky Pilot," directed by King Vidor for exhibition at the Allen Theatre, commencing on Monday. This picture is one of the latest releases by the Associated First National Pictures, and is distributed as a Cathrine Curtis production.

Ralph Connor's original novel, "The Sky Pilot," from which the picture was adapted, most artistically blended the subtlety of human interest with the tensity of dramatic situations; but even his own art has been enhanced in the picturization of the story. One of the most effective of the thrilling incidents in this story is a cattle stampede in which hundreds of panic-stricken animals are seen in a mad onrush toward the camera.

AT THE REGENT.

Harry Carey, Ace of the western drama, Carol Halloway, a new and unusually beautifully leading woman, a vigorous story of the out-of-doors and the appealing work of a new kiddie-actor are some of the features of "If Only" Jim, which will begin its run at the Regent Theatre on Monday.

"If Only" Jim is a Universal photodrama filmed from "Bruvver Jim's Baby," a novel by Philip V. Michels. Jacques Jaccard directed it for the screen.

The story deals with Jim Golden, a shiftless, lazy dreamer of the mining camp of Borealis. As the story opens he is seen doing as little as possible with the least exertion. Even the scorn of Dot Dennihan, the pretty post-mistress, does not accelerate him.

Driven to a rabbit-shooting expedition because his credit at the store is stopped, Jim stumbles into a baby boy, deserted by the Indians. He takes him to raise, to the indignation of Dot and the agitation of Borealis.

From then on Jim Golden snaps out of his lethargy and makes the town sit up in a noticing attitude. Dramatic situations follow one another at breathless speed until the climax, which is unique among screen denouements.

"If Only" Jim is looked forward to by theatre-goers as Harry Carey's "humanest" picture and advance reports indicate that the prediction of its appeal has not been exaggerated.

ELINOR GLYNN, WOMAN OF TALENT AND CHARM

Author of Gloria Swanson's Picture, "The Great Moment" is Intellectual.

Seldom has a personality with more outstanding characterstics been associated with art and letters than Mme. Elinor Glyn, whose original Paramount photoplay, "The Great Moment" has been made with Gloria Swanson as star, as a feature of more than ordinary interest. It was directed by Sam Wood, scenarized by Monte M. Katterjohn, and is the first picture in which Miss Swanson appears as a star in her own right.

Mme. Glyn is a striking woman, keenly intelligent, highly intellectual and possessed of a magnetic quality that is hard to define. She speaks in epirgrams. Hardly a word escapes her that does not indicate an original trend of thought and expression.

Gloria Swanson found her charming to a degree and everyone associated in the production of "The Great Moment" voices similar sentiments regarding the distinguished author of such notable novels such as "Three Weeks" and others of equal fame. The example set by Mme. Glyn was an inspiring one and has assuredly resulted in the production of a photodrama that will prove one of the season's most successful offerings. Milton Sills is leading man in the picture.

TRIS SPEAKER HAS A BUNCH OF FIGHTERS FOR THE PENNANT RACE

BABE RUTH CLOUTED THE NEW YORKERS TO VICTORY YESTERDAY BUT THERE ARE "THREE MORE GAMES"

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—(United Press.)—Tris Speaker has a bunch of fighters, otherwise the Cleveland Indians could be counted out of the American League pennant race right now. Having dropped the first game of the "crucial series" and with the Yanks, and with Stanley Coveleskie, the first man of the pitching staff, defeated, the Indians ought to be in a sad plight.

After he had lost the first two games in the world's series last fall in Brooklyn, Speaker said: "What is a little thing like two games; just wait."

The gray-haired leader of the world's champions fell back on the same doctrine to-day with a short, "Just wait, there are three more games."

The Yanks are a little bit cock over yesterday's victory. Although Miller Huggins has maintained the silence that has become characteristic with him, his club members openly boasted after the game that it was all over. The first battle yesterday was witnessed by a crowd of 33,000 and the second conflict today promised to draw a capacity crowd of 40,000. Early this morning before the mist had fled off the Harlem river, a little band of champion fans was outside the bleacher gates. Huggins was expected to call upon Carl Mays, the submarine hurler, to go after the second game of the series, but Speaker's pitching selection was not so sure.

The Indian chieftain had Mails ready, but he gave no indication of his choice. The Yanks now have the advantage in the pennant race, as Hoyt can come to-day and no club can beat him the way he was going yesterday. It was his day. Perhaps he will never have another one so thoroughly good. And perhaps Babe Ruth will never be so thoroughly effective.

The Babe won the game himself yesterday with three doubles and three runs. Coveleskie's body blow for the Indians as the Pole has been meat for the Yanks all season. He won only one out of six starts for the champions against the New Yorkers this year.

DRAFTING ROOM WIN THE CUP

BEAT ENGINEERING DEPARTMENT FOR C.C.E. SOFT BALL TITLE

The final game in the C. G. E. challenge cup soft ball series, was played Friday evening, the champion Engineering Dept. team going down to defeat before the Drafting Room challengers, the final score being 11-7. Convery, pitching the first three innings for the Engineers, was very wild, and the Draftsmen piled up a lead that the Engineers could notovercome, though they fought hard till the last out. With the exception of one inning the fielding of both teams was very snappy, and the large body of rooters, well supplied with megaphones, made things sound like a Central Ontario championship fixture. The battery for the Draftsmen was Metheral and Parnell. For the Engineers, Convery, Langley and Igoe. The game was well handled by Mr. Fielder at the plate and Mr. Loomis on the bases.

GRAND CIRCUIT RACES BRINGS ONE BIG FIELD

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 24.—(Canadian Press.)—Grand Circuit racing here yesterday was featured by pacing events and unusual performances in many respects were brought forth before the four fields of side-wheelers had finished their day's work.

The feature event was the Hotel Hartman Stake of $3,000 for 2.11 pacers. Jim B., a big winner in the Great Western Circuit was installed as favorite, but Jimmie McKerron had the favorite and the rest of the field at his mercy. He showed class by pacing the second and third heats of the event in 2.02 1-4. The last half of the middle mile was stepped in 59 3-4 seconds.

GOLF.

A men's field day will be held at the Golf and County Club on Thursday, Sept. 29th. Games start at 2 p.m., and will be in charge of the local professional, Mr. Mason.

Prizes to be competed for will be as follows: Tombstone trophy (handicap); pair of natural tread golf shoes (handicap); golf balls (blind trophy handicap).

Contestants will be paired off as they appear. Par of the course is 72.

MISS LEITCH FOUGHT WAY GOLF FINALS

THIS EMPRESS OF BRITISH GOLFERS MEETS MISS MOLLY M'BRIDE TO-DAY IN FINAL 36-HOLE STRUGGLE FOR LADIES' CANADIAN GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

BRILLIANT FLASHES

OTTAWA, Ont., Rivermead Golf Club, Sept. 24.—Miss Cecil Leitch, empress of British golfers, and Miss Molly McBride, of Beaconsfield, meet to-day in the final 36-hole struggle for the ladies' Canadian golf championship. Miss Leitch fought her way to the finals yesterday by defeating Miss Alexa Stirling, United States champion, and last year's Canadian title holder, in a brilliant, bitter match, three up and one to go while Miss McBride won a similar right by vanquishing the British champion's sister, Miss Edith Leitch, two up and one to go. The brand of golf played by the Montreal girl right up to the final test has been one of the revelations of the tournament. Not brilliant, but courageous and steady in the pinches, she has eliminated some formidable opponents, and yesterday she crowned her work by extinguishing Miss Leitch, one of the five women golfers in England, earning the honor of meeting the great Miss Cecil herself.

The transcendant event of yesterday's games was the defeat of Miss Stirling by Miss Leitch. The British champion played the better golf, and undoubtedly earned her victory, but her superiority over the American woman is not so marked as the score might indicate. The difference between them would appear to chiefly lie in the fact that Miss Leitch is the stronger, that her driving, both off the tee and with her brassie, is more powerful, an advantage which, all other things being equal, is bound to tell in the end. With mid-iron and mashie and niblick there seems little to choose between them; and while Miss Stirling sometimes appears weak on the greens, she more than redeems herself with occasional flashes of brilliance that is beautiful to behold.

Not Super-Golf.

The game was not super-golf, but it was brilliantly contested. Had Miss Stirling not encountered hard luck on the second, when her drive hit the fence and bounded back upon the road, and had she not grievously sinned in her putting on the fourth green, leaving herself with the almost insuperable handicap of being three down on the fourth, there is no telling what might have been. As it was, she thereafter played a brave, uphill game.

Giantess of Links.

Miss Leitch upheld her reputation as a veritable giantess of the links. Her long driving, backed up by brassie and mashie shots that were invariably good and sometimes dazzling, marked her out as one of the greatest of women golfers of her time.

The international aspect of yesterday's match, coupled with the high reputations of the two contestants, drew what many declared to be the largest gallery that has ever followed a golfing contest in this country. So large was the gathering and so keen the interest that it was with difficulty that it was handled. Time and again brilliant plays were heartily cheered, and while the British champion was perhaps the favorite, the fine playing and the splendid sportsmanship of Miss Stirling was given generous applause.

THE OSHAWA LADY GOLFERS HERE TUESDAY.

On Tuesday next, September 27, fifteen lady golf players are expected from Oshawa to compete with the local lady players. Luncheon and tea will be served at the Golf Club.

ROAD RACE WILL DEPEND ON SHOW OF INTEREST NOW

FOURTEEN JUNIORS EAGER FOR THE GAME BUT SENIORS SO FAR FEW.

Fourteen juniors in running togs reported at the Y.M.C.A. to Doug. Loomis on Thursday night, and all of them were enthusiastic for a road race on Thanksgiving Day. This group alone should warrant the revival of the junior event from Nassau to Peterborough, but there should be many others eager to get into the running game. Mr. Loomis briefly explained the proposal to them, but withheld a decision until Monday night in the hope that some of the older boys, or the young men, would show some interest in this sport. Most, if not all, the fourteen juniors are members of the Y.M.C.A., and as a further encouragement to them the race should be held. What about the other clubs and associations in the city? There is a lot of promising material if the boys could be brought to realize the physical benefits and the fun to be derived from road work. They are offered the valuable services of Charlie Thorpe, who has promised to turn out with the bunch and give them the advantage of his experience. Mr. Loomis is also ready to do all he can to promote distance running and to help any group that takes up the game. These should be inducements enough. They should appeal to many of the red-blooded youth of Peterborough. Monday night next is the last chance, and all those who desire to take up road training are requested to report at the Y.M.C.A. at 8 o'clock.

Arthur Johnston still has hopes in Smoke, the Chemong Indian, and has begun grooming him for the Hamilton Herald race on Thanksgiving Day. Mr. Johnston states that Smoke started in the Toronto Exhibition grind without any training whatsoever, and, in spite of that lack of preparation, he chased the winner, Norman General, of the Indian Reserve at Brantford, for nine miles. Smoke is now running every morning and evening, and the proprietor of the Windsor Hotel is trying to get him a job in the city. Smoke's only work prior to the race at the Toronto Exhibition was laboring all summer on the new Bobcaygeon lock.

It has been rumored that the Peterborough Athletic Association intend to get out from under the city's championships and turn them back to the management of the Y.M.C.A., which organization has hitherto conducted them annually. The "Y" will not shirk the duty of maintaining this athletic feature, but there is no reason why they should be saddled with the responsibility and the expense. The incidental cost is not heavy. Surely that is not a reason why the P.A.A.A. should be reported as indifferent toward the track and field championships. Probably the rumor is unfounded.

In the Ontario championships held at Belleville this week, the events were all won by out-of-town contestants.

FOOTBALL NOTES

Don't forget to be at the G.W.V.A. Hall at 8 p.m. on Monday night for the concert under the auspices of the Peterborough and District Football Association. A first class programme is assured and music lovers in the city will enjoy a pleasant evening together. The G.W.V.A. Band will render high class selections at this concert.

G. N. Gordon, M.P., will present the "Phelan Charity Cup," also the "Clarke Shield," and medals will be presented to the G.W.V.A. team, all won by them in the spring schedule.

Tickets may be had from any of the executive at twenty-five cents each. Several well known and popular artists are taking part in this splendid programme.

BROKE WORLD'S RECORD ON HALF MILE TRACK

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Spt. 24.—(Canadian Press.)—Fred Horey, driving a Briscoe car and racing against time, broke the world's three-mile record on a half-mile dirt track at the Eastern States Exposition track yesterday afternoon. He established a new world's record of 3.09 for three miles. The old record, 3.09 1-5 was made by Leon Duray last season. As Horey started on his third mile his rear axle snapped in two at the bearing and only the chain held the rear wheel in place.

SOMEWHERE.

(By Caroline Ripley Door.)

How can I cease to pray for thee?
Somewhere
In God's great universe thou art today:
Can He not reach thee with His tender care?
Can He not hear me when for thee I pray?

What matters it to Him who holds within
The hollow of His hand all worlds all space,
That thou art done with earthly pain and sin?
Somewhere within His ken thou hast a place.

Somewhere thou livest and hast need of Him;
Somewhere thy soul sees higher heights to climb;
And somewhere still there may be valleys dim,
That thou must pass to reach the hills sublime.

Then all the more, because thou canst not hear,
Poor, human words of blessing, will I pray,
Oh! true, brave heart, God bless thee, wheresoe'r
In His great universe thou art today.

We hear a lot of croaking these days about the immorality of our youth, and one proof of this immorality, continually held before us, is the modern dancing. It is true that jazz music does not lend itself to sobriety in dancing, so if anything comes under censure, perhaps it is the music. However, the "jazzy" impulses of our present day young people, whether expressed in music, dance, or even in dress, is a result of the high-tension produced by the war. Already we see a tendency toward conservatism along all these lines.

As proof of this, "The Last Waltz," a musical comedy, is drawing large crowds in New York in spite of the fact that there is not one jazz number in the entire repertoire. The music is high-class, and very enjoyable, and proving to be as popular as the syncopation of "The Follies."

Not much longer will the pessimists have cause to shake their heads and say, "I don't know what the young people are coming to."

We all know the story of Pollyanna and her doctrine of always being glad. We often here people sneering at her, saying, "She was too glad, just as Elsie Dinsmore was too good." Nevertheless, Pollyanna seems to have almost a monopoly on the right principle of living which opens the way to a short cut to happiness.

It is impossible to be either very bad or very mad when one is very glad. Also how much anxiety we would miss if we would not insist upon crossing our bridges before we reach them. Let this idea of being glad be your religion for a while, for after all, cheerfulness is the normal atmosphere of every religion. We would all find that life would move for us much more smoothly if we could say with Browning, "God's in His Heaven. All's well with the world."

IRELAND PROSPEROUS THE PAST EIGHT YEARS

CASH DEPOSITS IN BANKS INCREASED

OTTAWA, Sept. 24.—(Canadian Press).—The material prosperity enjoyed by Ireland during the past eight years is emphasized in a forthcoming trade and commerce bulletin by Gordon B. Johnson, Canadian Trade Commissioner in Glasgow.

Banking statistics, says Mr. Johnson, show that deposits and cash balances in Irish joint stock banks increased from 62,142,000 pounds in 1913 to 186,440,000 pounds in 1921. Exports from Ireland exceeded her imports in 1918, 1919 and 1920 by 50,000,000 sterling. The boycott of Belfast by the rest of Ireland still continues, says the Commissioner, in spite of the truce, although not in such drastic form. A large number of Belfast distributing houses have been badly hit, but manufacturers in linen, shipbuilding and engineering industries whose trade is with the whole world, have not suffered, their present depression being due to world conditions. Early improvement in the linen industry is looked for, however.

WILL PREVENT IMPORT OF CANADIAN CATTLE

BRITISH ORGANIZED OPPOSITION —RESORT TO EVERY DEVICE AT THEIR DISPOSAL.

LONDON, Sept. 24.—(Canadian Press Cable) Dundee harbor commissioners who waited on Hon. Mr. Churchill Secretary of State for colonies, to urge the removal of the embargo against Canadian Cattle, said that it was of utmost importance that this trade be retablished. Mr. Churchill said he was sympathetic toward the request of the commissioners, and that the government would consider the report of the cattle embargo commission. The express states a well organized opposition to removal of the embargo will use even violent means of every device at their disposal to prevent the import of Canadian Cattle.

CHOLERA INFANTUM
THE FATAL DISEASE OF CHILDREN

Mothers should look well after their young ones during the hot summer months as this is the time of year when this summer complaint is most prevalent. It begins with a profuse diarrhoea, the stomach becomes irritated, vomiting and purging set in, and the matter ejected from the stomach has a bilious appearance; the child rapidly loses flesh and is soon reduced to great languor and prostration, which in a great many cases, terminates fatally. To quickly offset the vomiting, purging and diarrhoea should be administered.

DR. FOWLER'S

Mrs. Charles Kretlow, Wideview, Sask., writes: "I have used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for summer complaint. I think it saved my little girl's life one time as she was so bad that I thought she was going to die. A friend advised me about "Dr. Fowler's," so I got a bottle and it helped her right away."

Don't endanger your child's health by accepting a substitute, but get the genuine "Dr. Fowler's," price 50c a bottle; put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

FLOAT A BILLION LOAN.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 24.— (Canadian Press.)—The flotation of a billion dollar loan as the quickest and, in the long run, cheapest way of solving Canada's colonization problems, was urged last night by Julius Khan, Chicago, formerly general manager of a large chain of stores in Canada and the United States, who is now in this city.

FINDING IN BOLIVIA-CHILE CONTROVERSY

GENEVA, Sept. 24.— (Canadian Press.) — The announcement was made to-day in the Assembly of the League of Nations that the text of the finding reached by jurists in the controversy between Bolivia and Chile, cabled to South America, is not regarded as final. It may be modified so that direct application to the Bolivian demand for a seaport on the Pacific coast may be avoided.

JAPAN TO STUDY THE U.S. LAND CLAIMS IN YAP

TOKIO, Sept. 24. — (Canadian Press.) — Japan will consult with other members of the League of Nations relative to the desire of the United States to receive equal treatment in the mandate for the islands of the Pacific as a feature of settlement of the Yap question. Japan will also study the United States' claim to land ownership in Yap.

PRESENTATION TO MRS. E. KITNEY.

A very pleasant evening was spent on Friday, Sept. 23rd, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Nicholls, 909 Water Street, when St. James' Methodist choir gave a party presentation to Mrs. E. Kitney, who has left St. James' choir.

The evening was spent in games and singing, and all agreed that a pleasant time had been enjoyed.

At the close Mrs. Kitney was presented with an oak tray, and Miss M. Collins read an address as follows:

Mrs. E. Kitney,—We the members of St. James' Church choir, have learned with deep regret of your intention of leaving the choir. You have been a faithful member, and we feel we cannot let this occasion pass without taking the opportunity of expressing our appreciation of your services, which were given whole-heartedly to a noble cause: that of praising God. Although we feel that we shall sadly miss you from our midst, yet we hope that in your new sphere you will obtain that benefit and added knowledge which you seek.

We have not met here to-night to read a sermon to you, but to show to you our appreciation, so we would ask you to accept this present as a small token of our regard for you, hoping that you will think of us occasionally, and that God's richest blessing will rest upon you in your efforts.

On behalf of the Choir, yours faithfully,

C. Cuffe, President.

CULLEN—In loving memory of my dear son, Lance Corporal Norman Bruce Cullen, who died September 24th., 1920, in his 28th year, late of the 93rd Battalion.
Peacefully sleeping resting at last,
This world's trials and troubles are past,
In silence suffered with patience he
Till God him home to suffer no more.
In our home he is fondly remembered
Sweet memories cling to his name
Hearts that loved him with truest affection
Still love him in death just the same
—Sadly missed by Mother, Sisters, and Brothers.

CULLEN—In fond and loving memory of my brother, Norman Bruce Cullen, ho died Sept. 24, 1920, from wounds received in France.
A year has passed away Dear Brother,
Since God called you home to rest
From this world of pain and sorrow
There to dwell among the blessed.

The parting was hard but God has promised
If we, but to him be true
We may all be reunited
In the land beyond the blue.

CULLEN—In loving memory of my brother N. Bruce Cullen, died Sept. 24, 1920.
Just a year ago he left us,
And our hearts are saddened yet,
His place is ever vacant and never can be filled.
We miss him, yes, we miss him,
But Jesus took him home
From every trail and sorrow
Up with Him on high

His life was pure and holy,
While here on earth with us
His Heavenly Father wanted him to fill his place alone.
He knew of all his suffering and took him home at last.
—Sadly missed by Sister Gertrude.

A TORONTO PREACHER IN ST. PAUL'S CHURCH

The Rev. J. Gibson Inkster of Knox Church, Toronto, will occupy St. Paul's pulpit tomorrow at both services. The communion will be observed in the morning. Mr. Inkster's subject in the evening promises to be one of great interest. He will speak on "The Place and Work of the Church in This Age." In view of all the sins which people are laying at the door of the church today and the criticism of Labour particularly of her many failures, it will be interesting to hear what Mr. Inkster has to say as to the real work of the church.

Chiropractic and Acute Cases

Chiropractic Adjustment is not alone confined to the handling of chronic ailments; it plays an important part in the treatment of acute conditions as well.

Statistics of the recent epidemic of influenza through which country passed shows that only 1/8 of 1 per cent. of cases handled by Chiropractors ended fatally.

Chiropractic very successfully handles Acute cases such as Tonsilites, Influenza, La Grippe, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Quinsy, Croup, Pneumonia, Colds, Laryngitis, Pleurisy, Acute Gastritis, Acute Cystitis, etc..

When the temperature rises, the cheeks flush, there is a cough, or chest pains, or perhaps delirum, do not forget that the Chiropractor, who successfully relieved you of some chronic trouble, is just as capable of looking after the acute condition.

He is at your service just as much in your home as in his office.

THE KEY THAT UNLOCKS BOTH DOORS

—the doors of Health and Happiness—yes, and of Prosperity—the master key is Chiropractic. Do you know what it has done for others and what it may do for you?

LOST AND FOUND

The most precious possession a man or woman can have is Health. Health means Happiness, Success and everything worth while in this life. You may have lost your Health, and after having tried everything under the sun except Chiropractic, have failed to find it. The chances are that Chiropractic is just what you need, and that by its means you will recover your lost Health. It's surely worth a trial. The majority of so-called diseases are due to nerve pressure caused by subluxated (displaced) vertebrae (small bones of the spine), which press upon the nerve and prevent the all important life force from flowing uninterruptedly to the various organs. Let the Chiropractor relieve this pressure. The result will be that the nerve force will flow uninterruptedly, normal functioning will be resumed and you will have FOUND your lost Health.

IRELAND FEARED TO BE NEAR A RENEWAL OF HOSTILITIES; BELFAST RIOTING UNCHECKED

PRESS URGES IMMEDIATE ACTION TO AVERT FINAL CATASTROPHE OF BREACH OF TRUCE.

8 DEAD IN BELFAST RIOTS, 57 WOUNDED

United Press.

DUBLIN, September 26. — With Belfast aflame with bitter sectarian warfare and the truce in the south in the balance as a result of clashes between the Crown forces and Sinn Feiners, in Cork, Ireland to-day was feared to be desperately close to the disaster of renewed hostilities on a general scale.

The press urged Lloyd George to hasten his reply to De Valera's letter and set a date for a conference to avert the final catastrophe.

Charges that the constabulary broke the truce in Cork on Sunday were made by the Republican liason officers.

BELFAST, September 26. United Press. — Fierce sporadic fighting between Catholic and Protestant mobs continued throughout the night and early to-day. To-day the military were still trying to disperse the battling factions. Volleys of revolver and rifle fire poured down York street by opposing gunmen shortly after midnight brought out the armoured cars and repeated bursts of machine gun fire cleared the battle area of rioters. No sooner had the Crown forces left the scene than the mobs again came together. Eight deaths, four resulting from a bomb explosion earlier in the night's fighting, and seventy wounded, was the roll of the casualties for the week end.

Two young girls and a boy were wounded by rifle fire early to-day.

Early last night a bomb was thrown into the midst of a Catholic mob which was drawn up opposite a crowd of unionists in Seaford St. It failed to explode and then some one hurled it into the Protestant crowd where it burst with terrible effect, killing four and wounding at least 57.

Fresh rioting occurred shortly before noon to-day, and several more persons were seriously wounded.

Crown forces which had temporarily stopped the sectarian warfare of the early morning were again called out in armoured cars, and were forced to pour machine gun fire into the opposing mobs.

"RIOT ACT" READ IN BELFAST TO-DAY

(United Press.)

BELFAST, September 26. — The Riot Act was read in Belfast's disturbed areas this afternoon for the first time in history.

Reinforcements were rushed to the Ulster capital, and the military and police redoubled their efforts to check the sporadic outbursts of fighting which continued.

EXTENSION FOR A LOCAL ORPHANAGE

VALUABLE PROPERTY PURCHASED IN COBOURG TO RELIEVE CONGESTION.

His Lordship Bishop O'Brien, speaking at St. Peter's Cathedral, yesterday, announced the purchase for the purpose of providing an extension to St. Vincent's Orphanage, of the Sartoris homestead at Cobourg, formerly the summer home of the daughter o the late President Grant of the U.S.A. This is a beautiful property on the lake shore, comprising about ten acres of ground and fine buildings.

St. Vincent's Orphanage has been for some time past, in a congested condition, and a very successful bazaar was held last winter for the purpose of providing funds for an extension or new building. It will be decided later whether the boys or the girls of the present institution will be housed at Cobourg, the others remaining here.

TYPHOID ALONG ST. LAWRENCE OF UNKNOWN ORIGIN

WATER IS PURE AND NO TRACES FOUND IN MILK

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

MONTREAL, Sept. 26.—An outbreak of typhoid fever that is fast verging on an epidemic, is spreading in the south shore and has made its appearance in a few parts of Montreal. Longueile "is full of it" in the words of a resident. Montreal South is no better. Greenfield Park has its share, while in St. Lambert there are at least fifty cases. Fortunately there have been no deaths so far, as the attacks seem to be fairly mild.

Where it started from is a puzzle to the doctors and to the town authorities. Longueile prides itself on its water supply, which has been in first class condition for many years. Tests are made daily by the Provincial Board of Health of the St. Lambert supply and not once has there been a trace of the baccilus to the town authorities. The doctors next turned their attention to the milk supply, but found out that houses supplied by different firms have one or more cases.

One medical man points out, however, that every time there has been a warm dry summer there is an epidemic in the fall. This is brought about by the fact that the small streams dry up and afford a chance for the baccili to multiply. These are washed into the river by the fall rains.

The fact that when the water is tested once a day and no bacilli found does not mean that they are not present at other times. From information secured by the correspondent it appears that the infected area extends for miles down the river. Cases have been reported from Three Rivers and as far west as Chacauguay.

In Longueile there are nine houses on one short street and there are cases in eight of them. In St. Lambert at least one hundred of the whole household, four in number, are down with the disease.

Small children are thought to be immune, but such is not proving to be the case so far.

RALLY SERVICES TRINITY CHURCH

SPECIAL PROGRAMME PROVIDED FOR THE OCCASION

One of the most successful rally day services in the history of Trinity Sunday school was held yesterday. The school hall was filled with members of the school and visitors, all ages being represented. The special programme provided by the departent of religious education, was carried out. Musical numbers were contributed by Mrs. King and Mr. Hodgins, who first organized the Trinity orchestra 23 years ago. Miss Palmer assisted the orchestra which, under the leadership of Mr. Rupert Gliddon, has become the best in the city.

An address to the boys and girls was given by Mr. Adrian Macdonald, M.A., of the Normal school, which was greatly enjoyed by the adults as well. Mr. Macdonald told, in his inimitable way, the old story of David and Goliath, with modern applications, and pointed out how boys and girls to-day can overcome giants to-day.

Bouquets of flowers were given to the oldest and the youngest persons present. Mr. J. H. Taylor and little Master Clifford Roy McDonald, whose parents presented him for baptism at this service, were the recipients.

Trinity Sunday school is flourishing in all its departments, he enthusiasm of both teachers and officers promises progress for the year now entered upon.

On Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock a meeting of all who are interested in the welfare of the school will be held in Reid street hall. A business meeting of the S. S. Board of Management will be held at the close.

Emma Goldman Is Returning

DEPORTED ANARCHIST FINDS NO FREEDOM IN RED RUSSIA

BY EDWIN HULLINGER
(Copyright, 1921, by the United Press)

MOSCOW, September 26. — "I am going back to America — my country," Emma Goldman, anarchist leader, said to-day in an inclusive interview with the United Press.

Huddled over a typewriter, wrapped in shawls in a fireless, cheerless, chilly little hall bedroom, up three flights from a dark back street, I found the "Mother of Anarchism" at work collecting data on the Russian revolution.

"Come in," she greeted me. "I'll give you a message for Americans. Say I'm going back to the United States to find freedom.

"Why here in Russia I'm not even allowed to print Anarchist literature. I'm going to quit the country in November and go to Berlin to attend the International Anarchist Congress. I may remain in Germany temporarily, but eventually I'm returning to America.

"I've scruplously avoided participating in Anarchist activities since I've been here," Emma said, adding archly, with a smile: "You know this Government wouldn't stand for it."

"I will go back to my country to educate the American people," she declared. "I must decline to discuss the present Bolshevik Government, but I'll say this, my sojourn in Russia has in no way changed my views. It has strengthened my objection to government of any kind.

"Yes, I still approve of violence in extreme cases, although not on general principles. It's foolish to fight a government like America with bombs."

The room in which she was busy at work was once used by the famous Anarchist Prince. Across the hall lives Alexander Berkman, who was deported with Emma. He will accompany her to Berlin.

"The Government has treated us well," Emma said. She drew her brown shawl tighter about her and, laughing, worked her arms after the fashion of a Drosky driver warming himself on his box. Before her on a disorderly table were notes of a book on Russia, which the Anarchist leader hopes some day to publish. She said she was now living on food sent her by friends, having temporarily given up her salary of five thousand roubles a month. All the Anarchists who were deported with Emma Goldman and Berkman are working for the Soviet Government, the majority as clerks. They are kept scattered throughout the country.

PRICE INCREASED ON WHISKEY AND ALCOHOL

Ontario Government Dispensaries Make Announcement to This Effect.

Scotch whiskey in Imperial quart bottles will be increased 25c. per bottle at the Ontario government dispensaries, commencing Wednesday, Septeber 28th. An increase of 25c. per bottle will also take place on the same day in the cost of an Imperial quart of 65 o.p. grain alcohol.

During the month of May, when the new duties imposed on liquor by the Dominion Government necessitated an increase being made in the cost of liquors, the Ontario Government Dispensaries advised that the increase in prices then made was only a proportion of the increase that was justified under the increased duties.

ATTORNEYS OF ARBUCKLE BARE PAST OF RAPPE

GATHER DEAD GIRL'S LIFE HISTORY FOR USE IF CASE GOES TO SUPERIOR COURT.

MRS. DELMONT TELLS OF THE FATAL PARTY

(By M. D. TRACY.)
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal. Sept. 26.—Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle faced his "Nemesis" again to-day. When the big movie comedian's hearing on a charge of murdering Miss Virginia Rappe was resumed today, Mrs. Bambina Maude Delmont took the stand to tell the story of the party in Arbuckle's hotel suite on Labor Day which preceded the death of Miss Rappe.

It is Mrs. Delmont who swore to the charge of first degree murder against Arbuckle. She also has told the story of an alleged attack by Arbuckle on Miss Rappe in Arbuckle's room. The testimony of Delmont was regarded as a critical point in the preliminary hearing, now in it fourth day. The refence regards her story as so important that it has gone into her past life and it is understood may bring forard some of the things said to have been learned.

At the coroner's inquest, Mrs. Del mont testified that Arbuckle was in a hotel room alone with Miss Rappe for about an hour; that although she had kicked as hard as she could with her French heels on the door of the room, she got no answer, and that finally she summoned the hotel manager before Fatty opened the door. Although the defence continued to maintain its policy of silence.

It was learned from an authoratative source that Miss Rappe's life history was being gathered, bit by bit, by Arbuckle's attorneys. This covers her career in Chicago, where she was said to have been a model and later to have engaged in theatrical work, also her experiences in New York and in Paris with a woman companion made famous by the "NightieTango" aboard the linwere said to have startled even Paris by their beautiful gowns and their habit of carrying baskets of fruit instead of flowers when they appeared in public.

It was believed that little or none of this information would be employed in the preliminary hearing but would be reserved for use if Arbuckle faces trial in the Superior Court.

PARIS, Sept. 26. — (Canadian Press.)—An attempt was made to assasinate General Joseph Pilsudski, President of Poland, at Lemberg, Galicia, last night, says a despatch received here. Three revolver shots fired at him went wide and the would-be assassin was arrestel.

Rotary Club Plays Role Of Big Brother To Local Boys

The local Rotary Club, in the short time it has been in existence, has done a great deal in its good beginning of a noble work. It has already taken under its particular guardianship the fortunes of six budding citizens who, but for this kindly patronage, might now be housed in Reformatories, where, despite all precautions, many a boy has learned enough of evil to send him out in the world well equipped for a life of crime.

Three boys are working in the city and three in the country. One is twelve years old, one is fourteen, two are sixteen, one seventeen, and one eighteen. The country lads in their trips to town make voluntary visits to Adjutant Bunton, who exercises a certain supervision over their movements. He reports that all are doing well; in fact, exceptional progress has been made in the moral tone of these lads since they were put on the "honour" system upon which Rotary methods are based.

"Rotarians are doing a great work in this way," says the Adjutant. "The boy of to-day is the man of to-morrow, and they are building up the characters of these youths in a way impossible with other methods of correction."

Another pleasing feature of the work is the relief afforded the poor mothers who are freed from a great deal of care and anxiety, and the measure of disgrace attendant on the fact of having a son in jail or in the Reform School.

The attitude of the Rotarians, which is that of a sort of Big Brother to these lads, who feel the quickening of ambition already arising from the incentive of such encouragement, has been justified in the case of the Toronto Club, the members of which opened a savings bank account of one dollar each for 400 boys. Ninety per cent. of that number have added to the initial deposit, and only two per cent. withdrew the money.

Farrow-Conway Nuptials

Under a beautiful floral arch at St. John's church, which was decorated for the occasion with a profusion of asters and ferns, the marriage took place at 1 o'clock to-day of Olive Louise, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Conway, 396 Downie street, to George Martin Farrow, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Y. Farrow, of Collingwood. Rev. Dr. Blagrave performed the ceremony, and Mr. R. J. Devey played the wedding march.

The bride, who entered the church on the arm of her father, wore a beautiful gown of kittens' ear crepe, with garniture of French satin roses and silver lace overdrape. Her large hat was of black panne velvet and silver lace. She wore an ermine neckpiece and carried a bouquet of ophelia roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Grace Conway, was gowned in satin charmeuse of pekin blue, trimmed with silver cloth, with hat of black and silver trimmed with blue ostrich tips, and bouquet of premier roses.

Mr. L. D. Barclay, of Toronto, acted as best man. Ushers were: Messrs. L. E. Conway and H. R. Leaver of Owen Sound and Bruce Mills, of Peterborough.

After the ceremony, a dainty buffet luncheon was served at the home of the bride's parents, which was beautifully decorated for the occasion, the hall in glowing red salvia, the living room in pink asters, and the dining room in the bright tones of pansies and marigolds.

Mr. and Mrs. Farrow left by motor for a short honeymoon trip, the bride travelling in navy suit with hat to match. They will reside in Toronto.

Many beautiful gifts testified to the regard in which the bride is held by her many friends in the city.

Out-of-town guests included the following: Mr. and Mrs. M. Y. Farrow, of Collingwood; Mr. and Mrs. R. Elliott, of Tweed; Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Conway, Brantford; Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Young and Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Sills of Napanee; Mr. and Mrs. R. Conway, of Dundas; Messrs. H. R. Leaver and L. E. Conway, of Owen Sound; Miss Ethel Allin, of Ottawa; Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Fenton, Mr. L. D. Barclay, Miss Grace Conway, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Conway, and Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Common, of Toronto.

CHARGE FRAUDS SAID TO TOTAL OVER $700,000

THREE TORONTO MEN ARRESTED FOLLOWING PROBE OF FAILURE OF METAL FIRM.

FATHER, SON HELD WITH BOOKKEEPER

TORONTO, Sept. 26.— Alleging frauds involving some $700,000, the misappropriation of $7,000 of company funds through theft, and other irregularities, the Toronto police on Saturday afternoon arrested Nathan Brenner, 11 Wells Hill drive, Meyer Brenner, 317 Russell Hill road, son of Nathan Brenner, and Gordon I. Blackford, bookkeeper for the firm of N. Brenner & Company. The firm failed on November 10 last, and investigations which have been proceeding since last May and which culminated a few days ago resulted in the arrest. The details of the investigation, which was made on behalf of Osler Wade & Company, assignees, by Mr. Harry J. Wright, of the firm of Aylesworth, Wright, Thompson & Lawr, and Col. R. H. Greer, K.C., were laid before County Crown Attorney Major Eric Armour, K.C., who ordered the arrests.

Failure Over a Million Reported.

The firm had considerable dealings in new metals during the war, and did much of its business with the Imperial Munitions Board during 1917 and 1918. It is stated that large deals in exchange, principally sterling exchange, were made through sales of metal, and that on a single deal as much as $400,000 profit was netted. The failure is said to have come when metal prices dropped and exchange also went down, causing enormous losses to the firm. The total failure is reported as well over $1,000,000, and the creditors are mainly New York and European firms, only a few scattered creditors residing in Canada. It was upon the initiative of the New York creditors that the investigation was instituted.

When the firm started business it was in a small way, but dealings grew in enormous proportions and a company was formed with an initial capital of $50,000. This was largely increased.

Charges Are Serious.

The specific charges against the three men indict Nathan and Meyer Brenner for conspiracy to defraud creditors, theft of $7,000 in cheques, the property of the company, which were alleged to be diverted to the personal uses of the Brenners; receiving stolen funds and fraud. Blackford is charged with omitting to make entries in the books and with making faise entries.

FINED AT LINDSAY.

LINDSAY, Sept. 26. — Two ball games in which the element of chance dominated were pinched by Inspector Greer on the Exhibition Grounds here. One man, pleading guilty, was assessed, $107.20; the other, in default of paying a similar fine, went to jail for three months.

CAR RECOVERED NEAR TORONTO

POLICE HAVE WARRANT OUT FOR ARREST OF HARRY WARD

G. A. Dunford, expressman and liveryman, Brock and Chambers street, has recovered the Ford car owned by him in which Hary Ward made his get-away from Peterboro, on Sunday evening, September 17th. The only trace of the car that was secured last week, so it is stated, was information that the car had been seen on the Chemong Road. From this it was surmised that he was heading for Lindsay, and the finding of car on the Danforth Road near York, is in Mr. Dunfords opinion corroborating evidence that Ward went through Lindsay.

On Saturday morning Mr. Dunford received a letter from R. W. Phillips Chief Constable of the York Police, stating that a car registered at the Motor Vehicles Department under his name had been found near the corner of Danforth avenue and Richmond Road, west of York, one mile north of Stop 20, on the Kingston Road. Mr. Dunford advised the local police and Inspector Reid of the local police department, wired that Mr. Dunford would go up and get the car.

Mr. Dunford went to Toronto immediately, and that afternoon found the car in the yard of a Mr. Davis, four miles east of York.

Inspection of the car revealed a completely broken front spring, and the tires showed evidences of Ward having driven the car as far as he could with the spring letting the body down. Although he did not see Mr. Davis information given the local police by Chief Constable Phillips' was that the car was found on the side of the road early last week, on Tuesday, Mr. Dunford believed, and Davis finding that the tools were already stolen, had the car run into his yard to stop further marauding till the owner was found. He communicated with the York police and the result was that the car was returned to Mr. Dunford on Saturday afternoon.

A new spring was put in at York, and Mr. Dunford then drove into Torono to see Chief Constable Phillips but found him out. He returned home on Sunday reaching here about 11 a.m. after having had trouble south of Bailieboro, when one of the wheels, which Ward had evidently taken off for some reason, and had replaced without the key and the cone, came off.

To-day the expressman estimated his loss, damages to the car and all, at $75. He held the opinion that Ward went on into Toronto. There was no evidence so far as he could see of the car having been driven particularly fast but there was evidence that Ward had driven it as far as it would go in the condition it was in. It would be an easy matter to get into the city from the Davis farm, Mr. Dunford believed. Ward could have gone down one mile to the Kingston Road or have caught a ride on a passing car going into the city.

Three sections of inner tubes in the back of the auto testified to Ward having had considerable tire trouble. When he got the car there were three good tubes, and these were evidently used when he had punctures or blowouts.

There is a warrant out for the arrest of Harry Ward, charged with the theft of $107 and some odd cents, fom the office of Gray and Smith, Charlotte street, on Sunday afternoon, September 17.. Ward got away from Peterboro in Dunford's car, which he had rented on previous occasions. Ward was working for Gray and Smith and was in charge of the gas oil station Sunday afternoon. He was to stay till after church when Smith would return, and assume charge. Smith left at 5.30 and five minutes later Gerald Dunford was called up by Ward and asked if he could rent a car. Dunford said he had a car and a few minutes later Ward drove away, ostensibly to Port Hope, but now believed to be to Lindsay.

When Smith returned the loss of the money was discovered and Ward is charged with the theft. The police were immediately notified and Ward is being sought throughout Canada and the United States.

EX-SOLDIERS CHRISTEN COMMUNIST GATHERING

LONDON, Sept. 26.— (Canadain Press Cable.)—A Communist leader and orator named Durant, was thrown into a pond, and the town of Chepstow, Monmouthshire, precipitated into a riot last night as a result of a demonstration between Communists and ex-soldiers, who were indignant at the circulation of leaflets announcing the meeting. They routed the Communists.

CONTROL OF LIQUOR TRAFFIC IN DISPUTE

LONDON, Sept. 26.— (Canadian Press Cable.)—Merits and operation of public and private control of the liquor traffic are still vexed questions in England and Scotland. In view of the transfer to the Department of the Home Secretary of the Government controlled liquor trade in the border area of Carlisle, as an experiment, the Mayor of Carlisle suggests that the control should pass to the trustees representing local and governmental authorities. He thinks the profits should first go to a sinking fund and secondly toward reduction of expenses of education, police and public health.

MEN NEARING IDEAL, SAYS A WOMAN LEADER.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—(United Press.)—At last woman has made a man out of man.

The reformation, in progress since the beginning of time, now is accomplished, and man —the majority, of course— has reached the height of perfection.

"And woman did it," Mr. Mary Coleman, attorney and club leader, told the United Press to-day.

"Twenty years ago man spent his nights at the club; 200 years ago he powdered his nose in public and wore silk panties; 2,000 years ago he cut a woman's head off if he didn't like the part in her hair.

"But to-day — he comes home, helps wipe the dinner dishes, and then goes out and pushes the baby carriage around the block.

"He shaves every day and keeps himself neat and trim. Physcially and mentally he is the peer of any past generations.

"The change was brought about by woman. She keeps him at home nights now because she is able to discuss business and politics and he doesn't have to go to the club. She makes him do some of the shopping and be interested in care of the home.

"Why men have nerve enough now to argue with the butcher because theer is too much bone in the steak!

SCHOOL FAIR HELD WARSAW

SPORT EVENTS WELL CONTESTED—LARGE LIST OF ENTRIES

WARSAW, September 26 — The Summer School Fair held at Warsaw was a great success. In previous years the exhibits were placed in the Town Hall, poultry outside the hall, and live stock in the sheds across the road.

This year everything was in one of Mr. Allan U. Payne's fields. The large agricultural tent was erected for the exhibits and a smaller one for a rest tent. The teachers had a booth which was well patronised. The proceeds are to be devoted towards Dummer School Fair Fund. What is left after their year's expenses are paid is to go into the bank in trust to have something to start on next year.

The exhibits of vegetables, grains, seeds, sewing, baking, etc., while not so large as might have been, were good in quality. Mr. McCrae, district representative, was very much pleased. The quality of fowl, etc., was good

The Caledonian Pipe Band was in attendance.

Held a Parade.

The events opened by a parade of four of the schools. Cotessloe represented John Bull, his daughter Canada, and granddaughters (the Provinces). Master John Miles drove a car decorated with maple branches and Union Jacks ;on the right marched Mark Freeburn representing the Army, on the left Newton Stevens representing the Navy. Then came John Bull himself (Master Roy Moore), and behind him the boys and girls, each pair wearing the name of the Provinces. Miss McGie is their teacher.

No. 6 Douro, came next, looking very pretty with their red, white and blue sashes and flags. Miss Sanderson is their teacher.

Hall's Glen School came next. They wore no fancy costumes, but it was a pleasure to see them. They marched so very well and carried themselves so well, were well trained, looking neither to the right nor to the left. Mr. Clark deserves great credit.

Warsaw School brought up the rear. The boys were elfs and the girls fairies. Miss Barrie had gone to an immense amount of work to prepare the costumes.

The whole parade was exceedingly pretty, and considerable ingenuity was displayed by the teachers who had schools in costume, as there was a ruling against a greater outlay than $1.50.

A large number of pupils entered the singing contest. All did well, but the prize-winners were: 1st, Eunice Morrow ;2nd, Ada Summerfield; 3rd, Della Tucker.

Speaking Contest.

For the sports the contests and prizes were as follow:

Boys, 8 and under—1 C. Payne, 2 H. Darling, 3 A. Bowen, 4 S. Nides, 5 —. Tedford.

Boys, 12 and under—1 R. Darling, 2 A. Thompson, 3 H. Rae, 4 Thompson McMurray, 6 A. Crowe.

Girls, 12 and under—1 W. Bullock, 2 L. Lee, 3 R. Freeburn, 4 E. McMurray, 5 L. Miller, 6 E. Sharp.

Girls over 12—1 I. Edward, 2 I. Bowen, 3 M. Parcel, 4 V. McQuaig, 5 E. Morrow, 6 M. Leahy.

Boys over 12—1 —, Crowe, 2 N.

SEASON AT STONEY LAKE NOW ENDED

A FEW COTTAGERS, HOWEVER, REMAIN TO ENJOY GLORIOUS FALL WEATHER.

STONEY LAKE, Sept. 26.—The season at Stoney Lake is over, or very nearly so, for the year 1921, and it will remain a happy memory to many new people who found and enjoyed for the first time the little chain of lakes. All the way from Lakefield there were signs of campers and holiday makers in July and August. On the little wooded island opposite the Lakefield dock a very workmanlike camp bespoke happy mornings and pleasant evenings, which began and ended days of hard work.

Strickland's Point was adorned with an attractive looking camp, which was the occasion of many a flattering remark by passers-by on steamers.

On the third island a camp remained all summer, looking most inviting from the deck of the steamrr.

Cottages begin with the first island, and each year or so a new one springs up along the shore of Lake Katchewanoonka, making it more and more the summer playground for which nature intended it.

Henderson's narrows was a regular centre all summer, as both small cottages were occupied, and the view from the steamer was always one of good times. The cottagers were always happy and enjoying the outdoors. Campers above the Narrows were numerous all season.

Clear Lake, with its live community at Kawartha Park, has become more and more a popular centre, and more than one has predicted for Kawartha in the future the position of importance so long enjoyed by Juniper.

Now, as the beautiful month of September is "wearin' awa'," even the Park looks lonely, and deserted. Mr. Charlton has closed the store and pavilion and migrated south. A few brave spirits still remain, and Mrs. H. G. Fitzgerald, at "Clear Lake Villa," and Mrs. G. G. Connell, at "Woodside," are among the last of the cottagers.

Further up it is the same. McCracken's Landing P. O. and store is closed, and Mr. and Mrs. Choate have returned to Warsaw. Juniper remains open still, and Mr. Ianson will remain at "Viamede" until the beginning of October. Mount Julian and Burleigh Falls are all winter centres. Mr. and Mrs. Lennox remain at "Belvidere" until the early part of October, and rumor said that Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Lowe, at "Glenwood," would remain till after the hunting season. Mr. Lillico plans to remain at Juniper till November.

Last week saw a big exodus of the cottagers, and the down boat was loaded with passengers and their effects, which included family pets which travel in more or less comfort. One small damsel transported two pet kittens in a fruit basket, covered with mosquito netting. A large cat made the trip in an egg crate, and howled all the way down. Bird cages are frequently transported up and down, also dogs of every breed, from the tiny pom. to the great Newfoundland.

The few who still remain to enjoy the wonderful weather which is so common in late September and October, claim that theirs is the better part for, which the mornings and evenings are often chilly, the days are glorious, and the big fireplaces, with lots of fuel to keep it going, makes the cool weather rather a joy than otherwise.

TELEGRAPH AND CABLE NEWS

GOOD DEBENTURE SALE.

CORNWALL, Ont., Sept. 26. — (Canadian Press.)— The committee of the counties council of the United Counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry have disposed of $350,000 of counties debentures to the United Financial Corporation of Toronto and Montreal, for 99.62. In all, six bids were received. The money will be used in connection with the good roads scheme in the three counties.

CREAMERY BUTTER PRICES.

FARNHAM, Que., Sept. 26. — (Canadian Press.)—At the meeting of the eastern townships dairymen's exchange, nine factories offered 403 packages of creamery butter, and all sold at 35 1-8 cents a pound, which price shows a decline of 3-8 cents per pound, as compared with a week ago.

PREDICT ANXIOUS TIME.

LONDON, Sept. 26.— (Canadian Press Cable.)—Reuter's correspondent at Melbourne says the newspapers there predict an anxious time for the Australian Federal government during the coming parliamentary session. The country, say the newspapers, demands that a stop be put to the alleged extravagance and that the ministry shall be re-constructed.

MONTREAL TRAMWAYS REPORT.

MONTREAL, Sept. 26.— (Canadian Press.)—The annual statement of the Montreal Tramways Company for year to June 30th last, appeared Saturday and shows gross earnings at $11,773,004 against $10,782,470 for the previous twelve months, the increase being 9 per cent. Operating expenses totalled $8,904,337 against $8,087,076, an increase of 10 per cent. Net earnings were $2,868,667 against $2,695,394, an increase of 6.40 per cent.

BUTTER PRICES.

ST. HYACINTHE, Que., Sept. 26.—Canadian Press.) —The offerings on the Board were 200 packages creamery butter and 400 boxes of cheese. The butter sold at 33 1-2 cents per pound, showing a decline of 2c. per pound and cheese brought 13c. per pound, or 1 1-2c. per pound lower than the previous sale.

LONDON, Sept. 26.—(Canadian Press). — A Reuter despatch from Simla, India, reports that on Sir Vithaldes Thackersey's motion, the Legislative Assembly passed a resolution recommending the Government to instruct the High Commissioner in London to purchase Indian stores in the cheapest market, consistent with the requisite quality being obtained.

A PRESENTATION.

OTTAWA, Sept. 26. — (Canadian Press).—Joseph Caron, M.L.A. for Hull, in the Quebec Legislature, and Mrs. Caron were the recipients on Saturday night of a silver tea service, the gift of relatives in Ottawa and Montreal, on the occasion of the 25th anniversary of their wedding.

THE MONTREAL MARKET.

MONTREAL, Sept. 26.—(Canadian Press).—Saturday's trading in the cash grain market showed no change. The undertone to the flour market was easy. There is a weaker feeling in the mill feed situation, and a fair trade passing in rolled oats. The egg market was featured by a stronger feeling for strictly new-laid. The butter and cheese markets are both weaker.

THE LIVE STOCK QUESTION.

CALGARY, Sept. 26.—(Canadian Press).—In the best judgment of the officials of the United Grain Growers, the quantity of portable cattle in Alberta, as stated recently in eastern despatches, is exaggerated. This was the statement made here by E. S. McRory, manager of the Western Division of the company.

MUSICIANS BARRED OUT.

LONDON, Sept. 26. — (Canadian Press).—Surprise is expressed at the alleged barring of an English orchestral musician from appearing in Canada by order of the American Federation of Musicians, controlled from New York.

The case has arisen in connection with the forthcoming presentation of the Revue by an all-English company from England. The producer proposed taking a member of the recognized English musical trade union as musical director, but he now learns that this is impossible, because as members of the American Federation, the Canadian instrumentalists cannot play with a non-memebr.

The producer has indignantly cabled Premier Meighen, asking whether he proposes to allow a British subject to be flung out of work because he is not allowed to play in a British Dominion by an American body.

APPEALS TO PEACE LEAGUE.

LONDON, Sept. 26. — (Canadian Press).—A Reuter cable from Johannesburg, South Africa, dated September 23, says the National Union of Railway and Harbor Servants, which recently protested to Premier Smuts against the railway administration's proposed modification of the 8-hour day rule as not in accordance with the peace treaty, has now sent a letter to the Labor Office of the League of Nations, protesting against the selection of the South African delegates, Messrs. Archibald and Crawford, and Mrs. Fitzgerald, on the ground that the union, representing 80,000 workers, had not been consulted.

SEE HIGHER FUR PRICES.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—(Canadian Press).—With a grand sales total of $3,265,000, the annual fall auction in the Masonic Hall here came to a close Saturday night. Racoon and squirrel had all the better of it, so far as bidding was concerned. Both brought very good prices, which particularly showed the strength of squirrel.

According to buyers' comments, the so-called fancy furs did especially well for the most part throughout the entire auction, and the withdrawels of these pelts from the warehouses of the sales corporation have been particularly active. This is taken here to presage short stocks in the hands of the dealers and manufacturers, and probably higher prices. The next sale will be held here in January.

HONOR DEAD SINN FEINERS

DUBLIN, Sept. 26.—(Canadian Press.)—A funeral procesion nine miles long, composed of 20,000 people, including 2,000 Irish Volunteers, Sunday escorted the bodies of William Riordan and Thomas Howard to the Republican burial plot at Ballyanders. The bodies of the volunteers were disinterred at Hebertstown Saturday. The coffins were draped with Republican flags. Twenty priests were present.

EIGHT DROWNED IN A STORM ON LAKE SUPERIOR

BERRY PICKERS' SAIL BOAT FOUND IN INVESTIGATION OF DISAPPEARANCE.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., September 26. — Canadian Press. — Eight persons lost their lives in a squall that swept over Lake Superior two weeks ago, it became known last night, when the disappearance of a party of berry pickers was reported to the authorities here by Adam Lewis, a party of whose relatives set out in a sailboat from Shell Drake, north of here, for Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario. Investigation showed that the sailboat capsized about a mile off the beach between here and Shell Drake. The victims were Mr. and Mrs. John Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Simon Lewis, George Field and three children.

Harry Brooks, a lumber camp worker, declared he saw the craft in trouble about five miles north of here. It labored for some time in the heavy sea, he said, and finally turned over.

Adam Lewis, in reporting the disappearance of his relatives, who lived on the Indian Reservation, at Garden River, 10 miles from Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., said that he had not worried about their continued absence until a few days ago.

SAVED AFTER THREE DAYS IN LIFEBOATS

SURVIVORS OF WRECKED ITALIAN SHIPS REACH NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—(Canadian Press).—Rescued after spending three and a half days in two small boats on the open sea when their ship, the Italian ferighter Alacrita, foundered in a terrific hurricane, Captain Giuseppe Schiaffino and his crew of 29 men arrived yesterday, none the worse for their experience, on the Spanish cargo boat Cabo Creux.

On September 16, the Alacrita encountered the hurricane which fairly engulfed the ship and threw her into the trough of the seas. In the mountainous waves her rudder was disabled and she became unmanageable. Then her cargo of grain shifted. This caused the ship to list heavily, throwing her into a position where the waves tore off the hatches and water poured into her holds. After eight hours the storm abated, but the ship already was sinking rapidly. At dawn on the morning of September 17, the crew put off in two small boats, hastily provisioned with a scant supply of bread and water, just a moment before the ship took her final plunge.

For more than three days, the crew, drenched and hungry, took turns at the oars. At noon of the fourth day the Cabo Creux hove into sight and picked them up six miles north of where the Alacrita sank.

The Alacrita, of 1,690 tons registry, was bound from New Orleans and Norfolk for Barcelona. The Cabo Creux sailed from Seville for New York. Both ships were on the South Atlantic course. The hurricane was reported by trans-Atlantic liners which arrived here as one of the worst in years.

MEANEST MAN IN WORLD.

SARANAC LAKE, N.Y., Sept. 22. —(United Press).—Announce to the listening hemispheres that the "meanest man" has been at work in the Adirondacks. Allen Scvey, so hopelessly crippled that he has to be moved about in a wheel chair, was the victim. He recently asked a man at Tupper Lake hotel to take his purse, containing $147, all the funds he possessed, to the hotel office for safe keeping. The acquaintance took the roll and faded quickly into the forest primeval.

SINN FEIN REPORTS A RENEWAL OF STATE PREVIOUS TO TRUCE

ALLEGES ROUGH TREATMENT OF IRISH BY BRITISH CONSTABULARY.

CORK PROTESTS ON INTERNMENT CAMPS

CORK, Sept. 26. — (Canadian Press).—According to reports made by Republican Liasion officers, incidents occurred Saturday night and early yesterday morning, reminiscent of the conditions which prevailed prior to the signing of the truce.

A party of citizens returning from a social gathering are reported to have been halted in McCurtain Street and roughly treated by members of the British constabulary. The women of the party, terrified, fled from the scene. At the same hour, according to the reports, a police patrol of five men was accosted on St. Patrick's Bridge by a large patrol of British police.

The Republicans are alleged to have been questioned and called "Irish swine," and assaulted with batons and revolver butts. One man was stabbed in the arm with a bayonet, necessitating treatment in a hospital.

NEW RIOTING.

BELFAST, Sept. 26. — (Canadian Press). — One man was shot and killed and a woman wounded during the rioting in the Newtonards Road district in East Belfast Saturday afternoon. During the rioting an attack was made on a public house in Cambrai Street, North Belfast, and its contents looted. Later the house was burned.

Parties of armed and masked men raided the homes of J. Whittaker, general manager of the Castlecomer-Kilkenny coal mines, where a strike is in progress, and J. Hargreaves, manager of the mines. Both Whittaker and Hargreaves were taken away, and their whereabouts is unknown.

CORK PROTESTS.

CORK, Sept. 26.—The Cork City Council has decided to forward to the Irish Government in Dublin a statement from the commandant at Spike Island, regarding the alleged severity of the treatment of Sinn Feiners interned there.

According to the statement, which was read to the City Council, interned men who were severely disciplined for singing in their huts at night, continued their singing Wednesday night as a protest against the order to them to desist.

The statement said that several armed soldiers entered huts at 11 o'clock at night and beat the interned men with rifle butts and stabbed several of them with bayonets. The soldiers stripped the huts of all beds, tables and other conveniences. The next morning the interned men refused to parade or work, whereupon the military authorities locked the doors of the huts. The interned men retaliated by taking down the doors and burning them, and otherwise wrecking the huts.

The statement added that the wrecking would continue until the demands of the interned men are granted. In the statement a list of 28 cases where severe beatings were administered is chronicled. The Lord Mayor of Cork, commenting upon the statement, said it illustrated the spirit actuating the British toward the truce.

A LIBERAL RALLY.

SHERBROOKE, Que., Sept. 26.—(Canadian Press).—A Liberal rally will be held at Richmond to-day, when it is practically certain that E. W. Tobin will again be nominated the Liberal candidate.

Contrary to rumors, it is stated now on good authority that Hon. Walter Mitchell, Provincial Treasurer, will not enter the Federal field.

MOVE TO UNIFY R.C. LABOR MEN

EXPECTED TO BE LAUNCHED AT CONVENTION IN HULL THIS WEEK

OTTAWA, September 26.. Canadian Press. — The delegates to the National Catholic Union Convention were warmly welcomed to Hull by Mayor Louis Cousineau, Alderman Taylor, and members of the clergy at the Hull City Hall, Sunday afternoon. His Worship, welcoming the delegates, asserted that they were the forerunners of peace between capital and labor and he hoped that the deliberations during the next three days would further increase the prestige of the National Catholic unions.

Mayor Cousineau told the delegates that the attitude of conciliation mediation, which is a strong plank in the organization's platform in the matter of wages and hours, has won high respect for the national movement. He assured all that capital no longer regards the employee as a slave and this change could be attributed to the sane method employed by the N.C.U. in its efforts to settle in an amicable manner all labor questions.

Rev. Father Carriers of St. Redempteur Church, and Alderman J. F. Taylor, also added words of welcome, and the reply on behalf of the delegates, was made by Mr. Achille Morin, national president of the N. C. U.

The delegates are mostly from Montreal and Quebec. The delegates registered Saturday night and on Sunday morning attended a pontifical mass in Notre Dame church, Hull, the celebrant being Archbishop Mathieu, of Regina, who was assisted by Mgr. Brunet of Montreal, and Abbe M. Fortin, of Quebec.

A business session was opened in Notre Dame Hall to-night. The task of striking committees was proceeded with and the slate will be announced to-morrow.

It is expected that a movement with unification with all Catholic Labor Organizations, will be launched during the convention. So far the National Catholic Union is composed almost exclusively of French-Canadians, and it is believed that the present leaders will endeavour to bring in a larger representation of workers in provinces other than Quebec.

CHOOSING CANDIDATES.

As it is evident that Canada's next Parliament will be composed of at least three fairly large groups, and perhaps several other smaller ones, the personality of the members becomes a more important matter than in the days of two-party government when the members simply followed the instrutions of the whips, and voted with machine like unanimity. There will be need of strong men in the House during the next Parliament and the various parties in choosing their standard bearers will be doing a real service to the nation if they investigate the merits of the standard-bearers more closely than hitherto has been the custom. In some of the ridings a nomination by one particular party is as good as an election and in such constituencies there should be especial care taken to see that the best possible candidates are named. The exigencies of the campaign sometimes precludes this being done in close ridings where the man who has the best chance to win has to be selected, although there may be other aspirants less popular but impossible, but in the safe constituencies there is no justification for failing to nominate the man most capable of good service.

UNEMPLOYMENT.

Some municipalities are planning to meet the unemployment crisis during the winter by proceeding with a programme of public works, sewer construction and other municipal work of the same kind. It is recognized of course that these enterprises could be more cheaply carried out in the regular season for outdoor wok, but municipalities who have decided upon this cause have come to the conclusion that by thus providing work and doing away with the payment of relief doles, they are just as well off financially, and they have the satisfaction of knowing they are not pauperizing the unemployed. The average man would rather haev an opportunity to work than to receive a charity dole, and the others who prefer getting something for nothing should not be considered in the problem at all. The local council has so far come to no definite conclusion as to the policy to be adopted here during the coming winter. Little time should be lost in discussing the situation, for cold weather is just around the corner and day by day the crisis is developing.

A NEW VIEW OF LIFE INSURANCE

Life Insurance as a means of creating an estate to care for one's dependents, business or other interests is the common and perhaps only conception most people have of it.

This is the side of the subject presented to the people through the good work of the agents and the advertising of the companies. That its place in the life of the individual is recognized is shown by the fact that one thousand persons a day in Canada either isure their lives for the first time or add to their insurance.

But there is another side of the life insurance business which in many respects is of as great service to the country as the annual distribution of fifty or sixty million dollars in death claims and matured policies, —that is the companies investments. All their investable asset are in government securities, agriculture, transportation, industrial and other enterprises that go to develope Canada and make it a better place in which to live.

Each security the companies hold, amounting to some seven million dollars, is an evidence of some constructive work in the interests of Canada.

Over forty-five per cent of it is in government and municipal bonds and is building bridges, laying good roads and sewers, building schools and public edifices; establishing justice, law and order in the land.

Another forty per cent invested in farm mortgages, loans and in industry is supplyig the funds for the development of Canada's great potential wealth. The thing which Canada needs most is money in long term investments to develop it. The people through their savings in life insurance are providing a very large part of this money.

In railroads, telephones, other public utilities and industry the same thing applies. The companies have invested millions of dollars making for the prosperity and comfort of Canadians.

From the policyholders wages or salary his life insurance premiums are paid; these, when turned into the companies, are immediately set at work. From mortality tables the companies are able to tell practically what their payments to policyholders and beneficiaries will be and after providing for that, they can invest the balance undisturbed. It has bee pointed out that the banks provide the money for day to day business while the insurance companies invest in long term investments that build. Both equally important to the welfare of the country.

The stability of life insurance is shown in the fact that never in its history in Canada has a policy-holder ever lost a dollar through the failure of any company, while the good it is doing in providing money to "carry on" after the death of the bread-winner as well as furnishing funds for the development of Canada's potential wealth is beyond the most vivid imagination.

Life Insurance is one of Canada's great institutions as it has become so closely linked up with the lives and welfare of her people and the companies are wise in their decision to bring their value to the country before the people by means of a campaign of national advertising.

WASTEFUL SELLING AND BUYING.

It is a distinct reproach to our prudence that for each dollar's worth of practically all food we buy —certainly all food that comes from the farms — forty-nine cents goes to pay the cost of service. A committee of Congress has worked out the facts for the United States, and it can scarcely be doubted that the same thing is true in Canada. Under the comprehensive term "service" are included packing, transportation, grading, insurance, selling, advertising, rent, display, wages and overhead; yet those who are in the business declare that this obviously excessive addition to the price paid to the producer is due entirely to the demands of consumers, who want things when they want them, and insist in having them in a certain way. But in another form, the primary producer gets 37 cents, service costs 49 cents, and 14 cents pays the profits of the agents of distribution.

A considerable proportion of the middlemen's profits are unavoidable, but one cannot face a fact like a difference of over 170 per cent. between the price paid to the producer and the price charged to the consumer without feeling that there is something very wrong with our preseut system of distribution. Some of the links must be getting an undue share. It is also clear that the parties directly concerned are too far apart ,and the aim of all who are trying to get the cost of living permanently and radically reduced, should be to bring them nearer to each other. The actual distance which seperates them has little or nothing to do with the matter. For example, the market price of a dozen of eggs in Ottawa is precisely the same whether the eggs come from a farm two miles out or from some point three hundred miles away. The word "market' has no local significance whatever so far as prices are concerned, since the latter are fixed by condiitons as to supply and demand over practically the whole country, speaking broadly.

Here is a fine field for the demonstration of practical organization and practical co-operation. Obviously producers and consumers are vitally concerned in any practicable plan to that end. If the service cost of 49 ents on each dollars' worth of food stuffs could be reduced to, say, 25 cents, it would pay to give the producer half of the difference, since there would still be a saving of 12 cents to the consumer. An increase of over 32 per cent. in the farmer's price would undoubtedly make a material difference in the results to him for the year on his total operations. To know the facts of the case may be what correct diagnosis is to the doctor—the first step toward a rational remedy.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES

What some candidates imagine is a call to duty sometimes is only the love of sessional indemnities.

According to U.F.O. leaders a Farmer nomination to a rural riding is a free pass to Ottawa.

Jimmy Simpson is to be a Labour candidate in the Dominion elections. The well known James has run as often as Tommy Church, but lacks the speed of Toronto's Chief Magistrate.

It is announced that Alma Gluck is going to Europe to sleep, but the Peterboro Examiner suggests that she try Belleville. Strange how these bush towns envy Belleville's good hotels and quiet orderly nights. Perhaps Alma is going to Europe to get her name sandpapered and set to music.—Belleville Intelligencer.

ELECTION NEWS

QUEBEC, Que., Sept. 26.—(Canadian Press.)—That the Meighen government would secure a majority over the Liberals and Farmers, and that if it did not get an absolute majority over both these parties there would be a group who would amply suffice to control the situation, was the statement of Hon. W. G. Belley, K.M.C., postmaster-general in the Meighen administration and represenative of the district of Quebec in the cabinet, who arrived here Saturday afternoon from Ottawa.

Mr. Belley states that the Premier asked him if he could give him five seats in the province of Quebec and remarked that with that number in Quebec the Government was safe. "I answered that the province of Quebec could do better than that and would do as well as in 19111 when the province gave 23 seats to the Conservative government.

Hoe, Mr. Belley contended that the political situations are the same now as they were in 1911. The tariff issue was the same and on this question the Conservatives had always won a great victory. We have three months for the campaigns, he said, and that is ample time to assure the triumph of our cause.

SYDNEY, N.S., Sept. 26.—(Canadian Press staff correspondent.) — Citizens of Moncton, N.B., Amherst, N.S., and Truro, N.S., turned out in great numbers to welcome Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, leader of the Liberal party, on his arrival at those cities en route to Sydney, members of King's party stated on arrival here Saturday.

Addressing the crowds in both cities for the few moments while the train remained at the station, Mr. King made a strong appeal to the people of Nova Scotia to support the Liberal candidates and assure the return of the Liberal administration which had brought to Canada fifteen years of prosperity from 1896 to 1911. The Laurier-Fielding tariff had injured no legitimate manufacturers, Mr. King claimed, but on the other hand it had been equally just to both manufacturer and consumer. If the Liberal party were returning to power, as he was sure it would be, Canada would be assured that tariff matters would be based on the council of that worthy son of Nova Scotia, Hon. W. S. Fielding, whose tariff policy had brought about the opening of factories which were closed or closing down when the Liberals assumed office in 1896.

Mr. King criticized the Meighen government for what he said were autocratic actions. Among those he classed the premier's delay in announcing dissolution. If dissolution were announced and the merchants and others were informed of the date of the coming election, said Mr. King, they could arrange their business to take advantage of the settling down of things which would be sure to follow. As it was, Mr. Meighen quite apparently had decided on the exact date when the election would be held, but he refused to concede to the people of Canada their undoubted right to that information.

FORBIDDEN

By KATHARINE MOORE

Author of "Love"

Chapt r 72.

I rushed down the hall from Nancy's room to tell Kent and Tom what I had discovered. Before I could reach the living room the front door bell rang. I stopped to answer it.

Two men were standing in the hall They jerked their hats off simultaneously as I opened the door and informed me that they were detectives from the police department.

"Oh, Yes!" I exclaimed. "Come right in—but we have found the boy—I should have let you know at once only I've been so excited and overjoyed."

Their every look and manner evidenced their profession instantly. I watched their sidelong glances and restless attitude and expected them to suddenly unearth some evidence or clue from behind a chair or a picture. But they knew their business and quickly jumped into pertinent solutions which it had taken me all this time only to begin to suspect.

Tom Barney told them every detail of just how he had found Kent, Jr. Then I went back and explained how the boy had been left with Nancy while we were away for the day.

"How many servants do you employ?" one of the detectives interrogated.

"One", I told him.

"Is she here now?" he asked.

"No—I sent her out to try to find the boy," I explained. I regretted the action, and felt decidedly sheepish at having to confess my stupidity

The man grunted, and then asked to see her room.

I took them down the hall and into Nancy's room. I showed them how I had found her suitcase packed, and of how I had discovered her apparently ready to leave when I had come home so unexpjectedly.

I tried to explain to them of how my suspicions had only been aroused just now after I had sent Nancy out to hunt for Kent, and had then gone to her room and discovered the suit case.

I am sure they thought lightly of my dexterity for they turned their backs upon me and started ransacking Nancy's belongings, turning the contents of the suitcase out upon the bed.

As I saw the few articles of clothing spread out upon the bed I realized at once that that was not all of Nancy's belongings. I was just on the point of suggesting this to them. I wanted to prove to them that my brain was not all fossil, and that I knew at once that Nancy's departure must have been meditated, and arranged for. But before I had a chance to speak, one of the detectives turned to me quickly.

"Have you noticed your maid carrying bundles of any sort out of the house lately?" he asked.

"No—I haven't," I answered. Their conclusions had been more rapid than mine.

"How long has this maid been in your employ?" he questioned further.

"Oh— months—about— eight," I said slowly as I counted the time up on my fingers.

He grunted again, but did not offer to explain any of his theories or speculations on the subject. As far as I could see they were not able to find anything illuminating among Nancy's belongings. Undoubtedly she had been careful of that.

Then Tom Barney came down the hall and told me that Kent Jr., was getting restless. I knew it was long past his bed time and I hurried to him. Now that I had my boy back I hardly cared what became of Nancy.

I heard Kent and Tom talking to the detectives in the hall. Once Kent came to the nursery door and asked me to give him the name and address of our laundress, and then I forgot about them and rested my head down on the pillow along side of Kent, Jr.'s golden curls. Soon his slow, regular breathing told me that sleep had claimed his precious tired little body.

The New Way to End Corns

The Scientific Method
Easy, Gentle, Quick and Sure

A famous chemist, some years ago, discovered a way to end corns. A surgical dressing house of world-wide repute adopted and produced it.

Millions of people use this instant relief and quickly rid themselves of throbbing corns.

The method is Blue-jay—liquid or plaster. One applies it by a touch. The pain stops instantly, and the whole corn quickly loosens and comes out.

Old, harsh methods are supplanted by it. So with corn pads, so with paring. All such ways are folly.

Try Blue-jay on one corn now and see. You will be delighted.

BANNER YEAR FOR STIRLING FALL FAIR

IDEAL WEATHER, BIG ATTENDANCE AND SPLENDID EXHIBITS COMBINE IN MAKING THIS EVENT A HUGE SUCCESS.

LENA RIVER A WINNERS

Favoured with ideal weather, the two days' Fall Fair at Stirling, which closed Friday night, September 23rd, marked a record in the history of the Agricultural Society, both in attendance and exhibits. Upwards of 4,000 people paid admission to an exhibition which reflected exceeding credit on the directors and exhibitors, while the number of entries totalled 1,500 as against 800 last year.

The Exhibits.

The exhibits also excelled in quality any heretofore shown in Stirling, and included heavy horses, light horses, cattle, sheep, swine, poultry, dairy products, orchard fruits, vegetables, roots, grain, domestic products and cookery, ladies' useful and fancy work and fine art. In the latter case a special feature open to high and continuation school pupils was much appreciated. The special premium list was commendably generous, and eight cheese factories entered the extra special class.

Lena Rivers Won.

The two speeding in the ring events—a free-for-all and 2.40 class, were keenly contested—and "Lena Rivers," owned by A. Ferguson, of Best's Station, won first place in the free-for-all race.

Sweet Melody.

Among the special attractions, Everett Stevens, of Belleville, contributed a programme of violin numbers which for versatile skill, sweet melody and arresting expression, won for him unstinted response.

Spirit of Progress.

With abundance of material in this district from which to select exhibits of nature's bounties, the irrepressible will of an energetic directorate of Stirling's Agricultural Society to advance their annual Fall Fair each year, together with wholehearted community co-operation, this year's endeavors have resulted in that quality of all-round success which demonstrates a commendable spirit of public enterprise and progress.

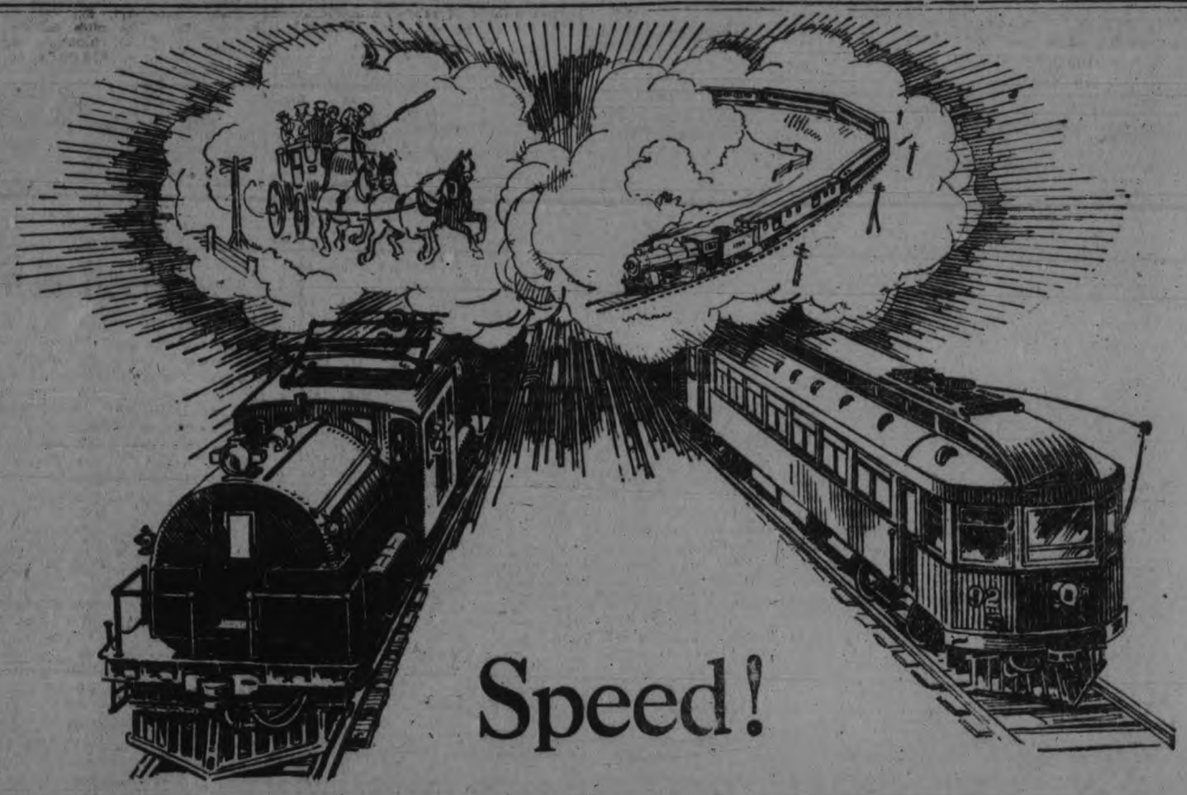
PERMANENT PACIFIC CONFERENCE IS URGED

SYDNEY, N.S.W., Sept. 26. — (Associated Press.)—Establishment of a permanent Pacific conference and an island federation was urged recently by Dr. Radford, Bishop of Goulburn, in an address before the Governor General, the admiral commanding the Australian fleet and other distinguished persons.

Dr. Radford said a standing Pacific conference should include all powers having possessions in the Pacific Ocean—the British Empire, United States, Japan, France and China—and perhaps Holland and India. As a nucleus for united and solid action, he proposed a triple alliance of Great Britain, the United States and Japan.

Federation Groups.

He proposed that a federation be formed of the groups of the Pacific islands which are now under mandates to Australia and New Zealand, or are colonies of Great Britain. These islands would all have representatives in a federal council in which Australia, New Zealand and Great Britain also would be represented. Ultimately, he thought, Great Britain might find it desirable to withdraw from direct representation in this council and entrust the task of maintaining the prestige of the British Empire in the Pacific entirely to Australia and New Zealand.



Man's yearning for speed and efficiency in transportation has resulted in many changes.

The stage coach gave way to the steam railway; the horse car was succeeded by the electric tram. The present age is becoming more and more one of electricity in rapid transit.

Many years of research, coupled with supreme manufacturing skill, have produced the modern traction motor for street car and electric locomotive.

Controllers, storage batteries, switches, electric couplers do their part. Behind the power-bearing wires are whirring generators, alternators, static transformers, rotary converters—a mass of apparatus.

The experience and technical resources of the English Electric Company, Limited, of Great Britain, gained during many years in installing complete tramway and electric railroad systems the world over, is placed unreservedly at the disposal of its Canadian associate, the English Electric Company of Canada, Limited.

ITALY CLAIMS A FIRST PLACE AMONG POWERS

PROTESTS AT BEING RANKED IN SECOND CATEGORY BY NATIONS LEAGUE—PRESS SAYS AFFAIR IS EXCEPTIONALLY UNPLEASANT

NATIONAL PRIDE HURT

ROME, Sept. 24. — (Associated Press.)—Much indignation has been aroused in Italy by the proposal that, in determining the expenses of the League of Nations, Italy should be assigned to the second category.

The Italian's national pride has been hurt by the suggestion and columns have appeared in the press protesting against the idea of relegating the country to a position inferior to other great powers. According to the suggestion, Great Britain and France would be placed in the first category while Italy and Japan would occupy the second. The price of being registered in the first category is 2,300,000 francs a year, while those of the second pay but 1,600,000 francs a year.

Affair Unpleasant.

The Epoca gave expression to its feelings in this manner:

"The affair is exceptionally unpleasant. Italy which has so potentially contributed to the victory cannot see herself assigned to the second category, as people who spend little are assigned to a restaurant of the second class."

Then, too, the fact that most of the organization and secretaryships of the League are in the hands of the British constitutes another source of complaint. It is pointed out that the secretariat of the league consists of 170 members, of whom 90 are English and 50 French, while Italy has no more than a dozen.

Italy Second.

"After France and England have monopolized nearly all the offices, after the British Empire has succeeded in having seven votes in the assembly, it could not happen otherwise than Italy is assigned in the second category," says one commentator. "If others have a greater material potentiality, it is at least necessary that Italy safeguard her moral position by not allowing herself an inferoir position to the others."

OSKALOOSA IS SAFE

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Sept. 26.—The United States Shipping Board steamer Oskaloosa, Antwerp for Boston, previously reported in distress, arrived here yesterday and will remain for several days for repairs to her engines.

Th Shipping Board steamer Isanti, from Fowey, put in here short of water. She will resume her voyage to Philadelphia to-morrow.

FIRE-SWEPT SHIP SAFE.

LONDON, Sept. 26. — (Canadian Press).—A Reuter cable from Cape Town says the Commonwealth and Dominion liner, Port Augusta, on which a serious fire broke out last week in the South Atlantic, has arrived and berthed there in order that the fire can be dealt with. The fire started in the bunkers containing coal loaded at New York and Rotterdam, and it is believed that the Continental coal was responsible.

The stokers had an arduous experience working in shifts of six hours, with six hours off, amid terrible conditions. Smoke and sulphur fumes spread almost all over the ship, and the crew was driven out of the forecastle. The cargo is a valuable one, and the holds which were ablaze contain a number of motor cars and agricultural implements.

CLEAN UP HULL.

OTTAWA, Sept. 26. — (Canadian Press).—The Ottawa Journal this morning says:

"The long-anticipated clean-up in Hull will be started this week. It is learned that orders have been sent from the Quebec Attorney-General's Department to wipe out the 'blind pigs' in Hull. To this end the hand of the collector of revenue, Rev. J. T. Purcell, has been strengthened by two additions to his staff. Bailiff Alphonse Mousette, and ex-Chief of Police Joseph Groulx, have been appointed liquor inspectors. Flying squads of Provincial detectives will do the actual raiding, while the work will be directed by Mr. Purcell, assisted by Messrs. Mousette and Groulx. A conservative estimate places the number of whiskey dens in Hull at 100. On one street, Wellington, there are eleven places within one block where those 'in the know' may purchase 'liquid fire.' "

NEW YORK AHEAD.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26th.—(Canadian Press.)—New York regained its full game lead in the American League race Sunday by defeating Cleveland by the overwhelming score of 21 to 7. New York's score is the season's high record. The Yankees knocked out Ray Caldwell, a former member of the New York pitching staff, in the fourth inning and scored ten runs off Mails, left-hander, in the two innings he pitched. Of the eight earned runs scored on Mails in the fourth inning, seven were scored before a New York player was retired. Clark, a youngster, also was pounded hard, Meusel and Fewster hitting him for home runs late in the game.

Meusel's home run was his twenty-fourth of the season and enabled him to tie Williams of the St. Louis Browns for second place to Ruth among major league home-run hitters.

Carl Mays was hit hard at times, but he always was in a position to take things easy on his big lead. It was his twenty-sixth victory of the season. Mays is the first pitcher in either league to win over twenty-five games this year.

A forty-thousand capacity crowd saw the game. The grandstand was sold out two hours before play, and the entire park was closed up an hour before the game started. Rain fell at intervals during the game, but never hard enough to stop play. Score:

HAMILTON MAN SAYS HE'S JUST BRIMFUL OF NEW LIFE AND ENERGY SINCE TAKING TANLAC.

"A medicine that will do as much for suffering people as Tanlac has done for me it certainly is worth recommending to the public," said Oliver C. Woolcott, of 203 Wellington street., Hamilton, Ont., shipping clerk for the Steel Co., of Canada.

"I was in a terribly run-down condition and got to where I was never hungry and didn't want to eat. I suffered a great deal from indigestion, and had acute attacks at times which kept me at home for two or three days on a stretch. I bloated with gas until it caused me awful distress, and I became so dizzy that I would almost fall over. I lost considerable weight, and was in mighty bad shape.

"I felt a lot better as soon as I took my first bottle of Tanlac, and I kept picking up until three bottles have put me in fine shape. I relish my food now, and can eat anything set before me without being bothere da bit with indigestion. I have put on ten pounds in weight and feel brimful of new life and energy. I am only too glad to endorse Tanlac, it's the best medicine going, bothered a bit with indigestion. I

TRIAL OPENED OF WOMAN BLUEBEARD

CHARGED WITH MURDERING FOUR HUSBANDS, BROTHER-IN-LAW AND BABY.

TWIN FALLS, Idaho, Sept. 26. — (United Press.) — The trial of the sensational case of Mrs. Lydia Southand alleged 'female Blue Beard" who is charged with murder, opened here to-day. The defendant is specifically charged with the murder of her fourth husband, Edward F. Meyer, but the state alleges she also poisoned three previous husbands, Robt C. Dooley, of Twin Falls, Wm. McHaffie, of Hardin, Mont., and Harlin C. Lewis of Denver and Billings, Mont.

It was from these charges that the appellation of "female Blue Beard" was bestowed upon her. In addition the state asserts that she poisontd her two year old baby by her first husband, and her brother-in-law, Edward Dooley.

The state had subpoened 137 witnesses and expected to summon others. It was not known how many witnesses the defence would call.

The number was said to be well over fifty. The trial, it was believed, will last three weeks.

Mrs. Southard is specifically charged with poisoning Meyer with Arsenic obtained from poison fly paper a month after they were married, on August 10, 1920, in order to collect $10,000 life insurance which he is said to have taken out at her request. The insurance companies became suspicious and refused payment. Mrs. Southard disappeared and later that year married Paul Vincent Southard, a petty officer in the navy in Los Angeles. Shortly afterward he was transferred to Honolulu, where she was arrested and brought back to Twin Falls.

At the time of her arrest, Mrs. Southard expressed the belief that she was a typhoid carrier, two of her husbands, a brother-in-law and her baby having died of that disease, according to the death certificates.

By the defendant's side when the parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Trueblood obtained a furlough, and her parents, Mr. and rMs. W. J. Trueblood, who live on a ranch near Twin Falls.

WINTER SPORTS.

Days spent in snowshoe tramps through primitive forests where every leaf and bough bears its weight of glistening crystals, in the breathless flight of the toboggan or ski, and in the ring of steel against the icy covering of some lake, together with evenings spent in social converse in the cosy warmth of an old-fashioned log fire—these slip away unnoticed; but those who have once experienced them return to their avocations with renewed energies, with hardened muscles, and a grateful memory of Algonquin Park. The Grand Trunk have decided to keep open the Highland Inn, the largest of the Park hotels, for the winter season from December 15th, 1921, to March 15th, 1922. AMERICA IS RICHER THAN GREAT BRITAIN

LONDON, Sept. 24.—(Associated Press). — The Rev. Reginald J. Campbell, who has just resumed his London ministry after his visit t the United States, told his parishioners in his first sermon at Christ Church that America was "now the greatest nation in this world, stronger than ours, richer than ours, able to do materially what it likes, and to give spiritual leadership to mankind if it chooses."

Dr. Campbell said he had found traces of anti-British feeling, but that he was also made aware of "a warm and widespread friendliness, of which too little is heard on this side."

HISTORICAL SKETCH OF ROBINSON'S ISLAND ACQUIRED BY PETERBORO' CITY

SITUATED ABOUT THREE MILES BELOW THE LOCKS ON WESTERN SHORE OF THE PICTURESQUE OTONABEE.

(By F. H. DOBBIN.)

The city has taken on a new dignity. It has acquired a portion of land in the township of North Monaghan, and so becomes joint owners of the river front between the city and Rice Lake. Not a very large piece of land, but a spot of some historical interest in connection with the settlement of the ground now covered by the city. Indeed a sort of auxiliary, or helping hand to settlement. So I will tell of the historic connection.

Robinson's Island.

About three miles below the Locks, on the western shore of the river is an island, about four acres in extent, depending on the height of water in the river, and long known as Robinson's Island. It does not stick up in the landscape very prominently. On the other hand it is rather obscure, but divided from the mainland by a channel, now overgrown with weeds and rushes. The island is covered with a thick growth of bushes and some large trees. Indeed, at the time of the fuel shortage it was proposed by denizens of the neighborhood to cut the trees off the island and sell them for firewood. Fortunately this was not done.

Month or two ago it was known to local people that the Ontario Department of Forests and Lands proposed to sell this island, that last piece of shore on the river between Peterborough and Rice Lake to pass out of possession of the province. Application was made to the local Crown Timber Agent, Mr. A. Stevenson, who suggested that the matter be taken up with the Department. This was done and the land formally offered for sale to the highest bidder.

The Chairman of the Finance Committee of the City Council ,Alderman Turner, brought the matter to the attention of the Finance Committee which concurred that arising out of the historical interest this fragment of land had for the city that it should be acquired. City Solicitor Widdifield was instructed to attend to the matter, which was done and a very moderate amount tendered as the price the city would be willing to pay. This was, in due form, accepted and the transaction completed.

Its Practical Use.

To appreciate the practical uses this island had for the early settlers we have to cast back to the end of the month of August, 1825. Two thousand souls had left Ireland in the month of May and after what was, for the days of sailing ships, a short passage of thirty-one days, landed at Quebec. These were afterwards forwarded to Kingston, Ont. There they remained, living in tents, until the arrival of Peter Robinson, who had crossed the ocean to New York. On his arrival at Kingston he proceeded to forward the settlers to the ultimate destination, Scott's Plains.

His own relation of this duty is interesting and it may be set out in his own words, as given at a sitting of the Special Committee of the Imperial Parliament, 1827. For some doubts had arisen as to the advisability of sending so many people to the unsettled parts of Canada. He says:

Early Settlers.

"On the 11th of August, I embarked five hundred on board of a steamboat and landed them next day at Cobourg, on Lake Ontario, a distance of one hundred miles. The remainder of the settlers were brought forward in the same manner, the boat making one trip each week. Our route from Cobourg to Smith, at the head of the Otonabee river, lay through a country as yet very thinly inhabited. The road from Lake Ontario to Rice Lake (12 miles), hardly passable, and the Otonabee river in many places very rapid, and the water much lower than it had been known to be for many years.

"The first thing I did was to repair the road, so that loaded wagons might pass. The magistrates of the district gave to me fifty pounds for this purpose. In ten days we so improved the road that provisions and baggage could be sent across with ease, and three large boats were transported on wheels from Lake Ontario to Rice Lake."

Voyage up River.

Summarizing his narrative, we continue. The whole community camped on the shore of the lake, near Gore's Landing, and presently loaded the three boats and essayed the voyage up the river. The water level in the lake and river was, at the time, much lower than at present, for the first dam at Hastings was not built until ten or twelve years afterward. It was found that the heavily-loaded boats could not pass over the shallow places in the river and were brought back to the camp across the lake.

Something that would draw less water was imperative. The party set to work, felled many pines, and whip-sawed out of the tree trunks thick planks and other material. From this and some lumber procured at Cobourg, two large scows, or barges, were constructed. Mr. Robinson continues:

"I had the first boat built of such dimensions as I thought best answer to ascend the rapids, and had her completed in eight days. So much depended on the success of the experiment that I felt great anxiety until the trial was made, and I cannot express the happiness I felt on finding that nothing could have more fully answered the purpose, and this boat, sixty feet in length and eight feet wide, carrying an immense burther, could be more easily worked up stream than one of half the size carrying comparatively nothing."

In these scows the prospective settlers brought across the lake, cattle that had been acquired, such of baggage as they brought with them, and other effects and supplies of provisions. The ship's boats were used to transport women and children across the lake to the shore of the river, a short distance above what is now known as Jubilee Point. From thence upward they were carried in the scows, propelled by several oars on each side and poles thrust against the river bottom. Thirty to forty persons were taken on each trip and a large amount of luggage the distance from the mouth of the river to the vicinity of Scott's Plains being made in a day.

Exoert Axemen.

The first party to ascend the river consisted of twenty men of the country, expert as axemen, and twenty of the healthiest of the settlers. Not one of these men escaped the prevailing fever and ague, and two died.

It will be appreciated that the water levels of the river above Little Lake, the lake itself and the stretch of river below the lake, were all radically different as we see them today. Without the dam at the Locks, and fed with the water from Whitlaw's Creek (the stream that flows in from East City and where Mann's sawmill is now located), produced a strong current that was not wholly expended so far down the stream bed as Crawford's Grove. Just below this point the settlers, coming up stream in the scows, came on the shoal across the river known in after years as the Yankee Bonnet, and so to this day. The shoal stopped progress. The heavily-wooded shores of the river did not offer much chance to go ashore, so the scow dropped down the current to find a place where a landing could be effected for the night. This was found as the accessible edge of an island, on the west shore, and the scow was unloaded and the party camped for the night. Next morning the axemen were piloted through the forest to the site of the future town and set to work to prepare suitable tree trunks to erect several buildings that Mr. Robinson had in view to build. And there was the small sawmill of Adam Scott to assist in sawn material.

The Island Camp.

Successive scow loads of settlers and belongings were brought up the river and held at the island camp during a week while an attempt was made to clear the channel at the Yankee Bonnet. An opening was made by removing stones and debris from the river bottom and along the shore at the west side of the river and eventually the scows were used, lightly loaded, to bring the settlers and effects up the river and across the lake and set ashore at the point of land on the river, just at the entrance of the creek, below the Matthew's factory premises. Other loads were pulled and towed against the current farther up the river to go ashore at the level spot, now covered by the premises of the gas works.

As the stay on the island was irksome to many men, several hundred waded ashore to the mainland (now the farm of Mr. Johnston), and cut a trail or foot road past the spot where the old powder magazine stands and on to about the foot of Park Street, with a detour to about Aylmer Street, the line of what was afterwards laid out as George Street being impassable and only marsh at the mouth of the creek. It was nearly twenty-five years afterward before George Street was made a thoroughfare to the south end of the settlement. Indeed, it was of small consequence until after the opening of the Little Lake cemetery and the necessity for a convenient means of reaching, eventually, the first bridge erected at the Locks.

The Yankee Bonnet.

Occasionally we have some controversy over the point as to how the Yankee Bonnett came by its name or designation. Mrs. Trail, who should be an excellent authority, has written that the name was selected on account of a massive pine tree, standing on the west shore of the river, near the shoal, the top of the tree showing a fanciful resemblence to the shape of the bonnet or cap as worn at one time by the soldiers of the Continental Army of the United States. This may or may not be the true derivation, but it will answer as well as any other.

Since the days of its early and somewhat brief occupation, Robinson's Island has been known by name only. With the flooding of the river its boundaries became somewhat obscured. It now having come into the possession of the city, is deserving of a trifle of care and attention. It might be underbrushed and cleaned up and defined. The back channel could be cleaned out at small expense, and the driftwood removed that blocks the channel. The spot might well be used as a picnic ground or place for going ashore, and would so be free for the use of people without trespassing on the farm lands along the river. Possibly the next chairman of the next finance committee of the next City Council might enter on the list of civic appropriations a moderate sum to be expended. Such action would meet approval of those who go down the river in boats, launches and other water craft. Besides, we can hang a tag on it and make out claim that identifies possession and the rights that so obtain.

Built Rude Huts.

Perhaps a concluding excerpt may be of interest as taken from the narrative of Peter Robinson, in which he states: "Immediately on arriving here (Scott's Plains), with their slender store of worldly goods, the immigrants set about constructing rude huts or wigwams, composed of slabs, bark, or the branches of trees and sods, to shelter themselves from the weather during the interval which must elapse before they could be located on their lands in the neighboring townships. As one boat load after another was discharged upon the landing, and the crowd of immigrants increased, the 'Plains' began to present an animated and lively appearance. The temporary huts were dotted here and there in groups, or singly, as the attraction of acquaintance or facilities of shelter offered, while the bustle consequent upon landing and the details of perfecting the arrangements, and above all, the novelty of the present, and the uncertainty of the future, must have deeply impressed the minds of the more thoughtful and observing as they gazed on the scene."

PAINS IN SIDE AND BACK

Caused by Woman's Ills and Helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Grafton, Pa.—"I was troubled with inflammation and pains in my sides and back. After doctoring with different doctors and not getting relief, I had almost given up hopes when my sister told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and knowing that she had really been helped by it, I purchased it. I was unable to do my work at that time, but after taking several bottles of the Vegetable Compound I can now do anything about the house or farm that a woman should do. I have a four months old baby that is the healthiest and biggest baby for his age that I have ever seen, and I give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound all the praise for my health."—Mrs. BLAIR L. FISHER, R.D.1, Box 87, Grafton, Pa.

Working early and late—lifting, carrying, and the heaviest of household duties—is it any wonder that it results in backaches and kindred ills. But every woman who suffers as Mrs. Fisher did should profit by her experience and give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

TRAVELLER VISITS HISTORIC SPOTS IN SUB-ARTIC CANADA

RELICS OF FRANKLIN AND HEARNE —MINING ENGINEERS, OIL EXPERTS, FIRE RANGERS AND HUDSON'S BAY DISTRICT MANAGER MAKE UP TYPICAL NORTHERN STEAMSHIP PASSENGER LIST OF TO-DAY—MEMORIES OF A RED RIVER OLD TIMER.

The yesterday of Arctic discovery has lefts its prints across the Canadian northwest, and the tokens of the trails of Hearne and Franklin litter our northern zone. Among all the historic places of sub-Arctic Canada none is more eminent than Fort Chipewyan. Between Fort Chipewyan and Fort Garry is interposed a mighty stretch of country, but the cohesive agency of the old fur companies, and the fact that Fort Garry was their capital, has always made even the far and frigid forts suburban to that at the forks of the Assiniboine and Red. So one finds at Fort Chipewyan Joseph Hodgson, scholar and poet and old Hudson's Bay officer, "born like his father and grandfather before him, at Red River, which place he left in 1873." Mr. Hodgson, who remembers interesting Red River and Minnesota events of the '60's, is referred to in a recent article by a newspaper correspondent, Douglas S. Robertson, of Toronto, on Fort Chipewyan and the Athabaska region. Mr. Robertson's article, which gives interesting pictures of the Canadian northland, and also makes mention of the regions of oil activity, is in part as follows:

Picture a promontory of pink granite rock, laved by water of crystal green, backed by woods of sombre spruce and crowned by the block-house-flanked square of an old-time Hudson's Bay company fort whose white buildings are bathed in the glorious sunshine of a northern summer's day. Such is Ft. Chipewyan as I saw it—famous Ft. Chipewyan of song and story, established in 1835, on whose former site across the bay Hearne rested on his search for Franklin long years ago, and whither in olden days the company's governor, Sir James Simpson, journeyed in state, heralded by his Scottish piper.

Saluting the Fort.

A mile from shore three hoarse blasts from the whistle of our steamer wake the echoes. In response, up runs the Union Jack's red ensign on the flagstaff in the centre of the fort, for such military salutes are the time-honored greeting between all Hudson's Bay posts and the steamers of the company.

Over the glassy surface of the water canoes and boats are gliding. To the left, log huts and storehouses and smoke-tanned Indian teepees straggle along the shore towards the mile distant, quaint, turreted roofs of the Roman Catholic Mission. To the right, five rocky, forest-capped islets rise in a row and out beyond them, stretching to apparent infinitude, lie the wide waters of Lake Athabaska, 200 miles long. The blend of color and romance moves an artist passenger to ecstacies and to feverish sketching for future reference.

Scenes at Ft. Chipewyan.

The rocks swarm with Indians and half-breeds as we warp in and shove out the gang plank. A mounted policeman appears. Bishop Lucas comes down to greet friends on the boat. Hungry sleigh dogs try to get aboard and are driven off by the ship's pet husky or kicked overboard viciously by the half-breed crew. An old Indian is there with a boatload of fine fish—delicious whitefish, better than even our Niagara ones, and those queer fish dubbed inconnus (French for unknown), like a cross between a whitefish and a salmon and supposed to be a sort of Arctic salmon. The purser buys most of the catch for the table. Some enterprising person has just started a whitefish cannery on the lake.

Game Abounds.

Rich in fish, fur and game is the Lake Athabaska region. In the immense surrounding marshes ducks swarm even now, and later in the year Canada grey geese and the white waveys will be here literally in millions. Even now suspicious sounds of firing can be heard. Having just left Slave River, we now cross the lake bound towards Ft. McMurray. Though only some twenty miles across this far end, the great sweep from the east and the extreme shallowness just here make it impassable in windy weather. Steamers are held up for days.

Pilot Never Been "Outside."

But today is serene, and Capt. Macleod has a big half-breed pilot at the wheel who follows a difficult course. The pilot, a man of fifty, who knows every shoal on lake and river, has never seen a city, never been "outside." To the west, the endless green of small willows growing from the water meets the eye. To the east, lake and sky meet. Entering the Athabaska River, the vessel pushes on until the miles of willow marshlands on each side give place to firm ground and spruce forest. Then when darkness descends we tie up till dawn.—

Steamers Buck Strong Current.

Monday night we left Ft. Fitzgerald on the 300-mile run south. It is now Tuesday night and only 100 miles have been covered. But remember these rivers have a current of from four to eight miles an hour—which make an upstream trip about three times as long as down. So our average speed is but four miles an hour.

Passengers.

Among the passengers aboard are Mr. C. C. Sinclair, district manager of the Hudson's Bay company posts in the Mackenzie and Athabaska districts, and his wife and young daughter, who have been to the far north, and Mr. J. Christie, the auditor. The Sinclairs, who put themselves out to be pleasant to the other travellers, are universally popular in this country, Major Macintosh Bell, of Almonte, who has been inspecting rich galena claims on Great Slave Lake for a big Boston company, whose consulting engineer he is; Mr. A. Rafton-Canning, chief fire ranger for this whole country, and Mr. C. Slipper, Dominion government petroleum engineer, just back from Norman, and now trying to shut off the salt water in the Peace river oil wells, are also among the passengers.

Squaw Enjoys Her Pipe.

And yes, an Indian woman and her up-to-date, well-dressed little girl. The child sits nonchalantly on a tie post on one of the scows we are pushing and watches her parent, who, bareheaded and smoking a briar pipe, gets down on her knees and improves the shining hour by washing a pile of clothes in the bilge water at the scow's bottom.

The boat made fast to the bank for the night, the crew of half-breed boys who two nights ago danced the Red River jig to the fiddle of a native musician whose mocascined feet kept time, are now fast alseep in their blankets among the cordwood on the lower deck. Dawn finds us off again, fighting our way up small rapids the while the slow pulsations of the engine become more labored and the vessel hardly seems to gain an inch. Fortunately such places are rare. All day we swing round endless bends, past splendid spruce forest mid which once or twice one sees that curious Indian monumen a lob-stick—a live tree shorn generally of all its lower limbs and left with a fathery top, in honor of some person or event. This custom is still in vogue.

Tar Sand—Billions of Tons.

Fancy a river paved with asphalt. Such is the Athabaska in parts. Queer asphalt-like looking stuff protrudes in masses from the river banks and in places makes a hard smooth ledge at the river's edge along which boatmen ashore with ropes towing canoes up against the current, can walk, tracking their craft in comfort. I got my first view of these so-called asphalt or tar sand deposits early Thursday morning. It was embedded in the clay of cliffs along the river. The substance will burn, smells like asphalt and from it the finest crude oil can be distilled—in a laboratory. I dug some up and put fire to it. One expert estimates that there is enough crude oil here in the enormous known deposits to last the world for 400 years at the present rate of consumption. Some people think that a gigantic industry is shortly to arise at McMurray which will overshadow all other prospective northern oil fields. But of that, more later.

Tin-horn Sport Beaten by Natives.

At Ft. McKay, a little H.B.C. post where we stop before noon on the third day out, to land Mrs. McDermott, wife of the factor, and where the halyard snaps as they are trying to run up the "meteor flag of England," an amusing incident happens. An individual named "Slim," who wears a cowboy hat and gorgeously embroidered moose-skin vest and who during the trip has been the moving spirit in a solo game, hops off, and before you can say Jack Robinson, pulls out a white oilcloth about two feet by three and marked off into numbered squares. This he lays on the ground at the landing, at the same time producing a funnel-shaped affair, for all the world like a tin horn. Placing the large end on the ground he deftly drops some dice into it, and turning to the crowd of half-breeds assembled, cries: "Come on, boys, everyone wins and the old man loses." Like bees the natives cluster around, placing their quarters and half-dollars on the various squares. The redman and his half-brother are born gamblers. One big Indian reputed to have a roll of eight hundred dollars from a successful winter's trapping, bets vigorously. Poor "Slim" is actually being trimmed badly when a Hudson's employe comes up and orders him to take his outfit off the property.

Old Fur Trader Reminiscences.

Just as the white buildings at Ft. McMurray come in sight we pass the Clearwater, down whose stream Sir John Franklin's party paddled on their long canoe voyage in 1825 which, beginning at Holland Landing, 35 miles north of Toronto, terminated on the west shore of Great Bear Lake near Ft. Norman. Present-day trips are child's play to that long journey through an almost unknown wilderness. Mr. Joseph Hodgson, scholar and poet an old Hudson's Bay officer, born like his father and grandfather before him, at Red River which place he left in 1873, told me that his grandfather was on one of the Franklin search parties. Mr. Hodgson while hunting musk-oxen on Great Bear Lake in 1910, stayed at the ruins of old Ft. Confidence and discovered one of the sleighs used by Dease and Hearne on their endeavor to rescue Franklin 70 years ago.

Recalls Minnesota Massacre of 1862.

Mr. Hodgson remembers the imprisonment of the late John Ross Robertson by Louis Riel at Ft. Garry in 1869, when the former went west as correspondent for the old Toronto Telegraph during the Red River Rebellion, and he recalls how as a boy with a Hudson's Bay party, just after the massacre, he visited the remains of the Minnesota towns where in 1862 Red Cloud and his Sioux friends murdered hundreds of men, women and children. These savage Indians wearing the silks and trinkets of the butchered women threatened even the Hudson's Bay men. This old-timer tells me that his life and that of his great-grandmother who held him in her arms, covers the wide expanse of time between 1921 and 1745, the year the highlands rose to support Prince Charlie.

HAL MAHONE WINS COLUMBUS FREE-FOR-ALL.

COLUMBUS, O., September 26 (Canadian Press). — Hal Mahone, a game Western pacer, captured the free-for-all event that featured Saturday's programme of Grand Circuit races, and turned back Sanardo that took a record of 1.93-4 at Syracuse last week in a slashing four-heat struggle. Sanardo tired himself pretty badly the first heat, which he won in 2.01 1-2, and he did himself no good when he stepped the first half of the second heat in 59 3-4 seconds, for he faded and finished fourth as John Henry came from the outside and took the heat in 2.01 1-2, the same time as the first mile.

Hal Mahone then began to show against his tired rivals, and won the third and fourth heats, and the race.

Sanardo and Juno, coupled as the Murphy entry, were early favourites in the auction.

SALTS IF BACKACHY AND KIDNEYS HURT

Stop Eating Meat for a While if your Bladder is Troubling You.

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Your old methods of teeth cleaning

See what this new way does. Watch your teeth whiten—note how clean they feel. Millions have learned in this way how much film removal means. It is something that you should know.

You must fight film

Your teeth are coated with a viscous film. It clings to the teeth unless you combat it, gets between the teeth and stays.

It forms a dingy coat which dims the luster of the teeth. It is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Thus most tooth troubles are now traced to film. And, despite the daily brushing, very few escape them. The old brushing methods do not effectively fight film.

New ways to combat it

Dental science has now found ways to combat film. The methods are embodied in a dentifrice called Pepsodent. It has proved so effective that leading dentists everywhere are now advising it. And millions of people have already adopted it.

Pepsodent, with every use, brings five desired effects. It attacks the film in two efficient ways. It keeps teeth highly polished. It stimulates the salivary flow—Nature's great tooth-protecting agent.

It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That to digest the starch deposits which cling to teeth and often form acid. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That to neutralize the acids which cause tooth decay.

Modern authorities regard these effects as essential aids to Nature, in view of the average diet. To bring those effects twice daily means such protection as you have not known before.

See and feel them

The results can be seen and felt. They are delightful, and this 10-day test will bring them 20 times.

Send the coupon for it. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear. Watch the other good effects, and the book we send you will tell you what they mean.

Do this now in justice to yourself. Learn how much this new-day method means to you and yours.

MUCH VALUABLE TIME SPENT EACH DAY FILLING WASTEPAPER BASKET

NUMBER OF UNNECESSARY AND FOOLISH COMMUNICATIONS RECEIVED IN THE AVERACE NEWSPAPER OFFICE WOULD MAKE A STRONG MAN WEEP INTO HIS MORNING COFFEE AND BITE THE LEG OFF THE PIANO STOOL.

THE EXAMINER IS NO EXCEPTION

The man who invented the waste-paper basket was probably unconscious of the boon he was conferring upon the generations who have come after him. What would we do without the waste-paper basket, and what, in particular would editors do without the waste-paper basket? The number of unnecessary and foolish communications received daily in the average newspaper office is appalling. The desire to "burst into print" seems to be inherent in the breasts of one and all.

They come from all sources and from all classes. From John Smith, of Squeedunk Centre, who put a coat of red paint on his barn last week, and wants to publish the fact; from Jim Crow, who went to Pumpkinville last Sunday to see his girl; from John Doe, who is an ardent politician, and wants to give a "drive" tothe other side; from the fanatics who want to start a religious controversy; from the country contributor who has had a dispute with his next-door neighbor over his fences, and puts it all into verse and sends it in to be published. Grievances, camouflaged in many ways, whose authors desire to air their wrongs through the medium of the public press, verses by the yard, and long-winded dissertations on nothing in particular, they come in on foolscap, on colored note, in ink and in pencil, with a noble disregard for othography in most cases.

You have correspondents ask you to send them so many marked copies (no change enclosed) or to forward a certain news item to some small town out West, in Alberta, or Saskachewan, or Manitoba, they don't just know, but anyway, perhaps you will find out and forward it, because a man lives there who would like to see that item.

And they send you in an item for publication in July of this year that was published in November of last year in some out-of-the-way part of the Dominion, and they ask you to please publish all manner of personal recriminations against some neighbor, but please dont use their names.

And then there are the cranks, religious, political and otherwise, who love you hard if you endorse their particular views, but are surprised and pained over any divergence from these.

"Space lizards," those firms and individuals who try by hook or crook to get something for nothing in the way of free advertisements. They put it up to you in all sorts of ways; it is a sacred duty of the press to advertise a certain brand of musical instrument, or patent medicine, or automobile, and communications of this sort are always unanimous on one point, that is, in the initial stages of the correspondence, that yours is a "valuable" paper. One recent advice referred to ours as a "loyal" publication, and went on to ask that the writer's personal views on prohibition be aired forthwith.

The man that doesn't like a church, a city council, a member of Parliament, a site for a new park, or a baseball club executive, feels quite at liberty to demand a hearing through the columns of the daily press, and the person who gets his news over his neighbor's shoulder in the street car or from the paper purloined from his neighbor's verandah, who never buys a paper from one year's end to another, will feel free to holler the loudest if his unsolicited contribution be not printed in full.

But the cacoethes scribendi, the itch for writing, starts in young in some cases. An eleven-year-old writes as follows:

"Dear Editor: As I have been Home from school for the past 5 or 6 days owing to a cold I got, and as I wished to pass the time away, I thought I would write you a little nonsense, and hope you will find room in a column of your valuable paper for same."

Well, why should we wonder at mature impositions, when an eleven-year-old with a cold in its head is willing, as a pastime, to fill up a column or two for us free of charge?

CAR STRUCK BY STREET CAR

AUTOMOBILE LOST A WHEEL IN THE MIX-UP

Number 34, one of the Peterboro Radial Railway's one-man cars, driven by Motorman C. Davie, collided with auto Number 133-579, owned and driven by C. P. Pringle, 183 Edinburgh street, at Park and Bolivar streets, at 4.45 p.m., yesterday. One wheel was torn off the car and the fenders were severely bent

The car which turned north from Bolivar would have crossed the tracks safely, it was stated had its engine not stalled. Mr. Pringle told P. C. Naples, who investigated the accident, that the south bound street car was 30 or 40 feet above the crossing and had ample time to stop. Motorman Davie stated that he saw the car but when he applied the brakes the street car skidded and was travelling with considerable momentum when it struck the automobile. No damage was done to the street car.

CHURCH SERVICES AT MARK STREET

"Christ Lost in Jerusalem," was the subject of the morning sermon, and was based on Luke II., 43-46: "Jesus tarried behind in Jerusalem . . . And it came to pass, that after three days they found Him in the temple."

From Nazareth to Jerusalem.

From Nazareth to Jerusalem was a journey of seventy miles. Joseph and Mary, with the boy Jesus, will go up to the city to attend the feast of the passover. Christ, for the first time, shall conform to the requirement of the Jewish law, by presenting himself before God at the age of twelve years. I think I see the ruddy glow of natural and innocent excitement on the cheek of that wondrous boy, as he anticipates the journey. His life, hitherto, has been spent among the quiet Nazarean hills, beloved by his friends, and subject to his parents in all things. What a change awaits Him at Jerusalem. Thank God for that boy who has had his early training amid rural scenes, and who has, like Moses and David, and Jesus, communed with his God among the hills.

Jesus Lost in the City.

Ever since the days of Joseph and Mary people have been losing Christ in the city. What romance the city holds for the curious rural visitor. It was easy for Joseph and Mary to keep in touch with Jesus down in Nazareth, but not so easy in Jerusalem. The city was full of interest. On every corner was a new attraction, and there was so much to be seen everywhere. So they forgot to make sure that Jesus was in the company when they left the town. Many a man has lost Christ in the city. There is the jostling crowd, the tinsel glory of worldly emptiness, the flashing of the pleasure-bubble that bursts at the approach of human eagerness, the gaudy glitter of wealth and power: all this tends to draw him away from the Christ.

Supposition a Poor Anchorage.

How can a man anchor his hope and his confidence to supposition? They supposed Jesus to be in the company, but they did not take the trouble to make sure. At the end of the first day's journey from the city a rude awakening awaited them, for Christ was not in the company, but lost in the metropolis. All day long they had been travelling away from the very light of their life. In this respect, Joseph and Mary are a type of many people today. They are strong on supposition. You ask a man, are you a Christian? And his answer is likely to be, "Oh, I suppose it is all right." But you cannot help doubting the background of such a reply. We test the Christian religion by experience. Surely, I know if I have walking and talking with Him. If there is anything in the universe of God that I must be absolutely certain of, it is that Jesus will be found in my company at the close of life's brief day. If He be lost then, I shall die alone and without hope.

The Immediate Return to Jerusalem.

They never knew exactly where they lost Christ but they always remembered where they found Him Have you lost Christ? There was no delay in the return to the city once they realized their loss. I think they began the return journey in the night. Splendid move. They go to where they saw Him last. But they blundered on reaching Jerusalem, in not going at once to the temple. They did not lose Jesus in the temple, but they would have found Him there. Where did you lose Christ, my friend? I knew a man of noble bearing, splendid physique, brilliant intellect, brightest promise of future success, who lost Christ at the door of his own beautiful home, just as he stepped from the carriage in which his friends had drawn him from the scene of his great victory in a political contest. The Son of God could not enter that home. Why? Booze! What an eternal pity.

Have You Lost Christ? Where? How? When?

Some men cut corners to get rich quickly, and in so doing lose their Christian experience. Others gain position in the world by questionable and crooked measures and then lose Christ. Praise of men is sometimes won by twisted courtesies, and low spaniel fawning, but Jesus is the price they pay for all this. They lose their Lord. No man ever lost Christ in the path of purity, integrity, and moral rectitude. Young man, Christ is worth more to you than all the glittering follies of the world. Go thou not where thy Lord cannot accompany thee. Young lady: The beauty of an angel is not to be compared to that of a young woman; who, in the midst of present-day sin, and folly, and social shame and madness, walks and talks and holds communion with Jesus Christ.

The Lost Christ Found in the Temple.

A world of anxiety would have been avoided if Christ had been sought in the temple. The surest place to find Jesus is in the church. Joseph and Mary, with aching heart, went everywhere else to look for Christ but to the house of God. You have no place for the church? Well, the church has a place for you. You cannot find Christ in the church? Well, that is where I found Him and millions of others. When I speak of the church I mean that place where Jesus meets every earnest seeker after Him. Seek Him and you shall not seek in vain.

Jesus Goes Down With Them to Nazareth.

Down from the temple and the city. Down into the valley, and away to the lowly village among the hills. The splendor of Jerusalem will not hold Jesus when He is needed in Nazareth. And He will go down to thy lowly dwelling, oh child of God, and dine with thee and thine, and thou shalt have as a guest the gentleman of all the ages. He is in His temple. Seek Him there. Take Him to thy lowly cottage or thy palatial mansion; it matters not to Him. He will be to thee "Fairest among ten thousand, and the One altogether lovely." Christ was lost to those only who lost Him, and will be found by those who seek Him earnestly.

ANOTHER FARMER FINED $50 UNDER INCOME STATUTE

JOSEPH HARRISON OF LAKEHURST IGNORED INSTRUCTIONS—OTHER ACTIONS DISMISSED OR WITHDRAWN.

Joseph Harrison, of Lakehurst, was fined $50.00, and costs, by Magistrate Langley in the County Police Court this morning for failing to make return of his income, and on the same charge Richard Darling, of Lakehurst, and F. J. Sullivan, of Ennismore, were acquitted.

It is understood that the remaining two cases which were listed for trial a week ago have been withdrawn.

G. N. Gordon appeared for the defence and V. J. McElderry for the Department.

In the Harrison case, W. J. Shearer, postmaster, Lakehurst, testified that a registered letter from Ottawa had been delivered to the defendant on 9th October, 1920.

Mr. Gordon interjected an admission of receipt of the notice.

In his defence, Mr. Harrison said that he had made out a previous return in duplicate some time before the income tax notice reached him. His daughter had helped him prepare the statement.

"I did not write the Department after getting the notice last October," Mr. Harrison said. "I just ignored it, because I thought it was a notice covering the return I had made two or three months earlier."

Magistrate Langley said he had no alternative but to impose a fine of $50.00 for two days' default in making the income return, together with costs.

Case Dismissed.

Richard Darling, of Lakefield, was next charged with non-compliance with the Income Tax Department's order.

W. H. Casement, postmaster at Lakefield, produced his office records, showing that a registered letter for Richard Darling was received from Ottawa on 4th October. It was delivered to Jacob Reid, son-in-law of Darling, who, Mr. Casement said, had been authorised by Mr. Darling to receive his mail. Ordinarily Mr. Reid got Mr. Darling's mail.

Richard Darling, 82 years old last July, testified that he had no home of his own, but lived with his sons and daughters at their separate homes. When in Lakefield he stayed with one or other of two sons-in-law. He had also two sons in Douro and a son-in-law in Manitoba. He declared that he didn't get the taxation notice, and hadn't heard of it until this case came up.

Jacob Reid, living in Lakefield, said he had received the registered letter addressed to Mr. Darling. "He wasn't at my place," witness said. "I expected him along any time. The letter remained there unopened. I don't know what became of it. It was left lying around the house. I think he got word it was there, but I'm not positive as to that."

Magistrate: It is surprising to me that this letter should have been left around the house without being delivered. I suppose such things happen in some households."

Mr. McElderry informed His Worship that he would not ask for a conviction in this case.

"I appreciate the fact of the age and the position of the old man, and I see a technical difficulty which I shall take advantage of. It is that on the evidence Mr. Darling never actually received the notice. On that ground I am entitled to ask the Court not to pass sentence."

Magistrate Langley dismissed the action.

Another Dismissal.

In the case of F. J. Sullivan, Mr. McElderry stated that he had learned that the registered letter had not been delivered to him. Under that circumstance he asked or a dismissal in this case also. Granted.

A HARVEST FESTIVAL ST. GEORGE'S CHURCH

St. George's church, South Peterborough, held their annual Harvest Festival services last week, commencing on Thursday, September 22nd, and ending last evening.

On Thursday night, a large number were present. Rev. Dr. Blagrave gave an eloquent address, while Rev. F. Elliott Baker of Toronto, Rev. G. J. Bousfield, of St. Luke's church, and Rev. W. R. Courage, rector of St. George's, took part in the services.

On Sunday morning, special eucharistic services were held at 11 o'clock and on Sunday evening, the church was filled for the conclusion of the Festival. Rev. F. Elliott Baker read the lesson and preached, and the rector conducted the services. Special prayers of thanksgiving were offered on each occasion, and the choir rendered special psalms and Harvest hymns. The church was beautifully decorated with seasonable flowers, fruits and vegetables, the offerings of kind friends and interested people of the neighborhood.

FROM BALKANS TO THE PACIFIC.

Is Shift Marked By Washington Conference—Such Is Opinion of French Publicists and Statesmen

(BY WEBB MILLER)

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, Sept. 24.—The Washington Conference is the beginning of a new phase in diplomatic history and marks the permanent shifting of the center of the world's diplomatic equilibrium from the Balkans and Mediterranean to the Pacific. This is the general opinion of French statesmen and publicists. For the first time French public opinion regarding the Washington conference is beginning to crystalize. Hitherto, statesmen and the public have given little attention to the conference, owing to the Fraco-British differences over Upper Silesia. With that troublesome question sidetracked, the public is turning its attention toward Washington.

The closer the project of the conference is examined the more French officialdom is convinced of the world-wide significance and importance—but it is regarded primarily as a question between the United States, England and Japan.

There is a widespread impression that the question of disarmament in the conference is subsidiary and depends upon some successful solutio of the Pacific problem and was injected as "bait"; that the big vital problem of the conference is the future trend of Anglo-American relations, Japanese-American relations with the less important but equally interesting question of future relations between England and France and Japan forming the third side of the triangle.

Although she has wide financial and economic interests in the whole Far East ad her colonies in Indo-China, French statesmen recognize that Frances' role in the Pacific question is considerably less important than that of any of the other three major powers. Therefore they foresee that she will be in a position to act with mediatory influence.

An article by Jacques Bainville in La Liberte capably sums up the views of a certain section of French opinion regarding the Pacific question. He says:

"The Washington conference approaches and the object is becoming more clear. It is a matter of high politics and of diplomacy in a new and considerably widened domain. The case is very simple. England and France have accords with Japan. Thanks to these which envisaged the protection of India, the British possessions and those of France were not menaced during the war. The Jauanese alliance rendered uncontestable services. Naturally, Japan dmanded recompense and it was at the expense of China.

Bainsville points out that the United States also rendered services in the war and is now demanding her payment.

"Thus Japan has demanded her payment at the expense of China and the United States demands by own payment expense of Japan. The United States places us between two ingratitudes and two dangers. In wounding Japan, we compromise the security of our Asiatic possessions. In wounding the United States, we expose ourselves to the risk of being dunned too soon for the dollars we borrowed."

$1,000,000.00 More for "Ben-Hur"

Edward J. Morgan, Mabel Burt and Adeline Adler as They Appeared in the Original Stage Cast of "Ben Hur."

FIRST Gen. Lew Wallace Wrote the Book and Everybody Read It.

THEN "Ben Hur" Was Dramatized and 20,000,000 Saw the Play.

REACHING further into the field of literary masterpieces, the movies have grasped "Ben Hur." Paying $1,000,000 for the rights to it—the biggest price yet paid for such privileges—the new owners are going ahead as rapidly as possible to place on the screen the thrilling scenes of the great book by Gen. Lew Wallace that never were excelled and only in a few instances equalled.

The drama written by William Young from the book was played 7000 times before 20,000,000 persons and earned $10,000,000. It was first produced April 17, 1899, in the Broadway Theatre, New York City.

But the success of the stage play will probably be eclipsed by the screen play. Such scenes as the chariot race, spectacular enough on the stage treadmill, when shown in the movies with their limitless reality, should prove the greatest cinema spectacle ever shown. It will rank with the fall of Babylon in "Intolerance" and other master scenes the camera has recorded.

The great motion picture audience is waiting in all parts of the world to see it. They are wondering how the Christ will be depicted. Will He be shown by a shaft of light, as in the stage drama? Or will He walk through the screen in transparent form by use of the double negative?

But even this question is of small moment compared to the interest aroused among the clergy of all denominations. For they seem to hold the belief that the motion picture can do only good and that it will be in the nature of reviving Christian fervor to show as only the movies can depict the character and acts of Christ as they were portrayed in the great book that Gen. Wallace wrote.

THE greatest money earner in the history of literature; the most widely read book, next to the Bible; the basis of a drama which has been played 7000 times and has earned $10,000,000, and has been seen by more than 20,000,000 persons.

Such is "Ben Hur," motion picture rights of which were sold the other day for $1,000,000!

The sale of the big "movie" recalls its author's early struggles. Back in 1878, on the lawn of his home at Crawfordsville, Indiana, sat Gen. Lew Wallace, Union general, member of the court which tried the assassins of Abraham Lincoln. Five years before he had written a romance of the mystic East, "A Prince of India." It was a fine piece of work from a literary viewpoint, but had brought neither fame nor money to its author. Not disheartened, the general, a deeply religious man, was at work on another novel—"A Tale of the Christ"—which was to be his life work—written with the fervor and loftiness of thought which only a really big man can put into his work.

The general had never been to the Holy Land. But he had read his Bible; he had read descriptive works—he knew the customs of the peoples in Bible times. So he kept at the book even after President Garfield named him Governor of the territory of New Mexico. Finally it was finished and on its way to Harper & Brothers, then the leading publishing house in America.

Just what happened to the manuscript in Harper's is not clear. However, it lay around for months—read or unread, history sayeth not. Finally, some reader induced the house to issue a limited number of copies. And the book did not sell.

For two years it lagged behind the six best sellers of those days. Then, without rhyme or reason—or, perhaps because of its inherently great literary value—or, because it was the best novel of the century—the public began to buy. Orders piled up until one edition followed another so rapidly that the publishers lost count.

At that time there was no international copyright and foreign publishing houses issued pirated editions in all known tongues, including English. The fame of the book spread to the furthermost corners of the world. Literary critics were unanimous in singing its praises—after the public had taken it to its collective bosom!

The Piety of a Great Novelist

And, of course, the astute theatrical manager sought the stage rights—but in vain. For Gen. Wallace, as was stated, was a deeply religious man and was of the opinion that it would be something akin to sacrilege to portray the figure of the Saviour on the stage—and how else could the manager convey the spoken word to an audience?

At that time Marc Klaw and A. L. Erlanger were most powerful in the theatrical world. Associated with them was Joseph Brooks, persuasive and magnetic. They sent him to see the general. Conference after conference came to wreck upon the one question—how to portray The Christ. Finally, Brooks hit upon the plan—to substitute a shaft of piercing light.

The general capitulated and William Young, a noted dramatist, was commissioned to write the play. The contract was signed on April 17, 1899, and early in September, Young delivered the completed text.

The Original Cast for "Ben Hur"

Then the casting began. For the title role there was needed an imposing figure, a fine actor, with strong, masterful voice. The choice finally fell upon Walker Whiteside, noted as a splendid mummer. William S. Hart, since then a film star, was selected for Messala, the villain of the play. Henry Lee, a Shakespearean actor of fine presence, was chosen for Simonides; Frank Mordaunt, the elder, for Balthazar; Emmett Corrigan, still a big figure on the American stage, was assigned to Ilderim, the Arab sheik and owner of the four Arab horses, which won the famous chariot race; Frederick Truesdell, a Belasco actor since then, for Molluch; Mabel Burt, for the mother of Ben Hur; Adeline Adler, a comparatively unknown actress, for Tirzah, Ben Hur's sweetheart; Mary Shaw, known to stage lovers of the present era, for Amrah, and Grace George, present-day star, for Esther. Within two days Whiteside had realized that physically he was unsuited for the role of Ben Hur, and had resigned. He was followed by Grace George, who was replaced by Gretchen Lyons.

Brooks, who staged the play, replaced Whiteside with Edward J. Morgan, the creator of John Storm, hero in Hall Caine's "The Christian." Morgan was eminently suited for the part, physically and histrionically. (He killed himself some years ago in a fit of despondency.)

The opening night was Nov. 29, 1899; the house the Broadway Theatre at Broadway and Forty-first street. A strange coincidence is that the Broadway was formerly a Christian church where the word of God was preached—not acted.

The initial audience little realized the tremendous amount of work entailed in the production. Four trainers worked six months to train the horses for the chariot race, run on a treadmill—the first time such a contrivance had been used on a stage. The mill cost $19,400 to construct.

But that was not the only outlay, for the costuming and scenery brought the entire cost of the production up to $71,000—a tremendous sum for those days. To duplicate the original production would cost close to $200,000 today!

From the very first night the play was an overwhelming success. Wilbur Bates, a Chicago newspaper man, had been appointed publicity man and he worked the newspapers of New York and surrounding territory to the queen's taste. The very first week he had a special morning performance for clergymen of all denominations. Among them he distributed cards to fill out—how they liked it—or did not—would they talk of the play in the pulpit, etc.? The result of the intense campaign was that the play ran for 194 nights—until stopped by the heat—and despite the low scale of prices took in $452,000!

What has happened to "Ben Hur" since then? It has traveled the country from end to end every season since then, except the last. And it is going out again the next. Twenty million persons have seen the play and have paid some $10,000,000 to see it. England acclaimed it; so did Australia. The book on which the play was based has been read in every conceivable nook of the world—and it has been seen only in English-speaking countries.

Why the Play Was Sold

In the course of time the cast changed completely. William Farnum, film star, became Ben Hur, to be succeeded by Emmett Corrigan and Richard Buehler. Old Bill Hart, bad man—good man—of the movies, relinquished his role of Messala, the villain. Actors came and went, but "Ben Hur," the perennial, continued on its way.

About a year ago there came a hitch—one of the reasons for not sending the play out last season—Klaw and Erlanger disagreed and their years-long partnership was dissolved. The play became the centre of a legal dispute which ended only a short time ago. Under the new agreement Klaw withdrew entirely and the ownership was vested in Erlanger, Ziegfeld and Dillingham. The motion picture rights were contracted for at $1,000,000, the highest price ever paid for the movie rights to play or book.

David W. Griffith held the record up to the purchase of "Ben Hur," by paying $175,000 for "'Way Down East."

And this brings us to the motion picture some day to be made of the book. Filming the chariot race in the Coliseum at Rome—depicting the wreck of the galley, during the sea battle with pirates—the rescue of Ben Hur—the temptation scene in the grove of Daphne!

And then again, the deeply religious nature of the story will lend itself to translation to the screen by some master mind—like—shall it be Griffith?

At any rate "Ben Hur" stands alone and unrivalled as a money-maker, either in the literary or dramatic field. It is in a class by itself and, as the "ad" says, "there's a reason"—it is a masterpiece by a master of descriptive writing—tense, human, yet deeply religious and reverent.

FOOTBALL GAMES DREW GOOD CROWD

C.G.E. DEFEATED THE COMRADES —G.W.V.A. AND WOOLLENS DRAW

Two games of soccer made up the Saturday afternoon's bill at the Oval for football fans. In the first encounter the C. G. E. defeated the Comrades 6 to 2 and in the second fixture although they did not have a full team the War Vets managed to hold their old rivals the Canadian Woollens to a draw with a 2 to 2 score. The last game was the best fixture and the teams went at each other in the same old fighting manner. Comrades did not have anything like their regular line-up and only had ten men but made the electricians' team work for every counter because of poor shooting and clever saves by Curtis a closer score did not result.

The lineups were:

C.G.E.

Curtis, goal; Lupton, House, backs; Williams, Hotston, Hensby, half backs; Bestard, Parkins, Griffin Williamson Watkins, Forwards.

Comrades

Calladine, Goal; Hardie, Backs; Warman, Cowie, Mallinson, half backs; Hopkins, Roberts, Thorpe Conway Bills, forwards.

Charlie Griffin formerly C. G. E., goal keeper was in the firing line on Saturday and proved a useful man at centre, securing four of the six C. G. E. goals. J. L. Howarth had hardly got the game under way when he planted the first one past "Sammy" Calladine. Not long after his snappy kick proved effective on a pass from Parkins and his third one came from a scramble for the ball on a corner. Calladine tried hard to save but the ball was too far over. Warman countered for the Comrades on a corner although he had to thank one of the C.G.E. players for heading the ball in for him, unintentionally of course. Winding up the first period 4-1 for the C.G.E. Griffin scored on a running shot, neatly placed.

The confusion which existed amongst the players during the first period because of the similar coloured sweaters grew more pronounced in the second period and this confusion caused desultory playing. In clearing the ball early in the period the Comrades goalie got up towards the corner Bestard picked up the ball and before Calladine could recover his position the ball went home for a goal. Conway retaliated and made the Comrades second tally. Parkins after trying hard all through the game got his goal shortly before the game ended one a pass from Griffin but missed another easy one right after when he had shaken off Mallinson and had an open goal ahead.

The Second Game

When Frank McKinley called the second game between the old contenders for the City Championship the team trotted out by the Vets had only nine men but before the period ended Harold Burrows went into action for them and with this aggregation they evenly matched the fast-going Woollens and the honours of the game were fairly well split.

In the emergency Sid Whatley guarded the nets with his old-time skill. Old players were missing from both teams; the War Vets had two new youngsters, Willis and Hotston, younger brother to "Wag" of the C.G.E. and on the Woollens team. There were a half-dozen new men.

The lineups were:

War Veterans

Whatley, Goal, Perry Backs Frost, Cridland, Dixon half backs; Young Willshaw, Dwyer, Willis, Hotston forwards.

Canadian Woollens

Hillman, Goal; Crowe, Chambers, Backs; Burrows, Peel, Hurle half backs; SwanGaskell, Shipperbottom J. Shaw, Downs.

Willshaw missed the nets by a foot just after the teams got away on a shot that should have gone home. The dash the Vets started off with subsided a little and there was considerable play around Sid Whatley's headquarters. Whatley had some hard work to do in the citadel and made some fine saves. "Jim" Shaw slipped one past him though he dove to save it. Right after Willshaw got the goal he was after by beating Gridland down the field and safely planting on the run a fast shot. The period ended 1-1.

Shaw had all the scoring honours for the Woollens on Saturday. On past Whatley after a half-dozen others had been turned away. Dwyer got the Vets last one travelling at full speed. Hillman did his best but nothing could stop the ball driven fast from close in.

"THE GREAT MOMENT" ROMANTIC AND THRILLING

Gloria Swanson's First Paramount Starring Vehicle Has Continental Flavor.

A story of romantic quality, with that continental flavor which has been imparted to most of her stories by Mme Elinor Glyn, is included in "The Great Moment," in which Gloria Swanson makes her debut as a Paramount star, and which will be the feature to-day.

Monte M. Katterjohn, working side by side with the author, prepared the screen version of the story which opens at an orgy in St. Petersburg when a British aristocrat is captivated by and marries a woman from the plains of Tartary—a Gypsy. The latter leaves him a daughter, Nadine, and in this role Miss Swanson has one of the greatest of her screen career.

The tempestuous nature of her mother is transmitted to the child; the longing for the nomadic life is an inborn passion and she takes the Knight Bayard of history, "without fear and without reproach," as her ideal. A love story follows— a vivid colorful, perfervid romance, the storyshifting across oceans and continents to America and the wilds of Nevada. Later the scene of the story is taken up in Washington and the strict official life of the capital. Finally, the lovers find happiness in the Nevada hills—tasting of heaven and becoming the equals of the gods.

Besides this big and excellent 7-reel picture the program at the Capitol will contain the usual splendid short reel subjects and two first class vaudeville acts and the excellent musical selections rendered by Mrs. Foster and her five clever musicians. This combined with the reduced prices at both matinee and evening shows makes the Capitol the most attractive amusement resort in the city. FAN! FAN!

CHRISTIE CALLS THIS HIS IDEAL OF COMEDY

According to Al Christie, director general of the biggest comedy producing organization in the world, "Hey Rube," his latest two reeler featuring Bobby Vernon and Helen Darling which comes to Allen theatre to-day, represents his idea lof what comedy should be.

"Here," explains Christie we have a real story, even if a simple one. It opens with scenes in a country school house and affords lots of laughs, but the real action centres around the 'city feller' who comes to the village driving a splendid new touring car. Helen is smitten not with the man, but with his car. Bobby quickly sizes up the situation and goes to the city to buy one, but his bank roll is large enough only to buy one of the old-time 'gas buggys' and with this he returns home.

"He refuses to be ridiculed and Helen accepts the old time vehicle as quite fine, even if they do have a lot of accidents. In spite of the fact that the parents favor the man from the city and bar Bobby he manages to elope in a manner that I believe all will admit to be novel. There is always lots of action, with laughs coming one after the other. There is real heart interest, too, something that is hard to get into a comedy where the laughs are generally at the expense of some character. You will not laugh at Vernon in this comedy, but with him.

"I believe every one recognizes that Christie Comedies are absolutely clean, for if they were not they would not be handled by Educational Exchanges. 'Hey Rube' will prove to every doubter that there can be the utmost in laughs produced without resort to vugarity, to knock-about work or to impossible actions. I do not mean to say that 'Hey Rube' is an ordinary story, or that it is an altogether probable one, but it is certainly possible.

"It is another example that proves we are paying much attention to these two-reel fun films as the average feature producer to the five or six reelers. It is seldom that I pick out one of our pictures for special commendation, but if any one is interested in knowing my idea of the perfect comedy, I invite them to see this 'Hey Rube'."

"SKY PILOT" ON SCREEN RUNS TRUE TO BOOK

Probably because of the fact that he thoroughly knows the subject whereof he writes, Ralph Connor's story, "The Sky Pilot," which King Vidor has directed as a motion picture, is one of the real gems among current motion picture releases.

Ralph Connor, whose real name is Rev. Charles W. Gordon, and whose steady occupation is not writing books at all, but preaching the gospel in his little Canadian church, is to be congratulated upon the sincere manner in which the Cathrine Curtis Productions have translated his story to the screen. Few authors can claim as interesting a film version of their work as can the Rev. Gordon.

The story deals with a young minister who is sent into the Canadian ranch belt to spread the gospel among the cowboys. His trials and tribulations, his fights, his faith, his hope are masterfully interpreted by King Vidor through John Bowers, who plays the title role. How the pilot, unpopular at first, wins a place for himself in the hearts of the cowboys, who surprise him on Christmas morning by leading him blind-folded down a snow-covered trail to show him the little frame church they have built without his knowledge, forms the human note of the story which is featured by several smashing dramatic scenes.

"The Sky Pilot" will begin a three-day engagement at the Allen Theatre to-day.

AT THE GRAND.

THE ROYAL PIERROTS.

The Royal Pierrots in their scintillating costumes of lovely blue and white were the attraction at the Grand Opera House on Saturday afternoon and evening in a high class and entertaining offering of comic songs, dances and skits, interspersed with several classical and instrumental numbers.

The Royal Pierrots are a very tuneful and light-hearted group with a quartette eahc of clever men and maidens, accompanied by Mr. Paul Yartin, whose splendid pianoforte selections towards the close of the entertainment brought forth rounds of applause.

Miss Alma Gray, a dainty little comedienne, with a pretty voice and very clever feet, headed the cast. She described the shivery, quivery, "Uz Guz Goozelum," with a nervous chorus, and danced in spooky fashion, reviewed "Her Mother's Advice" in a naughtily, demure manner that brought down the house, danced a tumultous rag in "The Poets of Arcadia,' and played while her feet kept time to the music in a last burst of skilful footwork .

Emmy Gitana, with a beautifully rich mezzo-soprano sang "When You Come Home," and "I think," to loud applause. Anne Hutchinson's pretty light soprano was heard to much advantage and Donna Domita had a couple of numbers which brought down the house. "I'm so good," and "Baby's Come to Stay," the last a delightful impersonation of a six year old child.

Tom Ellis has a deep resonant baritone and a number of humorous selections, Frederick Pymm was inimitable as "Archibald Vere de Vere," and Donald Campbells rich mellow notes rang out in "The Road to Mandalay," and "Alcala." Harry Quealy was the comedian of the lot, and had a wonderful time trying to say "Chysanthemum" while under the influence of his birthday dinner.

One of the prettiest numbers of the ensemble was "In Old Seville," with the performer doing a Spanish dance to the old song in picturesque costumes. "Impressions of a Movie Show" was a well enacted skit, and the players' entertaining programme concluded with "A Village Concert," in which the vicar's wife, daughters, the squire's daughter, and the village choir distinguished themselves in several ways, to the intense amusement of their audience.

The Opera House Orchestra provided an excellent musical programme, their overture from "Pinafore" being exceedingly well rendered.

"FAIR AND WARMER" TO-NIGHT AT THE GRAND.

"Fair and Warmer"—a play with a cocktail punch—Avery Hopwood's gale of laughter. It is the story of a mild little wife with a wild man for a husband, and a mild sort of husband with a wife that liked the bright lights.

When a man has lived all his life without a drink stronger than buttermilk, and takes it on himself to mix drinks for himself and a lady friend who has never indulged, and when the source of supply consists of everything that has a kick in it, the results are apt to be just what happens in "Fair and Warmer." The meek husband is liable to roar like a lion, and goodness only knows what the meek little wife will do.

I'll go and see what they all do in "Fair and Warmer" at the Grand to-night.

FOUR NEW C.P.R. STEAMERS NEXT YEAR TO ORIENT

CALGARY, Alta., Sept. 24.—That if the privilege of finishing Canadian cattle in Great Britain were accorded to Western stockmen, they would be in a better position to compete with British and Irish fresh meats, is the view of E. W. Beatty, President of the C.P.R., when interviewed in Calgary on Saturday afternoon and questioned respecting the providing of chilled car facilities by the company to Western stockmen with a view to giving the West an opportunity to develop a chilled meat trade direct from the West with Great Britain. It was pointed out to Mr. Beatty that as the cattle and chilled meat industry is very important to Alberta, there is a desire here to fatten, finish and kill here, utilizing all the by-products in the Province, and ship the meat direct to Great Britain, and the President was asked what possibility there was for a chilled car equipment by the C. P. R. as this would mean much to the industry. At present cattle are shipped to Montreal and slaughtered there. To this question Mr. Beatty said: "The C.P.R. will take care of any service in the way of chilled meats which it is thought necessary to establish, but I imagine that there is considerable difference of opinion as to the most beneficial method of shipping meat to Great Britain. If the privilege of finishing Canadian cattle in Great Britain were accorded it would seem to me they would be in a better position to compete with British and Irish fresh meats. It makes little difference to the transportation companies whether chilled meat shipments are forwarded from Alberta or from the Atlantic seaboard points; this is a question which will, of course, be decided by the trade in view of their greater familiarity with market and other conditions under which the industry is conducted."

Grain Shipments.

On the question of grain shipments via Pacific ports, Mr. Beatty believed that that is a matter resting entirely with the trade and not with the Canadian railways. The President was asked if he thought there was likely to be any development of the shipping of grain westward from Moose Jaw. "The possible developments of grain shipments via the Pacific ports is a matter that rests entirely with the trade and not with the Canadian railways," declared Mr. Beatty. "At the present time the rates on grain from Prairie points are much lower to the Pacific than to the Atlantic seaboard, and the preference heretofore given to the latter route is due entirely to shipping and market conditions, which are not in any respect controlled by the railway rates. So long as it is shorter in time and otherwise an advantage to utilize Atlantic ports by reason of their nearness to the ultimate market, I am afraid grain will continue to be moved via that route."

Extension Westward.

Mr. Beatty is of the opinion that the Peace River district justifies extension westward towards the Waterhole district now being constructed. On this point he said: "I have not visited the Peace River district, but obviously the territory justifies the extension westward toward the Waterhole district now being constructed by the Provincial Government. This extension will be operated for a period of years by the company under agreement similar in terms to that under which the existing lines are being administered."

In discussing briefly Oriental trade, Mr. Beatty remarked there is a great prospective development in Oriental trade, and even in these times it has been maintained better than one would expect. The Canadian Pacific Railway next year will have four large modern passenger vessels, the Empress of Russia, the Empress of Asia, the Empress of China and the Empress of Canada in the service, together with two large freighters. The latter will, of course, be increased in number if traffic conditions warrant. "I cannot add much to what I have already said in reference to business in the West. In my judgment it will improve steadily and this improvement will be more pronounced if an active demand for this year's crop continues from Great Britain and the Continent."

President Beatty arrived in Calgary on Saturday morning shortly before noon from the West and was greeted by a large number of the local officials here. Included in his party are Sir Herbert Holt, Sir Augustus Nanton, Senator F. I. Buique, D. C. Coleman and Brigadier-General Herbert Nanton. He was entertained at a luncheon here by the local officials, which, however, was of a strictly private nature.

CANADIAN GENERAL TOOK FIRST GAME FROM INTERMEDIATE CHAMPS

ELECTRICIANS DEFEAT PICTON IN ONTARIO CHAMPIONSHIP SERIES--SCORE 6-3

The Canadian General Electric team, champions of the Peterborough City League, and winners over Cressman's and Keene, took another step toward the Intermediate championship of Ontario on Saturday, when they defeated Picton, Bay of Quinte champions, and the present holders of the title, in the first of their series of home and home games at Riverside Park.

The locals go to Picton on Thursday, and if Picton wins this game a third one will be played on neutral grounds to decide which team will continue in the series. This game should be a great battle, as the Easterners will undoubtedly be harder to beat at home, while the C.G.E. were decidedly off color on Saturday, and claim they will make it two straight on Thursday. As a matter of fact, Manager Webb's team were lucky to win Saturday's game, as they turned in one of their worst exhibitions of the season, and were both out-hit and out-fielded by their opponents.

Good Fielding Outfit.

Picton presented a nice fielding outfit, whose infield excelled the big shop team's inner guard on the day's play. Frederick at short was especially prominent, and his work came in for much comment from the fans. Campney in left field also contributed several nice catches. They also possess a likely looking pitcher in Croft. This boy has somewhat of a reputation in the East as a strike-out pitcher, and he demonstrated the fact by fanning ten men on Saturday. He is a big youth with a fine turn of speed and a deceptive underhand delivery, which seemed to bewilder the local batters. Four hits were all he allowed, but he developed a streak of wildness in the fifth, when two walks, coupled with several costly errors and a sacrifice fly, allowed the locals to score three runs and tie the score without a hit. His catcher, R. Frederick's inability to throw out base-runners was also a factor in his defeat, as the Electricians ran wild on the bases when they got on.

Chris. McCarney drew the pitching assignment for his team and turned in a nice game after he settled down. He was plainly rattled in the first part of the game, and his failure to make a play on several balls hit to him gave the visitors several cheap hits and aided materially in the scoring of their first two runs. Their third came in the fourth on two hits. After that he was maser of the situation, and Picton never were dangerous until the ninth, when they threatened to tie up the game. An error, a hit and a base on balls filled the bases with one out. C. Frederick, next up, hit what looked like a sure safety between first and second, but Dugan, coming over fast, nailed the fly with is gloved hand and doubled the runner at first to end the game. It was a sensational catch, and relieved a dangerous situation, as a hit would have scored two runs and left the tieing and winning runs on the bases with only one out. McCarney's curve was breaking nicely, and he retired eight of the visitors by the strike-out route. The C.G.E. infield was very unsteady, Foley and the usually reliable Barrie contributing several costly misplays. Corrin turned in a nice game at first, and he drove in three of the runs scored by his team, one in the fifth with a sacrifice fly, and two in the seventh with a double. Helson handled McCarney in good style, and the opposing runners took no liberties with his arm. The outfield had a quiet day, handling no chances between them.

First Run to Picton.

Picton started off with a run in the first. R. Frederick singled to centre to start. McCarney fielded Hudgin's bunt and threw to right-field. Frederick tried to score from first, and was thrown out at the plate by Corrin, Hudgin reaching third. Harrington hit to McCarney and was safe, the pitcher holding the ball. Welsh also hit to McCarney, who threw to third to catch Hudgin, Foley muffed the throw, and Hudgin broke for home, and scored when Helson failed to hold the ball on Foley's return. They added another run in the second on Barrie's wild throw of Campney's grounder, Mulholland's single to centre and a passed ball. Their third and last run came in the fourth. Mulholland was thrown out by Dugan to start, but Croft singled to right. R. Frederick struck out, but Hudgin singled to right, scoring Croft, and took second on Dugan's throw to the plate. Welsh hit to McCarney, who caught Hudgin between second and third, but Foley dropped the ball. Welsh was an easy out, McCarney to Corrin.

C.G.E. did not break into the scoring column until the fifth, when they tied the score without the aid of a hit. Foley walked to start the innings and stole second. Hudgin dropped McCarney's fly, and Foley scored, McCarney going to third. Batten hit to Campney, whose throw to the plate was missed by Frederick, McCarney scoring and Batten reaching third. Barrie walked. Corrin's sacrifice fly to Campney in left scored Batten. Dugan fanned, and Helson flew out to Campney, a nice catch by the left fielder. They won the game in the seventh with three more runs. McCarney, first up, was safe when C. Frederick's throw pulled Mulholland off the bag. Batten singled to third, McCarney going to third. Barrie bunted, and McCarney scored, Barrie being safe on the throw to the plate. Batten and Barrie worked a double steal, and both rode home on Corrin's solid smash to centre for two bases. Dugan grounded out to C. Frederick; Helson flew out to C. Frederick and Frost struck out.

SPEAKER TRYING TO PUT NEW GEARS IN INDIAN MACHINE WHICH BLEW UP UNDER YANKS' ATTACKS YESTERDAY

By HENRY L. FARRELL.
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—What remains of the Indian wreck will be piled up for the last time to-day in front of the destructive Yanks.

Tris Speaker was trying this morning to put new gears in the machine that blew up yesterday on the Polo grounds. Miller Huggins' task was to keep the same red in the eyes of "murderer's row."

With the count 2 to 1 against them and the season slipping by at high tide, the plight of the Indians was serious as they prepared for the final game of the "crucial crisis" this afternoon. If the Indians are to storm and take Pennantville, they must advance even with the New York lines by copping the last game or getting on their knees in prayer for a miracle.

Any other team without the fighting heart of the Indians could be counted out after the trimming they got yesterday when the Yanks committed the almost murder of the season by winning 21 to 7 before a crowd of 40,000 spectators.

Just as many customers are expected to elbow in the big stands today for the last stand.

Any other team but the temperamental Yanks could be counted a sure winner with the added morale of their tremendous victory.

The Yanks looked like the government mint yesterday. To-day they may look like a pocketbook on April 1. All season they have risen to the heights one day and crashed to the ruts the next day. They were getting every ounce of their clubs yesterday, but they don't hit every day.

Pitching selections were doubtful this morning. Both leaders said it was too early to say.

The Yanks, however, are expected to fall back on Waite Hoyt, the Brooklyn high spot boy, who had one of his good days in the first game of the series.

"Trickey" Stan Coveleskie, the spitballing Pole, was thought to be Manager Speaker's choice, although Allan Sotheron, former shine ball artist, and notorious bungler of bunts, might get the call. By winning to-day the Yanks will have to win only three out of the remaining five games on the card to cinch the pennant.

"BOB" STURGEON WON SHOT PUT

BOWLERS GO TO PORT HOPE THIS EVENING

"Bob" Sturgeon demonstrated to eleven other entrants in a friendly shot-putting contest at the bowling green that he is an artist de luxe at this sport. Sturgeon threw the shot 35 feet 11 inches and Tom McArthur came next with 33 feet 9 inches. The ten others heaved the lead various distances, but could not approach the mark made by Sturgeon. George Giroux was judge of the contest.

Off to Port Hope.

Walter Oke is leading a rink of stalwarts to Port Hope to-night to wrest the Whattam trophy from Peter Brown, who took it from the Oshawa holders recently. It will be a battle royal. The rink will be: P. King, A. Ross, W. J. Oke, Art Gilliam.

FOOTBALL NOTES.

NASHUA PAPER OPENS SEASON

Friday evening two picked teams representing the Waxing and Gumming departments of the Nashua Paper Company, started the balls rolling at Jake Solomon's alleys on Water Street, and although they won the three-string match, Capt. "Dip and Dive" Thompson's team of paraffin jugglers paid the bill, and therein lies a deep, deep plot.

Capt. "Fish Glue" Parker, of the Gummers, started things off well, and if "Hook" Crowe and "Tracer" Hamilton had wakened up to the fact that Jake's alleys were newly polished, the Gummers' total might have been greater. "Dry Paper" Clancy and "Dad" Murphy, of the before-mentioned wax handlers, rolled some good boxes, but to say the least were very erratic; but nevertheless helped "One Ball" Donahue and "Four Pin" O'Donnell to stand up before the relentless rooting of the "Stuck Ups" and get an occasional strike.

The score follows:

Gummers.

Parker	131	120	181—	441
Crowe	119	97	118—	334
Stevens	102	204	153—	459
V. Hamilton	112	147	121—	121
C. Hamilton	100	102	156—	358
	564	679	729—	1972

Waxers.

Thompson	160	182	151—	493
Clancy	150	174	148—	472
Donahue	134	169	92—	395
O'Donnell	71	99	78—	248
Murphy	83	110	115—	308
	598	734	584—	1916

(P.P.S.—We forgot to state that "Art" Stevens and "Chick" Hamilton also played on behalf of the Gummers.)

Last winter the Nashua Paper Company put up a good fight for first place in all the bowling events, and it is perhaps unfortunate that they will be without the services of Travers, Pinnette, Cookson, and Whittaker this season. The first three-named gentlemen have returned to Nashua, N.H., and the last has returned to his trade as a pressman at Chatham. In spite of this handicap, the Nashua Paper Company will have a strong aggregation in the field this year, and are already signing up some preliminary games with those other teams who believe in the adage, "Star early, travel fast, and keep going."

Reports from Nashua, N.H., would indicate that the five-pin game will soon replace the "ducks" in that city, and certainly if the three gentlemen named above start it off with the same enthusiasm shown in Peterborough, the Nashua people will have plenty of material at their mills in New Hampshire, New York, and Ohio to produce a team worthy of an international match with their local mill.

ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION MEETING TO-NIGHT

The hockey executive of the Peterborough Amateur Athletic Association will report at a meeting of the Association at the Y.M.C.A. at 7.30 o'clock to-night. THIS TIME LAST YEAR

Mails won his fifth successive victory since joining the Indians, letting the White Sox dow with three hits for a 2 to 0 win.

The Tigers and the Browns made thirty-one hits. Detroit made ten singles, five doubles, two triples and a homer.

WEDDING BELLS

MADILL—JORY

A quiet wedding took place at 11 a.m. on Saturday, on Sept. 24th., at George street church, when Olive, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Jory of Lakefield, was united in marriage to R. Glenn Madill of Ottawa, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Madill of Lakefield. Rev. Harold Young performed the ceremony in the presence of the immediate relatives and friends of the young couple.

Mr. K. S. Madill, brother of the groom, played the Wedding March.

The bride, who was unattended, wore a smart suit of navy tricotine and black panne velvet hat trimmed with sequins and silver cloth, with fox furs. She carried a bouquet of Ophelia and Sweetheart roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Madill left on the 11:59 C.P.R. train for Quebec. They will reside in Ottawa.

PASTOR WELCOMED TO HIS NEW CHARGE.

College Street Methodist Church, Toronto, last week welcomed their new pastor, Rev. W. R. Young, with appropriate ceremonies. A beautiful sheaf of roses was presented to Mrs. Young by ladies of the congregation, and brief addresses of welcome were delivered by representatives of various church organizations, voicing their delight that Dr. Young was to occupy the pulpit of College Street Church. Dr. Young, in reply, thanked the congregation for their reception, and pledged his utmost efforts to ensure the progress and welfare of the church.

Dr. Young is the father of Rev. W. Harold Young, pastor of George Street Methodist Church, this city.

OBITUARY

REV. A. H. REYNAR.

The death occurred on Thursday last in Cobourg of Rev. A. H. Reynar, M.A., LL.D., for many years professor in Victoria University, both in Cobourg and in Toronto, and for a number of years professor emeritus, since retiring from the faculty after long and valued service.

Rev. Mr. Raynar was born at Quebec in 1840, and was educated here and at the Victoria University in Cobourg. He studied also at the Universities of Berlin, Leipzig and Paris. His first wife was a daughter of the late Rev. Wm. Morley Punshon, LL.D., president of the Methodist Conference in Canada, and some years after her death, he married Ida, daughter of John Hayden, of Cobourg.

He was ordained to the ministry of the Methodist Church in 1866, four years after he had joined the teaching staff of Victoria College. In the same year he became Professor of Modern Languages, and later William Gooderham Professor of English Literature and Dean of the Faculty of Arts. He was also Professor of Ecclesiastical History in the Faculty of Theology. In 1910, Professor Reynar retired on a pension.

He was a member of the Senate of the University of Toronto, in 1902 was elected President of the Bay of Quinte Conference, and was one of a Royal Commission to enquire into the condition of the French schools in Russell and Prescott, and in Essex Counties. He was the author of a book entitled "Over Legislation in Church and State" (1896).

He is survived by his wife and by seven daughters: Mrs. Shephard, of Sault Ste Marie; the Misses Constance, Mary and Christine, Toronto, and Misses Helen and Josephine at home, and Mrs. Armitage, wife of Rev. W. L. Armitage, of London, who was formerly rector at All Saints' Church, this city.

REV. J. G. INKSTER ST. PAUL'S CHURCH

FAVORS A RETURN TO STREET PREACHING AND HOME MISSIONARY ENDEAVOR.

Intensive church organization was deplored by the Rev. J. G. Inkster, B.A., of Knox Church, Toronto, who yesterday preached morning and evening at St. Paul's church, in this city. As a panacea for the great unrest of to-day, Rev. Mr. Inkster advocated a more vigorous dissemination of the Gospel in all simplicity.

At the evening service the speaker dealt with the various ages through which the world has passed. The first was the age of innocence in which Adam and Eve were the central figures. This was followed by the age of conscience, the age of government and the age of promise.

It was during the age of promise that the Israelites were delivered into bondage to a pagan nation as punishment for the failure to recognize and carry out the will of God. Then followed the age of laws during which period the Lord delivered unto Moses the ten commandments. The present constitutes the age of grace and will be followed by another age when Christ will return to earth and will rule over his people.

At the present time there are 330 churches representing as many denominations. The organized church has seen her day. It is an unholy and a selfish thing. More money is spent on herself than on missions. The money passes from one hand to another for the maintenance of an expensive organization. The sins committed by the church would make a man of the world blush.

Christ is not allied to any one denomination. Any alliance between the church and the state means compromise. State doles and endowments instead of being a help to a church are a curse.

The shortcomings are with the church. The preacher advocated a return to street preaching and missionary work at home and also denounced attempts to discuss politics through the medium of the pulpit, such as may occur with in the few weeks.

Mr. Reg. Huff, 480 Gilmour street, has left to resume his studies in Medicine at Toronto University.

CRAIG'S STATEMENT REGARDING SINN FEIN ACTIVITIES TENDS TO INFLAME ORANGEMEN.

SINN FEIN MAY RESENT ARMING CONSTABULARY

(United Press).

BELFAST, Sept. 27. — Armored cars, rushing through the street, and armed patrols at every corner in the disturbed areas, kept Belfast's battling factions temporarily quiet to-day. The fierce sectarian warfare had once again died away, until some fresh outbreak should set it aflame.

The proposed arming of the constabulary was seen as a possible cause of a break in the tide and the resumption of country-wide hostilities, for Sinn Fein was believed certain to resent the Unionist move.

On the other hand, the statement of Sir James Craig in the Ulster Parliament that the Sinn Fein was constantly drilling and importing arms and ammunition tended to inflame the Orange passions and arouse feeling against Catholics in the North.

More troops were sent for to-day.

LONDON, Sept. 27. — (United Press.)—The views of nearly all the various British ministers who have been considering the rough draft of Lloyd George's proposed reply, had been received to-day, according to a report from Gairloch. There was no reason, it was said, to anticipate that any serious opposition to the line the Premier had taken, had arisen.

In that case, the reply would indicate clearly to De Valera, it was said, that it was the last word of the British government on the subject of the proposed conference. It would definitely refuse to recognize Irish independence, while leaving De Valera and his colleagues free to do so if they choose.

CAPITAL, LABOR AND PUBLIC ONE TO AID JOBLESS

(United Press).

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—In interviews given the United Press today, representatives of capital, labor and the public pledged their cooperation in the effort to provide work for the millions of unemployed.

Charles M. Schwab, the "Steel King," representing capital, declared he would "go the limit" to carry out the recommendations of the National Unemployment Conference.

James Couzens, millionaire Mayor of Detroit, representing the public, described the system of unemployment relief which was proving a great success in that city. The conference may discuss such a system.

Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, said labor would give its best efforts to mitigate unemployment through the conference. Although labor's representatives are in a minority among the delegates, and the organized workers will proceed very cautiously to avoid endorsing any plan injurious to the trades unions.

THE WEATHER

It will be remembered that the summer of last year was a very cool one, the warmest day of the whole summer being on Sept. 26th, a year ago yesterday. The temperature was up to 90 in the shade for the first and only time. The first time below freezing was September 19th. The lowest we have had it this fall was this morning, with 35 degrees. Hard frost has been late in arriving this season. The first snow flurries came on Oct. 1st. The first time the ground was white was Nov. 10, and the snow plows were out on Nov. 17th. The first zero weather was slow in coming and did not reach here until Jan. 16th, of 1921. In the preceding year (1919) first hard frost came on Oct. 8th; first snow on Nov. 8th, and the snow plows were out on Nov. 25. The first zero weather that year was on Dec. 3rd. These dates will give the reader some idea of the progress of the seasons and whether this one is tardy or not.—W.P.

MAY DECIDE TO PUSH T. & N.O. FARTHER NORTH

PREMIER DRURY CONFERS WITH COMMISSIONERS OF ROAD REGARDING MOOTED EXTENSION

WOULD OPEN COUNTRY TO PULP INDUSTRIES

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

NORTH BAY, September 27. — The extension of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway will be considered at a conference to be held here to-day, according to a statement made to the Examiner reporter by Premier Drury, who arrived this morning, and will discuss the whole matter with the T. and N. O. Commisisoners while here.

Data has been prepared covering the expense of cutting a right-of-way for seventy miles north from Cochrane towards James Bay.

If the time is judged to be opportune, this work will be carried on this winter to relieve the unemployment up north.

If such action was taken, it would involve the laying of steel next summer.

This will open up the country for four or five big pulp industries, which in turn would give sufficient freight to make the whole T. and N. O. self-sustaining and a revenue producer. He added, however, that the scheme to push it right on to James Bay was regarded as impractical and chimerical at the present time.

The majority of the Matheson Fire Arbitration Board is also being considered by Premier Drury and the members of the T. and N. O. Commission.

The session is being held behind closed doors and will continue, it is stated, until early this evening. While no official staement on the subject was made, it is intimated that an appeal is contemplated from the award which placed part of the responsibility for the destruction of Matheson on July 29, 1916, on the railway. Other matters affecting the T. and N. O. are being discussed. A deputation from New Liskeard will raise again the question of moving the divisional point from Englehart to New Liskeard and will urge the extension of the electric road from the latter place to North Temiskaming.

Arthur Stevens, President of the Board of Trade, of Cochrane, told The Examiner this morning that he had no intention of approaching the Premier on the James Bay extension of the T. and N. O. but that he was here merely to watch events.

FOUR CHILDREN ELECTROCUTED

TROLLEY POLE COMES OFF CAR, BREAKING FEED WIRE

KINGSTON, Mass., Sept. 27. — Four school children were killed here yesterday when a trolley pole came off a car which was carrying them to their homes, broke the feed wire and caused their electrocution when they jumped out of the car. The car was set on fire, but other children inside escaped serious injury.

Nine other children were held in the car, which was a one-man trolley of the Plymouth and Boston Street Railway Company, by the motorman. He caught a fifth youngster as he tried to leap to the ground.

All the children lived in Kingston, and were on their way home from the lower primary and Maple Avenue grammar schools.

The accident occurred late in the afternoon as the car approached a bridge. The trolley pole slipped off the wire and broke the feed line carrying thousands of volts. One end of the wire fell on the roof of the car, setting it afire. The other end fell to the bridge, charging the rails.

The children screamed and rushed to the door. The motorman tried to hold them back, but four jumped out. They came in contact with the rails and were electrocuted, dying instantly. The clothes were burned from their bodies. A fifth child had got to the door when the motorman seized him and barred the way, keeping the rest of his little passengers within the car until the current was turned off.

RED MINISTER SAYS NEW WAR A POSSIBILITY

DECLARES FRANCE AND BRITAIN ARE BACKING POLAND AGAINST RUSSIAN SOVIET.

ASKS INTERVENTION BY UNITED STATES

By EDWIN HULLINGER
(United Press Staff Correspondent).

MOSCOW, Sept. 27.—"We hope the United States will intervene in time to prevent another East European war, which seems possible," M. Tchicherin, Foreign Minister of the Russian Soviet Government, said today in an exclusive interview with the United Press. He had just delivered to the Polish Embassy a note rejecting the Polish ultimatum.

The Warsaw Government had defhanded of the Bolsheviki immediate fulfillment of the Treaty of Riga, providing for the release of prisoners, and indemnities. The Soviet answer was an almost curt refusal.

"Russia is preparing to defend herself," Tchicherin continued. "We have sufficient cavalry on the frontier to check a possible invasion until our general mobilization plans can be effected. We can put a large army in the field if necessary."

The Polish ultimatum expires October 1, and the Soviet Foreign Minister declared the Red armies would be ready by that time.

"England has suddenly adopted a new tone toward Russia," Tchicherin declared, citing the hostility implied in Lord Curzon's note, which to the Soviet indicated England's alignment with France behind Poland for a prospective offensive in the hope of overthrowing the Soviet.

"To counter this, we hope the United States may interfere," he said. "Recent negotiations indicate France has succeeded in persuading Poland to another military adventure. The Allies are deceived as to our internal situation.

HOLD YOUNG MAN FOR CONSPIRING AGAINST BRITAIN

IN CONNECTION WITH ATTEMPT TO SMUGGLE ARMS TO IRELAND

(United Press).

NEW YORK, Sept. 27. — George Gordon Rorke, 20, of Washington, was under arrest to-day on a charge of conspiracy against the peace of Great Britain in connection with an alleged attempt to smuggle six hundred riot guns to Sinn Feiners in Ireland. The guns were seized aboard the steamer Eastside at Hoboken, N.J., last June. Federal officials continued to search for three other alleged conspirators.

CITY TO GIVE WORK TO MANY WITHOUT JOBS

BOARD OF WORKS CONSIDERS EXTENSIVE CONSTRUCTION TO PROVIDE EMPLOYMENT NEXT WINTER.

WHITEHOUSE URGES SEWAGE PLANT WORK

Realizing that if anything is to be accomplished in the way of aleviating the unemployment problem, an early effort must be made by the City. The Board of Works last night empowered City Engineer H. R. Parsons to make a report on civic work that may be carried out this winter that will give employment to the workless. Members of the Council were unanimous that the Council anticipate a large number of unemployed this winter, and keep as many employed as possible on civic works. It is evident that a sincere and whole-hearted effort will be made to give men a job.

Ald. Whitehouse introduced the unemployment question. "There's a lot of unemployment in the city, and I would like to see work started on that sewage disposal plant," he declared. "Every day I have men at my office looking for work. I have placed a few on suburban work, and Mr. Evans has found work for some, but there are more than I can look after."

"I think the City Engineer should make a report on all the sewer work that can be done this winter. We have to give work to those men. I have a letter from Senator Robertson, Minister of Laobr, and he gives me to understand that the Government will make good the excess cost on any municipal work carried out to give work." Senator Robertson's letter was read, and he stated that consideration was being given this way of relieving the situation rather than by unemployment relief. He stated that the plan as now outlined was for the Dominion and Provincial Governments to make up the difference between the cost of municipal works carried out this winter to give employment and the normal cost. If a municipality constructed a civic work at a cost of $100,000 that would only normally, that is, in the summer time, cost $75,000, the Governments would unite to re-imburse such municipality to the extent of $25,000.

City Engineer Parsons stated that there were not many sewers to construct, but suggested that some men could be employed in removing trees.

Ald. Crowe favored breaking down every barrier to keep the men employed. He referred to the relaying of the King Street main, but was reminded that this was under the control of the Utilities Commission. Ald. Hamilton spoke of the storm drains in East City. Mr. Armstrong pointed out that this work could be gone ahead with only after notice of intention to pave had been given, and the paving would have to take place next year. It was possible to start work if these formalities were gone through.

"The best thing I can see is to start work on the sewage disposal plant. We have many unemployed now, and there will be more when the filtration plant is finished," said the Chairman.

Mr. Parsons said that his plans would be ready the end of this week. The City Clerk stated that the hearing of the Township's claim, for which a writ was issued years ago, was down for trial here during October. Mayor McIntyre advocated heading the claim off by pushing the plans for the commencement of the work, and he urged getting the plans passed by the Provincial Board without delay.

Mayor McIntyre moved, seconded by Ald. Phelan, that the plans for the sewage disposal plant be completed as soon as possible, and submitted to the Provincial Board of Health. The motion was adopted.

The discussion about unemployment ended in Mr. Parsons being instructed to report on all possible work that may be done this winter. It was also decided to have a meeting of the Committee of the Whole on Wednesday night, when representatives of the Utilities Commission will be present to discuss with the Council work that may be carried out. The laying of the main on King Street is but one example of work that may be started with a little urging, and plans for employment of a good number of men may come out of the meeting.

Ald. Frank Whitehouse was in the chair. The other five members of the Council present were: Mayor McIntyre, Ald. Phelan, Ald. Hamilton, Ald. Turner, Ald. Crowe and Ald. Morrison.

U.S. UNEMPLOYED TOTAL $3,500,000

(United Press).

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27. — Unemployed throughout the United States now number more than 3,500,000 a nation-wide survey made for the unemployment conference by the Department of Commerce showed to-day.

This total is approximately 40 per cent. less than the recent estimate of the Department of Labor, which stated that men out of work totalled 5,750,000.

TRAINMEN HAVE SPURNED SLASH IN FIRST VOTE

BALLOTS OF U.S. RAIL WORKERS OPENED THUS FAR OVERWHELMINGLY AGAINST ACCEPTANCE.

OFFICIALS PREDICT DECISION TO STRIKE

(United Press).

CHICAGO, Sept. 27. — Railroad workers of the nation will not rush to accept the wage reduction recently ordered by the United States Railroad Labor Board. Rather than do so they will desert their jobs, high officials of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, gathered here for the official canvass of that organization's strike vote, believed to-day.

But no unauthorized walk-outs will be tolerated, the union leaders declared. All men must remain on the job until a strike call is issued. The trainmen's ballots thus far opened have overwhelmingly spurned the new proposals. Vice-President James Murdock, acting head of the union during the illness of President W. G. Lee, declined, however, to predict the percentage of members favoring a strike.

A 100 per cent. vote among the 186,000 trainmen employed on class one railroads, paying under the provisions of the Railroad Labor Board's award, was brought out, Murdock told the United Press. This clash embraces all of the country's principal lines.

The Prince of Wales and Lord Haig are joint chairmen of the campaign organized by the British Legion.

STRATFORD BOY KILLED BY DOCTOR'S CAR LAST NIGHT

STRATFORD, Ont., Sept. 27. — Roy Smalley, the 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Smalley, was struck by an automobile driven by Dr. J. F. Sebben, aout six o'clock last night, and died from his injuries two hours later. The accident occurred at the corner of Huron and Mornington streets. Young Smalley was riding his bicycle down Mornington street and the car coming in the opposite direction, met him. The car passed over his chest.

Mr. C. E. Smalley, 226 Brock street, this city, is a brother.

OATS WEAKER IN CASH GRAIN MARKET

MONTREAL, Sept. 29.—(Canadian Press.)— The feature of the local cash grain market was the weaker feeling in oats and prices were reduced a cent per bushel. An easy feeling marks the flour situation with the prospect of an early decline in prices. Carloads of bran and shorts were offered at reduced prices to-day. The rolled oats market is steady. Prices are down $1 a ton for baled hay. There is nothing new in the egg situation, and the feeling in potatoes is steady. There was little change in the condition of the butter marked and demand for cheese is limited.

WORKS BOARD CLEANS SLATE

RAPIDLY DISPOSES OF ROUTINE ACCUMULATED IN RECENT MONTHS.

In an hour and a half last night the Board of Works Committee of the City Council disposed of various matters which have accumulated during the last few months, and in effecting such speedy disposal many motions were passed. Not only were routine affairs attended to, but the committee discussed unemployment, and from first steps taken last night it is practically assured that work for the workless will be provided by the city in various ways.

In the budget of communications was a letter from Percy Blade, asking for a cement sidewalk into his residence on Dublin Street and one into his greenhouse on Park Street.

City Engineer Parsons, in his report, did not advise laying a cement walk into these properties till walks are built on the north side of Dublin Street and on the east side of Park Street. What Mr. Parsons recommended was a wooden walk.

On the motion of Ald. J. Crowe and Ald. J. J. Turner, City Engineer Parsons and the chairman were given power to act on this request.

Two More Tanks.

Counting two "gas" tanks—permission for whose erection was given by the Board last night—there are 18 stations in Peterborough where the "joy-juice" is sold. These are City Engineer Parsons' figures.

Dawson & Johnston were granted permission to install a pump and tank on the west side of McDonnel Street at the corner of George Street, and James Harrison secured permission to put one in at the corner of Smith and Water Streets.

Mr. Parsons recommended granting permission in each case.

"There must be money in the gas business," remarked Ald. R. Morrison.

Sewers and Sidewalks.

Engineer Parsons was instructed to report upon an application of the Canadian Packing Company for a sewer on Wolfe Street, 270 feet easterly from George Street.

Until Mr. Parsons has received information from the G.T.R., no action can be taken by the Board in regard to constructing a sidewalk on the west side of Bethune Street between Perry and Lake Streets, as has been requested by William Menzies.

The Engineer reported that a peculiar situation existed here, and there was a difficulty about building a sidewalk, for it seems to be G.T.R. property over which the walk would have to be constructed. There is a question if there is any street there at all, and if there is no street, how, asked Mr. Parsons, could it be constructed under the Local Improvement Act, which specifies it must be on a street?

Mr. Parsons stated that the G.T.R. head office are acquainted with the situation now, and he is awaiting a reply from them.

On a motion, the matter was left in abeyance till information is received from the G.T.R.

Cinders Replace Boards.

J. Kearns, 111 Stewart Street, in a communication, reported that 58 feet of wooden sidewalk in front of his house was unsafe to walk upon, and the Board granted a cinder walk.

Ald. Phelan demurred. "The only thing is, it doesn't look very well, getting down from wood to cinders," he said.

Need Dyke on Water Street.

The names of T. E. Curtin, F. C. McBride, J. F. Galvin, and Catherine Switzer appeared on a petition submitted by Chairman Ald. F. Whitehouse, and also endorsed by him, asking that the city improve in some way the drainage on the west side of Water Street north of Smith Street.

Ald. Whitehouse explained that the walk is lower than the road, and in spring and after a rain the water not having any outlet, flows over the sidewalk and creates an impossible nuisance.

"I suppose it means a storm drain?" asked Ald. Turner.

"That's the only solution for it," said Mr. Parsons.

"Where would you run it?"

"To the Goose Pond."

Ald. J. Hamilton There's no storm drain north of the Goose Pond?

Ald. Turner and City Engineer: No.

ALLEGED TO HAVE RELEASED LIQUOR SEIZED IN RAID ON DISORDERLY HOUSE WITHOUT COURT ORDER.

SUSPENSION ASKED DURING THE PROBE

WINDSOR, September 27. Canadian Press. — The city council last night ordered an investigation into the charges preferred against Daniel Thompson, Chief of Police, formerly of Peterborough, by Ald. Mitchell.

It is charged by the alderman that the Chief of Police released liquor that was seized in a disorderly house, without the order of the court. Stating his efforts to have a certain house raided, the alderman added that the "police did raid the place, and they stayed there for an hour having a good time and all they wanted to drink."

Ald. Hooper and Ald. Strong asserted that the Police Commission had no jurisdiction over the Chief's appointment, that duty being solely within the jurisdiction of the council. Mayor Wilson concurred in this opinion.

Ald. Mitchell in making his charge before the council chamber crowded with citizens, said that he called up the police seven months ago, informing them that a disorderly house and a "blind pig" was being operated near his house on Dougall avenue. "This disorderly house," he explained at the request of Ald. Wood "was being conducted by persons from the United States. I laid several complaints before I got action. Chief Thompson promised and promised but it was not until I had personally sworn out a search warrant that the raid was staged."

"The police did raid the place and they stayed there for an hour having a good time and all that they wanted to drink. The man who had charge of the house afterwards boasted that he had laid in an extra supply of liquor in anticipation of the raid, to which he had been tipped off."

"No police court action followed, however, and no liquor was seized, until I took three patrolmen to the verandah of my home and with them waited until two men left the resort in an intoxicated condition. We arested three persons, and the Chief, according to what he told me, obtained a confession from them sufficient for conviction.'

"We also seized 9 one gallon jugs of liquor, 5 cases of Irish whiskey, and from 20 to 30 cases of beer."

"While the liquor was being unloaded at headquarters, officers were stealing it and placing it in a Ford car at the rear of the headquarters. There were only two Ford cars there at the time, one of which belonged to the Chief of Police. Later I was offered a bribe to forget the case. I refused, as I did other similar offers. The liquor was then sent back to the place from which it was seized by private arrangement between the Chief and Mr. Furlong, counsel for the operators of the resort. The liquor was retained with the understanding that the house on Dougall Avenue was to be closed and another opened on Elm Avenue."

Chief of Police Thompson was Chief of the Peterborough Police Force for ten years, leaving here early in 1920 to become head of the Windsor Department.

To see clearly and enjoy the fullness of perspective, you must see things at a reasonable distance. If you hold your reading mater too close, there is a big chance that you have myopia or "near sight." There is only one remedy for myopia—glasses. See W. H. Lacey, Optometrist, 410 George street.

SINN FEIN MILITARY ACTIVITY IN ULSTER ALLEGED TO-DAY'S NEWS OF THE DISTRICT

SPECIAL SERVICES HELD IN MILLBROOK CHURCHES

PRESBYTERIAN AND METHODIST CONGREGATIONS UNITE—MILLBROOK NEWS OF INTEREST.

MILLBROOK, Sept. 27.—Sunday September 25th., was observed as Rally Sunday in the Presbyterian and Methodist Churches and Sunday Schools here, in common with the majority of Protestant Sunday Schools throughout the Dominion. The Presbyterians intended holding their school in the morning when Rev. Mr. Black of Campbellford, was to conduct the service, but owing to bereavement in his family, Mr. Black was unable to keep his his appointment, hence no preaching services were held but the Sunday Schdol session was conducted in the afternoon as usual.

Rev. Manson Doyle of Toronto, assistant secretary of the General Board of Sunday Schools and Young People Societies, preached in the Methodist Church morning and evening, and addressed the Sunday School in the afternoon.

The heavy rain in the morning lessened the congregation but fortunately the weather cleared by noon and the attendance was considerably augmented for the other servces.

A Forceful Speaker

Rev. Mr. Doyle is a very forecful and impressive speaker and made emphatic some rather startling facts as to religious conditions in certain sections of Canada stating for instance, that Rev. C. W. De Mille, our Field Secretary in Saskatchewan, found 400 school districts in the southern part of that Province, amongst English-speaking settlers, where there is no type whatever of religious instruction being given where children have, in some cases reached the age of fourteen years without having ever seen a Bible either in thir own homes or elsewhere. And there are eight districts in one of the oldest settlements in Ontario where almost similar conditions prevail.

Mr. Doyle's text was from Luke 1: 66; "What manner of child shall this be?" And proceeding from the statement that this is the most important question confronting parents, teachers and leaders to-day, he made a strong plea for the proper religious and moral culture of the children of one land since Canada's fate, as a nation ,lies in their hands.

Even savage tribes long ago discovered that the more care they gave their infant life, (and though man has the highest possibilities of development yet, in babyhood, he is the most helpless of all creatures), the more rapidly their tribe grew strong and since that is a fact in the physical realm it is infinitely more true from the spiritual standpoint.

The answer to the question of the text is. "Train up a child in the way he should go and when he is old he will not depart from it." and while there are some failures they are the exceptions. They will be noticed and talked about possibly for three or four generations, yet the accepted thing is that the boys and girls of Christian parentage and from Christian homes, go right.

Special Music.

The choir, which was unusually large, rendered the anthem, 'Saviour like a Shepherd lead us", four young girls taking the obligato part, and Mrs. Sayles and Miss Stewart the duet. At the conclusion of the sermon six boys sang, most appropriatley, "Scatter Seeds."

At the afternoon session, which was well attended, the Rally Day program, specially prepared and sent out from headquarters in Toronto, was followed throughout; and Mr. Doyle interested the children, particularly telling of Sunday Schools started in the west amongst foreigners, and in other sections of Canada, by public school teachers because, where they taught day school, there was no form of religious service being held. He mentioned especially a letter received from one young lady teacher, who began a Sunday School in the section, and for six months paid for the supplies with her own money. But when her mother took seriously ill and she must give her financial aid, she wrote to cancel her order for supplies and only then found out that these would be gladly supplied free in such cases by the General Board. And this is only one of the splendid uses to which the Rally Day offering is put—this offering taken one Sunday in the year, throughout Canada, being the only source of income upon which the Board depends to carry on its work.

Evening Services.

In the evening Mr. Doyle gave a very helpful and impressive exposition of the text: 'Far we have not received the spirit of fear, but of power", emphasizing the two great words "fear" and "power" and pointing out that while we have wonderful sources of power in our land— the coal fields of British Columbia,— the fertile plains of the Prairie provinces, and the water-power of the East— yet these remained valueless throughout the ag-

Miss Marie Garneau left last week to visit with friends in Rochester, N. Y.

Local showers and high winds passed over here yesterday, and the temperature is very much cooler. The leaves are falling and things are beginning to look like fall .

The many friends of Mr. Frank Pollock will regret to hear of his illness with typhoid fever at the hospital at Indian Head, N.W.T. Frank left on the harvesters excursion in August and was taken ill soon after. The latest reports are that he is convalescing nicely but it will be some time before he can be removed home.

Sunday school rally day was fittingly observed at the church Sunday and a splendid congregation was present.

CAMPBELLFORD HAD ITS OWN HYDRO SYSTEM IN 1889 AND STILL OWNS FINE POWER PLANT

A pioneer in the municipal ownership of electric power, the town of Campbellford remains in full possession of its water rights, with its own generating plant, supplying the energy that lights its homes and its streets, drives the wheels in its factories, and furnishes a surplus for sale to the Hydro-Electric Commission. In the Central Ontario power system it stands aloof and alone in its independence, steadfastly refusing to divest itself of its resources and make the leap into the Hydro pool. Some day it may make the plunge, but for the present Campbellford prefers the position of producer and seller of power instead of merely a consumer and customer of the Hydro. Its plant at Crowe Bay, a couple of miles above the town, represents an asset valued around $200,000. The two generators have a capacity of approximately 2,500 horse-power, and the potential production at this point is about 5,100 horse-power when the flood of water is fully harnessed.

Above the dam is a storage system that is said to be better than at most of the power plants on the Trent system, although not so good as at Healey's Falls, and the further development of the resource at Crowe Bay can be carried out more cheaply than at any place on the river, according to one authority.

Extensions, however, are not contemplated, not while the municipality has a surplus which it sells on a consumption basis to the Hydro. If the demand from the town's industries were pressing closely upon the maximum output of the power station then it would be soon enough to discuss the fullest utilisation of the available unharnessed horse-power now going to waste with incessant roar that sounds always above the everyday activities of the town. And that waste perplexes Campbellford's inveterate optimists. Why shouldn't this community be one of the leading industrial centres in Eastern Ontario — not a busy, thriving town, but a full blown city? Healey's Falls above, Ranney's Falls below, the one exploited and the other an unfinished Hydro project well on the way to completion, two lesser units fully developed, and still other power to be had close by, a total potential production of at least 50,000 horse-power, say the unshaken optimists, and only a fraction of it used at home. True, this is a digression, but an inescapable one, when any Campbellford man discusses the town's rich heritage of electric power.

First Dam in 1889.

Thirty-two years ago Campbellford boasted of its own dam and power house. Its first venture in a municipal lighting plant and waterworks was made in 1889. The Hydro-Electric scheme was not broached in Ontario until 1902, when it was originated in Kitchener, then Berlin, by the enterprising business men of that city, whose expanding industries were crying out for increased power. And it was not until 1909 that the first Hydro-Electric development system began operations. Campbellford then had its own hydro-electric scheme, which had passed through its first stage of growth. The plant built in 1889 gave place to a new one erected in 1899-1900, ten years later, at Crowe Bay, on the Gilmour Dam. The third one was located near the present site, but a little above it, and finally in 1909 the present modern generating station, with its two turbines, was started.

Since then the power resources of the Trent Valley, including the waters of the Otonabee and the upper sections of the vast watershed, have been vastly developed and linked together in the Central Ontario power system, owned by the Provincial Government and operated by the Hydro-Electric Commission. With this pooling of interests and assets and the construction of an extensive transmission system cities such as Peterborough, in the very heart of the power area, are supplied from the same sources as the lakeshore towns from Oshawa to Belleville, remote from the valuable waterfalls on the Trent.

Plenteous but vague promises of geatness in store for Peterborough preceded Sir Adam Beck's purchase of the Central Ontario properties. Who shall say that they have been realised even in part. And who will deny that Peterborough's surrender of independence and unfettered initiative has not diverted, by the far distribution of local power, much of its chief natural resource and its rightful opportunities to communities that were hopeless and comparatively hopeless until they received the benefit of the Beck handout. This, too, is but a digression, and not a pleasant one.

Cheap Rates.

Campbellford, with its own power under the direct managementr of its elected commission, has domestic, commercial, and industrial rates that rank among the lowest in the Province, according to information from the late manager, Mr. B. McLean. It has attractive inducements for manufacturers, and in the next period of expansion in this county, should command the serious attention of the heads of incoming industries and of those created by Canadian enterprise.

HARVEST FESTIVAL HELD IN LAKEFIELD

LAKEFIELD Sept. 26.—The annual Harvest Festival of St. John's Church was held on Friday evening. The church was beautifully decorated with grain, flowers, fruit and vegetables by a willing corps of ladies under the direction of Mrs. O. A. Langley. The service was fully choral and was well attended. The anthem "Oh Worship the King" was sung, Mrs. A. E. Dawson and Mr. G. E. Donaldson taking the solo parts. Rev. G. F. B. Doherty of St. Luke's church, Toronto, was the special preacher and delivered a most appropriate sermon. The Harvest festivals were continued on Sunday with choral services, both morning and evening and in the afternoon for the children.

Rev. A. W. McKenzie was the preacher at the morning service and gave a splendid sermon on the lessons of harvest. In the afternoon, the Sunday School held its harvest festival with a short address by the rector.

In the evening the Rector was the preacher and gave several practical illustrations of the perils which threaten the Christian life as the fruit and vegetable life is menaced by worms and decay.

MRS. A. C. TUPPER DEAD.

(Special to The Examiner).

WINNIPEG, Sept. 27.—Word has been received here of the death at Rochester, Minn., of Ada Campbell, widow of James Stewart Tupper, K.C., of Winnipeg, following a severe operation. Deceased was a daughter of the late Sir Thomas Galt, of Toronto, and sister of John and George J. Galt, cousin of Mr. Justice Galt, of Winnipeg. The funeral service will be held at Rochester, Minn., and the remains taken to Oxford, England. Her husband was the eldest son of the late Sir Charles Tupper, Bart. He died five years ago. Her eldest son is young Sir Charles Tupper, Bart., of Winnipeg. Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper, Vancouver, is a brother-in-law.

BECAME CONSCIOUS ENTERING COFFIN

KINGSTON, September 27.—Fermand Larmount, better known as Joseph Dafoe, an inmate of the Kingston House of Providence, is 103 years old. His health is excellent, his mind clear, and his hearing good, but his eyesight is failing. He was brought to the house last April from Flinton, Hastings County, where he lived alone.

He recalsl that many years ago, when seriously ill, he became unconscious and his friends thought he was dead. A coffin was ordered but when he was being lifted into it he became conscious to the great surprise of his friends, some of whom fainted. He is a French Canadian, and was born 20 miles east of Montreal at a place then called Grande St. Spree.

ROBBERS HOLD CARNIVAL DAY

NEW YORK AND LONG ISLAND STARTLED BY SERIES OF DARING HOLD-UPS AND BURGLARIES

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.— (Canadian Press.) — The cry of "crime wave" was raised again last night, after a day of carnival for robbers in New York and neary Long Island.

The most daring bit of thievery was attempted in the Grand Central station, where in as crowded a spot as can be found in the city, three bandits armed with lead pipes and revolvers fell upon a cashier of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad and tried to snatch a handbag containing thousands of dollars. A man alleged to have been a member of the trio was captured after a pistol fight in which 18 shots were fired, corridor walls scarred with bullets and thousands of commuters attracted to the scene. The money was saved.

Other bits of melodrama included: A pistol attack upon Michael Jmachacek, a theatre manager, at second avenue and 74th street, while he was carrying $1,200 to the bank. Result: Jmachacek dropped his money box at the first shot, which grazed his cheek and his assailant, scooping up $400, escaped in an automobile.

Dermott Perdsiatt and his bride were held up by four men at the brides home on Ninth avenue. Three of the robbers weer arrested.

TAKE STEPS TO STOP RIOTING IN BELFAST

BELFAST, Sept. 27.— (Canadian Press.)—A proclamation prohibiting the assembly of three or more persons together in Newtonards Road, in East Belfast, the scene of fierce fighting on Sunday, was issued last evening, to become effective at 8.30 o'clock last night. The order is similar to the Riot Act.

Military forces are holding the riot zone with fixed bayonets. Lorries equipped with powerful searchlights already have taken up positions to locate snipers.

BELFAST, Sept. 29.— (Canadian Press.)— Sir James Craig, after a conference here with the military and police, announced that it had been decided to mobilize special constabulary in certain parts of the north of Ireland for the maintenance of order.

Sir James' statement announcing the decision to mobilize the special constables, follows:

"Robert Lynn, (Editor of the Northern Whig), asked Sir James Craig in Ulster House this afternoon whether he was aware that during the last two months large quanties of arms and ammunition had been brought into Northern Ireland by Sinn Feiners; whether he was aware the Sinn Feiners constantly were engaged in drilling, and whether he could state if his Government would approach the Imperial Government and bring those facts to its notice with the object of re-establishing law and order in northern Ireland. The Prime Minister answered that, according to information received 'from my government from trustworthy sources, the reply to the first two parts of the question is in the affirmative.'

"My government has again had under consideration the existing stae of affairs and has had a conference with the police, military and the Lord Mayor of Belfast to-day,

TO-MORROW'S CONVENTION.

For the present the local interest in the Federal election centres upon the convention of the Liberal-Conservative Association of West Peterborough, which will be held in Victoria Hall to-morrow night for the purpose of selecting a candidate for the coming campaign. That convention will practically determine the field in the local fight, for neither the United Farmers nor the Labour forces are likely to enter candidates, and it is taken for granted that G. N. Gordon, the sitting member, will be tendered the Liberal nomination. In regard to to-morrow night's meeting, there is little advance news other than that the name of Mr. J. H. Burnham, former member for West Peterborough, and who ran in the by-election as an Independent, will go before the convention. Other names will doubtless be submitted and the meeting promises to be one of unusual interest, the more so as there has been little said about the developments that are likely to occur, and the general public is consequently in the dark. The only thing that seems certain now is that the standard bearer selected to-morrow night and Mr. Gordon will have the field to themselves, with no other candidates to complicate the situation and no other policies to worry the voters.

PROVIDING WORK.

The action of the Board of Works committee of the City Council last night in deciding to ask City Engineer Parsons to make a report on the amount of civic work that can be carried on during the coming winter in order to provide employment for as many as possible of the bread winners who are workless, seems to be the only practicable step that can be taken by the Council towards the solution of the unemployment problem. It is recognized that supplying work for the unemployed is a much more satisfatcory method than to merely issue cash doles or grocery orders and the announcement that the Dominion and Provincial governments are likely to assist the municipalities by paying the excess cost of work carried on in the winter months, making up the difference between the expenditure on such work in the usual season and its costs during the cold weather removes the only serious objection to the policy of pushing ahead the municipal construction programme. Members of the Council last evening showed themselves alive to the needs of the hour and are apparently resolved that the city will do all in its power to furnish work during the winter.

THAT 22,000 CROWD.

The press agent who sent out a story of an attendance of 22,000 people at the Lindsay Fair on Saturday is a poor judge of a crowd, or else Lindsay's exhibition must be given credit for being a bigger drawing card than the Woodbine. Although for the second time in the history of the track the infield at the Woodbine had to be used to accommodate the crowd on Saturday, after the big double-decked grandstand and the lawns and paddock had been packed to capacity, the total attendance was given at 20,000, 2,000 less than the advertised attendance at Lindsay. 22,000 people represents about three times the total population of Lindsay, and if the publicity man has not made a mistake in his figures, there must have been at least 14,000 visitors, provided every man, woman and child in Lindsay atended, which of course was impossible. Frankly, there is reason to believe that the gentleman who did the estimating would have been able to show Canada with a population of at least ten million people if he had been given the position of chief census enumerator. If 5,000 Lindsay people attended on Saturday, and that number is likely too high an estimate, it would leave 17,000 to come in from outside. Allowing for 2,000 to come by train—a very liberal estimate— the majority of the others would have to come by motor car, and it would require about 3,000 cars averaging five passengers each, to transport them. It looks as if the press agent must have counted the same people three or four times to arrive at his total.

THE POOR REDMAN.

The push of commercial enterprise north into the oil regions along the Mackenzie River is apparently about to take the last stretch of free territory away from the red man in Canada. About two thousand Indians of various tribes live by hunting and trapping and fishing in the country to the north of Alberta. Extending from the Yukon boundary line to the Coppermine River, and bounded on the north by the friendly Arctic coast, the Indians' country includes a lake larger than Lake Ontario and a river longer than the St. Lawrence. Caribou and musk oxen thrive on the abundant growth of vegetation, there is a profusion of game and bird life, the lakes are stocked with fish beyond the tales of the most imaginative sportsmen, there are forests and minerals, and the untapped resources of stored-up solar energy have attracted the financial powers from New York and London.

This last expanse of common land in Canada, free from the control of private monopoly, is about 372,000 square miles in area. Under the new treaty with the Federal Government, one square mile of land will be allotted to each family of five. Other provisions in the Indians' mess of pottage are as follows, according to a news item:

"Each chief will receive $25 a year in perpetuity from the Government, each head man $15 a year, and every other Indian, man, woman or child, $5 a year. Each band will also be supplied with fishing and hunting outfits, or, if he prefers it, agricultural implements. A suit of clothes each three years is also an item coming to each chief and head man."

In a somewhat pathetic finishing touch to the bargain, it is added that as a souvenir each chief will get a silver medal, a flag, and a copy of the treaty. Doubtless, it is all strictly above board, in accordance with the rules of the game, and the requirements of what is known as industrial civilization.

SOVIET TREACHERY.

Treacherous intrigue against Britain in India and other Eastern states was no more than was to be expected from the Soviet Government of Russia. No doubt they did not surprise the British Government. If there was surprise anywhere, it was in Moscow a couple of days ago when Earl Curzon's note arrived letting the Soviet blackguards know that their treachery was no secret to the British Foreign Office.

The British Government was not deceived in making its trade treaty with the Moscow Government into believing that the men it was dealing with were honest. It knew them to be international outlaws incapable of decency. But Russia sorely needed trade with Britain and her necessity offered a means of forcing some measure of good behaviour so far as British interests were concerned upon Lenine and Trotzky. To save India from becoming the spoils of Communism, to stay the red hand of Bolshevism at the frontiers of Russia—that was the only reason the British Government entered into the trade treaty with Moscow. The advantage of British trade in Russia's need was a lever that could be employed to restrain the evil purposes of the Soviet.

The Russian Government's mistake was that it supposed it could put its signature to the treaty, thereby promising to behave, and then proceed calmly to break it. It thought it could carry on its intrigue secretly. But the British Government knew what to expect, and in warning Moscow now it is doing only what it knew it would have to do. This is the first warning. If it is not effective, the Lenine Government must be prepared to sacrifice the advantages that Russia is deriving from the trade treaty. The Soviet gentlemen must keep their hands out of British affairs or pay for their sport.—Ottawa Journal.

LITERARY GEMS

Have ever you heard of the Land of Beyond,
That dreams at the gates of the day?
Alluring it lies at the skirts of the skies,
And ever so far away:
Alluring it calls: "O ye the yoke galls,
And ye of the trail overfond,
With saddle and pack, by paddle and track,
Let's go to the Land of Beyond!

Have you ever stood where the silences brood,
And vast the horizons begin,
At the dawn of the day to behold far away,
The goal you would strive for and win?
Yet, ah! in the night when you gain to the height
With the vast pool of heaven, star-spawned,
Afar and agleam, like a valley of dream,
Still mocks you a Land of Beyond.

Thank God! there is always a Land of Beyond
For us who are true to the trail;
A vision to seek, a beckoning peak,
A farness that never will fail;
A pride in our soul that mocks at a goal,
A manhood that irks at a bond,
And try how we will, unattainable still,
Behold it, our Land of Beyond!

The Backbone of Canada

The story of Canada's prosperity is told in the development of her agricultural resources, for Canada has become one of the greatest agricultural countries in the world.

This has been made possible only through a struggle with problems which the life insurance companies have helped to solve by placing twenty-five to forty per cent. of their entire assets in mortgage loans.

Today this assistance is measured by one hundred and thirty millions of dollars invested in mortgages and loans by the Life Insurance Companies.

Silently and effectively these funds are at work, making conditions easier for our people and adding to the general prosperity of the country.

When you think of life insurance, remember it serves you in two ways—while it is protecting your home it is also building up the nation.

NANCY PROVES HER GUILT.
CHAPTER 73.

For the next week the police kept constantly in touch with us. They questioned and probed in their endeavor to throw some light on the attempted kidnapping. They also interviewed Tom Barney, in order to obtain every detail he could give them in regards to the finding of Kent Jr.

But nothing came of it and Nancy never returned or claimed her suitcase. The deductions were evident. We knew now that the kidnapping had been carefully planned out and arranged for. The thought of it all made me shudder.

I watched Kent, Jr., constantly, like a jealous mother cat that hovers over her tiny, precious kittens. When I thought of the terrible thing which might have happened I felt profoundly thankful. But my mind and jaded nerves were far from being quieted.

My brain rushed back and turned over different remarks that Nancy had made. At the time I had not thought greatly about them. I recalled the time she had been impressed with the value and abundance of our silver, and again how she had remarked that Mr. Armour must be very wealthy. Then again I remembered how she persisted in staying out so late night after night, in spite of my displeasure and request for her not to do so. I knew that even though she had not been inclined toward wrong doing herself she had most likely been influenced by evil companions. I trembled at my own lack of insight and negligence. I had been too lax and certainly too lenient with her.

But the best part of it all was Kent's love, which seemed to have grown deeper and more enveloping. If he loved me before ,now he seemed almost to worship. Every last atom of difference of feeling or misunderstanding between us was forever torn away. Our souls at last seemed to be completely and exquisitely merged into one. It was as though the binding ropes of perverted sense and desire that had held Kent's soul from mine had been cut asunder and he had come rushing to me. And every bit of blinding narrowness dropped from heart's vision and I at last beheld Kent in his real strength and goodness.

"Honest, soul-stirring love is the most wonderful thing in the world isnt 'it Babs?" Kent said to me one evening after Kent Jr., had gone to bed and we were sitting together in the living room.

I leaned over and pressed his hand and he held mine tightly.

"I have never realized before what a marvellous force and power it is," he went on. "Once you feel it—once real love catches you up and claims you, you have to follow it through to the end. You can't step aside or forget. No matter what hapens you can't disclaim it—for it is woven into your heart as a very part of your life."

I watched Kent's face as he talked. This last experience which we had been through had aged him perceptibly. His face had new lines in it. They were lines of strength and discovery.

"And that is where the difference between happiness and misery comes in," he mused. "If love is deep, and straight and clean, it will purge you of every grief and unhappiness. Its birthright is nobility, and if you resist it thtre is nothing left for you but misery."

"And for us, dearest, for us, it has brought wonderful happiness, hasn't it?" I asked, and for answer Kent caught me up passionately in his strong arms. "And love must always be mutual, dearest," I whispered. "That is why ours has been so enduring and powerful."

"Yes, Babs, or better yet, a precious three cornered love. We could not feel quite so happy or complete without Baby Kent. I am afraid he has done more for me than I am ever going to be able to thank him for.He has filled my life with hope and given me something to work and strive for,and no love is big or worth much without service in it."

To be able to do cheerfully the distasteful tasks which each one of us must do is worth as much as to be able to discover a gold mine. If we could compute the number of times a fretful disposition has made us ill, or rather if we were able to trace the cause of all our illness and found how often a bad disposition was at the root of it probably most people would not believe our computations. For that reason a cheerful disposition is worth a gold mine.

Of course, it is easy to be cheerful when things are going your way. Anyone can wear a smile then. But at other times it is not so easy, queer that it isn't too because finding fault with things doesn't change them any. In fact the dose doesn't taste nearly as bitter if we take it with a smile. When a thing has to be done, and when no amount of grouching around about it will get us out of the task, why not do it cheerfully? Try this plan anyway and see how it works.

Sunshine is the housewife's best antiseptic. It is hard for a cold to thrive in a house flooded in sunshine. Even if the members of your household are not at home during sunshiny hours, if they sit at night and sleep in rooms that have been flooded in sunshine and fresh air during the daytime they will reap the benefit. So forget the fact that sunshine fades rugs and hangings and let the sun shine in for all it is worth during those months when the sunshine is none too strong, anyway. Pull up your curtains and shades as high as they will go and let this greatest of antidotes come in.

The Dread Pyorrhea Begins With Bleeding Gums

Pyorrhea's infecting germs cause many ills. Medical science has proven this.

Diseased conditions, which not long ago doctors were unable to trace to a cause, are now known often to be the result of Pyorrhea germs that breed in pockets about the teeth. Rheumatism, anaemia, nervous disorders and other diseases have been traced in many cases to this Pyorrhea infection.

Don't let Pyorrhea work its wicked will on your body. Visit your dentist frequently for tooth and gum inspection.

And watch your gums yourself. Pyorrhea, which afflicts four out of five people over forty, begins with tender and bleeding gums; then the gums recede, the teeth decay, loosen and fall out, or must be extracted to rid the system of poisons generated at their base.

Forhan's For the Gums will prevent Pyorrhea—or check its progress, if used in time and used consistently. Ordinary dentifrices cannot do this. Forhan's keeps the gums hard and healthy—the teeth white and clean. Start using it today. If gum-shrinkage has already set in, use Forhan's according to directions and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment.

NEW YORK TOOK ANOTHER HITCH ON AMERICAN LEAGUE PENNANT

IT WAS A THRILLING STRUGGLE AND FANDOM GOT THEIR MONEY'S WORTH—BABE RUTH IN THE SPOTLIGHT---OTHER GAMES IN THE BIG LEAGUES.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27. —(Canadian Press.)—New York took a firm grip on first place in the exciting American League pennant race and went a long way toward clinching their first championship by defeating Cleveland in a tense, thrilling struggle here yesterday, by a score of 8 to 7. The victory gave New York three out of four victories from the present world's champions and gave New York a lead of two full games, with Cleveland having only four more games to play and New York five. Babe Ruth, the famous Yankee slugger, was the hero of the New York victory, as he had one of his greatest batting days since coming into the American League. Ruth hit two home runs, a two-bagger and walked, in four times up. He either scored or drove in five of the eight New York runs. Ruth's first homer was made off Coveleskie in the first, with no one on base, and the second was prodded out of Uhle in the fifth after Peckinpaugh had opened the inning with a single. Both home runs were terrific drives, the first clearing the upper corner of the right field stand and landing in a runway in back of the bleachers, while the second cleared the roof of the right field grand stand. Each manager called in three pitchers in an effort to win the crucial struggle. Quinn started for the Yankee, but was knocked out in the first inning. Hoyt relieving him in the first inning and did well until he injured his hand while stopping a hot drive by Speaker in the seventh.

Mays, who pitched only Sunday, relieved Hoyt in the eighth and weathered a stormy ninth as Sewell and Burns were on base when Mays struck out O'Neill for the last out. Coveleskie, who lost the opening game of the series, was knocked out in the third inning and was replaced by Uhle, who shut out New York in last Saturday's game. Only four hits were made off Uhle, but in each case a home run followed a single. It was Schang's home run in the sixth with McNally on base which gave New York its last two runs and a victory.

The hitting of George Burns, who made a triple and three singles, featured Cleveland's play. Burns drove in four runs and scored a fifth. A defensive play by Elmer Miller saved the game for New York. His diving catch of Speaker's short fly in the eighth with runners on second and third prevented Cleveland from taking gthe lead in that inning.

In the seventh inning a splendid throw by Miller to McNally caught Sewell at third. Miller's throw cut down Sewell at third for the third out, following a hit by Burns, who had sent in two runs.

BLANKED CHICAGO.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 27. — Moore and Harris blanked Chicago, 3 to 0, yesterday, and gave the locals the final series with the White Sox, four games to one. In the sixth innings, Johnson knocked the ball over Strunk's head into the left field bleachers, but Strunk protested that the bleacherites had interfered with his judging the ball and Umpire Moriarity honored the protest by declaring the home run void. Score:

Why Willard Is the Battery for Canada

Extreme temperatures affect the most vital part of any battery—the insulation betwen the plates. Most batteries contain wood insulation which tends to crack, warp and wear out. This means spending money for re-insulation or a new battery.

You save this expense, trouble and worry, when you buy a Willard Threaded Rubber Battery. Its insulators are made of rubber, which everyone knows is the best form of electrical insulation. Tiny threads render it porous for free circulation of battery solution.

It's the threads and the rubber which fit the Willard Threaded Rubber Battery for the Canadian climate.

A. BARBEAU

A ROMANCE IN THE EARLY DAYS

(By Jeannette.)

John Andrews rose and laid his long pipe on the mantel-shelf. He poked the fire with his heavy boot and gazed down into the glowing embers. Up from the flaming heart o fthe coal looked the face of Bridget McNaughton, the girl who had flouted him. Her bright eyes and red cheeks semed to mock him from the leaping flames. The prettiest girl in all the township of Ops, the best stepper at the country parties and a great hand at the bread-pan, she was the belle of the district in that year of Our Lord 1829. She had many suitors, but though she smiled on one and all, everyone agreed that John Andrews was the man for her.

"An' sure isn't he the broth of a boy," said King O'Connell, as he sat at home in his island kingdom and watched the Queen darning Padric's stockings over against the rush candle.

"With the twinkling blue eyes and the long limb of him, and the lilt of Limerick on his tongue, sure he's a match for any girl, even Mike McNaughton's daughter." And the Queen nodded in warm approval. She had the reputation of being a wonderful housekeeper and manager, and she never contradicted the King except when he returned with a drop too much, maybe, after a visit to the tavern at Peterborough.

But John's eyes weren't twinkling to-night. Hadn't he sent Bridget a letter, the work of many laborious hours, telling all about his love for her and asking her to be his wife. Sent it by James Duffy, his neighbor, who was going down to Oshawa and would deliver it by the way. And here, after these many weary days of waiting, James came back with never a sign nor a scrap of writing, and never a word from the lovely damsel.

"Well, I won't be botherin' me head with the likes of her," declared John, and sodded up the fire for the night. But it was with a heavy sigh that he pulled the blankets over his head.

That was the year that the mill was built, an ambitious venture of three and one-half storeys, and, by the same token, it was just about the time that the surveyor came to plot out the town site, bringing with him one Lindsay, who, engaged in a friendly brawl of an evening, unfortunately suffered a shot, from the effects of which he later died. Perhaps by way of some sort of compensation, the settlers decided to call the scene of his unexpected demise after him.

Went to Lindsay.

So to Lindsay went John next morning. Six miles he must go with his grain, but that was little compared to some. One family brought grain from fifteen miles away, and it was known of a girl that on one occasion she had walked in, carrying a bushel of grain for sixteen miles. Here the new grist mill carried on a rushing business. Since the first order it executed, which, by the way, had been for the celebration of a wake, it had worked night and day. Often one had to wait one's turn for days at a time. Then one simply camped by the river in the meantime, slept at night before the roaring mill fire place, and made flapjacks from the new flour. The miller received for his toil and trouble one-twelfth of the new grist.

John was lucky. His turn came very soon, and then, leaving his flour to be called for on his return, proceeded on down by canoe to Peterborough. From there he took the "middle line" on horseback, the track which ran in those days from Cobourg through Peterborough to Omemee, ending at the Lindsay Landing. He had in mind to proceed by leisurely stages to York, where his aunt, Mrs. Burnoff, dwelt. She was a woman of sense with a taste for managing the affairs of others, and would be able to direct him to a knowledgable girl whom he might take back as wife to his settler's home. Bridget McNaughton should not flout him with impunity.

To York, therefore, he journeyed, and, sure enough, his aunt, who was an inveterate match-maker, knew of the very girl to suit him. Tall and strong, Betsy Bassett was the very one. And John agreed.

That night, however, he had a dream. Tired and sore from his long ride, he lay down on the hard bunk in the kitchen, and fell into an uneasy slumber. He thought he was walking beside the mighty waters which the Indians called Ontoneagreat, when suddenly he slipped and fell. Hanging perilously to a tiny ledge, he shouted loudly. Came a tall damsel who regarded him with a haughty eye, and passed on, but behind her was a small and dainty maiden, who straightway helped him to safety.

Related His Dream.

Over his morning meal of mash and buttermilk, he related his dream to his aunt, and recorded his displeasure at the tall maiden's actions. "Had she not said that Betsy Bassett was tall?" Mrs. Burnoff only laughed, however, and bade him begone out of doors while she tidied up the place against the visit of Betsy, who had been bidden to the house that day.

Sauntering out into the mellow sunshine, John idly stood and watched the passengers disembarking from a boat just arrived from Lewiston. Suddenly his heart leaped, for, coming towards him from the big boat, looking this way and that in a timid fashion, was a small maiden, the counterpart of the lady of his dream. It was she who had helped him from a watery grave. Nora O'Hare, a young Irish colleen out from Tipperary with her family, who had left her behind at Mount Royal sick with the cholera, while they journeyed on up the river. She was now secking to rejoin them in a new and strange world. But John had recognized the hand of fate, and when her family next saw Nora, it was as the young Mrs. Andrews, riding in on an ox-cart with all the brave new utensils, the chair and the table that John had purchased for his bride.

Bridget McNaughton was one of the first of the women to befriend the lonely young newcomer, and she and Nora became fast friends. It was many years after, when Bridget had been long married to Thomas Burke, that she confided the tale of the strayed letter to her friend, Nora Andrews. She had sent a reply by James McDuffy, accepting John, but the wily Jamie, having two marriageable sisters of his own, and thinking that John, if disappointed, might reasonably turn an eye in their direction, had failed to deliver the letter. Bridget often said with a sigh that "any woman should be happy with John Andrews." Nora, however, who remained friendly with her until she died, never told her husband, John, the truth of the matter, because he had confided to her at one time that "he once had a thought for Bridget McNaughton, but gave it up when he found that the poor thing went with a limp," a pardonable masculine subterfuge which pleased its maker, who, firmly believing in Divine guidance in his choice of a wife, cared most until the end for his little Irish wife.

TALE OF TWO SUITS IN A TURKISH BATH.

$150 Outfit Disappears in Night, Rags Left Behind—Victim Loses Money and Job.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—One hundred and fifty dollars was spent by Herman Schwartz, a furrier, who lives in a Turkish bath establishment at 268 East Tenth Street, for a clothing layout. It was a treat for his 30th birthday. Before going to bed he packed away his brown derby hat worth $7, brown suit worth $65, brown shoes worth $10, brown socks worth $1 and other pieces of apparel that were studies in brown. Also, he left $20.85 and his army discharge papers in a coat pocket.

He arose with a light heart the following morning, but it sank like lead when he beheld in place of his clothes a sorry brown derby, a brown suit worth less than $1, he said; pair of shoes with holes in the soles and a pair of worn brown socks. His money and army discharge papers were gone. Only his brown-striped silk shirt was there.

Schwartz reported his loss to the cashier of the bath and hurried to work, but he told Magistrate W. Bruce Cobb in Essex Market Court later that he lost his job for failure to report at eight o'clock sharp. Without carfare, Schwartz walked up to the Bowery to seek work.

"I was going up the Bowery," said Schwartz, "and looked so seedy in this riga left in my locker that a man came over and handed me a dime. I took it, not wanting him to think I was a tramp, and jumped on a car. At 125th Street and Third Avenue I got off the car, saw a man standing in front of a mirror in a candy store, tilting his brown derby at angle and fixing his tie.

"'That's my suit and hat,' I said to myself," Schwartz continued. "I went to Patrolman Cornelius Walters, who was standing opposite, and told him my story.

"'You say that fine looking man over there is a thief and is wearing your clothes?' Walters says to me. 'Sure,' I replied. 'I can prove it.'"

The stranger handed Walters a cigar, which Schwartz said also belonged to him, and remarked: "This is a strange case, but to convince you, officer, that this seedy looking stranger is insane, I'll tell you that I am Herman Schwartz, the Wall Street broker."

"Prove it," shouted Schwartz.

Walters decided to take the two studies in brown to the East 22nd Street station. There it was found that the "seedy stranger" was able to indetify many articles of the other's clothing. When Schwartz told the police lieutenant that he had $20.85 in his clothes when he put them away, the police found the money, they said, also the name of the clothing dealer, and the initial on a silk handkerchief corresponded with information given by Schwartz.

When the man was unable to tell the brand of cigar that he had bought, he broke down, Walters said. Schwartz told the police the brand of cigar and won the day.

"I'm not Herman Schwartz," the police said the man admitted. "I'm just plain Abby Goldstein."

When arraigned, Magistrate Cobb asked Walters if he had not made a plainant. When told that Schwartz dressed in the torn suit, was the complainant, he ordered the two men to change clothing. Goldstein was held in $1,000 bail.

Quit Laxatives, Purges; Try NR

NR Tonight—Tomorrow Feel Right

It is a mistake to continually dose yourself with so-called laxative pills, calomel, oil, purges and cathartics and force bowel action. It weakens the bowels and liver and makes constant dosing necessary.

Why don't you begin right today to overcome your constipation and get your system in such shape that daily purging will be unnecessary? You can do so if you get a 25c box of Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) and take one each night for a week or so.

NR Tablets do much more than merely cause pleasant easy bowel action. This medicine acts upon the digestive as well as eliminative organs—promotes good digestion, causes the body to get the nourishment from all the food you eat, gives you a good, hearty appetite, strengthens the liver, overcomes biliousness, regulates kidney and bowel action and gives the whole body a thorough cleaning out. This accomplished you will not have to take medicine every day. An occasional NR tablet will keep your body in condition and you can always feel your best.

NEW VARIETIES FISH DISCOVERED.

Conger Eel With Hooks on Snout Like Berry Thorns.

HONOLULU, Sept. 24.—(Associated Press.)— Varieties of fish hitherto unknown were discovered as a result of the eruption of the volcano of Mauna Loa two years ago. This fact has just been announced by Dr. David Starr Jordan, Chancellor Emeritus of Leland Stanford junior university, noted ichthyologist.

The columns of lava burrowed deeper into the ocean than man had been able to penetrate and thousands of fish of strange and fantastic shape and color were killed and washed up on the beach by the tidal wave caused by the lava gow.

Among them were found six varieties hitherto unknown to science because their habitat was presumably lower in the water than science had been able to observe.

Important Discoveries.

Amateur ichthyologists in Hilo, Hawii, selected species which were unknown to them and sent them to Dr. Jordan for examination. The result was that the six new species, were classified.

"I consider the discoveries, from a scientfic viewpoint, to be among the most remarkable and important on record," Dr. Jordan said when he made public the classifications here, while he was attending the sessions of the Pan-Pacific Educational Conference.

The designations given to the six species by Dr Jordan are:

Vesposus Egregius, so designated because of its resemblance to a wasp's nest.

Rhyacanthias Carlsmithi, named for Carl A. Carsmith, of Hilo, who sent many of the species to Dr. Jordan. It is a deep rose red in color.

New Conger Eel.

Nyctimaster Reinhardt, named for the Hilo resident who discovered it. It is a small black lantern fish so designated because of the many luminous glands behind the eye and along its sides which gives the impression of phosporescence. It is a solid dull black in color.

Persistedion Engyceros or alligator fish of a brilliant scarlet hue which is characterized by large bony plates of armor.

Each of the six is a deep-water fish. All live in water of more than 150 feet in depth and some as deep as 600 feet. Nothing except such a cataclysm of nature as the Alika flow could have brought them to the surface, Dr. Jordan said. Rhyacanthias Carsmithi ranged at least 1,000 feet below the ocean's surace, he added.

Dr. Jordan has sent to the Smithsonian Institute in Washington, D. C., a paper detailing the results of the investigation and the new classifications.

WHO MAY VOTE

QUALIFICATIONS AS SET FORTH IN DOMINION ELECTION ACT

OTTAWA, Sept. 27.—(Canadian Press).—The coming general elections are of particular interest to women all over the Dominion, particularly in view of recent amendments to the Dominion Election Act, which give to women a wider share in the government of the Dominion than they have ever had previously.

Under the Act as amended at the last session of Parliament, the franchise is extended to women on a considerably wider basis than it was in the 1917 war-time election, when the only women eligible to vote were those who had a husband, father, son or brother in the Canadian Expeditionary, Imperial or Allied Forces. Under the present Act, any woman who is a British subject, of the full age of 21 years and is not prohibited by the special clause setting forth the prohibitions, has equal rights with men in holding election offices, being a candidate for the House of Commons and in voting.

The qualification of electors, as set forth in the instructions to election officers by Col. C. H. Biggar, Chief Electoral Officer, states:

"The general rule is that every person in Canada, male or female, is qualified to vote and should be included in the list of voters for the polling division in which he or she resides, if he or she,

"(a) is a British subject, and

"(b) is twenty-one years of age, and

"(c) has ordinarily resided in Canada for the year immediately preceding the date of the issue of the writ of election, and

"(d) has ordinarily resided in the electoral district for the two months immediately preceding the date, and

"(e) is not expressly denied the right to vote."

There are a number of ways in which a person may become a British subject in Canada. The instructions state that if a person is found to come "within any one of the classes hereafter defined, it is not necessary to consider whether he falls within any other."

Thus, everyone has become a British subject in Canada who,

(a) was born in any of His Majesty's Dominions or on a British ship, no matter what was the nationality of his parents, or

(b) was born elsewhere of a father, who, at the time of the child's birth, was a British subject by birth or by naturalization under any of the Imperial Naturalization Acts, or

(c) has been personally granted a certificate of naturalization under any statute of Canada or under the Imperial Naturalization Act in any other of His Majesty's Dominions, or

(d) has had his name included in a certificate of naturalization granted to a parent under the Imperial Naturalization Act in Canada or in any other of His Majesty's Dominions, or

(e) is the wife or unmaried widow of a natural born British subject or of a British subject naturalized under any statute of Canada or the Imperial Naturalization Act in any other of His Majesty's Dominions, or

(f) is the child of a person naturalized in Canada otherwise than under the Imperial Naturalization Act and was, at or after the time his parent was naturalized and before he or she became 21 years of age, resident in Canada with the naturalized parent; and every person who has become a British subject in Canada continues to be so unless his British nationality has been surrendered by his becoming a naturalized citizen of some other country, or unless the certificate of naturalization under which he became naturalized has been cancelled, or unless, if a woman, she has married a man who is not a British subject.

The classes of persons who may not vote, is set forth as follows:

(a) Judges appointed by the Government of Canada.

(b) Persons employed in the electoral district, in reference to the election, for pay or reward, except the persons who may be paid out of public funds and are described in Section 31 (2) as follows:

"The returning officer in case of there being an equality of votes.

"Any person employed under the authority of this Act as registrar, revising officer, deputy returning officer, poll clerk, messenger, interpreter or constable.

"Any person, except the election clerk, necessarily and properly employed by the returning officer for the conduct of the election.

"Any person employed as clerk to a revising officer.

"Any person necessarily and properly employed by a registrar or revising officer in preparing copies of lists of voters authorized by this Act to be prepared.

"Any person necessarily employed by any election officer for his conveyance while travelling on duties relating to the election."

(c) Women who have become British subjects merely by reason of having become the wives of British subjects and who (a) were not born on the Continent of British North America, and (b) were not entitled to vote at any time before June 4 1921, and (c) have not obtained a certificate from a judge.

(d) Indians resident on an Indian reservation who did not serve in the ada in the war of 1914-1918.

(e) Persons who, in the Province in which they desire to vote, are by the Provincial law of that Province, disqualified in respect of race from voting for a member of the Legislative Assembly thereof, unless they produce to the registrar a certificate of discharge from the military, naval or air forces of Canada after service in one of such forces in the war 1914-1918.

(f) Prisoners undergoing punishment for criminal offences.

(g) Patients in lunatic asylums.

(h) Persons maintained in whole or in part as inmates receiving public charitable support in municipal poor houses or houses of industry.

(i) Persons who are inmates receiving public charitable support in any institution receiving aid from the Government of a Province under any statute in that behalf.

(j) Persons disfranchised for corrupt or illegal practices.

ACTIVITIES OF WORLD'S WOMEN.

Women are now admitted to the bar in Belgium.

Federal reports show that women are losing ground in competiton with the men for industrial jobs.

Many Russian princesses and other women of nobility are maintaining themselves by working at various occupations in France.

Of the total number of gainful workers in Deleware in 1920, 18-112 were females.

Only three women have been portrayed on the United States postage stamps—Martha Wasington, Queen Isabella of Spain and the Indian girl Pocahontas, who saved the life of Capt. John Smith.

According to Dr. Broadus Mitchell instructor of economics at Johns Topkins University, Baltimore, Md. man is a better housekeeper than woman. It is said that the man is more thorough, efficient and resourceful.

ANNIVERSARY AT PARK ST. CHURCH

33RD ANNIVERSARY OF THE SUNDAY SCHOOL — HISTORY OF SCHOOL.

There was a large attendance at the Park Street Baptist Sunday School yesterday afternoon when the 33rd anniversary of the school was held together with the Rally Day services. There was an open session, which was held in the church auditorium which was beautifully decorated with fruit, flowers, wheat and vegetables for the harvest home services which were also observed there yesterday.

A fine program was given, consisting of solos by Mrs. Iredale and Mr. Albert Lee, address to the children by Mr. McCarten, which was much enjoyed. The orchestra also gave several selections under the leadership of Mr. Wm. Ford in their usual fine manner.

Mr. O. S. Matchett, the Secretary-Treasurer, gave the following interesting report of the history of the school since its commencement:

In presenting to you this afternoon a short report of the history of our Sunday School, I am deeply indebted to Miss Maggie Mann, still a member of our church, who was for 17 years Superintendent of this school, for the information given me some time ago that this report contains. Park Street Baptist Mission Sunday School in connection with the Murray Street Baptist Church was first opened on or about the 2nd of August, 1888, in the brick building situated on the north side of Dalhousie street, between Stewart and Rubidge streets. The first officers were: Robert J. Kidd, Superintendent; Wm. E. Mann, Secretary-Treasurer; teachers, Wm. Shoel, Miss Maggie Mann, Mr. E. A. Kemp, Mrs. Fitzgerald, Miss Lillie Minore, Mr. and Mrs. Cuckso. The attendance the first Sunday was 20. The Rev. Peter Clifton Parker was the pastor of Murray Street Church at that time. Of the first year I have no record, but on 24th of January, 1890, there was held the first annual social. Mr. Robert J. Colville, Secretary of Y.M.C.A., and the teacher of the Bible Class, presided. A good program was given. The collection for the year was $127.00.

Mr. W. E. Mann resigned as Secretary-Treasurer on March 9th, 1890, and Miss Maggie Mann was appointed. On February 3rd, 1891, the annual entertainment was held, presided over by Mr. Henry Grundy, Superintendent. The Rev. W. K. Anderson of Lindsay, together with Dr. W. D. Scott, who was then Superintendent of Murray Street Sunday School, Mr. Elcome and Mr. R. J. Kidd and others gave short addresses. The Secretary's report showed attendance from 65 to 80. The Rev. John Trotter assumed charge of Murray Street Church in 1891.

In 1892, by the will of the late Charlotte Nichols, this school was left a legacy of $500, of which $130.00 was spent for a lot where this church now stands, and the balance was deposited in the bank towards a new church.

On October 2nd, 1891, the opening exercises took place of the new frame building on present site of this church. The Rev. John Trotter preached morning and evening. In the afternoon Rev. John Craig, a returned missionary from India, spoke.

In January, 1893, Mr. Grundy resigned as Superintendent and Miss Maggie Mann was elected, a position which she filled with general satisfaction until May, 1910, over 17 years. In March, 1893, the annual business meeting showed 132 on the roll. In 1893, for 5 months, Mr. Reeves, a student from McMaster, labored on the field. In 1894 Mr. W. J. Pady became pastor, and in same year the late T. G. Gillespie became Secretary-Treasurer. We now pass on to the end of 1897, and we find that the annual business meeting was presided over by Rev. O. C. Elliott, now of Toronto.

On August 21st, 1898, the 10th anniversary was held, when Rev. P. C. Parker, who was the pastor of Murray Street Church when this school was organized, was present.

In the minutes of 1899, 22 years ago, it is noticed that prizes were given for preparing memory verses—to Sarah Booth, now Mrs. Samuel Thomas, and Annie Kindred, now Mrs. Enos Maybee.

In 1901 Rev. O. C. Elliott resigned and Rev. J. H. Hanna became pastor. The Rev. Hanna, who later died in India, was beloved by all and his picture, as you know, now hangs in the pastor's vestry. In May, 1902, the Rev. A. H. Brace became pastor. In 1903 the 11th anniversary was observed and showed church and Sunday School to be in good condition. In March, 1905, the 17th anniversary was observed, and the honor roll (on the wall downstairs) was unveiled. This was a contest by the "Reds" and "Blues" to raise money on the building fund and was won by the "Reds."

We now pass to the 19th anniversary, observed on September 2nd, 1906, when addresses and presentations were made to Mr. Roy Jackson and Mr. Alex. Haddow, who left next day to enter Woodstock College. Rev. Mr. Haddow, who later graduated from McMaster University and who married Miss Maude Smith, another member of our school, are today missionaries in South America. We trust that we may have them with us at a not very distant date.

In the annual report of 1907 shows that prizes were given to 11 scholars, of which number only one is still a member—Miss Lillie Booth. Of the others, some are in Toronto, Hamilton, Winnipeg and other points.

We now come to the laying of the corner stone of our present church on October 17th, 1908, under the pastorship of Rev. W. C. Riddiford, by the late Hon. J. R. Stratton. In 1909 the present church was dedicated, the special sermon being delivered by Rev. W. A. Cameron, assisted by Rev. J. R. Webb.

In May, 1910, Miss M. Mann resigned as Superintendent and Mr. Green was appointed for balance of 1910. In January, 1911, Mr. W. H. Moore was elected Superintendent. In August, 1913, Mr. Thomas Marks resigned as a teacher to enter Woodstock College. Mr. Marks joined up and served overseas as a Lieutenant, returning home, and is at present attending McMaster University. In 1915 Mr. Charlie Barrie was elected Superintendent, being succeeded by Mr. F. A. D. Fry in 1916, who was superintendent until his removal to Detroit in January, 1920, when Mr. Jas. I. Maybee, our present Superintendent, was appointed.

A large number of our members served overseas, of whom seven will never return, but whose memory we will ever hold dear.

Time has made many changes. There are only a few of the original members in our church and Sunday School today. Mrs. Robt. Wright is still on our teaching staff, having been on for nearly 25 years.

In numbers of church membership our Sunday School leads the whole city as regards attendance. Our enrollment shows 36 teachers and officers and 265 scholars. Our average attendance is the highest in the city in point of enrollment, and last, of the following week.

Steady Development.

but not least, we have one of the finest Sunday School orchestras in the city, under the leadership of Mr. Wm. Ford.

We are looking forward to the future that our present quarters will be too small to accomodate us, and that our attendance will soon exceed the 300 mark.

We extend a hearty invitation to any one to join us. There is lots of work to do and few to do it.

Will You Ever Be a Millionaire?

THAT DEPENDS UPON YOUR HEALTH.

Health, wealth and happiness go together, but you must have health to have wealth and happiness. You cannot think clear, you feel tired, all out of sorts, you may have indigestion, headaches, constipation, kidney trouble, rheumatism, etc. These are all signs that your liver is out of order and is not excreting bile into the intestines, your bowels become filled with waste, and poison is carried to all parts of the body by the blood, causing all these aches and pains. You are only about 10 per cent. efficient, and you cannot expect to attain anything when you are in this condition. Doctors say take one Tanated Calomel Tablet before each meal or two at bedtime. Doctors recommend this because it is the only thing known that acts directly upon the liver. Tanated Calomel is sold by one druggist in each city—F. C. Weber is agent for Peterborough.

Ald. Whitehouse: How are we going to pay for it?

City Engineer Parsons: Out of the Board of Works appropriations—that's the only way.

Ald. Turner: I move that the City Engineer make a report on the work and the estimate of the cost. It can be done after the first of the year and put into next year's appropriations, and it will give work to men when work is needed.

Ald. Turner's motion carried.

Want Street Repaired.

A petition signed by numerous residents on that street asked that Stewart Street north and Smith Street west of Stewart Street be repaired. It was referred to the City Engineer for his report.

To accommodate the new addition to the St. Joseph's Hospital, a sewer entering from Armour Road will be laid. The routine motion passed last night was that notice be given of the intention of the Council to construct a sewer on Armour Road from Hunter Street East, 325 feet southerly, and on Hunter Street from Armour Road 17 feet westerly, under Section 9 of the Local Improvement Act.

Smith Pays Share.

On the recommendation of the chairman that the work was necessary, the City Engineer was given instructions to repair Hilliard Street from George to Langton and Langton Street, and charge half of the cost of the boundary portion to the Township of Smith. It was stated that Smith was ready to meet their share of the cost.

Dated July 27 was a letter from Dr. J. W. McCullough, Chief of the Provincial Board of Health, advising the city that the Board is ready to facilitate as much as they can the construction of a sewer to Mount St. Joseph. Dr. McCullough wrote:

"If you will now make application on a regular form for extension of a sewer on Walnut Street to connect with the Mount St. Joseph property, I shall be glad to see that the necessary approvals are issued. To get over any further difficulties, it might be advisable to obtain the Board's order under Section 96 of the Act, to which there can be no appeal. You can then charge the work under your by-law as agreed upon.

"If I understand the application correctly, you only propose to extend the sewer within city limits. In that case there should be no necessity for a hearing for the North Monaghan people."

Ald. Whitehouse said he had been in conversation with Reeve John McIntosh in regard to this sewer, and he had been given to understand that the Township was prepared to meet the cost of any parts of the work chargeable to them.

On the motion of the Mayor and Ald. Turner, an order was requested from the Provincial Board of Health, as suggested by Dr. McCullough, for the construction of a sewer on Walnut Street from Cambridge Street to Monaghan Road.

Just before the meeting closed, Ald. Phelan pointed out that a dangerous railway crossing still exists where the C.P.R. tracks cross Aylmer Street as a result of the Council not taking any strong action to safeguard its citizens' lives.

Ald. Phelan declared that recently an auto was nearly run down here. The guard did not appear to have been on duty.

Ald. Whitehouse, who condemned the crossing a year ago, redescribed his own narrow escape. That night, he declared, the guardsman never came out of his house.

Other aldermen attested to the dangerousness of this crossing, and Ald. Turner took the lead in framing a motion. He said it was time for action, and worded the following resolution:

"That in view of representations made that several accidents have been nearly averted at the C.P.R. crossing at Aylmer Street, Mr. Dodds, local agent of the C.P.R., be asked to take action so the crossing will be better guarded."

Ald. Crowe was the seconder, and the resolution was adopted.

GIRLS SCRATCH AND PUMMEL FAKE MILLIONAIRE.

Alleged to Have Borrowed Money From His Assailants on Worthless Cheques.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Davis Rothman is 28 years old and ordinarily a salesman. According to testimony in Morrisania Court, his other occupation is that of a "millionaire short of funds."

Rothman came before Magistrate William A. Sweetser on a charge of petty larceny. The complainants were Miss Pearl Grefinger of 849 Dawson Street, the Bronx, and her sister, Martha. Late on Friday night, so the story of the sisters went, they encountered Rothman at Second Avenue and Second Street and proceeded to "pitch into" him. His face bore the marks.

The trouble began back in July. Early in that month, said Miss Pearl Grefinger, Rothman gave her a worthless check for $20 and another for $40, after he had told her that he was a "millionaire underwear manufacturer, temporarily short of funds."

Miss Grfinger had got that far when Miss Elizabeth Rogers, who said that she was an actress, living in the Hotel Braddock, entered the proceedings. She identified Rothman as a "millionaire casket and furniture manufacturer of Detroit," who she alleged had given her two bad checks, one for $32 and the second for $35, on August 29.

Miss Grefinger, continuing her story to the magistrate, said that she met Rothman in a hotel in Long Branch on July 7, where she was spending her vacation.

"He told me all in one breath, where I lived and where he had met me five years ago," she explained later to reporters, "and naturally when he mentioned my home address and talked of my folks as though he knew everybody well, and of places I had visited, I really believed we had met somewhere before. It was after I left Long Branch that I went home. Who should be sitting in the front room but Mr. Rothman. He had his coat off, was smoking one of my brother's cigars, and seemed very much at home."

A couple of days later, she added, the "banks were closed" and Rothman's two checks on the Fallkill National Bank of Poughkeepsie were turned into money.

Miss Rogers said that she met Rothman in the Hotel Cumberland. He walked right up to her with a cordial hand outstretched and told her her name and everything, she said. He informed her that he was from Detroit, but came to Brooklyn every year in order to place a wreath on his mother's grave, according to his story. Miss Rogers, who is in the movies, said that Rothman mentioned having seen her in the pictures, and told how he had remembered her face and what she had done in various films.

Rothman listened to the stories and assured the court that "everything will come out nicely." His attorney requested low bail, because the charge was of small degree, and his client intended to make restitution. This was opposed by Assistant District Attorney Chapman, who told Magistrate Sweetser that Rothman had admitted to the police that he had collected more than $25,000 by posing as a millionaire among girls and merchants.

"I can't fix low bail in this case," remarked the Magistrate. "The facts presented here cause me to hold the defendant in $10,000 bail.

SAFETY FIRST

(1) Don't fall a victim to "one call" or "high pressure" salesmen, who to tell you that "this is your only chance to take advantage of our offer." The best securities are not sold that way.

(2) Don't buy securities from people whose standing you do not know.

(3) Don't be guided entirely by the representation of salesmen. Desirable securities will stand impartial analysis, and the buyer should not hesitate to call upon a disinterested banker or broker for advice.

(4) Don't let salesmen give you the impression that future plans are "just as good" as results already obtained.

(5) Don't look for chances to "get rich over night." Large fortunes are not made that way from buying and selling securities.

(6) Don't be afraid to ask questions regarding any particular security. Many people may know even less about it than you do.

(7) Don't overlook the chance to discuss your prospective investments with your bank and broker. Almost every investment house of standing will gladly give sound advice regarding securities, and the firm that is doing business year after year in your city has your interest at heart a great deal more than does the fly-by-night, one-call stock peddler, who never expects to win your confidence and keep you as a customer, except for one sale.

COMB SAGE TEA IN FADED OR GRAY HAIR

If Mixed With Sulphur it Darkens so Naturally Nobody Can Tell.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, at very little cost. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural colour and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural colour and looks glossy, soft and beautful.

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., Sept. 27.—(Special Despatch to the Examiner).—The most complete distillery for the manufacture of liquor ever discovered in the Thunder Bay district was located here by city popolice on John street, within two blocks of the City Hall and Police Station.

T. O'Leary is a prisoner to-day awaiting hearing set for to-morrow morning on a charge of operating the still. The apparatus is a complete distillery including a home-made steam boiler of unique pattern separate vaporizing chamber made from heavy oak barrel, in which the mash was heated by means of a steam coil, and cooling and condensing apparatus. Sixty gallons of liquor of great strength and five barrels of fermented currant mash were also discovered.

J. F. STRICKLAND MAY BE CANDIDATE OF LOCAL CONSERVATIVES

The reports heard on the street some time ago to the effect that Mr. J. F. Strickland would probably be the choice of the Conservatives of West Peterborogh, were in circulation again to-day. It was stated that the nomination would likely be offered to Mr. Strickland at the convention here on Wednesday night, although it was felt that other men who have been prominent in the party's affairs, would also be mentioned. Mr. Strickland is highly respected in Peterborough and is recognized as an able young barrister who has already proved his worth. He is regarded as wholly acceptable to the two factions of the party who, it is believed, will unite completely behind him in the event of his getting the nomination.

HISTORY OF PETERBORO' INDUSTRIAL EXHIBITION FROM EARLY INCEPTION

ORIGINATED WITH ORGANIZATION OF AGRICULTURLA INTERESTS IN COLBORNE DISTRICT AWAY BACK IN 1842—SUPPORTED IN PART BY GRANTS FROM UPPER CANADA GOVERNMENT.

(By F. H. DOBBIN.)

The recent success made in its last and just concluded Industrial Fair, by the efforts of the officers and directors and the Exhibition Board, with the approaching advent of the annual meeting, coupled with the appeal of President Denne for suggestions to in any way improve the routine and offerings, places the Exhibition on a new plane, so far as the public is concerned. Success is always commended. Joint endeavor will push forward a successful enterprise where a lack of interest will infallibly assist in crippling and ultimate decease. And as the President and several of the Directors wished to know of the beginnings of the society and of which the records do not tell, what follows is here printed as matter that should command some interest from and in the community.

Back in 1842.

It was in the year 1842 that the then newly constituted Colborne district was carved out of the previously existing Newcastle district, which included the territory which we now term in an off-hand way as the Midland district of Ontario, just as a general definition, without practical boundaries. The new Colborne district comprised twenty townships, included in the county of Peterborough and counties adjacent. Of these eleven were and are now of this county, with, of course, additional municipalities that joined hands in after years.

The formation of the new district placed in the grasp of the people some new opportunities before denied; and one of these was the formation of agricultural societies to be supported to some extent by grants from the Province of Upper Canada. And so in 1845 enterprising men of the district came together and pooled resources, and agreed to unify efforts to improve the breeds of cattle, sheep, hogs and especially of horses. This latter need was severely felt. The lumber and timber interest was just awakening, and operations in the woods demanded a supply of horses of larger and sturdier build and power than in general use. It was felt that if by unity of effort sires of known and approved strains of breeding could be brought in and maintained that in a few years results would be attained.

First Organization.

With this object in view the residents of the town plot of Peterborough and in the adjacent farming country came together and organized the Colborne District Agricultural Society one bleak and snowy day in February of 1845. This, it may be recalled, was within twenty years of the first settlement on the farms in the townships of the county. In Peterborough were at the time many men of substance, who were doing business, shrewd and capable. These heartily joined in the enterprise and contributed to the expense of the first few years. It may be of interest, and as a record, to print the names of the first officers and directors, the descendents of whom are still of the farming and business population of the city and neighborhood. Besides, the Secretary of the Exhibition Board can transfer this printed statement to the leaves of the official minute book and so have for posterity an account of what was done.

President—W. S. Conger.
Vice-Presidents—T. T. Milburn and Thomas Bell.
Secretary—W. H. Wrighton.
Treasurer—Robert Nicholls.
Directors—From Smith Townhhip, Messrs. Lewis Davis, Thos. Benson, Matthew Wareham, William Pauline, William Simpson, Thomas T. Milburn, James Kelso, Emanuel Mann, Michael Sanderson, Jr., John Wallis, William Moore and John Walton; from North Monaghan, Messrs. Chas. Ormond, William Fowler, Joseph Walton, Robert Thompson, Sr., James Harvey, Thomas Eastland and James (Capt.) Wallis; from Cavan, Messrs. Robert Lillico, Jr., and Jas. Braeley; from Douro, Messrs. James Blackwell and George Coughlin.

As would be expected the first year was devoted largely to getting the society on its feet. Robert Nicholls, who visited New York pretty frequently on business and who came in contact with farmers living in the older settled parts of New York State, brought home ideas of value to the new society. A reasonable sum was expended in arousing interest among the settlers and in pointing out how breeds of stock might be improved. With moderate funds at hand some assistance was given in the way of buying plaster, seeds, and among other appliances, a stumping machine. This machine was fully occupied for several years, being loaned out to the settler who undertook to make use of it and to pay all repairs. The late John Carnegie, who was for many years in active touch and worked with the society, has said that at the end of five years hardly a part of the original machine but what had been replaced several times over was left. Jerking oak and maple stumps out of the ground was no feeble occupation. The stump fences along farm fields today bear ample witness, even after exposure to the elements of seventy years.

A Laborious Stunt.

Even removing the stones and surface rocks from the lands was a laborious stunt. The operations carried on by the Ontario good roads gangs, just outside and south of the city, in taking about three months to demolish the boulders in the stone fences along the right-of-way, bear noisy testimony to the stone age that existed. Soil to the south of the city is not naturally excessively stony, but the theory has been put forward by geological sharps that many of the biggest rocks were deposited in the vicinity during the ice age. This may be so, but if so some very ill-judged work was done. Why the ice age should drop on top of Armour's hill about a dozen of whoppers and generously leave on the shore at Buckhorn an isolated rock as high as a four-room house is not explained. Anyway, it has taken not quite three months to blow a stone fence to smithereens. But to get back to our society.

It had made such progress that at the first annual meeting, held at the Court House on Saturday, February 3rd, 1848, there was a large attendance. Much was said and there was earnest and interested discussion. Settlers were waking up and looking to the society to assist in almost every neighborhood. And among other matter a report was presented that reviewed conditions and expresses hopes for the future. This report was prepared by Thomas Benson and W. H. Moore (father of late W. H. Moore) and covered the operations of the society for 1847. It is worth while to draw from the statements included in this report as printed in the columns of The Peterborough Despatch newspaper

After expressing regret that the formation of township agricultural societies lacked interest and that the society for the district numbered about four hundred members, the report says:

"But, on the other hand, we find much cause for congratulation in the steady and rapid development in both the quality and quantity of the agricultural products of this district since the formation of your society. This advancement is perhaps most noticeable in the articles of wheat and flour.

"Up to the year 1842 it is known that not more than two thousand bushels of wheat were sent out of the district for sale in any one year. During the last year (1847) upwards of twenty thousand barrels of flour and thirty thousand bushels of wheat were sent off by the merchants of this district alone. Independently of the large quantity (probably not less than fifty thousand bushels) of wheat taken out by the farmers themselves and sold at ports on Lake Ontario."

Attention is asked to the fact that these results had been gained in a country densely covered with a hardwood forest, with only primitive appliances to clear lands, and that for the first time at Port Hope and at Peterborough had appeared the, for the day, thrilling announcement, "Cash for Wheat." All else before was a system of barter.

Growth of Mills.

Continuing, the report adds interesting comment:

"In the year first mentioned not one mill existed in this district capable of manufacturing flour for foreign markets; now more than eight mills were in operation with over thirty run of stones. In 1842 not more than one threshing mill was owned in the district; now upwards of fifty are in use, and thirty of these manufactured in the foundry at Peterborough during the past year. Upwards of eight hundred plows were made during 1847 by only two establishments in this district, and now a reaping machine, almost innumerable horse rakes, drill plows, harrows, cultivators and other improved implements of husbandry are in general use.

"Within the same short period several woollen factories, two of which, at least, would do credit to the oldest settled parts of the Province, have been erected and are gradually extending their operations and their benefits, while the market they afford for an important staple of the country, is already effecting an improvement in the breeds of sheep. Numerous oatmeal mills now furnish in considerable quantities an article of growing consequence among our exports.

Improved Cattle.

"A most marked and gratifying improvement in the breed of cattle has taken place through the instrumentality of your society, besides that which is the result of the most praiseworthy efforts of private enterprise. The improvement is less manifest in the breeds of horses than in any other description of stock. The committee regrets that attempts made to better the conditions in the district in this respect have not been more successful. A sum of £10 ($50.00) was apportioned as a premium for the best stallion to be exhibited and kept for service in the district for breeding purposes, but no horse was offered that, in the opinion of the committee, came up to the standard that this premium was intended to provide. It is suggested that the amount be doubled for the ensuing year in an effort to gain the desired object."

This suggestion was followed. Presently the introduction of several of the famous Clyde sires followed. And gradually was developed that brand or breed of horse, found to be essential to farming and logging purposes in this part of the country and known as the "General Purpose Horse." An animal fit for farm work on heavy soils, on lands as yet undrained and soft and for general traffic on the spring and fall and on winter snow roads. Pure-bred English horses of the heavy type were not used successfully. The leading roads and concession lines had not been improved to any considerable extent.

Pounds, Shillings, Pence.

The Treasurer made a brief financial statement, an abstract from which throws light on how operations were carried on. After enumerating receipts and expenditures, all carefully itemized and explained, said that there remained in the hands of the Treasurer "in cash, plaster, seeds, etc., £159 18s 6d, besides a sum of £6 7s 6d, exacted for duties on seeds at Port Hope and which should be refunded, and two notes-of-hand for £20, given for a heifer and a bull, sold during the year and which had not as yet become due." So it would seem that even in those days we had some sort of a tariff to keep us humble.

LITTLE WESTERN CIVILIZATION APPARENT

A special cable to the New York Herald from Salonica says: Although Salonica harbored tens of thousands of French, English, Canadian, Australian and even Portuguese troops during the war it still has a quaint mixture of Greek and Turkish habits, with little western civilization apparent in its daily life.

The Turks were for so long members of the city that they left an indelible print of their customs on the daily life of the people, and the tourists who are beginning to return expecting to find remarkable changes are doomed to disappointment. The streets are filled with a baggy trousered, fezzed gentry as in the olden days, all anxious to earn an honest penny, but preferably without any work attached to it.

Coffee shops and candy stores are abundant and as prosperous as in the days when the harems were filled with beauties gathered from both western and eastern nations. But the fact that impresses the tourist most is his immoderate love for coffee, sweet stuffs and laziness. While the Turk is silently idle, the Greek Salonican is nervously lazy, always smoking feverishly and ready for an argument on any subject, and endless speechmaking characterizes any group gathered outside the cafes for evening cigarettes. In fact the only solemn type found here is the Greek sailor, who incidentally is the only type really taking an interest in work.

The war has had the effect of driving the Greek peasants from the rich country behind Salonica and the farms are now controlled almost entirely by former Macedonian slaves or Mussulmans, formerly known as Duenmehs. They are mostly Jews who have been converted to Islamism, and among them one frequently finds millionaires.

Industrially Salonica is still as inactive as ever. Japan furnishes the matches, France the soap and combs and the United States offers wheat and bank notes. Necessary foodstuffs such as olive oil, raisins and wine are easily obtainable in Greek markets, but they must turn abroad for credits with which to buy paper from Sweden, coal from England and iron from Germany, with the result that Salonica today is filled with commercial profiteers from all parts of the world.

All things considered the people are well satisfied with the change from Venizelos' regime, as King Constantine has not made the mistake of calling upon the northern element for much military assistance. As long as Greece succeeds in obtaining military victories without forcing the Solonica folk to give up their life of indolence or insisting on too strict a collection of taxes there is little hope for a republican movement, and as the police jobs are now held by royalists throughout northern Geerce it is pretty certain that the movement will not start north of Piraeus.

U.S. SUBMARINE SINKS IN PORT

TWO OF THE CREW REPORTED DROWNED—CAUSE UNEXPLAINED

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 27.—(United Press.)— Two members of the crew of the U. S. submarine, R-61, were reported drowned early to-day as a result of the sinking of the submarine in shallow water in Los Angeles Harbor.

The cause of the sinking was unexplained. It was considered possible that others had been lost. Two officers and eighteen men were believed aboard the submarine. Throughout the night the ships of the Pacific fleet played their searchlights on the place where the diver went down and boats patrolled the scenes.

MILLIONAIRES ON LONG ISLAND ARE PREY TO ROBBERS

(United Press).

MINEOLA, Sept. 27.—More than fifty robberies have occurred in Long Island County in the last ten days, including daylight hold-ups in the villages and along the country roads.

The situation has become so desperate that the State troopers already are patrolling the highways.

While pursuing their work in all parts of the county and evincing great versatility, the bandits have shown a particular liking to holding up millionaires in their automobiles. Their favorite method is stretching a wire across the road and thus forcing the machine to halt.

AGED MAN'S HOME ROBBED BY YOUTHS

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

WELLAND, Sept. 27.—The police of the district are hunting for two young men who entered the home of Silas Pearson, an old man of eighty-four, near Cooksmill, and held up both him and Charles Delo, sixty-three years old.

The youths knocked at the door about 10 o'clock at night, and after effecting an entrance, tied up the younger, Delo, with an old strap. Then, keeping an eye on the old man, they ramsacked the house, looking for a hoard. They got a ten dollar gold piece and 25 dollars in ordinary currency, but were not satisfied. Parts of the house were turned upside down. Nearly every feather was emptied from an old mattress, so thorough was the search.

Who Will Pay This Beauty's Bills?

"Not I!" Declares the Millionaire Husband of Dashing Violet Colby-Liggett, Whose Dressmaker's Demands for a Settlement Have Precipitated Society's Newest Domestic Squabble.

John E. Liggett, Millionaire Banker, Who Declares He Will Not Pay His Wife's Bills for Capes and Millinery.

The Charming Mrs. Viola Colby-Liggett, Reported Estranged from Her Very Wealthy Husband, as She Appeared at Newport Recently. Below She Posed in an Artistic Picture Hat While Displaying Her Valuable Pearls.

By Joseph H. Appelgate

A WOUNDED English sparrow fluttering in a dusty gutter doesn't attract much notice. Maybe a tatterdemalion might stop and look curiously or a little girl in a ragged dress tenderly pick it up and weep over it. And there would be more than a possibility that it was the urchin's beanshooter which brought down the bird and that his pity was born of remorse.

But when a bird of gay plumage falls with broken wing—when crimson daubs the robin's breast, splotches the scarlet tanager's mating coat, smears the yellow wing of the mountain canary—every passer-by stops and looks. Then the boy with the remorseful feeling is particularly absent. He's discreetly back-stage at that moment. Shank's mare may be galloping at full speed. The fear is that the gay bird is mortally hurt, that it will sing no more.

Thus it is with human song birds, such as Mrs. Violet Colby-Liggett, former prima donna. If this story concerned the unhappy wife of John Jones, and how her drudgery had been made more burdensome because her husband had refused to pay the $5 hat bill she "charged up" at Levy's, 'round the corner, instead of Mrs. Liggett, none would read it. Unless, perchance, an O. Henry or some other master hand brought it home in an undeniable way. For such instances are all too commonplace. They seem to fit into the drab existence of the Joneses, even as the broken wings of the sparrow fade into the background of dust they match and in which is lost their mute appeal.

The bright plumage is incongruous in the dust. It does not matter that the sparrow and the song bird, the workman's wife and the prima donna, suffer the same. The psychology is that the prettiest is daintiest and most susceptible to pain. A woman can stand more pain than a man. Yet, through the centuries, because she is woman she has always been more pitied for small hurts than man for major injuries. Pity is a mighty relative thing.

A Song Bird's Broken Notes

And, as it is relative, the hurt received because no one seems to be willing to pay her dressmaker's bill has evoked a deal of pity for Mrs. Violet Colby-Liggett. It does not matter that the injury seems slight. She is wounded. Her feelings have been severely concussed. It does look like internal complications, too. At any rate, all is not orderly in her household, for she and her millionaire husband have parted.

Mrs. Liggett is a song bird. Marriage did not still her sweet voice. She was prima donna then in "The Merry Countess." The thousands who recall her cannot reconcile those tones of memory with discordant sobbing. Now they fancy she is broken and weeping, not alone because of the unpaid bill, but because of the more serious domestic trouble it signifies.

The bill itself is a mere matter of $2520. Hattie Carnegie, Inc., dressmakers, of No. 251 West Eighty-sixth street, New York City, wants to collect it. It was the account she ran up during the months of June and July. It is interesting in more ways than one. It indicates, for example, that the year's total at that rate would be $15,000. A tidy sum. Yet the lady herself might indignantly reject that computation and say that she couldn't dress on any such figure. I did my best to locate her to ask her about this, but in every gilded hostelry where she had been I was always one jump behind. This exodus at the approach of a newspaper man alone would prove she "was" a prima donna. As a rule, such personages do not flee from those who chronicle the doings of the operatic world.

Mrs. Liggett has had publicity since she quit the stage for domestic activity. She pleasingly interpreted patriotism at Palm Beach in February, 1918. An auction sale was being conducted for the benefit of the Red Cross. The elite contributed this and that to help the cause. Mrs. Liggett shed a silk coat which brought $300 from an enthusiastic bidder under the hammer of Mayor John F. Hylan of New York City.

A Millionaire at 35

Her husband thought it a clever stunt. Three hundred dollars to him meant nothing. Although he is only 35 years old, when most rich men were still plugging along in obscurity, he is a big frog in the financial puddle. He is a director in several steamship and railroad companies and owns a banking house in Boston. He inherited millions from his father, the famous tobacco Liggett of St. Louis, Mo. The son was a good husbandman of his inheritance. Possessing his sire's business acumen, he increased that which had been given to him.

He wasn't niggardly about the way he spent, either. Which fact, known to his friends, occasioned the surprise over his refusal to pay that dressmaker's bill. And his friends include quite a percentage of the country's best known men and women. Those who do business with his Boston banking house compile a list of names reading like a Who's Who. His mother was the widow of Gov. Hill of Maine, and his grandfather, Norman L. Coleman, was the first Secretary of Agriculture the United States had. His connections are powerful and of octopus reach.

Something of this was known when Mrs. Liggett walked into the coutourier's in New York City. How the attendants bowed and scraped! How pleased was the proprietor! The bill was sent. It was not paid. She sent it to Mr. Liggett. He returned it to her. They exchanged communications regarding it. In the meantime the dressmaker waited. When her patience spanned a year she began the litigation which revealed to the world that the man and maid in the romance had separated.

There is really a question as to the liability of the husband or wife in the case. In an action in New York City recently, Supreme Court Justice Norman S. Dike held that a youth who had fallen into the clutches of a modern vampire should not be compelled to pay the bills she charged to him at a big department store. What bearing this decision may have on the action against Mrs. Liggett for the dresses and hats and capes time only will tell. In the meantime she says that she is the wife of Mr. Liggett and that it is up to him to meet the financial obligation. And he says he will not.

But the dressmaker's suit did reveal that all was not serenity with the Liggetts. There had been a current report of such a condition for some time. But even the closest of their friends denied it. And they haven't yet learned the cause of the rupture.

The domestic upheaval in the Liggett home smacks a good bit of the Peggy Hopkins case. She is credited with spending a million after she was married to her third millionaire, James Stanley Joyce. It seemed to be the other way around in the Liggett case.

Mr. Liggett had another wife, who was Margaret Gay, a Boston society beauty. For that matter, Mrs. Liggett had another husband, Clarence Harvey, the comedian. It was necessary for each to be divorced before they could marry. It has been widely reported that Mr. Liggett "settled" $750,000 on his first wife when he and she had their marital ties severed. If that were so, he was called to pay before his marriage. Such a situation seems not to have entered into Mr. Joyce's life. His came afterward.

The divorce action of Mrs. Liggett against her first husband had aroused much comment. They had been quite happy. She was a prima donna. He was a leading comedian. But, beauty and harlequin seemed very happy. No one had loomed on the horizon threatening to break up their home. But when the divorce action against Mr. Liggett was begun, the report went around in Boston that he was interested in an opera singer.

Inasmuch as there was no official naming of anyone in the Liggett case who resembled an operatic singer, whether the present Mrs. Liggett was in the mind of the former Mrs. Liggett was not brought out. But it is a fact that on May 7, 1914, some four months after the prima donna divorced the comedian and not long after Mr. and Mrs. Liggett were divorced, Mr. Liggett and the singer were married.

The present Mr. and Mrs. Liggett went to Europe on their honeymoon. As if having in mind the dimensions of their romance, they chose the Leviathan as the vehicle. This seemed the only vessel large enough to harmonize with their three-quarter of a million romance. Continuing the metaphor, one might now declare the love element to have shrunk small enough to be stowed comfortably away aboard a punt.

Will there come another man into the life of the beauty who will pay her bills? They must be paid. Someone will do so. Will history repeat itself and send another husband to answer the query which has been put up to the courts? Peggy Joyce had no trouble finding a millionaire for each one she lost. Mrs. Liggett is even prettier. After all, $2520 is a small item in the life of a real beauty.

Mrs. John A. Hoagland, better known to the public as "Billie" Allen, stage dancer, might bear out this conclusion. From her own situation she might declare that the sum of money in the Liggett domestic dispute is negligible. Mrs. Hoagland, too, has a little disagreement with her hubby over a dressmaker's bill that amounts to $11,306.

"And I don't see," she said, poutingly, when inquiry was made why her husband had refused to meet it, "why Mr. Hoagland wouldn't pay it. It is very modest, you will admit. It is a mere eleven thousand dollars!"

It was suggested that perhaps the fact that she and her husband are not living together might have been a contributing cause to the yanking tight of the purse strings.

"But why?" asked "Billie," a bland look in her gazelle-like eyes. "What difference should that make?"

To Detect Flaws in Diamonds

COMMON white cigarette paper will help to show flaws in diamonds, according to Popular Science Monthly. First, to clean your ring thoroughly, roll up a single white paper into a compact cone-shaped roll, smaller in size than a match; insert the pointed end of this between two prongs of the ring, and draw it all the way through. Clean thus between all the prongs. Finish by polishing the surface of the stone with a crumpled-up paper.

Now take a fresh paper and, holding it at right angles to the ring, place the centre of it over the stone. Fold each end down, holding between thumb and finger. Touch your tongue to the paper-covered diamond to moisten it. Any black spots in the stone will now show through in a startling fashion.

SPEAKER MADE THE SAME MISTAKE THAT COST PREDECESSOR HIS JOB

AND FOHL, NOW BOSS OF THE BROWNS, IS SURE THAT HIS TEAM WILL DEFEAT THE LEAGUE-LEADING YANKEES IN TO-DAY'S SERIES OPENER.

By HENRY L. FARRELL,
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 27. — Even the great make mistakes. Sometimes the greatest make the greatest mistakes.

Two years ago about this time, Lee Fohl lost his job as manager of the Cleveland Indians because he allowed a hurler to pitch to Babe Ruth. Yesterday Fohl, now manager of the St. Louis Browns, sat in the press box at the Indian-Yank game, and saw Tris Speaker, his successor, make the same mistake three times.

Speaker's slip of judgment practically cost the Cleveland Indians the American League pennant.

Coveleskie and Uhle pitched to Ruth and the Bambingo got two homers and a double, accounting for five runs. These five, as it may turn out, gave the pennant to the Yanks.

"The Browns are going to take the Yanks to-day. Wait and see it Ruth gets a chance to hit one. It's suicide for a manager to let that Bam get a cut at one. I found that out long ago," Fohl said, after the Yanks had taken the fourth game and the series three to one.

Critics and fans agreed that yesterdays battle was one of the greatest games ever played. The Indians fought like maniacs until Steve O'Neill fanned in the ninth inning with two on and two out. Fight as they did, though, the Indians could not overtake the Ruth handicap.

"The last stand" of the Indians in this series proved them the same great ball club of 1922, without the pitching that made them the world's champions.

The Yanks, in their victory, stand as an example of what tremendous hitting can do even with mediocre pitching.

The long hinted at dissension between Manager Huggins and his players came to light as a reality in the eighth inning of the final game.

Waite Hoyt, hurt by a slashing liner off his bare haud, and stung almost into a fury by the laugh of the Cleveland dugout, wobbled. Roger Peckinpaugh, captain of the club, and Babe Ruth, ordered Hoyt to the bench and called in Mays. Hoyt threw his glove away and Mays was almost to the infield when Manager Huggins ordered Hoyt back. The Yanks all rumbled out loud. A few minutes later Huggins called Hoyt in.

Winth a two game lead, the Yanks have now to win three out of their five remaining games to cinch the pennant.

LeBar's news agency at 7 o'clock on Thursday morning and will make the trip by motors. The game is billed for 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

Probably "Bun" Frost will take a turn on the hurling heap, which means that Chris McCarney will take the difficult corner.

SUCCESSFUL DRIVE FOR MEMBERS WILL MEAN AN OUTSIDE COACH FOR INTERMEDIATE AND JUNIOR TEAMS

ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION REACHES DECISION TO ENTER TEAM IN JUNIOR SERIES OF THE O. H. A.

After hearing a report from its hockey executive, the Peterborough Amateur Athletic Association, at a meeting at the Y.M.C.A. last night, voted in favor of entering a team in the junior series of the O. H. A., and application will be made for a franchise. The association had decided at a former meeting to proceed with plans for an Intermediate O. H. A. team, and the decision of last night's meeting means that the Association will have two entries in the winter sport.

J. Percy Bond, who at a public meeting held a few weeks ago, was elected honorary president of the Peterborough Hockey Club, was the unanimous nominee of the association for election as a member of the O.H.A. Executive.

The Hockey Executive was authorized to enter into an agreement with the rink owners for the use of the rink for the season. The association also passed a grant of $250.00 for the use of the Executive in providing uniforms and equipment for the two teams.

The Executive will have full charge of the two teams, and will report as required by the association.

Favor Outside Coach.

The meeting favored the engaging of an outside coach, but deferred taking definite action. The association will put on a drive for membership, commencing Saturday, Oct. 1, and the officers are confident that the campaign can be made a success. The objective is one thousand members. Upon the success of this campaign largely depends the association's decision regarding the coach problem.

The question of colors for the association was left with the Hockey Executive to bring in a recommendation at the next meeting.

A report was received from a committee dealing with the city athletic championships. It was decided that the Y.M.C.A. be asked to conduct the championships this fall. The association will take steps to foster track and field events with a view to taking active charge of this branch of sport next year.

Support Rugby Team.

Representatives from the P. C. I. Athletic Association appeared before the association and made known their plans for the Rugby season. P. C. I. propose to enter a team in an interscholastic series with Belleville and Kingston, and probably Lindsay. Their representatives were assured that the team will receive the support of the association.

Dr. E. H. Wood, chairman of the Rugby Committee of the association, will keep in touch with the students, and when their plans have taken definite form, will make a report to the association.

BOWLERS BROUGHT HOME THE TROPHY

DEFEATED THE LAKEFIELD RINK LAST EVENING

Peterboro bowlers have once again got possession of the splendid bowling trophy, the Whattam Cup, donated by J. L. Whattam, of Oshawa.

In a 24 end game a Peterboro ring took it away from Peter Brown of Port Hope last night by defeating him 20 to 19. The two rinks were

Port Hope.	Peterboro.
Bailey Thompson	Art Gilliam
W. Stephens	Andy Ross
Harry Rosevear	W. J. Oke
Peter Brown	Jack Mayenord

The Petes were up on Port Hope all the way but Port Hope made the "dead" ends and had a chance to pull up. In the last end Peterboro was three up. Port Hope needed four to win but only came through with two shots and the game and trophy went to Peterboro.

At The Theatres

AT THE GRAND.

"FAIR AND WARMER"

The ever popular Rex Stock Company drew another capacity house, when they returned to Peterboro last night after being in Kingston for the past week. The three act comedy Fair and Warmer", which was presented last evening, fully sustained the reputation of all the advance notices given, the "gales of laughter" that issued from the Theatre during performance must have been heard for blocks around Rex was, as ever the centre of most of the comedy as Billie Bartlett, and Miss Vaughn, pretty as ever helped in no small measure to the evening's fun. All the other members of this splendid Stock company lived up to the reputation they have gained by their splendid work in every play presented up-to-date. Mr. William Yule created a furor in his specialty particularly the recitation he gave as "Skinnerized". The Park Kiddies again added to the enjoyment of the evening with a very clever Rube specialty. Anyone wishing to have an evening of good clean amusement with lots of laughter, should not miss "Fair and Warmer" by the Rex Stock Co., at the Grand to-night and to-morrow.

AT THE ALLEN.

TRICKS EVEN WITH EGGS IN MAKING TWO REEL COMEDIES

"Hey Rube," latest of the Christie two reelers which comes to Allen Theatre to-day being a rural comedy, of course an egg had to figure in it some way. This enters when the irate father of Helen Darling chases Bobby Vernon into the hay loft at a barn dance because he is interfering with the city suitor whom father has picked for Helen.

To get even he drops an egg on the city feller", but in making the picture things did not go according to schedule. The first egg that was dropped hit Miss Darling and the second one the director. Then it was decided to resort to strategy before the whole company was assaulted. The ways and means consisted of a black string extending from the real victim's head to the hurler's hand. The egg was threaded on the string and of course when it was released it went straight to its destination. Of course people who see the picture will not observe the thread, but the incident goes to show that there are lots of tricks in the making of comedies.

"The Sky Pilot" opened its three-day run at the Allen Theatre last evening. It is a picture that is essentially Canadian from start to finish, with some really wonderful backgrounds of Canadian summer and winter beauty, and a hero that hails straight from Montreal. John Bowers is the idealistic man of God who can use his two fists, ride a bucking broncho and win the undying friendship of the man he has just been compelled to lick. How he turns ridicule into warm regard and establishes himself in the hearts of the rough cowboys, makes an appealing story. The wild stampede of maddened steers over the body of the unconscious girl and the treacherous shot which sends the Sky Pilot from a narrow bridge to the rapids below, are thrilling enough, and the unexpected Christmas gift of his friends with the return to health of the paralyzed heroine, provide touching moments in a lovely production which ends with an unexpected and humorous twist.

The prologue "At the Cross-Roads," is enacted in a very professional manner by Messrs. Verne Morphet and George Wesley, with a chorus composed of Messrs. Alex. Seger, Percy Naish and Harold Snelgrove. This is a rather unique attraction in Peterborough's theatrical offerings, which is used to a great extent in the larger cities. It makes a fitting introduction for a big picture, and Verne and his cowboy chorus in their picturesque attire, with George Wesley in regulation ministerial garb, give a pleasing and tuneful little sketch, followed by a pretty rendition of "Gwen, Pretty Gwen."

The travelogue and animated pictograph are as good as usual, and there is a very funny comedy, "Hey, Rube!" The hero wants to elope, and the heroine is quite willing also, but he knocks at the wrong window, and then things begin to happen.

Jeanette.

AT THE CAPITOL.

Gloria Swanson has a wonderful vehicle in "The Great Moment," at the Capitol Theatre this week. As Nadine, the half-gypsy daughter of a British aristocrat, her tempestuous nature lends an unconventional flavor to her whole existence. Strangely enough, she clings to an ideal lover, and when he materializes in real life, a colorful, vivid romance follows, which takes its audience over oceans and continents, into official life at Washington and finally ends in the hills of Nevada, with the usual happy termination.

Several excellent short reels, the entertaining "Yellow Arm" serial, a hilarious comedy, and two good vaudeville acts; Paul Savoy in a sinking, talking and dancing act, and Wheeler and Wheeler, sensational roller skating artists, with a clever line of new tricks, complete the programme.

TREE-TRIMMING PROBLEMS DISCUSSED BY COMMITTEE

MAN WILL BE EMPLOYED TO MAKE A SURVEY OF THE CITY —PLAN SUGGESTED.

At considerable length last night the Board of Works Committee of the Council discussed tree trimming and the removal of trees in the city, and finally recommended to the Council that a capable man be engaged to make a survey of all the trees to be removed or trimmed.

Mrs. Hunter, 222 Rogers Street, one Manitoba maple; James Tinney, 626 Bethune Street, two maple trees; A. E. Stinson, 506 Stewart Street, one elm and one maple tree; T. E. Sargent, 488 Sherbrooke Street, one maple tree in front of 222 King Street; W. R. Cowain, corner Reid and King Streets, one maple tree, nearly dead, on Reid Street; George Deannard, 479 Donegal Street, one tree opposite his property on Murray Street ;Robert Corner, 210 Lake Street, one birch tree and one maple tree; Mrs. Hawley, 351 Charlotte Street, three trees on Park Street and one tree on Charlotte Street; Mr. A. Brown, 517 Weller Street, one maple tree.

Ed. Finnie, Barnardo Avenue, was granted permission to remove a tree in advance of his application.

City Engineer Parsons said most of the residents asked the city to remove them in which case the wood was used for charity. The wood does not pay the city for the labour, the City Engineer stated.

Interferes with Wires.

The Bell Telephone Company asked permission to trim trees on Charlotte Street to Monaghan Road and north on Monaghan Road to Jackson Park. Such trimming was necessary to maintain their long distance lines to Port Hope and Lindsay, the company stated, as the trees are so thick they interfere with the proper working of the wires. The request stated that the company would be glad to do the work under the supervision of the City Engineer or under any other person appointed, and they would pay such person $4.00 a day.

In regard to this application, Mr. Parsons gave the hint that trimming by companies that have wires running through trees was becoming a "nuisance." He pointed out that it was difficult to refuse such requests.

Ald. J. Crowe advised against allowing such trimming at all.

Ald. F. Whitehouse said he had been complained to this week of a tree that had died after the Hydro had trimmed it.

Permission was granted, but it was provided that the City Engineer exercise supervision over the trimming.

Because of the priceless value of beautiful trees, Ald. J. J. Turner advised securing a capable man, such as Frank Wise or any other efficient horticulturist, to make a survey of trees in the city that should be removed or trimmed. The money, a month's salary, Ald. Turner thought, would be money well spent. It was necessary to get an efficient man, one who understood trees so that every protection could be given some of the beautiful trees in the city.

Ald. Turner didn't favour burdening the City Engineer with matters concerning trees when he is engaged in other matters whose importance is of primary consideration.

Opposed Suggestion.

Ald. Crowe did not think the engineer was being rushed to death, and for this reason opposed the suggestion, although other members took it favourably. He asked Mr. Parsons if he was very busy, and the Engineer replied that he was quite busy.

In regard to the suggestion which he thought was very good, Mr. Parsons reminded the aldermen that some years ago he made a report on trees that he did not think was ever even read by the Council. The aldermen were taken aback. His arrow went home. He commenced the suggestion, but advised that the man secured work under his supervision.

Ald. Turner moved, the Mayor seconded, and it was adopted, that a man be advertised for and engaged to make a survey of trees to be removed and mark trees, and to work under the direction of the City Engineer.

RESUME THRESHING THROUGHOUT WEST

EXPECTED TO START WITHIN FEW DAYS

WINNIPEG, Sept. 27.—(Canadian Press).—Threshing operations which have been delayed for the past two weeks should be resumed during the next few days throughout the West, according to the weekly crop review issued here by the Canadian Pacific Railway.

During the week-end good drying weather prevailed.

In Manitoba, farmers in some localities have resumed threshing without regard to condition of the stocks in order to hold harvesters. A reduction in the grade is reported from some sections owing to sprouting.

In Saskatchewan, where farmers in isolated instances had gone ahead with threshing, they have had to accept twenty-five to thirty cents per bushel from elevator companies owing to uncertainty as to how the grain will ultimately turn out. Considerable sprouting is reported in some districts in this province, but it is not general.

Alberta reports conditions more favorable, and threshing again under way. Many points have completed threshing, and, taking the whole of the Province, probably forty to fifty per cent. is accomplished.

In the district covered by the Edmonton, Dunvegan and British Columbia Railway, excellent harvesting weather prevails at present. Threshing is in full swing again, and the grain is yielding well and grading high. Some districts are yielding 50 bushels of wheat to the acre, while the average for this territory will run about 40 bushels.

Covering the coarse grain crop, the general agricultural agent for the C.P.R. estimates oats at 35.8 bushels per acre with a total of 41,329,000 bushels; barley is estimated at 23 bushels to the acre, and the total at 42,476,000 bushels; flax eight bushels to the acre, total 6,018,000 bushels, and rye 17.3 bushels to the acre, total 9,847,000 bushels.

SAYS ACCUSERS TRY BLACKMAIL UPON ARBUCKLE

MOVIE ACTOR'S COUNSEL MAKES CHARGE AGAINST TWO IN "PARTY."

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 27.—After a severe and unusual cross-examiantion of Al. Semnacher, a witness in the hearing of the murder charge against Roscoe Arbuckle, Attroney Frank Dominguez charged there had been a conspiracy to blackmail Arbuckle.

He declared that Semnacher had conspired with Mrs. Maude Delmont and someone else to take the torn garments from the room of Miss Virginia Rappe and carry them to Los Angeles with the idea of extorting money from Arbuckle.

He asserted he would show that Mrs. Delmont had attempted to blackmail Earl Lynn of Los Angeles. He asserted he would show an intimacy between Semnacher and Mrs. Delmont, and made a number of half-veiled allusions to Semnacher's general honesty.

OLD HOTEL DE GINK AGAIN A JOB BUREAU.

New York Lodging House For Hoboes Opened to Help Unemployed.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—The employment division of the Industrial Aid Bureau, recently established by Bird S. Coler, Commissioner of Public Welfare, to deal with the unemployment situation, began operations recently in the building at Worth and Centre Streets For several years the building, then known as the Hotel de Gink, was run as a lodging house and employment for hoboes by Jeff Davis.

The employment division will be under the supervision of Louis Sullivan, a manufacturer, of Brooklyn, who was connected with the Federal employment bureau after the war.

The ground floor of the old Hotel de Gink will be devoted to applicants from the unskilled laboring classes, the second floor to the skilled laborers, clerical the unskilled laboring classes, the second and professional workers, and the third floor to women, skilled and unskilled. Commissioner Coler has issued an appeal to employers to co-operate with the bureau and telephone their wants to Mr. Sullivan. The telephone number is Franklin 1510.

Three men will constitute the nucleus of a field force that will canvass employers for jobs. These men, as well as all salaried workers in the division, will be selected from men now out of jobs, and at least half of them will be ex-service men. As a result, all of the $29,000 appropriated by the Board of Estimate will go directly to relieve unemployment.

If Urbain Ledoux carries out his intention of holding an auction of jobless men in Bryant Park, he will face not only the official ban of Police Commissioner Enright, but also the indignation of officers of the American Legion and of labor unions. Major William F. Deegan of the Mayor's Committee on Unemployment, said he considered the proposed auctioning of ex-service men to be "degrading." And William F. Kehoe, Secretary of the Central Trades and Labor Council, said labor men would be present to protest Ledoux's propaganda.

"I'll be tempted to go up myself and take a whack at him," he said.

A canvass of labor unions is being made by Mr. Kehoe to determine the amount of unemployment in the unions. He has received replies from 172 of the 700 unions, indicating that 50 per cent. of union labor is out of work in New York City, and about 25 per cent. working on part time. He believes the canvass will show the estimate of 500,000 unemployed in the city at the present time is not exaggerated.

The Salvation Army is taking care of a former soldier and his family whose plight reveals the difficulty in finding work. The man is Percy Hocking, an Englishman, who served in the A. E. F. until the armistice, and who married Marcelle Noye, a French girl, in 1918. A boy was born two years ago, and the family came to this country. Hocking got a job up State, where another baby was born. Then he lost his job and was unable to get another.

The Red Cross helped him to get his family to New York, where he arrived with 80 cents. The Travelers' Aid Society took care of the mother and two children until Friday, and Hocking went to the Bowery Y. M. C. A. and the Municipal Lodging House for shelter. Since then he has appealed to ten different organizations for work. Last Thursday he appealed to the American Legion and was sent to the Salvation Army, where the whole family was taken in.

Hocking has been promised work in France, and the Salvation Army has arranged to pay his passage.

POLICE CHIEF DANIEL THOMPSON'S RECORD

The Canadian Police Bulletin has this to say of Daniel Thompson, for ten years Chief of Police for Peterborough:

Chief Constable Daniel Thompson, of Windsor, Ont., President of the Chief Constables' Association of Canada, 1921-22, entered police work in 1893. He joined the London force, then under command of Chief W. T. T. Williams, as police constable, remaining with that force until 1905. He resigned to go into business, but did not stay in it long, finding that he could not remain content away from police activities. He made application to become Chief Constable at Woodstock, and was appointed in February, 1906, remaining in that position until July, 1910. In the interim Chief Thompson re-organized the Woodstock police department to the satisfaction of all the civic authorities concerned. On July 1 1910 he was appointed Chief of Police at Peterborough in succession to the late George J. Rozell. He remained there until December, 1920, having completely he organized the department. In November, 1920, he was appointed Chief of Police at Windsor, where he now is, and left for that city with the best wishes of the authorities and the citizens of Peterborough. In Windsor, Ontario, Chief Daniel Thompson, as anyone who knows the geographical position will readily understood, has a difficult and delicate task. That he has managed to keep such splendid order in the city so easy of access to all the elements that flow in from the United States side, is a tribute to himself and the force that he commands. Chief Thompson has not only won the respect of the adult citizenhood of Windsor but he has made firm friends of thousands of youngsters who are enthusiastic supporters of the Safety League, which he has aided in every possible way to spread the propaganda of carefulness which has the saving of life and limb as its objectives. He has high ideals as a citizen and an officer, and is convinced that there is a great future for the Chief Constables Association for which organization he has always been an enthusiastic worker.

Voice of the People

A correspondent writes as follows: "Dear Sir,—Owing to a difference of opinion which has arisen between a friend and myself concerning the solution to the following: 'Sisters and brothers have I none, but that man's father was my father's son,' we would be very much indebted to you if you would express your opinion on the matter.—Yours in anticipation,

"Puzzled."

Now, this gentleman was talking about himself, and got just a little twisted. He might have expressed it something like this: "As I have no sisters or brothers, naturally my father's son is myself. Therefore, that man's father was myself," or, in ordinary plain language, the sentence may be boiled down to "That man is my son." The above foolish question was first brought to the light of day about the year Queen Anne died.

JOCKEYS BEATEN AND ROBBED BY BANDITS

TORONTO, Sept. 27.—(Canadian Press). — Three jockeys, Harold Martin, Frank Williams and George Walsh, riding at the Woodbine meeting, were held up near the Humber River shortly before twelve o'clock last night and badly beaten by men and women occupants of a motor car. Martin was robbed of $400 and a valuable diamond pin, the bandits escaped.

FINANCIAL AND MARKETS

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—(Canadian Press).—Leaders were under further pressure at the opening of to-day's stock market. Shorts availed themselves of the new low record for German marks as a partial reason for extending their commitments. Central Leather and General and General Electric showed early losses of one to 1 1-2 points. Extensive buying of Liberty Bonds was resumed.

Mexican Pet. suffered an extreme loss of 2 1-2 points during the morning. Republican Iron preferred sustained the greatest loss, declining 3 1-4 points. The entire Tobacco group was heavy and occasional dealings in rails were mostly at lower quotations. Call money opened at 5 per cent. Victory 4 3-4 per cent notes featured the strong bond market.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, September 27. — Canadian Press. — Opening wheat prices, which varied from the same as yesterday's finish to 1 3-4c lower, with Dec. 1.24 to 1.24 1-2, and May 1.28 to 1.28 1-2, were followed by moderate set backs all around.

Corn and oats declined with wheat, the lowest prices this season being touched by September and December corn. After opening 1-8 to 1-4 off, including Dec. at 51 1-2 to 51 5-8, the corn market sagged still further before beginning to react.

Oats started 1-8c lower to a shade advance. Rec. 37 1-8 to 37 3-8, and then became easier for all deliveries.

TORONTO.

TORONTO, September 27. Canadian Press.—A revival of interest in Canada Bread was shown this morning when 140 shares changed hands and the price mounted from 25 to 27. General Electric was also more active but the prices were the same as yesterday. There was a good demand for Victory Bonds. The 1934's were the most heavily dealt in and were a trifle firmer.

CONSIDERING STEPS TO MEET UNEMPLOYMENT

LONDON, Sept. 27.— (Canadian Press.)— Virtually all the London constituencies were represented at the meeting of members of Parliament yesterday afternoon to discuss the unemployment problem, Thomas J. MacNamara, the Labor Minister, and Sir H. Kingsley, were present on behalf of the Government Departments.

The proposal of the National Alliance of Employers and Employed that the local authorities should hasten public utilities work, 75 per cent. of whose cost the Government should advance, was discussed.

CANADIAN CATTLE ON BRITISH MARKET

GLASGOW, Sept. 27.—(Canadian Press Cable.)— Seven hundred and fifty-two Canadian cattle were offered on the market here yesterday at fourteen cents for domestic steers, rougher grades at twelve.

CLOSED UP FAKE.

Lindsay Post: A fakir at one of the country fairs had 105 envelopes with a number under the flap of each. Exposed on a table he had numerous articles, with corresponding numbers to those in the envelopes. The visiting inspector decided to look into each envelope, and found that the great percentage of the numbers called for a children's looking-glass, frequently given away, or a pair of hairpins. There were two numbers to correspond with those on two watches displayed, but as the fakir held the envelopes tight in his hand there was not much chance to pick a watch. He charged 15 cents to make a selection, and was rightly closed up. Funny how the public has to be protected.

WILSON IS OPPOSED TO U. S.-HUN PACT

VOL. XLIX., No. 74 PETERBOROUGH, WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 28, 1921 PRICE THREE CENTS

4 TO 45 CENTS INCREASE HERE ON TELEPHONES

THIS IS EFFECT ON PETERBOROUGH OF PROPOSED INCREASES NOW BEFORE RAILWAY BOARD

BROUGHT TO ATTENTION OF COUNCIL ON MONDAY

Mr. J. M. McHardy, local manager of the Bell Telephone Company, has filed with Mr. S. R. Armstrong, the City Clerk, a schedule of the proposed rate increases. The increases cover exchange service, and do not in any way affect long distance or rural services.

The schedule is now before the Board of Railway Commissioners for approval. On Monday night it will be brought to the attention of the City Council.

	Present Rate	Propos'd Rate	Incr. per Mnth
Business Individual	$3.08	$3.50	42c
Business Two party line....	$2.46	$2.50	4c
Business Four party line....	$2.05	$2.50	45c
PrivateBranch Exchange Trunk	$3.08	$3.50	42c
Residence Individual	$2.57	$2.75	18c
Residence 2 party line....	$2.05	$2.25	20c
Residence 4 party line....	$1.85	$2.00	15c

The maximum monthly increase will be 45 cents and the minimum 4 cents. If the increased rates are granted by the Railway Board, it will mean a more uniform rate schedule for towns and cities throughout the jurisdiction of the Bell Telephone Company.

In London, Ontario, the present monthly rate for a two-party line is $3.08, and in Windsor a similar service costs $2.46. Under the new proposed schedule the rate in both places will be $4.00.

No changes will be made for rural service, long distance service, service connection charges, or any other charges for which tariffs are on file with the Board of Railway Commissioners other than those referred to.

In its application to the Railway Board the Company claims it is impossible to obtain the new money required to enable it to extend its facilities, owing to inadequate earnings, and that it has approximately 16,000 applications for service which it cannot supply owing to a general shortage of equipment.

It also states that unless large capital outlays are immediately arranged for, the shortage of equipment will become so serious and so prolonged that the public will be seriously handicapped through inability to obtain telephone service.

EMPLOYMENT BUREAU THROUGHOUT THE U.S. TO MEET EMERGENCY

THIS WILL BE RECOMMENDATION OF NATIONAL CONFERENCE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28. — (United Press).—Every city in the country must open an employment agency at once and find jobs for the idle men in each locality before winter comes.

This will be one of the principle recommendations of the National Unemployment Conference to meet the critical unemployment emergency now facing the country. An appeal to all Governors and Mayors for such action had been decided upon by the Conference Committee on emergency measures that can be taken by States and municipalities.

IMPERIAL CONFERENCE STORY NOT TO BE TOLD

Steam Yacht Laurion Here

OWNED BY MILLIONAIRE BROKER AND COMMANDED BY VETERAN GREAT LAKES SAILOR.

Spick and span under the September sun, with real jackies, in navy blue blouses and wide trousers fussing about her, with the Union Jack flying at the bow, and the Stars and Stripes at the stern, the beautiful steam yacht "Laurion," owned by M. C. Clock, of Syracuse, N.Y., lay at the government wharf this morning before proceeding on to the upper lakes.

Three weeks ago Mr. Clock, who is a millionaire stockbroker of New York City, asked Captain C. H. Kendall, who guides the fortunes of the craft, where he would suggest going for a couple of weeks novel cruise. Captain Kendall suggested the Trent Waterway, and it was finally settled after a trip through the Rideau Canal and lakes was vetoed because of the locks being too small, that the boat would seek new pleasure grounds in this part of the province of Ontario.

The yacht with Mr. Clock and a party of eight men aboard, and manned by a crew of eight, left Clayton, New York, where Mr. Clock's summer home is, on Saturday night, and made the 193 miles to Peterboor by last night. Mr. Clock's plans for the upper lakes journey are not complete but it is believed that he will not leave Peterboro till to-morrow.

Well Equipped Yacht.

The Laurion is a 98 foot boat driven by triple expansion engines and makes at normal speed 13 miles an hour or at maximum 16 miles. It is completely equipped in every way and. Captain Kendall describes it as one of the finest and most modernly equipped steam yachts on the St. Lawrence. Mr. Clock, previous to buying the Laurion a year ago July, owned the "gas" boat Flick, which came through Peterboro this summer.

Captain Kendall has been on steamers on the Great Lakes since boyhood. He has been in three wrecks and bears upon his forehead an old scar received when 17 years old, when he was on a "wind jammer" that went ashore 16 miles below Cleveland on Lake Erie. He was so coated with ice, from hanging to the spray swept rigging, that an axe had to be used to cut it away, and in this process he was badly cut. He has sailed through all the lakes but has never been up the Trent way before, and he praises it as one of the most beautiful and picturesque water routes he has ever been through. He predicts that when the canal is completed so long boats can go right through to the Georgian Bay there will be hundreds of Americans come up. "You'll be flooded with Americans," he said.

Meanwhile, the fate of the German as well as the Austrian and Hungarian pacts, apparently rested in the hands of 36 Democratic Senators.

WARD, ARRESTED IN COBOURG, IS GUILTY, ADMITS

PLEADS GUILTY TO THEFT OF $107 AND CAR, AND IS REMANDED FOR SENTENCE.

WAS APPREHENDED AFTER SEARCH LASTING 10 DAYS

Remanded by Magistrate Dumble till October 4th, Harry Ward will receive sentence for the theft on Sunday, September 17th, of $107 from Gray and Smith, Charlotte St., and an automobile from G. A. Dunsford, Brock and Chambers streets. Ward pleaded guilty to both charges. He had no counsel.

Detectives William Meagher and George Cookman arrested Ward at 10.30 in a Cobourg poolroom after they had searched likely resorts in Port Hope.

Information, the source of which the police did not care to disclose, led to the detectives making a fast trip to Port Hope in a livery car. When Port Hope failed to reveal Ward the officers went on to Cobourg, and correctly surmising that Ward would be one of the hotels or pool parlours, they found him after going through nearly all the centres of attraction. He surrendered himself quietly and was brought back to Peterboro immediately.

Ward made no definite statement to the officers. He declared he had been three days in Cobourg, but the detectives knew that he had been there less than three hours.

When arested he did not have a cent in his pocket.

No Quarantine Cards Are Left

SCARLET FEVER AND DIPHTHERIA SPREAD RAPIDLY IN THE CITY

The Sanitary Inspector ran out of cards last night on account of the excessive demand for these articles to placard houses quarantined with scarlet fever and diphtheria. Numbers of notices are constantly coming in from all parts of the city for both scarlet fever and diphtheria. However, the M.O.H., Dr. T. W. H. Young, reports that there are very few serious cases of infectious disease in the city.

The inspection of schools undertaken by Dr. A. W. McPherson disclosed the fact that numerous children were "carriers" of disease, having the germs in their throats, and these children's homes were immediately ordered to be placarded, thereby increasing the number of quarantined dwellings to a great extent. The "carriers" are isolated so that all necessary precautions may be taken to prevent the spreading of infection. In the city, according to Dr. Young, there are actually only four or five bona fide cases of diphtheria, as compared with fifteen cases a couple of months ago, while the Isolation Hospital holds altogether only about twenty cases of diptheria and scarlet fever.

A great deal of the spreading of these germs is due to the laxity of those under quarantine, who, in some cases, go in and out just about as they please, and there appears to be no legislation strong enough to prevent them doing so. In some cases, the disease is not reported at all, the parents preferring to do their own nursing and doctoring and avoid the inconvenience of quarantine.

NO INSPECTOR OF ST. LIGHTS IS APPOINTED

FIRE, WATER AND LIGHT COMMITTEE DROP PROJECTED OFFICE FOR TIME BEING AT LEAST

CONDITION OF STREET LIGHTING DISCUSSED

The Fire, Water and Light Committee of the City Council met last night but did not appoint an inspector of street lights as was anticipated by local men who applied for the position. The applicants were: James Gates, Dan. Curtain, J. A. Playford and F. Oxley. The applications were "received." "We've got an awful lot of inspectors now," declared Ald. G. N. Gordon, when the subject was introduced.

"I notice an improvement in the lights since the last time that came up. If you touch them up occasionally you get results. I understand only one-half of one per cent. of the lights were found to be out of order. I would let that go for a while," advised Ald. J. Crowe.

"We needn't decide just now as to that," said Ald. Gordon.

"We can let it go for awhile," said the Chairman.

Ald. Gordon and Ald. F. Whitehouse spoke favorably of employing an inspector, but Ald. Gordon's opinion that the appointment stand over till next year's appropriations are made was agreed to, and the discussion of having such an office dropped.

New Lights Placed.

On motion of Ald. Jones and Ald. Crowe, the Chairman was authorized to have the following lights placed: Two lights on Union Street, one light on Stewart Street between Brock and Hunter Streets, one light on Perry Street between Aylmer and Olive Avenue, one light at the corner of Smith and Bethune Streets, one light on Murray Street at the mouth of the lane west of Murray Street Baptist Church, two lights on Rutherford Avenue, two lights on Brock Street at the rear of St. John's Church.

In regard to the street lighting, Ald. J. Turner had sent to the committee copies of communications between him and H. O. Fisk, manager of the Utilities Commission. On August 9, Ald. Turner wrote the manager as follows: "On my way to the train Sunday evening I noticed that the arc light in front of the Grand Opera House was in poor condition, with a deep red rim at the top and bottom. The next light south in front of the Peter Hamilton Company was out, and the next light south was in the same condition as the Opera House light." On August 10 Ald. Turner wrote as follows: "I recently reported the light at the corner of Perry and George Streets as not working for a number of weeks. The light was repaired, and has been working since then up to Saturday evening, but has now been out three days, namely, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday."

I also wish to report the light at the corner of Chamberlain and Alfred Streets, which has been out during the summer season. From these reports which I am making to you I believe the city will be justified in deducting 10 per cent. from the Utilities account for light each month to cover lights that are out in various parts of the city.

LARGE CAR IS APPROVED FOR CHIEF GRANGE

FIRE, WATER AND LIGHT COMMITTEE RECOMMEND PURCHASE AFTER MUCH DISCUSSION.

UNDECIDED WHETHER TO PROTECT EXHIBITION PARK

Last night Ald. R. Morrison, chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee of the City Council, was instrumental in getting a recommendation made to the Council that the Chairman and Fire Chief be authorized to purchase a Chalmers car for the Fire Chief, the city to be protected on any reduction in prices up to April 1, 1922. Ald. R. Jones was the mover and Ald. F. Whitehouse the seconder.

It took a long time to convince Ald. J. Crowe and Ald. G. N. Gordon that the recommendation should go through. Ald. Jones and Ald. F. Whitehouse backed up the Chairman and Fire Chief. Ald. Morrison and the Fire Chief declared that the Ford car was, to use a metaphor, somewhat out of place "on its last legs." Repair bills for the year had been unusually high, and the Chief said he did not know what minute it might break down. If it broke down on a pulmotor call life might be lost.

Ald. Morrison pointed out, as did Ald. Whitehouse to Ald. Crowe and Ald. Gordon, that the expenditure for the car was in this year's appropriation, but the purchase had been "stalled" for one reason and another.

Ald. Crowe contended that the city could not afford to buy the car, and the old one should be used as long as it will run. Ald. Gordon, although he finally gave way, advocated waiting till spring, when cars would be lower, and save running a new car through the rough winter.

The opposition finally gave way and allowed the matter to go to Council, where another clash may ensue over the car. A Chalmers was recommended, as this was the car the committee picked upon last spring. When Chief Grange said he would like a touring model last night assured criticism of the taxpayers over the Chief having such a model was pointed out by Ald. Gordon. Chief Grange said the touring model was desired to carry men and the pulmotor and not for personal desirabilities, but Ald. Gordon maintained, and Ald. Jones and Ald. Crowe supported him in this, that while the Chief's motives were undoubtedly of the best, and there was no suspicion that he would misuse the car, it was his opinion that a roadster would be best. The Chief said he was quite willing to abide by the Council's decision. Ald. Morrison said that at the Firemen's Convention he was informed that touring models were being used almost exclusively. Nothing further was said about the model.

Adequate Fire Service.

As requested by Chief Grange, R. L. Dobbin, Waterworks superintendent, reported on the cost of giving adequate fire service to the Exhibition Grounds. He estimated the cost of an 8-inch main from Lansdowne Street, 550 feet into the grounds, setting two hydrants on this main, at $2,250.00. Mr. Dobbin recommended hydrants at Lock and Morrow Streets and Lock and Albertus Streets. There is at present an 8-inch main on Lock Street at these points. The report was "received," but caused a protracted discussion on the city's moral liability in giving the suburbs fire protection. Ald. Gordon maintained that money should not be expended in giving fire protection to outsiders till taxpayers in the city are getting what they are paying for. Ald Crowe was against the city spending any money on improvements in that direction. Ald. Morrison was favorable to giving protection to the Exhibition Grounds.

"What would you do if there was a fire?" he asked Ald. Crowe.

"Let it burn," was that member's prompt declaration.

Other aldermen objected to this callous statement. Ald. Gordon asked the Chief if there wasn't some restriction that he was not to take the department out of the city. The Chief said there was not. He always used his own discretion. If the department had not answered calls out of the city houses would have burnt down, he said. Ald. Gordon mentioned the moral obligation to assist, but asked the Chief what protection the city had when the firemen were away outside the limits. There was half the equipment left, he said, and if there was a call they would return with the motor apparatus.

Ald. Crowe strongly disapproved of any expenditure as suggested. "You'll never get them to come into the city as long as you give them these things," he said.

After a talk about what calls the Chief should answer if they come from outside the limits, the Aldermen were no further ahead, and the question, "Shall we go or not?" still left to Chief Grange to answer.

Two Liberals Run in Fight In Far North

CAMPAIGN OVER LAKES AND TRAILS OF NORTHERN SASKATCHEWAN.

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

REGINA, Sept. 28.—To fill the last gaps in the ranks of the Provincial Legislature, left open since the election of June last, voting was held in the Isle La Crosse constituency on Monday. The final result will not be known for weeks, although the first reports that have filtered through from this northern outpost show that the Martin Government candidate would be returned. The territory covered by this constituency is the farthest north in Saskatchewan. It includes the pioneer settlements nearly 500 miles north of the international boundary.

One of the features of this election was that both the candidates ran as Liberals. J. O. Nolin, who has represented the riding since 1908, was opposed by Joseph Bourneouff, and indications are that Nolin will again take his seat.

Since the nomination day at North Battleford, more than a month ago, the two contestants have carried on a unique campaign. They have travelled over the lakes and trails of their territory and addressed meetings, at each of which but a few dozen comprised the audience.

No voters' lists were used on voting day, and when a settler presented himself at a booth all that was required of him was to take oath that he was a citizen of good standing and a ballot was presented.

WOULD PAINT FIRE ALARM BOXES RED

MAY HAVE TO CHANGE BOXES TO POLES OF UTILITIES COMMISSION

Last night Fire Chief Grange advised the Fire, Water and Light Committee of the City Council that it seems likely that the fire alarm boxes will have to be transferred from the Bell Telephone poles to the poles of the Utilities Commission, because of the objection raised by the Telephone Company to having the new red lighting apparatus on their poles. If the Telephone Company allowed them to have the red lights on the poles they would charge $1 a year, the manager had informed him, and this would mean an expenditure altogether of about thirty dollars a year. This the Chief thought should be saved. The company's objection was raised on account of the extra voltage there will be on the poles, and if a high powered wire got in touch with one of the lighting wires a high voltage would be caused and the lives of the linemen endangered.

The Chief stated that the manager had been advised from Montreal that the extra charge would have to be made. Chief Grange said Mr. H. O. Fisk of the Utilities Commission had given him permission to use their poles and they were prepared to begin transferring the lighting apparatus from the Bell poles to the Utilities. He pointed out the advantage in using the Utilities poles by having the wires for lighting in easy access. Their own wires operating the alarm system would have to be transferred from the Bell poles to the Utilities.

City Clerk Armstrong advised the Chief to "go slow" in making the change, for he believed the agreement with the Telephone Company gave them full use of the poles, although he wasn't sure of this point. He said he would look up the agreement and advise the Chief.

Painted Red.

The lighting apparatus is complete on many of the poles excepting for the globes and wiring. The apparatus can be noticed on downtown poles. It consists of a small conduit running up four or five feet above the box surmounted with a socket for a red globe eight inches in diameter, in which an ordinary white globe is used. There has been a delay in getting the equipment from the States or the installation would long ago have been completed. The firemen have done all the work in connection with this first attempt to mark the position of alarm boxes at night.

Chief Grange stated today he intends painting the boxes red and below the box put a wide band of crimson around the pole so the position of the box will be made as clear by day as it will by night.

In addition to a list elsewhere of lights passed upon last night, the Fire, Water and Light Committee of the City Council granted a light on Bethune street, between Perry and Lake, in compliance with the request of William Menzies.

Requirements of the Fire Department are uniforms for 21 men an o'coat for himself and three one-half-hour breathing apparatus. Chief Grange stated that one company had reduced prices on the breathing apparatus from $85 to $50, and he advised getting three from this company at the low price. These requirements were passed.

BRITISH REPLY TO BE SENT TO DUBLIN TO-DAY

NOTE UNDERSTOOD TO OUTLINE ATTITUDE TOWARDS IRISH INDEPENDENCE AND TO MAKE CONFERENCE POSSIBLE.

DAIL MEETS THURSDAY TO CONSIDER THE NOTE

(United Press).

DUBLIN, Sept. 28. — The Sinn Fein expected the British note today. Eamonn De Valera called a meeting of the Dail Eireann for tomorrow to consider Lloyd George's reply to his latest telegram. This was accepted here as indication that the Irish leader had been advised that the communication from the British Parliament would be despatched to-day.

The Sinn Fein Cabinet was first to consider the British reply to De Valera's last telegram, in which the Republican President reiterated his contention that Irish plenipotentiaries could only confer with Britain as representatives of a free state. The inner ring was to prepare recommendations for the Dail to-morrow.

(United Press).

LONDON, Sept. 28.—Members of the British Cabinet, who have been considering the text of Lloyd George's proposed note to De Valera, have agreed as to the main points, and the reply will be forwarded this afternoon, according to advices from Gairloch to-day. It was stated that the British note will once more outline the Government's attitude towards Irish independence, but would make a conference with Sinn Fein delegates possible, and would be sent by telegraph.

The British press to-day was mildly optimistic over the next exchange of notes.

CONCURRENCE WITH COVT. STAND IS NOT DEMANDED.

LONDON, Sept. 28.—(Canadian Press).—The invitation of Sinn Feir leaders to a conference to be held in London about the middle of October was expected to be contained in Lloyd George's final reply to De Valera which, it was beleived, would be made public to-day.

Forecasts of the note were unanimous in making clear the British position which has already been stated by the Government. It was declared that it would be made clear that the conference had been called to discuss Irish self-government within the Empire, but that nothing contained in the message would make impossible its acceptance by the Sinn Fein, or demand explicit concurrence with the British standpoint as a condition to the conference.

ALLEGED CONSPIRATOR AGAINST BRITAIN GOES BEFORE THE GRAND JURY

NEW YORK, Sept. 28. (Canadian Press). — George Gordon Rorke, Washington, held on bond in New York on a charge of conspiring to furnish arms to the Sinn Fein, went to Trenton to-day to appear before the Federal Grand Jury which is inquiring into the discovery last June of 595 guns in the bunkers of the Steamer East Side.

NORWOOD HAS PROGRAM FOR BIGGER FAIR

MAKING A BEGINNING WITH FREE ATTRACTION BY COMEDY ACROBATS--TWO BANDS ENGAGED

$3,000 IN PRIZES

Not content with their past achievements, the directors of the Norwood Fair, which will be held on Tuesday and Wednesday, 11th and 12th October, have laid plans for what they fully expect will be the most successful Exhibition in their history.

Their prize list totals $3000, and is thoroughly comprehensive; and their special attractions and entertainment features are certainly more numerous and impressive than ever.

The directors are branching out with a free performance by the Julian Troupe, comedy acrobats. Two bands have been engaged—the Caledonian pipers from Peterborough, and also the Wooller Brass Band, which is said to be one of the best musical aggregations for its numbers in the district.

A baby show, public speaking contest open to the children of the Norwood schools, Boy Scouts' parade and demonstration of their work, and a concert in the evening, which is being arranged by the I.O.D.E., are some of the features of this year's Fair, apart from the midway, which will be bigger than usual.

President Ed. Hawthorne, of Warsaw, and Mr. John E. Roxburg, of Norwood, secretary-treasurer, have an earnest and energetic body of directors behind them. They have re-roofed the poultry building, and are all ready for Fair days. To accommodate visitors from Peterborough who haven't automobiles, a special train has been secured to leave Norwood at 7 p.m., arriving in Peterborough at 7.30.

EAST PETERBOROUGH POLITICS

NORWOOD EXPECTS U.F.O. CHOICE TO BE EITHER GRIFFITH, BRETHEN OR SMITHSON—REEVE J. C. STRICKTAND OF LAKEFIELD, MENTIONED AS CONSERVATIVE POSSIBILITY

East Peterborough's political pot will not begin to boil until after the U. F. O. nominations in Norwood next Monday. Even then it may be slow in reaching the ebullition stage, for the old parties have not yet orientated to the new conditions, leadership seems hesitant and undecided, although not lacking, and, quite naturally in a preponderantly rural riding, men who, because they are not agrarians are not admited to the U. F. O., are inclined to wait for definite expressions from the farmers themselves. Some of the earliest signs portend a real battle when the campaign gets under way, but these are as yet only indications which will probably materialise after a survey of the situation when the U. F. O. candidate is named.

Opinion in Norwood tends to verify the reports reaching Peterborough that the heavyweights on Monday's nomination ballot will be Warden Wm. E. Griffith, of Belmont Township, G. A. Brethen, of Asphodel Township, and Morley E. Smithson, of Otonabee Township. Mr. Griffith has been prominent in the municipal affairs of Belmont, has been Reeve for years, and was elected Warden of the county last January. He is credited with having been a powerful influence in the defeat of Jim Thompson at the last Provincial elections in which E. N. McDonald, of Dummer Township, was elected as the U. F. O. representative for East Peterborough.

"I don't see how they can keep it from Griffith," said a man in Norwood the other day. "He worked hard for the U. F. O. in the Provincial fight, and helped swing a big section of Belmont around and east of Havelock that used to be solid for Thompson. He went down there and talked to the farmers, with the result that McDonald got a big vote in what looked like very doubtful territory. Griffith has been going strong in the East, and will carry a lot of prestige to the convention."

Warden Griffith lives south of and close to Havelock.

Arthur Brethen is virtually a Norwood man. His home is about a quarter of a mile north of the C.P.R. Station. As a breeder of Holstein cattle he has gained a wide reputation, and is so well thought of in this connection that his services are in frequent demand as a judge of Holsteins. He was engaged in that capacity by the Peterborough Exhibition this year. Mr. Brethen has not had the municipal experience that has fallen to Warden Griffith's lot, but he has been an active worker in the ranks of the U. F. O.

Morley Smithson is a son of Joshua Smithson, living near Zion in Otonabee. He represents the westend of the riding, and the fact that he hails from the banner township of Peterborough County should give him an active and influential following. He has been closely identified with the activities of the county U. F. O., is a thoroughgoing farmer, in which occupation he is solidly engaged, and has the advantage, whatever it may be worth, of being singled out by the public as the successful aspirant for the honours of the approaching convention.

The name of J. C. Strickland, the Reeve of Lakefield, has been cropping up frequently of late as a possible candidate of East Peterborough Conservatives. Gossip has it that Reeve Strickland is regarded favourably in sections other than his own village, where his popularity has been heightened by his services to the municipality and by his very material evidences of public spiritedness.

John A. Sexsmith, the present member, and supporter of the Meighen administration, has been recently sounding out his constituents, especially those who have not gone over to the U. F. O., but what reception he met has not become known. He stated a short time ago that he would run again if he secured the Conservative nomination, but there are Conservatives in Peterborough East who intimate that they are not sure whether Mr. Sexsmith retains a sympathy for and connection with what is known as the Union Government or whether he stands only with the old Conservative party. From the opinions gathered in Norwood, the Union Government is a closed page to prominent Conservatives who were interviewed.

OSHKIGMONG HAPPENINGS

OSHKIGMONG, Sept. 28. — The Sunday School Rally service, to have been held last Sunday at Chemong Church, is postponed until October 2nd.

The Mississanga Band of Chemong has been engaged to furnish music at the Young's Point Fair.

The Chemong House and the Tourist Wigwams are still occupied to their full capacity by American visitors.

Miss Tressie Loft, of Toronto, who has been visiting her aunt, Mrs. A. Whetung, has gone to Belleville visiting her parents.

Mrs. D. E. Whetung is in Peterborough visiting friends.

SECOND CROP RASPBERRY SEASON OPENS AGAIN

When starting to clean out his cultivated berry patch on Monday, Mr. W. J. Rome, 435 Mark street, East City, was surprised at finding that he had quite a prodigal second crop of delicious red raspberries to gather before trimming and thinning his twenty-five bushes preparatory for winter. It appears that, stimulated by extended summer warmth, these bushes have reasserted themselves and are now prolific in an abundance of tempting fruit, some ready for picking and others well advanced toward ripening.

BRITISH BANKS OPPOSE UNEMPLOYED SCHEME

LONDON, Sept 28.—(Canadian Press Cable)—What the government actually proposes regarding the larger financial measures for the relief of unemployment, is at present indicated only by newspaper despatches from correspondents around the Premier in Scotland who broadly speaking, suggest that the banks are to be induced, by government guarantee or otherwise, to lend money freely for trade financing.

BRITISH UNEMPLOYMENT NOT AS SERIOUS AS IN U.S.

LONDON, Sept. 28.—(Canadian Press).—Sir Alfred Mond, Minister of Health, addressing newspapermen regarding unemployment said that, serious as was the situation in Great Britain, it was even worse in the United States. Present conditions, he declared, were due to causes the governments could not control and the British Government could only endeavour to stabilize foreign exchange rates between this and foreign countries.

NATIONALISTS ADOPT 'CIVIL DISOBEDIENCE"

BOMBAY, Sept. 28.—At a conference of the Nationalist Congress and the Khilafat workers of the Sindh region, a resolution was adopted requesting the Working Committee of the Congress to adopt 'civil disobedience" beginning November 1.

POTATOES WEAKER

MONTREAL, Sept 28.—(Canadian Press).—Export trade in grain was again quiet yesterday and domestic trade was slow. Little business is passing in flour. There is no change in the mill feed market and bsiness iun baled hay is quiet. Prices for eggs are fairly maintained. A weaker feeling has developed in potatoes with prices down 25c per bag. There was a steady feeling in butter and cheese, the latter being more active.

C. T. R. APPEAL WILL BE DELAYED UNTIL NEW YEAR.

LONDON, Sept. 28.—(Canadian Press).—The Grand Trunk shareholders' decision to appeal to the Privy Council against the award of the board of arbitration regarding the value of the Grand Trunk stock was generally expected here. The application for leave to appeal cannot be heard before the middle of October, so the actual appeal is unlikely before the new year unless special facilities are granted.

RHODES SCHOLARSHIPS NOT FOR INDIA NOW.

LONDON, Sept. 28.—(Canadian Press).—In reference to the recent suggestion by the Council of State at Simla that the German Rhodes Scholarships be transferred to India, the Rhodes Trust announces that the creation of fresh scholarships is unlikely for some years. They point out that the German scholarships were immediately allocated to the Canadian middle-west, to the Transvaal and to the Orange Free State.

DECIDE TO-DAY ON THE CHARGE AGAINST FATTY

WHETHER IT WILL BE MURDER OR MANSLAUGHTER WILL BE DETERMINED BY JUDGE LAZARUS,

PROSECUTION FAILS TO PRODUCE MRS. DELMONT

SAN FRANCISCO, September 28.—Canadian Press.—The question of whether Roscoe C. Arbuckle will be tried in the Superior Court for the murder of Miss Virginia Rappe, or whether he will be held on the lesser charge of manslaughter, will be decided to-day by Police Judge Sylvain Lazarus, before whom the film comedian has been examined on a murder accusation.

The prosecution suddenly closed its case yesterday without the testimony of the complaining witness, Mrs. Bambina Delmont, saying that ample evidence had been presented to warrant holding for murder. The court although warning the District Attorney that he was running the danger of a dismissal by not producing more proof, practically removed all possibility of such action by denying a defence motion to dismiss and announcing that he rarely failed to hold a defendant to answer.

As to the particular charge, however, Judge Lazarus said his mind was not yet made up.

BRITISH REPLY CONSIDERED BY DAIL THURSDAY

RE-MOBILIZATION OF "B. SPECIALS" NOT BREACH OF TRUCE

DUBLIN, Sept. 28. — (Canadian Press).—The Dail Cabinet will assemble in the Mansion House Thursday to consider the reply of Prime Minister Lloyd George to Eamon De Valera's latest communication, it was announced here last night.

(Mr. Lloyd George's reply will be made public Wednesday, according to a London announcement.)

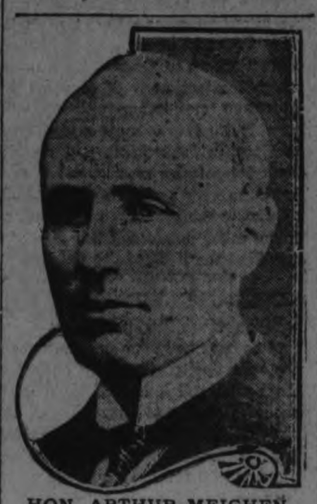
With reference to the uneasiness created in certain quarters of Dublin, where it is suggested that the decision to re-mobilize the "B. specials," in Ulster is a breach of the truce, a high official said to-day that the withdrawal of the "B. Specials" at the commencement of the truce was not in fulfillment of the terms of the truce, but merely an act of grace with the hope of creating better feeling.

MARK DECLINES STILL MORE.

LONDON, Sept. 28. — (Canadian Press).—The exchange rate of the German mark sank to a new low record of 464 to the pound sterling yesterday, mainly owing to speculative selling.

Transactions in the exchange market recently had been heavy and had gradually eased the quotations of the mark, owing to the uncertain outlook concerning financial conditions in Germany, but yesterday's operations brought the most dramatic fall yet experienced. On the Stock Exchange German three per cent. bonds, which last year were quoted at 22½, were offered yesterday at 3 7-8

PREMIER DISCUSSED THE TARIFF ISSUE AT MEETING



HON. ARTHUR MEIGHEN,
Who last evening addressed large meetings in his own constituency.

HON. ARTHUR MEIGHEN ADDRESSED TWO MEETINGS IN PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE LAST EVENING.

THE GRAIN TRADE

PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE, Man., Sept. 28. Canadian Press. — Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, Prime Minister, in a couple of speeches here last night, laid down the main lines of the government campaign. In his home county on the prairies, the Premier raised the flag of protection as he raised it at London. "Are we going to continue the protective system or are we not?" he queried. "That is the question. That is the whole question." He did not now, and never had believed in a high protective tariff. He did not believe that such a tariff would be just to the west. He did not think it best for the whole country, for the spur of outside competition under fair conditions was good, but he was immovably against the "platform of Messrs. Wood and Crerar," he was against the "Mackenzie King Liberal Platform," from the first line to the last. He charged Mr. King with "flagrant apostasy" on the tariff issue; he thought the fiscal policy of the National Progressives would bring disaster to the whole country, and not merely disaster to a few.

Canada, more than any other country, Mr. Meighen urged, needed the protective system. In this regard, he emphasized proximity to the United States with its great industrial development. The whole world was protective—Great Britain had adopted laws which constituted protection of the most effective kind, any country which thought it could compete with a protection country while its own barriers were down, was spurning the lessons of two hunded years.

As to the "sub-divided" opposition never was one so bereft of case or complaint. And the electors would have regard to practice and performance of faithful work rather than to "reckless and irresponsible agitators, to malignant criticism and to spacious and impossible promises." "For what," he exclaimed in his peroration, "for what kind of a government do you vote if you vote against the government? Can anybody answer that question? You do not imagine Mr. Crerar and the Wood-Crerar party would be in power alone. Surely you do not imagine that. You do not imagine Mr. Mackenzie King and his group will be in power alone. I do not think you imagine that. What kind of a government then do you think you would vote for if you voted against the present administration. Nobody knows. It would be a discordant repercussion of log-rolling groups in which each group would have to betay the electors who supported it, and out of which no policy could be evolved based on any principle whatever. It would mean only a temporary triumph for chicanery, a fleeting victory for infidelity and the prostitution of trust."

I do not say that the sub-divided groups would unite but I say that infidelity and dishonor will be bound to result if they do unite because neither would follow a course consistent with its pledges or its trust. Again I ask, what government are you voting into office if you cast your ballot against the government of to-day?

"Think this matter over and remember the responsibilities of suffrage. Remember that you will pay the penalty yourself if out of this contest there comes chaos and instability, failure of authority, the weak-

LEAGUE BALKS ON DISARMING

FRENCH AND BRITISH REPRESENTATIVES OPPOSE ACTION AT PRESENT.

GENEVA, Sept. 28. — (Canadian Press). — The representatives of France and Great Britain were summoned by Lord Robert Cecil, representing South Africa, yesterday, either to present proposals for the reduction of armaments, if they had any, or cease obstructing the projects put forward by others. The committee on disarmament of the League of Nations was discussing a resolution proposed by Lord Robert and Signor Schanzer, of Italy, which read:

"The Assembly resolves that the temporary fixed commission be asked to make general proposals for the reduction of armaments, which, in order to secure precision, should be in the form of a draft treaty or other equally definite plan to be presented to the Council, if possible, before the Assembly of next year."

H. A. L. Fisher, Great Britain, and M. Reynald, France, opposed this resolution, because, they said, it was impossible at the present time to enter a treaty of this subject with the United States and Russia. The form of a treaty might eventually be best, but it would be better, they contended, to postpone the resolution until next year; regional arrangemens would possibly be the first step, developing gradually into a general agreement.

Lord Robert Cecil insisted upon his motion, saying that it was vital to the law and vital to peace that something be done. Disarmament was the test case upon which the League was to be tried.

"Let France and Britain put forward proposals if they have them," he exclaimed, "and not content themselves with obstructing the proposals of others. I ask the committee to decide between us."

Mr. Fisher said his attitude was not to be taken as an indication that the British Government does not favor a reduction of armaments. Great Britain had already reduced armaments, and would continue to do so, but it was impossible for the League to make any headway on a general plan of disarmament while

IMPROVING THE TREES.

Many citizens who take a pride in the beautiful trees to be found everywhere along Peterborough's residential streets and who have been struck with the apparent indifference of Council after Council in regard to the preservation and care of the city's elms ad maples and other fine shade trees, will applaud the decision of the Board of Works to have a survey of the city's trees taken by a qualified man engaged for the purpose. As Ald. Turner expressed it, a month's salary for such an official would be money well spent. There is every need of such a survey. Trees in many sections of the city are badly in need of trimming; in some instances they are growing too closely together and should be thinned and many scrubby-looking trees could be sacrificed to the material improvement of the appearance of the streets. A man who knows his work could accomplish a striking transformation on many streets by a judicious trimming and thinning out of the trees, but the matter is too important to be entrusted to any one but a qualified person. The Council should see that the task is entrusted to such an official and his report should be carried out—not filed away as was a report from City Engineer Parsons on the tree question some years ago.

ANNOUNCE THE DATE.

Although Premier Meighen has announced that his Government will go to the country sometime between now and the end of the year, he has not yet seen fit to enlighten the people as to the date of polling. Speeches of some of his followers seem to indicate that even to them the day on which voting will take place is a mystery, for their prophecies as to the probable date differ materially. It is of the greatest importance to the business interests of Canada that this information should be given out as soon as possible, for many business and financial undertakings cannot be proceeded with until the exact date is known. Meanwhile many firms are finding themselves embarrassed by the uncertainty, utterly unable to make any definite plans for launching out new enterprises until they know just when the election is to be held. Withholding this information may appeal to the Premier as good political strategy, but it fails to impress favourably many business men whose affairs are upset by the indefinite nature of Mr. Meighen's first announcement concerning the decision of his Government to appeal to the people. It is to be hoped that Premier Meighen will recognize the harm occasioned to business by his failure to name the date of the Federal contest.

AN INTOLERABLE ORDER.

That a Labour union official residing in the United States can issue orders to Canadian members of his organization preventing them from working with an English trades unionist who is to visit Canada for a short time, is a situation that must be as distasteful to Canadian labour men as it is to their fellow countsymen as it is to their fellow country-English revue which is to be seen in Canada shortly wished to bring with him an English musical director whose intimate knowledge of the score and cues of the offering made him a most important factor in the success of the production. The musician is a member of the British union, so there is no objection made to him on that score. Yet, when application was made to President Webber of the International Musicians' Union for a temporary permit to allow this English director to tour Canada with his company, that official refused to grant the request, which means that Canadian musicians who are members of the orchestras of the theatres to be visited by the English revue will either have to refuse to play under the director from England or will have to repudiate their allegiance to the International Union. The position taken by President Webber is intolerable, and unless he can be induced to revise his decision his order will do the cause of international unionism damage that it will take a long time to repair. Dictation of this kind from a man living outside of the borders of Canada will not be meek-

A DANGEROUS POINT.

The City Council in asking the C.P.P. to provide a better system of protection at its crossing over Aylmer street, will be supported by the citizens generally. This crossing is one of the most dangerous in the city, and the heavy vehicular traffic on that section of Aylmer street makes it essential that no reasonable safeguard should be neglected. In spite of the fact that there is a flagman on duty at this point there have been some very narrow escapes from serious accidents, and the danger will not be removed until proper gates have been installed. The Council would be well advised to request the Canadian Pacific Railway to instal gates at this most dangerous crossing and to bring the matter to the attention of the Board of Railway Commissioners. The present protection of this crossing, according to the testimony of some of the Aldermen and other citizens who have had narrow escapes from an accident, is inadequate, and no difficulty should be experienced in presenting a very strong case on behalf of the establishment of gates or some other modern form of safeguarding the lives of the citizens.

CURTAILING THE OUTPUT.

When labor leaders openly advocate as a remedy for unemployment the lessening of the daily output of those who toil it is but fair that we should investigate the value of the remedy, and the duty of investigating becomes all the greater as the number of men who adopt the policy is seen to increase. The claim is freely made by employers of labor that labor today, in some lines at least, is not more than sixty per cent. efficient, and that in face of the fact that wages have increased. It makes but little difference whether the work day is ten hour, or eight hours, or six hours, the claim is that the daily output is away below that of a fair day's work, and the plea is publicly made that such limitation of output is justifiable because it will mean work for men who would otherwise be unemployed.

Let us consider this argument as fairly as we can. It proceeds upon the assumption that there is a certain definite amount of work to be done, which will be done no matter what the cost may be. Of course, if this be true the argument is valid. It is true that if 200 men working eight hours a day do a certain work, then if they only work four hours a day the same work will employ 400 men. But it is equally clear that if the work is to cost the same, then the wages of the 400 will be just half what the 200 men get per capita. But those who argue for the limitation of output insist that the wages must remain the same no matter what the output is, and this will necessarily mean that if twice as many men are employed the cost will be increased just that much. That is, we shall have twice as many men at work at the same wages, but the community which buys the product will have to pay those increased wages by paying a proportionally increased price for that product.

But here comes in another factor which cannot be overlooked. When the price of an article increases, and that article is used by the great mass of consumers, the consumption of that article will tend to decrease. This was abundantly evident during the war and needs no demonstration. If the price of flour goes up the people eat less bread; if the price of milk goes up the people drink less milk; if the cost of houses goes up people use fewer houses. In some cases the decreased consumption means weakened vitality, and in all cases it means a lowering of the standard of living, and yet we cannot evade it no matter what the result. And the misfortune is that this increased cost hits the poor man hard, and the poor man with a family hardest of all. And when the plea is made that the poor man decrease his daily output it is well to understand just what this means. It means that he will at the same time inevitably increase the price of everything he has to buy (where this doctrine prevails) and will therefore mean what is practically a decrease in wages and a lowering of the standard of living.

On the other hand an increase in output means a decrease in prices, which will usually mean an increased consumption and the raising of the standard of living. If milk is cheap we use more of it, and are the better for it. If houses are cheap the poor man buys his own and pays for it, and is not subject to the landlord. If shoes and clothes are cheap the poor man and his family, who are the great consumers, are able to dress better, and do not need to go around in rags.

But some will argue that while this argument seems to be correct it is not really so, as the cost of labor is only a very small item in the cost of living. And we shall be told that the real cause of high prices lies in the heartless profiteer who is ever busy grinding the face of the poor. Now while we have a good deal of sympathy for the poor man, yet we submit that this argument has been a good deal overworked, and it is well to remember that making all our rich men poor would by no means make all our poor men rich. For instance, suppose the John D. Rockefeller fortune, estimated at $2,400,000,000, were divided amongst the people of the United States, it would only give to each one about $22. John D. would be beggared, but no one else would be helped very much. We think it is true, also, that in all too many cases the middleman takes altogether too big a toll from the things which he handles, as, for instance, 50 cents on a basket of plums which cost him $1.25; but the instance of this evil does not blot out the fact that if every laboring man decreases his output he will infallibly increase the cost of living, which will be felt most severely by the poor and especially by the men with families. And as a remedy for unemployment, the limitation of output seems one of the most useless that could be devised, as its immediate effect, by the increase of prices, will be to lessen demand and so cause fresh unemployment. And the men who are arguing for this limitation of output are not leading men wisely, and are no true friends of Labor. An honest day's work pays both the employer and the employee, and anything else is both costly and foolish. —Christian Guardian.

THE SEAL OF FRIENDSHIP.

Chapter 74.

Another great happiness had come to me. Kent and Tom Barney had at last become staunch friends. It was as though the goodness in each of them had been measuring up to the strength and nobility in the other. And, of course, when Tom Barney brought Kent Jr. back safely to us the friendship had been firmly clinched forever.

One day I overheard Kent talking with Kent Jr. in the nursery. I tiptoed to the door and listened.

"No, say Uncle Barney," Kent directed lovingly. "That's it, Uncle Barney. Call him that tonight and surprise him. He will love it!"

I looked in. Kent Jr. was straddled on his father's knee and listening attentively to what he was saying.

"Un-cull Bar-nee!" Kent Jr. repeated slowly, with a deep voiced emphasis on the word uncle.

"That's it," Kent declared laughingly, catching the boy up close to his chest. "Uncle Barney is a good scout, isn't he?" he added warmly and confidentially.

And also I noticed thankfully that Tom and Lillian seemed to be getting along better together. They were seen together more often, and were both welcome and frequent visitors at our apartment. I hoped that time and an unconscious longing for happiness would give them deeper understanding and bring back that flame of love which they had almost extinguished. I realized it would take time, for selfish habits and ruts are so much easier to follow than to break away from.

And now that very bit of misunderstanding had been drawn from Kent's and my love I determined someday to tell him about Tom Barney, and the part he had played in our experience of the lost diamond. I knew now that I could tell him safely. I knew that he would understand it all just as I had done. Also I wanted to be able to lay my heart bare of all its secrets. Now that Kent and I were so beautifully one, I could not endure keeping the tiniest confidence from him. Of course, I would not let Tom Barney know I had told Kent, but instead of just being my secret, it would then be our secret. I knew that Kent's friendship for Tom would grow even deeper. After all, there were some great, good happenings in our lives that we could thank Tom Barney for.

And as the days slipped by and the winter was nearly over, I imagined I could feel the tiniest trace of the promise of spring in the air. It was the end of February and very cold, but the sun was warmer and more inclined to be friendly. It made me think of Spring flowers and of the country. I had become fearful of the city and longed to get away from it.

We had never heard anything of Nancy. And I had simply refused to have any sort of servant in the house. Sometime in the future perhaps, but not just now. My nerves could not endure it.

The negotiations and sale of the little cottage up in Connecticut had not yet been completed. Kent had had some difficulty in closing the deal—something about the deed.

We talked it over and had just about decided to leave the city sometime around the first of May.

Now suddenly I had a strange, urgent desire to go at once. I did not say anything to Kent, but I could hardly endure the thought of waiting even two months. It was as though I was fearful of keeping Kent Jr. in the city another minute. I suppose it was my nerves, but to me it seemed almost like a subtle warning.

EUROPEAN "WETS" WILL FIGHT INVASION.

LAUSANNE, Switzerland, Sept. 28.—(Canadian Press).—A commission to fight against an invasion of Europe by an international prohibition movement originating in the United States was appointed by the International Anti-Prohibition Congress at its closing session here today.

The necessity for the "wets" to work in close co-operation to prevent the "dry" forces gaining the ascendancy in Europe was the sole topic of the day. The commission is composed of two delegates from each country represented in the Congress. It will call an international meeting in London as soon as practicable.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 28.—(Canadian Press). — Final decision whether striking coal miners at two Kansas mines should be ordered back to work was postponed by the convention of United Mine Workers of America adjourning late yesterday with approximately three-fourths of the vote complete. Why Night Calls are Popular

"HOW good it would sound to hear Mother's voice to-night!" he thought—for there were times when he was lonely—mighty lonely in the big city. "If it didn't cost so much I could call her up. Perhaps it doesn't cost as much as I think."

"Long Distance, what will it cost to speak to Number 624 Springville" he asked.

"The day rate for a station-to-station call is 90 cents, but as it is now ten o'clock you can talk for 45 cents. After twelve o'clock the rate is only 25 cents."

"Great!" said John. "Get me No. 624 Springville." Soon the welcome voice was telling him the things he wanted to hear, and before they finished talking a midnight talk for every Wednesday was arranged. Did Mother grudge the little sleep she lost, when Wednesday night came 'round?

Evening and Night Long Distance rates on Station-to-Station calls are a precious boon to thousands seeking an inexpensive and intimate means of promptly reaching dear ones far away. Many travellers arrange to call their homes at stated hours.

And business executives now call their partners, their customers, their salesmen, their superintendents or foremen, at their homes—often by arrangement—profiting by the very low night rates on Long Distance, Station-to-Station calls.

ANNUAL RALLY OF EPWORTH LEAGUE

A SPECIAL PROGRAMME---MILLBROOK NEWS OF INTEREST

MILLBROOK, Sept. 28. — The Senior Epworth League of the Methodist Church held their annual Rally Day service on Monday, September 26th, at 8 p.m., the president, Miss Stella Hetherington, occupying the chair. The special programme, "The White Life," prepared for the use of the League throughout Canada for this meeting by the General Board in Toronto, was the material used.

There was a good attendance of members and visitors, and an excellent spirit prevailed throughout the entire meeting. As the subject for study suggested the White Knight, Sir Galalead, and the illustration on the cover pictured him, it was thought advisable to have Tennyson's poem, "Sir Galalead," read between the first and second sections of the programme. This was done by Master Nelles Rowland with clear enunciation and excellent expression in so young a reader.

The first five-minute address on "Symbolism of Colors" was given by Mr. Arnold Raper; the second, "Clean Springs of Life," by Mr. Frank Acorn; and the third, "White Deeds Day By Day," by Miss Pearl Burnham.

At the roll-call of officers all were present except two. During the business part of the meeting, Rev. Mr. Tucker read the announcement for the coming bi-ennial convention to be held in Peterborough, October 7, 8, and 9, and Mr. Arnold Raper was appointed delegate. It is unfortunate that the opening day, Friday, also happens to be Fair Day in Millbrook, but a number of the Leaguers intend going to the convention for the Saturday and Sunday sessions.

Mrs. (Rev.) S. Y. Tucker has gone to Owen Sound to visit her mother and other relatives.

Mr. William Snelgrove, of Weyburn, Sask., is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. William Pendrie and other friends in town.

PROBABILITIES.

TORONTO TO VOTE.

TORONTO, Sept. 28.—(Canadian Press).—Mayor Church will move to have the people vote on the first of the year on the question of creating a Public Utilities Commission to control light, power and transportation.

Dear Peggy.

You angel child of Satan I'd like to come, — but how do you s'pose poor old Dave is going to get along in the meantime? He is such a helpless sort of man, you know, when it comes to doing housework!

I've been nearly killing myself with work lately, — can you imagine it? And as a result my hands are all rough and red. Or rather I should say they were rough and red for they're smooth and white now. And the reason? Why, my dear, I just rubbed on a little Campenio Italian Balm for a few days! That certainly is the duckiest stuff.

In haste,

URGES LEAGUE ACTION TO ASSIST STARVING.

GENEVA, Sept. 28. — (Canadian Press). — Dr. Fritdjof Nansen, of Norway, appearing before one of the committees of the League of Nations to insist that the appeal to the various countries to help feed Russia, succeeded in getting that body to hold the question over for further consideration in the face of the sub-committee's adverse report.

H. A. L. Fisher, Great Britain, said he did not think that the present financial situation would permit the countries to open any considerable credits. He was in thorough sympathy with the cause, but those were the facts.

During the course of his remarks, Dr. Nansen said: "This question is surrounded by a political atmosphere. There are people wicked enough to utilize the Russian famine for political ends."

Dr. Nansen denied various press reports on the attitude of the Soviets and insisted that the Assembly do something.

"It is monstrous and inhuman that 20,000,000 people should be left to starve," he declarled, "in order to change the political regime in Russia."

Dr. Motts, former president of Switzerland, pointed out that the coming Brussels conference would include representatives of the United States and Germany, which showed that the body was quite as well situated to deal with the question as the League; consequently there was no reason why the League should start parallel action.

ening of law and order, the loss of that sense of independent purpose, and of national pride that is the very fibre of a nation. Think these things over and keep on thinking them over. Be true to yourself and to your country, and do what you think is right."

The Overflow Meeting.

Mr. Meighen spoke subsequently at an overflow meeting, and here he laid down the Government's proposals in regard to the grain trade.

"What I propose," said Mr. Meighen, in making his announcement, "is a system of voluntary pool, not of wheat alone but of the principal grains growing in this country, such pool to be handled by a government board constituted on the plan of the wheat board, receiving and disposing of grain by a system similar to that followed by the Canadian wheat board under Mr. Stewart. I do not propose that this board alone shall receive and dispose of western grain. I do not propose that the present grain handling agencies be put out of business, but I propose that through a federal grain board the farmer shall have an alternative method which he can adopt if he so desires, a method similar to that which was open to him for the crop that he sold to the wheat board in 1919.

"I propose before next year a Canadian Grain Board be created with such powers as will enable it to function, that will receive grain placed voluntarily with it by farmers and that will have powers to enable it to hold and dispose of that grain to the best advanage to give the farmer the benefit of mixing, if the board decides that mixing should be done; to give the farmer the benefit of any overage if overage results, and to give him the full return of the crop that he produced, less only actual and unnecessary cost. I know there are difficulties in the way and I am not blind to them, but difficulties must only stimulate. They must not thwart. The chain of elevators under or practically owned by the Dominion to-day, stretching across this continent, may be used without unfairness to others, to facilitate the transporting and storage of the grain handled by the board, and for securing the results to the producer that I have just outlined. I am confident that by the means described we will go far to assure to the farmer the following results:

"(1) That the fair value of his grain as a selling commodity will be paid him whether by the Grain Board or by any company that competes against the Grain Board.

"(2) That the profits that have arisen out of his crop by means of overages will now go back to the producer and be included in his participation certificates.

"(3) That conditions of mixing, if mixing is considered by the board to be in the interests of the producer, will accrue to the producer himself.

"(4) That the selling of Canadian grain instead of being concentrated to the extent of 75 per cent. within three months of the year, will be distributed more evenly over the entire twelve months, steadying the market, and resulting in greater fairness both to the porducer and the consumer.

"(3) That economies in the handing of grain in bulk will result and the farmer will get the benefit."

Operetta Repeated the Third Time

The Operatta Goldilocks and the Three Bears given by the children of Campbellford under the very efficient leadership of Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Cowell, was repeated again for the third time, last evening in the opera house, and was a most decided success. A full house again greeted the children which speaks in itself for the popularity of the play. The entire proceeds of the evening were presented to the council for their war memorial fund.

In the absence of the mayor, Councillor R. S. Southworth accepted the gift, which was carried in a basket of flowers and presented by the four little tots, Misses Eileen Linton, Nora Cowell and Masters Harry Richardson and Georgie Smith.

Mr. Southworth made a very fitting reply thanking Mr, and Mrs. Cowell and children most kindly for their gift, and promising to present the same to the council for this worthy cause, the "War Memorial Fund." During the evening six young ladies dressed as Red Cross nurses acted as ushers. After the programme a number of the young people remained for a dance, for which excellent music was provided, thus bringing to a close a most pleasant evening's entertainment.

C.P.R. EXTENSION TO OILFIELDS IS IN THE BALANCE

DEPENDS ON OIL FINDINGS, SAYS BEATTY

EDMONTON, Alta., Sept. 28.—The ten hours which President E. W. Beatty and directors of the C. P. R. spent in Edmonton on Sunday afternoon and evening were devoted mainly to taking a much needed rest. Apart from a motor trip to the country club, the party spent the greater part of the time in the special train which brought them to the city.

The most prominent caller of the day was Premier Herbert Greenfield, but no definite information was given out as to whether or not special significance was attached to this visit. The C.P.R. is already operating the E. D. and B. C. Railway under agreement which will not expire until August, 1925, and President Beatty stated that no changes in these arrangements are under consideration.

The President also added that the company is not contemplating taking over the A. and G. W. Railway on the Lacombe and Blindman line.

President Beatty evinced keen interest in oil development in Alberta and in the Northwest territory, but asserted that any extension of the system into the north country depended entirely on whether or not oil in commercial quantities was struck.

The C.P.R. is watching the situation closely and will be guided by future developments. The C.P.R. President and directors of the company left at midnight for Saskatoon where they will continue their tour of inspection.

INDIAN WOMAN CELEBRATES NINETY FIRST BIRTHDAY

Surrounded by members of her family, Mrs. Ellen K. Loft, who was born in the Mowhawk village, Brant, celebrated her 91st birthday on Saturday, when members of her family gathered in reunion at "Forest Home," Brant County.

She married George R. Loft, whose birthplace was the Mohawk Reserve in the Township of Tyendinaga, and of a family of six children, three sons survive, Chief William D. Loft, residing on the reserve; Chief (Lieut.) F. O. Loft, Toronto, created a chief while in France; Harry K. Loft, the youngest son, who lives on the homestead, "Forest Home."

Daughter of Peter Smith and his first wife, whose father was Chief Jacob Johnson, a veteran of 1776, she was among the first to attend the school built in the Mohawk village by John Brant, youngest son of the great "Chief" Joseph Brant.

Notwithstanding her advanced years, Mrs. Loft enjoys remarkable health and her mental faculties remain keen.

DOMESTIC LABOUR IS BIG PROBLEM IN GOTHAM.

NEW YORK, September 27 (Canadian Press). — Domestic labour is so scarce in New York that in thousands of homes, normally well supplied with servants, the mistress is doing her own housekeeping. Maids and butlers are said by employment bureaus to prefer being out of work to taking jobs at less than the high wage scales prevailing last year.

Of many reasons advanced by the employment agencies for the failure of servants and employers to agree one of the most common is that prospective maids seek work only because their husbands are jobless, and are refused places because prospective employers will not consider applicants for temporary positions.

Prevailing wage scales are said by employment agencies to be: Cooks, $50.00 to $70.00 a month; general houseworkers, $40.00 to $50.00; chambermaids, $50.00 to $60.00. Japanese butlers command $100.00 to $125.00 a month, with board and lodging.

HAD TO CRAWL UP STAIRS, SHE SAYS

THIRTEEN YEARS OF RHEUMATISM HAD LONDON WOMAN ALMOST PAST GETTING AROUND.

"Tanlac has relieved me of a case of rheumatism from which I had suffered for thirteen years," said Mrs. Elizabeth Hughes, 4 Lonsdowne Ave., London, Ont.

"My joints and limbs pained me so bad I actually had to crawl up the stairs and it was agony for me to do my housework. I was never free from those awful rheumatic pains, and it was impossible for me to raise my hands above my head.

"I had used nearly everything in the way of liniments and medicines I ever heard of, but they did me no good. One day I went to the drug store, and the manager advised me to try Tanlac. After the first bottle I felt a little better, and when I had finished my fifth bottle I was simply feeling just fine. All my pains left me, and I could sleep like a child. I can now raise my arms without feeling a pain, and my limbs don't hurt me any more, and I can do all my housework without any trouble at all."

NINE CARS OIL FOR CITY'S STREETS

WHAT IT COSTS TO KEEP THE DUST DOWN IN PETERBORO

Nine cars of oil, averaging about 6,000 gallons each, or, to be exact, a total of 53,795 gallons, were purchased by the city this year for oiling the roads, and 4,000 additional gallons left over from last year also went to keep the dust down. Last year 53,713 gallons were used.

The oil cost considerably more this year than last, so the bill for oil is much higher. Although there is no definite information at hand on the asphalt oil market, the Board of Works looks for a reduction in oil prices next year. Road oil that cost 11.5 cents in 1920 was 15.3 this year. The oil purchased this summer cost $8,230.63 and the 4,000 gallons carried over from last year and used were worth $460.00, so the total cost of oil was $8,690.63, as compared with $6,176.99 for 1920.

DOUGHTY MAY NEVER BE TRIED ON CHARGE OF KIDNAPPING SMALL

EVIDENCE IN HANDS OF AUTHORITIES MEAGRE

(Special Despatch to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, Sept. 28. — John Doughty will not be brought up from Kingston to stand his trial for conspiracy to kidnap Ambrose Small at the present sitting of the criminal session.

The chances are that Doughty will never be tried on the charge unless the authorities can produce some further evidence. The police are still clinging to a chance that they may get some direct information about Mr. Small, either dead or alive. Since Doughty went to Kingston in April to serve his six-year sentence for the theft of $105,000 of Mr. Small's bonds no further clues or information have come into the hands of the authorities regarding Mr. Small's whereabouts.

SCARCITY OF GRAPES NEXT WEEK PREDICTED

TOMATO SEASON DRAWING TO A CLOSE—SHOULD BUY NOW

Grapes will be as scarce as the proverbial hen's teeth next week, so fruit men say, and they advise householders to make sure of any quantity they want before Saturday. This warning, they say, is not a trade impetus, but is advisedly made. Blues and Niagaras are 65 cents a basket, and Red Rogers have advanced to 75 cents.

Colorado peaches are very popular, one dealer who sold 120 cases last week declared. These Elbertas are $3.25 a case of 12 quarts, and are very fine fruit. Quinces are being introduced at $1.80 an 11-quart basket, and are selling to Americans in good quantities.

The tomato season is drawing to a close, and if advancing prices are a warning of a fade-away, housewives will buy up their requirements quickly. Some stores were asking 50 cents a basket yesterday. By the bushel they are 75c and $1, but one dealer predicted a general increase because of smaller pickings.

NEW WOMEN'S REVOLT HAS REACHED ORMOSA.

TAIWAN, Formosa, September 27. — The world movement for woman's emancipation has struck Formosa at a time when the high cost of wives is being felt severely. The women, who are mostly of the Chinese race, are demanding the abolition of the system of engagement money which is paid by their suitors when the marriage contract is made, declaring that the payment of money to their parents is an insult to their dignity and position as free-born women.

THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

CONCLUDING MEETING OF THE EXECUTIVE COUNCIL HELD LAST EVENING.

The concluding meeting of the Executive Council of the Chamber of Commerce, prior to the regular meetings of the whole membership, convened last night. Owing to the absence of Mr. J. J. Duffus, the President, through illness, Mr. H. R. H. Kenner, Vice-President, was in the chair.

A communication from the Canadian Bicycle Dealers' Association was read in which they showed their appreciation of the invitation of the Chamber of Commerce to make Peterborough their 1922 convention centre, but stated that London had been definitely decided upon.

In answer to a communication of the Transportation Committee of the chamber, G. T. R. District Passenger Agent Mr. C. E. Horning stated that there are no contemplated changes to be made in the Peterborough service at present, but if it is found necessary at a later date to consider any changes or curtailments, due notice would be sent to the chamber.

Franco Exhibition Train.

With the advice that the Franco Exhibition Train would be in the city between 5 a.m. and 11 p.m. on October 26th, a resolution was adopted recommending that the City Council supervise all arrangements therewith, and that the chamber should assist in every way possible to not only make this occasion a great advertising medium for the city, but also to give every individual in the city an opportunity of seeing French products.

Sale of Stock.

In concerted action with Chambers of Commerce throughout Ontario, a special committee was appointed by the Chairman, consisting of Mr. F. D. Kerr, K.C., and Mr. W. R. Morris, to consider the provisions of the present Companies Act, and to bring in recommendations at the next general meeting which will tend to reduce to a minimum the number of questionable or unsubstantial stock-selling propositions which are being continually offered to the citizens.

Ontario Town Planning and Housing Association.

With the advice that the second annual conference of the Ontario Town Planning and Housing Association will be held in Toronto on October 31st and November 1st, the Chairman appointed two members of the City Planning Committee to act as delegates, in the persons of Mr. J. W. Worth, Chairman, and Dr. T. E. Harvey.

Annual Meeting, Ontario Associated Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce.

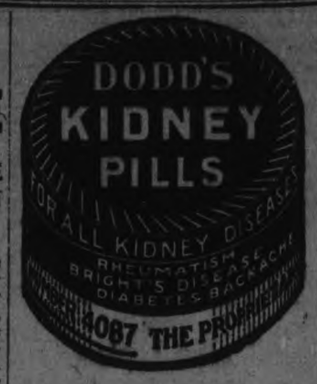
Westbye, and the courtesy of the Department of the Interior, United States Government, the first meeting of the season will be held on Tuesday, October 11th, at which a general resume will be given of the activities of the chamber during the past holiday season.

It was decided that this meeting should be open to all who are interested, not only in the Chamber of Commerce and its activities, but also to take advantage of the educational value of the films which will be shown, the titles of which will be given in the near future.



THE HEBREW NEW YEAR STARTS MONDAY NEXT

Visitors will be Here from Surrounding District.

Next Monday, October 3rd, marks the beginning of the Hebrew New Year, and the opening of the month of Ellel, in their calender, which corresponds to our January. On Monday and Tuesday, all Hebrew business establishments whose owners are orthodox in belief will be closed over the entire world. These two days are spent in religious services.

In Peterboro, the Jewish synagogue is situated on Water street, in the old Oddfellows' Hall, and here services will be held in the morning, afternoon and evening of these two days, which will be styled Rosh Hashono, as we say, New Year's Day. Those Jewish citizens, who do not go to Toronto for the larger ceremonies there, will gather in their hall for the preparatory services, which culminate ten days later in a Fast Day, to be observed on Wednesday, October 12th. On this Fast Day, no food or drink of any kind is taken from the evening of Tuesday, at 5 o'clock until Wednesday at 6.30 p.m.—a long day of absolute and rigid observance.

Hebrews from the surrounding district are expected to be in Peterboro on Monday and Tuesday of next week, and the Rev. Mr. Nathanson of Toronto, who came to Canada from Palestine a few months ago, will conduct the services.

As this is the Jewish Leap Year, a deviation in the calendar which occurs every three years, the month of Ellel comes later than usual.

"DAN" CONCURS IN DARWINIAN THEORY

"I saw a piece in the Examiner saying that a man is decended from the ape. They must be something in that.

"I was at Descronto at the Indian Reserve a year ago and was talking to one of the Indians, a well educated Indian, belong to a English church. I said to him one time that we read in the Bible that Cain murder his brother, and ever since a brother has a grudge against his own brother. (A brother is born for adversity, Proy. 17-17).

"Well, sir, said I, we read where Cain murdered his brother, he left and went to a far country and got married there, and I said who did he get married too. Oh, he said, I think he married ape, and that is the reason the white man is so haire if he didn't shave. He wouldn't have no face at all—all hair."

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

YORKTON, Sask., Sept. 28.—The Doukhobors of Saskatchewan have reversed their decision not to assist their fellow-countrymen in Russia, and Peter Veregin, leader of the sect, has ordered that a relief collection be immediately undertaken. In announcing their change of heart, the Doukhobors have cabled the Soviet Government that the assistance they send should be distributed among the children. They ask that the Red army be disbanded immediately and ammunition burned, and that every person in Russia should wear a black ribbon on his arm as mournig for the dead.

DIRECT AID FROM CITY FOR THE UNEMPLOYED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—(United Press).—Detroit has a system of relief which is taking much of the distress out of the city's unemployment situation, James Couzens, its multi-millionaire Mayor, told the United Press today. Couzens is one of the conferes summonded by President Harding to assist in finding a solution to the national unemployment problem.

The Detroit system is one of direct aid from the municipal treasury, and while $1,500,000 has been devoted to relief during the last ten months, the cost to the small taxpayer is said not to be noticeable, Couzens said.

Even the Children's Clothes Cost Less With the Deltor

LITTLE clothes as quaint as those in picture-books—as smart as the frocks wee Parisiennes are wearing—so becoming that they will make your children look their very sweetest.

You can make them yourself and they will actually cost you less than any clothes you have ever bought or made!

Even if you have never attempted a little garment, you can now create with your own fingers the smartest of school dresses, the most picturesque of party frocks. All because of a wonderful new invention accompanying every new Butterick pattern; an invention that guides you in three steps to sewing ease, to success, to wonderful economy.

The DELTOR

Saves 50c to $10 On a Gown for Yourself

First the Deltor gives you an individual layout chart (yes, an individual chart—not just a general chart, but one for your exact size and for each suitable width of material.) You lay out your pattern—the expert's way. You buy ¼ to 1⅜ yards less material on every garment, a saving that amounts to from 50c to $10 on a gown for yourself!

Then the Deltor saves time. Following the Parisian professional's picture-and-word putting together explanations, you sew swiftly and accurately. Whether you are making a pair of bloomers or a frock, the Deltor for that particular garment guides every stitch.

And finally as the little garment nears completion, precious secrets of finish are revealed to you—how to bind the buttonholes, how to finish the neck, how to work the scallops—important touches evolved for the garment you are making. The little garment reveals all the "artful artlessness" of childhood as interpreted by Paris!

ROTARIANS PREPARE FOR REAL MODEL BOYS' CAMP HERE NEXT YEAR

DISCUSS PLANS AT WEEKLY LUNCHEON YESTERDAY---VISUALIZE CAPACIOUS MAIN BUILDING WITH BIG VERANDAH.

The Rotary Club is extending its membership and also its activities. The weekly luncheon on Monday brought out the largest attendance to date. This matter of attendance is no carelessly considered affair. Roll call has to be answered, the absence of a member is noted, and he gets a nice note of remonstrance and encouraged to attend next meeting. He is not lost sight of until he ceases to be a Rotarian, a thing that so far has never happened. With this friendly attention the membership keeps up. The spirit of Rotary is to hold what it has.

Several visitors were noted and welcomed. One from Weyburn Rotary in Saskatchewan, a member being rather far from home, but among friends as he noted. "Bill" Snelgrove, but not of family connection in these parts—just a plain Snelgrove. Two visitors, both local, who may be taken into the fold further on. Both have been predistined to become Rotarians and cannot escape their ultimate destiny. A casual visitor, introduced by Rotarian Kenner, was also a guest.

A Weekly Letter.

Chairman Fred. Roy announced an inter-Rotarian improvement in the shape of a weekly letter to be forwarded to each member, giving in advance notice of meetings, the programme for the day and items of interest. The brief forty minutes after lunch is all too short to tell one another of what is going on. So written information will be supplied, under the supervision of Rotarian Reid Grant. Further on, in October, the Entertainment Committee will put on an evening to which the ladies will be welcomed.

The Boys' Camp.

Rotarian Claude Rogers, who with his committee has been working on the boys' camp proposition, had placed at each chair a neat picture of the buildings and grounds as the plot will look about June 1st of next summer. The enterprise of President Denne and fellow directors of the Exhibition Board has innoculated other people, so when they get up to talk about camps and structures they naturally speak of main buildings and annexes, additions and special structures. Rotarian Rogers had this form of verbal description down fine—main building, or bunk house, of 44 x 32 feet; rows of double bunks (uppers and lowers) along each side to sleep fifty boys; space in the middle for dining tables of fifteen feet. This building also to be used as camp headquarters.

A cooking place, connected with covered passage, all by itself. Big veranda on the main building. Also a smaller structure, all by itself, for the use of those in charge of the camp. The plans do not disclose anything like a house of correction, for all boys there will behave in true Rotarian style. The erection will go forward early next spring and will be ready for occupancy right after school doors close. It is expected that the camp will be open for use to any organization that vishes to send squads of boys to an outing, and such will be arranged for.

Rotarian Rogers outlined something of the procedure and service to be instituted in order to keep down the expense of the camp. Boys will be expected to do considerable of the essential work, being set off in details, in the style of a military camp. This is to ensure order and no imposition. Having gotten so far in arrangements, Rotarian Rogers as Chairman and A. L. Kilaly, E. B. Fowler and A. Brown, all of the club, were empowered to go ahead and complete arrangements.

Influence for Good.

Then Rotarian Adjt. Bunton had something to say. He spoke clearly and definitely as to the good influence the camp should have on boy life, especially the boy denied such privileges owing to circumstances and who it was desired to help. He sketched the elements that should be instilled while at the camp, even if these were not present at home. He would be taught the virtues of self-control, decency personally, truthfulness and helpfulness to others—given something of the true community spirit. To be kind to others, and especially to the weaker, and to all animals. In this latter boys were apt to be careless. Personally, he would undertake to matron the first camp and have it a model for others to emulate.

Rotarian W. R. Morris gave a brief account of his visit to the Pacific Coast, telling of Peterborough people he had met, of his impressions of the Western Provinces and the crops, of the municipal status in several cities, his appreciation of resources, the scenery and of the wealth of opportunity in Canada once she got her grip again. Of life as he saw it in Edmonton, Vancouver and in Victoria and en route coming and going. All necessarily very brief, but well told.

The gathering broke up with the usual songs and expressions of satisfaction and cheerfulness. Rotary has seldom a dull moment.

GERMAN ARMY REPORT SEEMS CONTROVERTED.

LONDON, September 28 (Canadian Press). — According to latest reports received by British authoritative quarters ,the Inter-Allied Control Commission in Germany expresses itself as perfectly satisfied with the progress of the surrender and destruction of German armaments.

The article in Monday's London Times, which asserted that instead of observing the limitations of the German Army to 100,000 under the Peace Treaty, Germany was attempting to make provision for clothing, housing, and equipping 800,000 men, apparently is controverted by a statement made in official quarters here to-day that "there is not the slightest apprehension of the possibility of Germany being able to organise and equip an army of such size as to constitute any danger to the Allies."

A GOOD IDEA.

"I understand that your boy Josh is interested in perpetual motion."

"Yes,' replied Farmer Hawbuck, "and I am kinder encouraged about it. I thought for a while that the onty thing Josh was interested in was perpetual rest."

THIS WOMAN'S MISERY

Ended by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Remarkable Recovery of Mrs. Church.

Smiths Falls, Ont.—"I suffered with falling of my organs, pains around my heart and in bowels and down my legs, neuralgia in my face and head, and that terrible sinking feeling. I felt that I could not live and would fix my house in order every night so there would be no trouble if I dropped off in the night. My husband went to the druggist to get the best remedy he had and he gave him Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took six bottles and felt a lot better. I will always recommend the Vegetable Compound, and you can use these facts as a testimonial."—Mrs. J. O. CHURCH, Box 845, Smiths Falls, Ont.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from nervous prostration, displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion and dizziness. DAYLIGHT SAVING BAD FOR RABBITS; ALSO FOR HUMANS?

Injurious to Health and Nervous System.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 27.—(United Press) —That daylight saving is injurious to the health and nervous system of humans is the contention of Dr. William Franklin Baker, president of the Philadelphia County Homeopathic Medical Society. He gives what he considers conclusive proof of the contention.

The proof is contained in experiments which Dr. Baker carried on with two rabbits. Rabbits are affected in much the same way as humans would be under certain conditions, the doctor said, and that is why they are used extensively in medical and scientific experiments.

The two rabbits with which Dr. Baker experimented were the same weight and from the same litter when he started, he said. They were living then under normal conditions. Now, after a few months living by daylight saving time, one of the rabbits is ten ounces lighter and is nervous and twitchy, while the other, kept under regular conditions, is perfectly normal in every way.

The "daylight saving" rabbit was kept awake for one hour every night and awakened an hour earlier in the morning, simplating, according to Dr. Baker, the results of daylight saving on the human race.

"What is true of rabbits is true of human beings, particularly of the young," said Dr. Baker. "There is a definite rhythm or cycle of the day It is a well-known fact that man reaches his lowest ebb of energy between 2 and 4 o'clock in the morning. Under daylight saving he does not recover as thoroughly from his low ebb. Often it is noon before he reaches anything like efficiency."

The "wordometer" is a new invention, which is attached to the space bar of the typewriter and records the number of words which have been written.

ASK IMMIGRATION POLICY OF GOV'T

C.P.R. DOES NOT INTEND TO RELAX COLONIZATION EFFORTS

SASKATOON, Sept. 28.—E. W. Beatty, K.C., President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, who has spent the last two weeks on the annual tour of inspection with directors and officials of this company, arrived in Saskatoon from Edmonton at noon yesterday and was the principal spectator and guest of honor of the Canadian Club at a luncheon held on his arrival and spoke on the subjects of railways, immigration and capital in their relation to the future development of Canada. "The situation, which is unique, is that of a private owned enterprise competing with a Government owned enterprise, both, however, are subjected to a regulation by an independent tribunal, the Railway Commission," Mr. Beatty pointed out in discussing Canadian railways and Government policies. The existence of this condition naturally creates a situation which imposes upon the Government an almost judicial attitude towards its chief transportation competitor, while at the same time, pressing by all legitimate means the interests of the national railways against that competitor.

Mr. Beatty then traced the question of the railway situation in the country from the economic standpoint.

"I feel a great deal of diffidence in discussing the general railway problem because naturally my point of view is considered to be prejudiced," he declared. "I frankly concede the situation is awkward to a degree, but there is a point to which I can go without the suggestion that it involves anything either in the interests of the Canadian Pacific, or is inconsistent with the views of those not directly associated with railway activities," he added.

"If it can be admitted, as I think it can, that conditions have approached normal to such an extent as to require us to give an exact appreciation of obligations and expenditures. I can say quite frankly that there is nothing in the economic situation of Canada today quite so important as the future disposition and method of administration as its railways. It is not in any sense a political issue. Vast mileage has been acquired in pursuance to what was considered to be a national necessity, and they are to be administered in one form or another in the best interests of our country. The problem, which is still unsolved, is whether the final and best solution has yet been reached. I am one of those who believes that the present is a phase of our railway development and that we have not yet reached that point at which we can say that no further changes are necessary and that, in the words of the famous general, 'it will be worked out along these lines if it takes all summer.'"

Mr. Beatty declared that there was no need of making this question a political controversy, or even the subject of loose discussion as part of a political election campaign. When the right time came, he thought that after taking stock of positions so that all phases might be submitted to the Government, they might then receive the support of the best thinking men of the country.

Dealing with the immigration question, Mr. Beatty briefly outlined the need of the proper immigration of this country, and the need of securing the proper type of immigrant.

A determined, far-sighted immigration policy, to accomplish this result was advocated by Mr. Beatty. The great need of making known the industrial situation in Canada to those places from which financial support must come was also emphasized by President Beatty in touching the question of capital.

"I know you will agree with me that while we must approach these questions with a serious and sincere desire for proper solution, we have no ground for believing that the policies adopted will not be those most conducive to the country's steady advancement," Mr. Beatty said in closing.

On the arrival of the presidential train, President Beatty and his party were greeted by Mayor A. Magg Young and about 30 of the prominent business men of the city. Following the luncheon, the visitors were taken for a short automobile drive through the city and through the Saskatoon district. The special train left Saskatoon at three o'clock enroute to Yorkton, where they spent the night. The party then proceeds to Winnipeg.

Establishment of an immigration policy which will permit of free entry of the right type of immigrants and the selection of immigrants by agents in foreign countries, rather than the methods of selection at the ports of entry, was advocated by Mr. Beatty in a special interview granted just prior to leaving for Yorkton.

"Can you suggest a means of discriminating between desirable and undesirable emmigrants. Positively a quota to be alloted each country, with Northern Europe favored, or something of the nature?" he was asked.

"My suggestion would be a discriminating selection in the country from which the immigrant comes," he replied.

"This should be done by the agent abroad and not at the ports of entry. This system is entirely wrong, and is, in my opinion, one of the worst features of the immigration system.

"There is no necessity of quotas from any one country. I believe that we should take all we can get of the right type from all the countries which have been sending us immigrants."

"Is the Canadian Pacific handicapped in its immigration work by present restrictions?" was the next question asked. "What would it desire in the form of conditions to make its immigration and colonization work more successful? How much of this kind of work would it undertake if conditions were made right?"

His reply was terse and to the point.

"The Canadian Pacific is embarrassed by lack of a general immigration policy, which would permit of free entry of the right type of immigrant. We want a definite immigration policy prescribed by the Government within which the company's activities can be carried on. We have been the largest immigration and colonization agency up to the present and have no intention of relaxing these efforts. We always plan to work in co-operation with the Government in extending our activities through these lines."

A FAREWELL TO CHURCH WORKER

PRESENTATION TO MRS. W. PATTON—CHURCH LOSES ACTIVE WORKER.

Mrs. R. Foster, 218 Wolfe Street, was hostess at a very enjoyable affair last evening, when about 60 of the friends of Mrs. W. Patten gathered to bid her farewell on the occasion of her departure for Toronto. Mrs. Patten has been an active worker of Knox Church for some time past.

Addresses expressing the regret at her departure and wishes for her future welfare of her friends were read by Mrs. George Davis, for the Ladies' Aid Society, and by Mrs. W. Clark for the Berean Bible Class.

A presentation of some beautiful Old Colony silverware from the Ladies' Aid, was made by little Alice Davis, while a book from the Bible Class was presented by Master Max Chambers, Rev. J. A. Mackenzie, who was present, made a brief speech, endorsing the expressions of apreciation of Mrs. Patten's work.

The evening was pleasantly spent in games and music and dainty refreshments were served by the hostess at tables prettily decorated with asters and salvia.

NO INSPECTION

A reply from H. O. Fisk of the date of August 1 was also appended. Mr. Fisk wrote in reply to a letter from Ald. Turner of July 25th, advising that the lights at the corner of George and Perry Streets had been performing badly. "I might say," stated Mr. Fisk, "that we patrol these lamps and do everything in our power to run them satisfactorily. As you will recollect this system was wished on the Utilities Commission for a former council, however we are doing our best to operate it successfully.

"I might also say that we do not set our street light rates. They are calculated for us by the Hydro just the same as all of our other rates, and at the end of the year this particular account is carefully audited by the Hydro, and if it should show a profit that profit must be handed back to the city; on the other hand, should it show a loss, the price to the city would be raised so that you will see that it is not in our power to make any discount."

Concluding the letter, Mr. Fisk promised to have the light in question repaired, and he advised trimming the trees about the street lights, many of which are all but buried in the dense foliage.

A machine has been invented by a German scientist to measure the amount of work a man can do without impairing his health to the danger point.

MOHAMMEDAN v HINDU

Revolt Said to be Due to Hostility Between Them.

Humanitarians in England and elsewhere, who have taken seriously the plea of India's Nationalists and are puzzling over the possibility of a Hindustan at once self-governed and orderly will, we think, find a curious sort of object lesson in the reported revolt in Tonk, one of the twenty-one states of Rajputana. The world has not yet learned the specific causes of the disturbance save as the dispatch from Allahhabad indicates, that arrests of agitators were resented. But it is clear enough that underneath the revolt is not any bitterness toward Britain or Britain's methods, but the ineradicably hostile feeling between Mohammedan and Hindu.

The Nawab of Tonk is a Pathan and a Mohammedan. He is only a tributary of Great Britain. Subject to supervision, but not control, by a British agent, he governs his state in his own way. And the vast majority of the 300,000 people who own his sway are not Pathans, not Mohammedans, but Rajputs, proud of race and Hindus in religion. Yet we suppose it will be policy for Englishmen to help put down the rebellion. One general phase of the situation in India has not received sufficient attention in America, or even in England. That is the perpetual temptation Great Britain is under to "keep friends" with the Mohammedans, so long as too much injustice is not done to the Hindus, a majority in nearly all or Hindustan.

First the Mohammedans are fighters. Most of the Hindus and Buddhists are not, though the Rajputs are a striking exception, but outside of India entirely, the Mohammedan is a power to be reckoned with. His friendship means much to Persia, and in many parts of Africa. British statesmanship can hardly ignore this element in its world problem.

But the thought that is stirred by this Rajput revolt is very far-reaching. If Mohammedan and Hindu cannot even now be prevented from cutting each other's throat, what would happen if the shadow of British power were withdrawn from the whole peninsula? Humanitarianism can well afford to look at both sides of the shield.

WORLD'S LARGEST WATCH 9½ INCHES IN DIAMETER

History records the making of some huge timepieces, like the turret clocks of old, with hands 10 feet long and with a bell which could be heard 20 miles away. But it remained for the experts of this day and generation to produce the biggest watch known to the science of horology.

The giant timekeeper, which cost $5,000, recently was exhibited at the National Museum in Washington.

The big fellow is 9½ inches in diameter and 1½ inches thick, or six times as large as the standard watch. It is said that the average time required to build a good watch is nine months, and that it often takes a full year. If this be so, one can be led to fanciful speculations as to how it took to make the various parts of the mammoth watch and to assemble and test them, for this interesting specimen is complete and perfect in every detail. Pivots, staffs, balance, hair spring—everything, in fact, is exactly like the watch which one carries around in his vest pocket.

"BOSTON STONE" OF INTEREST TO ANTIQUARIANS

The "Boston stone" is a stone which is embedded in the outer wall of a building in the north end of Boston. In the early days of the town houses were not numbered, but at certain spots were placed curious emblematical stones, signs, etc., to point out the way or to mark the position of various buildings.

The so-called "Boston stone" was used by a painter who, in 1701, opened a little shop on the spot, having moved there from London. The stone was brought from England. On it is the inscription, "Boston Stone, 1737." This landmark is of great interest to antiquarians.

STILLMAN CASE SHIFTED TO MONTREAL NOW

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—(Canadian Press).—Hearings in the Stillman divorce suit will be shifted to Montreal where a Canadian commissioner will take the evidence of the Canadian witnesses, it has been announced.

BY THE WAY

Ants are not susceptible to sound vibrations, but are influenced by various odors. So the gravedigger beetle flies long distances to reach the place of a dead animal. Another beetle which feeds upon a certain fungus growing under the ground, bores a tunnel through the ground to the desired morsel. Such pieces of food are always found with certainty, though the fungus does not possess an odor perceptible by man.

As a rule the organs, for the perception of odors, are situated in the antennæ or feelers, where the sense of taste is also often found. Sometimes the palpi are fitted with the organs of smell. These organs consist of rounded cylinders, slightly protruding, and more or less blunted, formed from chitin. At times they are found in slight cavities. A peculiar fact is, that the males are provided with a greater number of such organs than are the females. As the organs of taste are formed in a somewhat similar manner, it is sometimes difficult to distinguish between them, but if they are found within the mouth parts, they are undoubtedly organs of taste.

"As poor as Job's turkey," a simile often used to indicate extreme poverty, has reference to the deplorable state to which Job was reduced when delivered by God into the hands of Satan.

"Job's turkey," according to the popular notion, had but one feather in its tail, and was obliged to lean against the fence to gobble. The originator of the saying apparently did not realize it would have been impossible for Job to possess a turkey, since that bird is a native of America. Thomas Chandler Haliburton of Nova Scotia, who used the pseudonym of "Sam Slick" and wrote about the doings of "Samuel Slick of Slickville," refers to "Job's turkey" in some of his writings.

Wonderful and awe-inspiring concoctions of Chinese medicine contribute much to the industries of the Tibetans. The collection of deer horns "in the velvet" is a case in point. Large numbers of deer are killed each June and July, primarily for the horns, which are then in the paper stage of growth. The horns are sold to the Chinese, by whom they are prized as one of the best tonic ingredients in all their pharmacopoeia.

In the spring and summer months the Tibetans also dig plants and collect fungi and other articles of supposed medicinal value for export to the Chinese market.

The escape of John Boyle O'Reilly, the Irish poet who was condemned to serve 20 years in Australia for "twisting the lion's tail," is one of the most famous in the criminal history of the Antipodes.

Refined and cultured, O'Reilly was made to suffer everything but death, he claimed, by the autocratic guards who hounded the unfortunates in 1879. One day he was late delivering a message, through no fault of his own, and was "reported." That meant he could neither send or receive a letter for six months. The next day the brutal guard showed him a letter with a black border. He knew that his mother had been ill. The letter haunted him. Six months later he learned that she was dead. Then he decided to escape.

Fr. Patrick McCabe planned for his departure on a whaler, but after taking to the trackless bush of Australia, making the shore and then rowing for days, the poet missed the boat, as he was unable to attract its attention. Before his friends could make arrangements for another vessell, Martin Bowman, a murderer, and one of the worst prisoners on the island, learned O'Reilly's secret, and demanded to be taken along on pain of "snitching." He went along. When the vessel docked at Rodriguez, a small island in the Indian Ocean, British officials boarded the boat and demanded the prisoners. A sailor, who had been brutally ill-treated by Bowman, exposed him. The latter in turn peached on O'Reilly, but before the officials returned a splash was heard and O'Reilly's hat was found floating in the water. His (supposed) suicide was explained to the officers, who left. When the ship put out again to sea O'Reilly, who had thrown the ship's grindstone overboard, came out of concealment. He landed in the United States Nov. 23, 1879.

LOCATED AFTER CRUISE OF 63 DAYS ON CHESAPEAKE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—(Canadian Press). — After cruising Chesapeake Bay waters for sixty-three days in an open boat William Spencer, ex-soldier, and his ten-year-old daughter were located by the police launches and brought to Norfolk, Va., Saturday, it was announced here today. They mysteriously disappeared from this city more than two months ago.

Do you discriminate at the dining table—or are you thoughtless?

In thousands of homes, a "line" is drawn at the breakfast table. Tea or coffee is served for "grown-ups" and Postum for children. But some parents do not discriminate. Tannin and caffeine, the injurious contents of tea and coffee, seriously retard the development of the delicate nerve tissues in children.

Consequently, instead of rich, satisfying Postum, children are over stimulated by the drugs in tea and coffee; and so may grow up irritable and nervous. Any doctor can tell you that this is a great evil and should be corrected.

Although some parents feel a certain justification for the personal indulgence in tea and coffee, yet the harm to them may be equally serious. It may take a little while longer for the drugs in tea and coffee to affect an older person, but in many cases the nervous system and allied bodily functions will become weakened. The surest way to avoid such possibilities is to quit tea and coffee entirely and drink Postum instead. The change permits you to get sound, restful sleep.

Postum is the well-known, meal-time beverage. Like thousands of others you will like it because, in flavor, it is delightful and satisfying.

Do away with the distinction at the table. Serve delicious Postum, piping hot, to all the family. One week's trial and it is likely that you'll never return to tea and coffee.

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for 20 minutes.

Postum for Health

The Modern Genie

Aladdin summoned an all-powerful genie by simply rubbing his wonderful lamp.

Similarly, the modern housewife, by touching an electric button, commands a magic force that makes life fuller, easier and happier.

What an immense total of energy and time is saved to-day by the vacuum cleaner, the electric ironer, fan, heater or washing machine. And the future will see the home still more fully electrified.

There are over 1,400,000 occupied dwellings in Canada. Of these 680,000 possess electric service.

Each home is a potential market for the sale of at least $200 worth of electrical appliances—a total of over $136,000,000.

Consider the task for the manufacturer of all these appliances—filling established needs and designing inventions to supply new wants.

The English Electric Company of Canada, Limited, with the decade of manufacturing experience of the Canadian Crocker-Wheeler Company, Limited, at its disposal, and an association with the English Electric Company, Limited, of Great Britain, will render important services in the electrification of the home.

An opportunity to profit by sharing in the development of this industry is now being offered to investors.

AMERICAN LEAGUE PENNANT RACE SHROUDED IN UNCERTAINTY WITH TWO CONTENDERS ON HOME STRETCH

INDIANS CLASH WITH WHITE SOX TO-DAY AND LEAGUE-LEADING YANKS MEET TAIL-END ATHLETICS.

BY HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent).

NEW YORK, September 28. — Sidetracking a trainload of "ifs," the American League pennant race would not be so "intrikit."

With the Indians heading into Chicago and the Yanks charging on Philadelphia, baseball dopesters are trying to learn just how sincere the White Sox and the Pathetics are in the desire to win the honours with the two contenders.

When the Cleveland Club played in Philadelphia at the start of this last Eastern trip, the Athletics are charged with not being very enemy-like towards the world's champions.

BATTLE HERE SATURDAY FOR JUVENILE TITLE

Peterboro still has a chance to win two Ontario championships in baseball even if the senior title is not in the grasp of the Petes. The C. G. E. team are right in the running for the Intermediate honors and on Saturday the Bankers have a glorious chance of bringing the juvenile championship of Ontario here when they clash with the Young Varsity team of Toronto on the Riverside Park in a sudden death game for the Juvenile O.B.A.A. title.

The Young Varsity outfit who have for two years in succession captured the juvenile honours in the Spalding League, and who this year went on and won the juvenile championship of Toronto, are a fast young aggregation and the Bankers will have their hands full on Saturday. However, the local youngsters have been practising faithfully and coached by Max Swanston and other baseball enthusiasts, they have been showing good form. The local juvenile league played great baseball last season and this clash with the Toronto outfit should provide the fans with a memorable game. There should be a big crowd out to encourage the youngsters.

SPORT COMMENT

"Utility" is right when Ray Rose is the subject. The local boy made good in the numerous roles assigned to him during the Central League season, and he is now coaching the Canadian Generals. "Abbie" has the players with him, which is about 75 per cent. of the battle.

The Bankers did a good stroke of business when they called in Max Swanston to groom the team for Saturday's big game. A win means the Ontario championship. As the financiers are acceptable candidates for the honors, they should play before a big crowd in their game with Young Varsity of Toronto.

Oshawa and Hillcrests open their series at Toronto at the week-end. The second game will be played at Oshawa next Wednesday afternoon. Locally the Oshawans are an even choice.

Canadian Generals deserve a lot of credit for staying in the race, when loaded down with a heavy deficit, on the season's play. The club lost money on the game last Saturday—a statement that will surprise many fans who saw the contest. It was a fair-sized crowd, but the guarantee to Picton of $190 was more than the club's share of the gate receipts.

The P. A. A. A. appear to be getting away to a good start. Careful handling of the hockey teams, and a fair measure of success on the ice will make a lot of friends for the Association. The coach problem is one that should encourage support from the friends of the king of winter sports.

CHALLENGE FOR POLO CUP COMING FROM SO. AMERICA

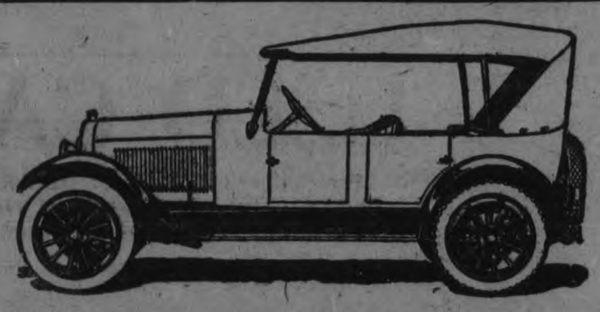
BUENOS AIRES.—(By Mail to United Press).—Mildly objecting because sports publications in the United States call attention to the fact that the Argentinos and Filipinos did not compete for the Davis Cup, a writer in Nacion declares that this country will soon be able to show the world that if it has no tennis champions, it can produce polo players without superiors.

He predicts that within three years the Latin-American country will be able to figure brilliantly in the game. He describes the natural ability of the Argentino as a horseman. They have quick vision and are rapid in their movements. Furthermore, the game here is not indulged in exclusively by men of wealth, as in the United States and Great Britain. Anyone who lives near a polo club can play.

The present drawback is lack of funds with which to encourage the game and provide maintenance for 50 ponies. It is estimated that 500,000 pesos, which might be raised by subscription, would be needed to cover all expenses from beginning to end before a team would be ready to meet in international competition. The writer predicts that once a team has gone north with its excellent ponies and riders it would make a sufficiently good appearance to induce the Americans to bring players to South America for a return match.

UNIQUE BOWLING RECORD.

COBOURG, September 28. — A unique record in lawn bowling is reported. Mr. Edwin C. Guillett, father and son, have won together nine prizes during the past summer in addition to forming part of two cup-winning rinks—the only trophies to be won by the club this season. The trophies are the Hon. J. R. Stratton Cup, which was won in Peterboro, and the W. F. McCook Cup, for inter-rink competition in the home club. Mr. Guillet and his son were skip and vice-skip respectively in the latter competition while they have both played in various positions on other occasions. The nine prizes were won in tournaments in Peterboro, Bowmanville, Port Hope and Cobourg.



Finely Built to the Least Detail

There is so much enthusiastic comment on the fine Chalmers motor, that other excellent Chalmers features seem to be taken for granted.

But they are worthy the careful consideration of all motor car buyers. For here is a car that is finely built to the least detail. Engineering and car building experience have applied themselves in masterly fashion.

Design and Finish Beautiful

Every element of beauty and style is incorporated in the Chalmers.

The wonderful motor is satin-smooth in its pickup, starts easily, and warms up at once. The car rides with remarkable ease and comfort.

The Fuel is Pre-Heated

The Chalmers motor has played its important part in winning this reputation. Fuel is pre-heated by the hot-spot. This means greater mileage on gasoline; and very much better motor performance for longer periods without overhauling.

We invite you to investigate the Chalmers and permit us to demonstrate superiority.

SHIRLEY MASON IN 'WING TOY' THURSDAY

(FOX)

A feature possessing many good points that make it worthy of recommendation universally, comes to the screen in the latest Shirley Mason vehicle. Among its good points is the noticeable excellence of its photography. The close-ups are among the most effective screen studies that have been presented even in this era of technical advance in that direction. There are shots of the star and the little Pomeranian dog, her constant companian in the picture, which are splendid. Others of the cast are caught by the lens as artistically.

The story is placed in the China town of San Francisco. It is obvious that elaborate arrangements were made for the use of his locale. Gambling dens, laundry and curio shops, home interiors and street exteriors are interesting studies, and against the picturesque background the cast plays with faithful fidelity to the manners and habits of the Orientals. The little star has caught the character of the yellow race with its subtle and quiet-moving ways and her work is thoroughly enjoyable.

The settings of the feature offer an interesting educational medium and suggest effective exploitation by the use of things Chinese. The wedding ceremony of that race is enacted in detail and is an item worth mentioning in advertising.

The story concerns Wing Toy of Chinatown, who came there as a baby, left by the "Mole" one of the underworld, and given to the care of Lee Wong a laundryman. Too poor to give her the comfort he craves for her, Wong gives her into the care of Yen Low, an emperor of Chinatown. On her seventeenth birthday the latter plans to put away his white wife and marry the girl. Effort to solve the mystery of Wing Toy's identity brings Bob Hunter, a reporter, into the skirmish that comes with the raid of the gambling house conducted by Yen Low, the interruption of the wedding and the girl's reunion with her father, an American.

AT THE GRAND.

In Saturday's column I said that we would have a Wednesday matinee of "Fair and Warmer." Such is not the case, I believe, and so when you read this there will only be one more chance to see this delightful farce. Don't miss it. The "Rex" Company filled Kingston's large theatre every night during the Fair, and all the cast share in the general esteem felt for Mr. and Mrs. Snelgrove.

It means much to a company which intends to remain for a season in one place to establish themselves in the hearts of their fellow-citizens, pro tem, and Kingston is certainly fond of Rex. During a week-end visit to the old military city, I heard questions on all sides as to the people who were giving such good plays at such moderate prices. The merchants all seemed delighted. They said they got full value for their money at the show and then it came back to them in the shape of theatrical patronage. Actors are good spenders, and very generous—the ladies must have nice clothes, so they shop, and tell one another of the pretty goods, of the courteous service of the attendants, and even the restaurant proprietors smile as any member of the "troupe" enters the cafe.

People who have met Mr. Snelgrove and Miss Zana Vaughn, his wife, are charmed with them, and are arranging parties to attend "Fair and Warmer" and the plays to follow.

At a performance of "French Leave" last night, Col. Sir Archibald Macdonnell asked the manager of the Grand many questions concerning "this nice looking Englishman, Rex Snelgrove," and he is having the show posted in the college and barracks with recommendations to the cadets to attend.

Many persons asked me if Trans-Canada were interested in the Stock Company, and immediately became interested as though that very name set the seal of approval upon the whole show.—Laura.

"'The Sky Pilot' is a film of very good entertainment value, wholesome in character and interesting to audiences of almost any age. The moral effect of this picture is good."
Mrs. R. C. Shaler,

"I want to tell you that 'The Sky Pilot' is a very good film."
Mr. Wm. McKinlay,
R.R., Y.M.C.A.

"The picture, 'The Sky Pilot,' gripped me from the start. There are no weak points and I am confident that it will have a fine moral effect on any audience seeing it."
H. W. Anderson.

HORSESHOES DECORATE COWBOYS' "GOSPEL-PLANT."

A couple of horseshoes nailed to a church pulpit would not quite meet the approval of the million-dollar shrines of worship in Gotham, but that is exactly the way the Canadian cowboys feel about their "gospel plant," according to "The Sky Pilot," directed by King Vidor for the Cathrine Curtis Productions and which will be shown at the Allen Theatre last time to-day as a First National attraction.

"The Sky Pilot," who comes unsolicited into the Canadian hills, is quite an unpopular person at first, and the best they can do for him in the way of a house of worship is to rather reluctantly allow him permission to hold services in "The Stopping Place," the local saloon. However, the Pilot wins out, with the result that the boys surprise him on Christmas morning with a quaint little frame church which they have financed and built without his knowledge. And nailed to the pulpit are a couple of horseshoes.

A powerful story with an unusual twist will be seen at the Allen Theatre for three days, beginning to-morrow, when the Goldwyn production of Gouverneur Morris' new photoplay, "Ace of Hearts," is shown there. As the title suggests, the most romantic card in the deck plays a large part in the destinies of all the people concerned in the story. It is the means of choosing the man who is to rid the world of its most evil character; it is the symbol of a sudden love that sprang into being at the moment of danger; and when the purger of humanity has failed in his mission of murder, the ace of hearts points to the man who is to carry out the sentence of the fanatical group upon the man who has failed.

Amid these hatreds that lead only to thoughts of revenue and death, two men and a woman become involved in a seemingly inextricable emotional triangle. It is solved through the self-sacrifice of one of the men; and at the same time an atmosphere of hate is turned into one of love.

In "Ace of Hearts," which was directed by Wallace Worsley, Lon Chaney, who will be remembered for his portrayal of the legless man in "The Penalty," has an important role. The other leading roles are in the capable hands of Leatrice Joy and John Bowers.

INVALID SOLDIERS' SPECIAL MATINEE

Dr. Bruce Hopkins, Medical Superintendent of Mowat Military Hospital, Kingston, has arranged a matinee performance of "Fair and Warmer" by the Rex Stock Company, on Friday afternoon, Sept. the 30th. Mr. Snelgrove wished to entertain the invalid soldiers, and the affair will take place under the auspices of the Kingston Rotary Club. Arrangements have been completed by the club to take the patients at Sydenham Hospital to the matinee at Mowat Hospital by motor.

AT THE CAPITOL.

HOLMAN DAY'S GREAT NORTH WOODS STORY FILMED

The characterof Kavanagh, or old "X K", "The Rider of the King Log", is one of the most virile and picturesque characters ever created by that master story teller, Holman Day, as well as being one of the most powerful figures in contemporary fiction.

"X.K." is a powerful giant of a man, enthroned as king in his little realm of pine and spruce. For years he has developed his leases and rights until, in the wilderness, has grown the small town of Ste. Agathe, peopled by Kavanagh's own men and their families.

Next to the love of his motherless daughter, is his love for his people, and his possesion. While he is intent on the education of his daughter, a profit-greedy corporation stealthily surrounds his leases, usurps his river rights and dams, and attempts to throttle the activities of Kavanagh and ruin the little town of Ste. Agathe.

Kavanagh's lone fight against the powerful combination brings about his death, but his fighting spirit is passed on to his daughter, and the manner in which she carries the battle to a successful finish furnishes the drama and romance of the story.

"The Rider of the King Log" comes to the Capitol Theatre tomorrow matinee and evening presented by Associated Exhibitors as a Holman Day production. It was produced under the author's personal supervision, on the very locations in Maine called for in the story, and enacted by a splendid cast which includes Fsank Sheridan Richard Travers, Irene Boyle, Carleton Brickert and many others.

A very funny two reel Jimmy Aubrey comedy, the Tourist and two big vaudeville acts, will compete one of the very best shows seen in some time at this popular resort. Fan—Fan.

Because the United States prohibits the manufacture af alcohol foreign countries are getting far ahead of this country in their experiments along the lines of research and a possibility of finding a lower-priced substitute for gasoline.

ONE THOUSAND MEMBERS WANTED FOR THE ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

ORGANIZATION IS IN THE MAKING —A SPLENDID EXECUTIVE

One thousand members for the Peterborough Amateur Athletic Association will help a lot in putting an end to the unsatisfactory condition of affairs that has existed in local sport for some years. A strong membership will build up an organization whose operations for the welfare of the various branches of athletics will be an open book to the public.

A great many people have placed the bulk of the blame for past transgressions upon the shoulders of the players, when as a matter of fact the main cause has been the lack of, and faulty, organization. Many of the players have urged that a change be made. They are willing to do their part and do it well, but they feel that their efforts to be successful, must be supported by an active and business like organization.

The Peterboro Amateur Athletic Association is now in the making. A splendid executive is being developed. It is a movement that must be encouraged if this city is to regain its rightful position in the world of sport.

GRANDMOTHER "DIED" JUST ONCE TOO OFTEN.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—(Canadian Press). — Like other office boys, Jimmy, employed by the Guaranty Trust Company, has a grandmother who dies frequently and conveniently whenever Jimmy wants a few days off.

But the last "death" nearly cost him his job, and now is costing him all his spare pennies.

The bank's employees' club felt so sorry for Jimmy that they sent a bouquet to grandma's funeral. Came this telephone call from Jimmy's house:

"We have just received some flowers from the bank. Can you tell me what they are for?"

When Jimmy returned from the "funeral," it was decreed that he should refund the price of the flowers.

STOMACH TROUBLES ARE DUE TO ACIDITY

Tells Safe, Certain, Speedy Relief For Acid Indigestion.

So-called stomach troubles, such as? indigestion, gas, sourness, stomach-ache, and inability to retain food are in probably nine cases out of ten, simply evidence that excessive secretion of acid is taking place in the stomach, causing the formation of gas and acid indigestion.

Gas distends the stomach and causes that full, oppressive, burning feeling sometimes known as heartburn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach. The trouble lies entirely in the excess development or secretion of acid.

To stop or prevent this souring of the food contents of the stomach and neutralize the acid, and make it bland and harmless, a teaspoonful of Bisurated Magnesia, a good and effective corrector of acid stomach, should be taken in a quarter of a glass of hot or cold water after eating or whenever gas, sourness, or acidity is felt. This sweetens the stomach and neutralizes the acidity in a few moments, and is a perfectly harmless and inexpensive remedy to use.

An antiacid, such as Bisurated Magnesia, which can be obtained from any druggist in either powder or tablet form enables the stomach to do its work properly without the aid of artificial digestents. Magnesia comes in several forms, so be certain to ask for and take only Bisurated Magnesia, which is especially prepared for the above purpose.

ELECTION NEWS

WASHINGTON WATCHES OUR ELECTIONS CLOSELY.

WASHINGTON, September 28. — Canadian Press.—Premier Meighen's announiement that the tahiff would be the leading issue in the Canadian election aroused great interest here. It is thought that the emeriency tariff bill recently passed which put what was declared to be a prohibitive duty on Canadian wheat, may assume prime importance in the election campaign in the Dominion.

Probably heavy duties on certain lines of goods which the permanent tariff bill will likely impose, it is thought, may produce a Canadian sentiment in favor of retaliatory measures.

MEIGHEN'S PROPOSAL INTERESTS COLLEAGUES

PICTOU, N. S., Sept. 28. Canadian Press. — Right Hon. Arthur Meighen's proposal to create a grain board was received with interest by the members of the Federal House who with Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, came here to-day to speak at the Pictou County Exhibition.

SAVING THE CHICKENS.

REGINA, Sask., Sept. 28.—(United Press).—A campaign for a law to prohibit all killing of prairie chickens in Saskatchewan for five years has been launched by the farmers of the Province. They declare the birds are worth their weight in gold as destroyers of grasshoppers and other insect pests. The present law that protects prairie chickens provides an open season of two weeks. During this brief period, guns of sportsmen are cracking all over the prairies every day and the destruction is enormous.

HOLD A DRIVE FOR THE HOSPITAL

OFFICERS NAMED FOR THE VARIOUS DISTRICTS—DRIVE OPENS OCT. 17TH.

An enthusiastic meeting of men from the three city parishes was held in St. Alphonsus' Lyceum last Sunday afternoon, to discuss ways and means of assisting in the building of a new extension to St. Joseph's Hospital. It was decided that the most feasible plan was to hold a drive in the city and surrounding districts to raise funds to assist in the building of this public charity. Officers were named as follows: General chairman; John R. Corkery; General Secretary; John E. Sullivan Treasurer G. A. Campbell.

An executive was appointed with two members from each of the parishes in Peterboro. St. Peter's is represented by Messrs. J. J. Duffus and V. J. McElderry; the Sacred Heart parish by Messrs. J. D. Letellier and J. T. O'Connell and the Immaculate Conception parish by Messrs. Daniel Hennessey and John Primeau, Jr.

The general drive throughout the city will begin on Monday, October 17th., and the committee will hold several further meetings to arrange for captains and canvassers for the twenty districts into which the city has been divided.

A meeting of the ladies of the three city parishes was held in St. Alphonsus' Lyceum last evening, to decided on what form their assistance would take towards the Hospital project. Some sort of carnival or bazaar, the exact nature and date to be named later, will be held, and officers were elected as follows: Honorary President — Mrs. A. Dunn; President—Mrs. Bruce Law; Secretary—Mrs. Emmet Cronin; Treasurer—Rev. P. Costello.

The building of the addition to the hospital is going forward in a very satisfactory manner, and the whole institution, when completed promises to be a very beautiful and substantial structure. The concrete floors of the second storey are being poured to-day, and the grounds present a scene of energetic and bustling labor.

TRAMPS FIND A NEW REST HAVEN

HAVELOCK POLICE ARE PARTICULARLY ACTIVE THESE DAYS

There are plenty of tramps now according to C.P.R. Constable George Evans of Havelock who brought up another "blind" passenger from the railroad town to-day. Magistrate D. W. Dumble remanded him for a week. He gave his name as Edward Hewins of Boston, U.S.A., more recently of Montreal, and told the constable he was on his way to Saskatchewan. He was in a freight train that lumbered into Havelock from the east yesterday noon and he did not expect to have his journey come to such an untoward end, before he had got fairly started. Amdriz Melnyk, an Austrian, similarly charged with stealing a ride comes up to-morrow.

According to the C.P.R. constable the hobo population is reaching its pre-war dimensions and nearly every freight has one or two tramps aboard. A common practice, he said, is for the hobos to enter the van when the conductor is out and take anything of any value. All in all the knights of the road are causing them a great deal of trouble.

RUSSO-POLISH PARLEYS TAKE FAVORABLE TURN.

45,000 ATTENDED LINDSAY FAIR?

OFFICIALS GIVE THIS FIGURE AS "ABSOLUTELY RELIABLE"

LINDSAY, Sept. 28.—On Monday afternoon the officials of Lindsay Central Fair met for the purpose of tabulating the attendance at this year's Fair and handed The Post the following statement:

Thursday	10,000
Friday	13,000
Saturday	22,000
Total	45,000

This is a record attendance. The figures have not been padded for effect, but is as correct an estimate as it is possible to make.

There was a big increase on each of the three days over the attendance on the corresponding days last year. Saturday still remains the big day. This is accounted for from the fact that it is the end of the week and Sunday gives the people an opportunity to rest before taking up their duties on Monday.

CABINET CONSIDERS RELIEF OF INDUSTRY

TAKES UP PLANS TO ASSIST UNEMPLOYED

LONDON, Sept. 28.—(Canadian Press).—The British Cabinet Committee discussed the unemployment situation yesterday and plans to revive home and export trade by the extension of credits, was one of the matters taken up.

The Prime Minister favors relief undertakings of considerable magnitude, but he recently told Laborite Mayors he could not place the whole burden on the State. He plans to consult a number of leaders in commerce and industry at Gairloch Friday and will likely hear views of union leaders.

"FAIR AND WARMER."

The Grand Opera House was filled again last evening for the presentation of "Fair and Warmer" by the popular Rex Stock Company. The stay-at-home and the frivolous wife in the one household and the opposite combination in the other create some amusing situations when the similar-minded couples get together. Mr. Rex Snelgrove, as usual, carries off the honors, with Miss Vaughan in the stellar feminine role.

Mr. Wm. Yule is becoming a great favorite with Peterborough audiences, and the Park kiddies are a clever pair of theatrical juveniles.

CHILDRENS AID SOCIETY.

Annual Tag Day Oct. 8th.

Again the Children's Aid Society will appeal to the generosity of the public on their annual tag day, Oct. 8th.

Last year the Shelter was taxed nearly to its limit and the Society are doing their best with their limited quarters to look after the most needy cases.

Let everybody help on tag day to swell the amount for our year's work.

Watch on the 8th of October for the girl with the badge and box.

Preserve and Prolong Life

by taking Chiropractic Adjustments, which benefit every organ and tissue of the body.

A PERFECT MACHINE

Your body in normal condition is a perfect machine. As long as each part maintains a proper relation to every other part and is supplied with abundant nerve power, the result of its activities cannot be other than that of Health. But if there is a mechanical interference with the transmission of power from the brain to the various organs of the body, there is disease in the organs so affected.

The art of Chiropractic (Ki-ro-prak-tik) demonstrates that this interference is due to subluxation (displacement of the bones of the backbone) which compress the nerves and disturb the nerve energy. By an original and adequate means of adjusting, the Chiropractor corrects the cause so the human machine will produce Health—not disease.

Chiropractic Vertebral Adjustments are the best life insurance possible for the ill and broken-down.

SAYS ARBUCKLE WILL NEVER BE SENT TO TRIAL

COUNSEL THINK MANSLAUGHER CHARGE WILL BE DROPPED, BUT PROSECUTION DENIES THIS

FREED ON $5,000 BAIL HE GOES TO LOS ANGELES

By M. D. TRACEY,
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., Sept. 29.—Roscoe Arbuckle will never be brought to trial, his attorneys declared today.

With the big comedian freed on the first degree murder charge in the death of Miss Virginia Rappe, his counsel expressed the belief that the manslaughter charge would be dropped.

District Attorney Brady, however, declared the trial on the lesser charge would be pressed as speedily as possible.

Within half an hour after Police Judge Lazuris had dismissed the murder charge late yesterday, "Fatty" had furnished $5,000 cash bail. He was expected to return to Los Angeles today, but he must come back to San Francisco in a few days to plead to the manslaughter charge. The date for his trial will be set then, according to the prosecution. As soon as he had furnished bail, Arbuckle went to the City Prison to watch the jailor lock the door of his late cell—but this time with the big comedian outside.

"By golly, I'm glad; thank you all for your good wishes," was all the comment he had made.

It was believed that Arbuckle would leave today for Los Angeles in his big $26,000 automobile, probably accompanied by his wife, Minta Durfee, and her mother. The departure would be made as secretly as possible, as "Fatty" feels that what he does now is chiefly his own business and he wishes to avoid the crowds of curious.

"In my opinion, we are not trying Roscoe Arbuckle alone," Judge Lazuris said in rendering his decision, "actually, and in a larger sense, we are trying ourselves, our present day morals, social conditions, looseness of thought and lack of social balance. The issue is universal and grows out of conditions which are a matter of comment and notoriety and apprehension to every lover and protector of our American institutions."

TORONTO PAPER'S STATEMENT DENIED

RANEY REFUTES ALLEGATIONS REGARDING TIMBER PROBE

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

TORONTO, Sept. 29.—Attorney-General Raney stated to-day that a local paper was talking "perfect nonsense" and making a "ridiculous statement" when it asserted that, although the Riddell-Latchford timber probe had already resulted in the sum of $124,000 being paid into the Provincial treasury, it would probably have cost the Government about $750,000 to collect this amount. Mr. Raney said that figures were not available to show what had been the expenses of the Commission to date, but he added that it certainly would be very much less than the total quoted.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Sept. 29. — Attorney-General Daugherty has evolved a plan for dealing with the Ku Klux Klan activities, he declared in an interview here to-day.

Daugherty said details of the idea would be announced on his return to Washington to-morrow, after he had had an opportunity to consider the latest reports of the investigations of the Klan.

U. S. RAILWAYMEN VOTE FOR STRIKE

(United Press.)

CHICAGO, September 29. — All the large unions of railroad workers have voted in favour of a strike, it was learned to-day by the United Press from authoritative sources.

The official canvass of the strike vote of all unions will show a large majority for rejection of the wage cut of 12 per cent., and authorising their leaders to call a strike, union leaders stated.

BRITISH GOVT. AGAIN INVITES SINN FEIN TO FORMAL PARLEY; BELIEVED IRISH WILL ACCEPT

INSISTENCE OF DEVALERA ON RECOGNITION OF IRISH INDEPENDENCE SAID TO HAVE BEEN OVERCOME.

DAIL CABINET IN SESSION TO CONSIDER COMMUNICATION

By Lloyd Allen.
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

LONDON, September 29. — The decision of the British Cabinet for which England, no less than Ireland, has awaited anxiously for nearly a week, was announced to-day.

It was for peace with Sinn Fein, if a formal conference can bring that about.

A telegram was despatched to Eamonn De Valera from Gairloch, at 11 o'clock, inviting him to name delegates for a conference at London on October 11th.

The differences over the question of Irish delegates representing a "free state," have been overcome by the Premier's reply. The insistence of De Valera that Ireland could only negotiate as a "sovereign state," have been made to coordinate with British determination that the independence of Ireland is not to be recognized.

An immediate reply, accepting the invitation, was expected from the Dail Cabinet to-day. The Sinn Fein inner ring had been in session since early morning awaiting the reply, and immediately the telegram from Gairloch arived they were prepared to consider its contents and to send an answer. Reports from Dublin indicated that there was no doubt but that the Dail cabinet would accept.

Now that it is known the British Cabinet committe agreed upon extending an invitation to Sinn Fein, despite recent recalcitrance on the part of De Valera in the exchange of notes, optimism over the outcome of the proposed conference was felt here. The action of Lloyd George, who went trout fishing as soon as he had seen the telegram started on its way, led to the belief that the British Premier had removed all difficulties in the way of a conference.

DUBLIN, September 29 (Canadian Press). — The reply of Lloyd-George was received by DeValera and Arthur Griffith at 1.30 p.m. today in the Mansion House, and the reply will be drafted at once and placed before the Dail to-morrow for consideration.

The Sinn Fein leaders were agreeably surprised by the wording of the note, and one said:

"The reply is certainly better than we expected."

MAY DISSOLVE HOUSE FRIDAY

WRITS FOR ELECTION MAY BE ISSUED CONCURRENTLY, OTTAWA BELIEVES.

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

OTTAWA, Sept. 29.—What will probably be the last representative gathering of the Meighen Cabinet will be held to-morrow, when the Premier and his colleagues, new and old, will assemble at the round table and, through dissolution of the thirteenth Parliament, cut the cables and embark on the stormy seas of an election convention.

The Premier is even now on his way back to Ottawa, following his announcement at Portage La Prairie, where he personally intends to run. Most of his colleagues will be back to-morrow to participate in the last rites to a dying Parliament. A full month has passed since the Premier announced at London that an election was coming. It is therefore anticipated that writs will be issued concurrently with the announcement of dissolution.

STORK GETS INTO JAIL AT QUEBEC

(Special Despatch to The Examiner.)

QUEBEC, Sept. 29.— To the tune of "Stone Walls Do Not a Prison Make, Nor Iron Bars a Cage," a wily stork eluded the vigilance of the Quebec jail guards, hurdled the towering stone wall, squeezed himself through the cell bars and delivered a bouncing baby boy to one of the female prisoners at an early hour this morning.

As the proud mother's sentence has some time to run, Governor Carbonneau decided to send the jail-breaking infant to Lacreche, a local institution. The authorities reported that the newcomer was a fine, husky little chap and none the worse for his adventure. He is to be baptized this afternoon by the jail chaplain and will be given his liberty from the frowning prison within the course of a week. It has been decided not to press a charge of breaking into jail against their latest charge.

CHICAGO LIQUOR PROBE SPEEDING

FOLLOWING YESTERDAY'S SENSATIONAL DEVELOPMENTS

CHICAGO, Sept. 29. — (Canadian Press).—The probing of liquor rings, said to involve half of the city's police, speeded to-day, following sensational developments yesterday. These included the death of Mrs. Rose Allen, while being questioned regarding her connection with alleged extortion schemes, the finding of an alleged whiskey runner dead on a country road, the alleged confession of a police officer and the hunt for a "rum pirate" ship.

SIDEWALK MENACE TO PUBLIC SAFETY

IN MAIN BUSINESS BLOCK---WATER GATHERS IN POOLS AND ACCIDENTS HAVE OCCURRED.

Grafton and Co., Woolworth and Co., Limited, and A. A. Fowler, protested to the council's Committee of the Whole last night against the wretched condition of the concrete sidewalk fronting their stores, on George street, west side. Their communication read that this spot is a menace to pedestrians, including their customers, and that several accidents have occurred. The sidewalk here is very uneven—raised in some places and cupped in others—in spring and fall the water gathers in pools, and had even overflowed into A. A. Fowler's cellar.

It was suggested that as alterations are under way at Grafton and Co.'s, it would be economical to renew this section of walk now, and council understands that this firm would defray a portion of the cost, estimated at $200.

On motion of Ald. Gordon and Hay the council will ascertain just what proportion of the cost of this renewal the business firms will pay.

NEED OF UNITY.

PICTOU, N. S., Sept. 29.—(Canadian Press).—The great need of unity on national questions, spirit of unity which conceded right of all to their own opinions though their efforts were for the benefit of all Canadians, was stressed by Hon. Mackenzie King, opposition leader, in a brief address today at Pictou County Exhibition. Attempts today, said Mr. King, should be to build up again the spirit of freedom, democracy and brotherhood which had been strained to breaking point during the war.

UTILITIES TO SHARE IN AID FOR WORKLESS

COMMISSION PROMISES CO-OPERATION WITH COUNCIL TO ANY REASONABLE EXTENT.

NON-REVENUE PRODUCING SO CONSUMERS MUST PAY

While no plans of a concrete nature for providing work for Peterboroughs' unemployed this winterr were formulated at a parley between the City Council and the Utilities Commission last night on this vexed question, the latter body did agree to do anything possible to cooperate with the Council in relieving what promises to be a serious situation. But, Commissioner Hicks explained, whatever work the Utilities have in view for next summer is non-revenue producing, chargeable to capital account, and consequently if undertaken in cold weather at probably from two to three times normal cost the excess expenditure would probably have to show in charges against consumers.

Mayor McIntyre here remarked that a letter received from Senator Robertson advised, that in the Minister of Labour opinion the Dominion Government seems inclined to defray costs in excess of summer labor for municipal improvements prosecuted during the winter in relief of the unemployed. As a whole, the meeting did not seem quite clear whether such government assistance should it materialize, would apply or not to Utilities Commissions as wall as to municipal governments; but Council will proceed with planning for a winter labor schedule encouraged by promised Utilities co-operation wherever practicable on reasonable lines.

New Lighting System

The main object of Council meeting the Utilities Commission was to discuss Ald. Turner's complaint that the general lighting system is antiquated, that a number of lights are frequently out at night; and need of illumination for Central Park.

Commissioner Hicks replied that whereas much preliminary work for a new street lighting system is under way, it looked a though it would not be in operation for two year yet. Manager Fisk had estimated the cost of this new system, without salaries, at from $80 to $100. And here Mr. Hicks explained that although Hydro-Electric had increased their charges to the Commission $5 per horse power, retroactive from January first, totalling $20,000 for this year, the Commissioners had been able by drawing on their reserve account to show a small profit the past six months and hoped to tide over the situation without increasing their charges to ratepayers ,and at the same time taking care of preparatory operations for a street lighting system on the latest improved plan. "But", he asserted, to accomplish this it will be necessary to go slow; two years will see us with increased revenue and a margin toward completing the work."

Reasonable Service

In regard to street lights not burning at times, Commissioner Hicks estimated their number at one half of one per cent. of the whole system which he contended to be reasonable service. Failure of megnetite arc lamps to burn now and then is due, he said, to injury to underground cables from street paving, and which is rectified just so soon as the trouble can be located.

Mr. Fisk here said he would welcome reports to his office of lights out, which the department would immediately act upon; he hoped the public would make a note of this and govern themselves accordingly.

To the plan proposed by Council in employing a permanent inspector for the "lights out" trouble, Mr. Fisk replied that such an appointment would be of no avail unless the man carried lamps and pole-climbing spurs with him, ready for renewing defective lamps.

The Commission has the whole system inspected every week and defects remedied. Much of the plant is obsolete, and when the new system is completed this trouble will be reduced to the minimum possible.

Porch Lights

Ald. Crowe resurrected his plan for improved street lighting pending the new system being completed—that citizens maintain lights in the porch or on the verandah of their dwellngs, free of charge to them if possible.

Mr. Fisk replied that the commission is not allowed to supply light free. The cost of a verandah 25-watt light would be the 40th part of 2 1-2c per hour. No one present attempted to figure this out.

Ald. Morrison remarked that the majority of people do not want a verandah lamp burning all night.

Commissioner Mason hinted that Council might suggest that citizens do so, and await the reply.

Commissioner Hicks thought 75 per cent. of the people would object.

Ald. Crowe declared that some towns resort to the porch light sys-

RUMOR LIBERAL-CONSERVATIVE ALLIANCE BEING NEGOTIATED

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Sept. 29.—Negotiations are said to be in progress between the Government and Liberals in East and West Elgin for the framing of an agreement by the Conservatives who will pledge themselves to assist in the election of ex-Warden William Tolmie, the Liberal candidate in West Elgin, and the Liberals will agree to help place John L. Stansell, the Conservative candidate, in power in East Elgin. Conservative leaders, questioned on the matter, admitted that they had heard the proposition talked, but claimed that no progress has been made as yet.

LEAGUE IS NOW WITHOUT POWER AND AUTHORITY

MERE INSTRUMENT TO CO-ORDINATE AND RECOMMEND INTERNATIONAL ACTION.

ADJOURNMENT OF ASSEMBLY IS SET FOR EARLY OCTOBER

(By Henry Wood.)
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

GENEVA, September 29th. — Adjournment of the present Assembly of the League of Nations, has been set for Tuesday, October 4.

With the departure of the delegates the world will see in the league a vastly different institution from that which its founders contrived and which the 1920 assembly experimentally endeavored to create.

Instead of a veritable super-state, imposing its authority upon all nations, the league is now recognized as a mere instrument to coordinate and make recommendations for international action. It recognizes itself to be completely without power or authority to impose these recommendations.

Here is the League's record to date: Appealed to Poland and Lithuania and secured cessation of active hostilities and kept them from war for over a year; brought about direct negotiations between Chile and Bolivia, resulting in probable reconciliation; both sides in the Serb-Albanian dispute checked from further aggression while the dispute was given publicity.

GENEVA, September 29. — Canadian Press. — Recommendation that the Assembly of the League of Nations' appeal to its members for credits to Russia will not be made by the Russian Relief Committee. The matter of raising funds and organization of relief measures will be left entirely to the coming conference in Brussels.

WANDERER'S LAST CHANCE FOR LIFE

SENTENCED TO HANG TO-MORROW, HAS AUDIENCE WITH GOVERNOR TO-DAY.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 29. — (Canadian Press).—Carl Wanderer, sentenced to be hanged to-morrow morning at Chicago for the murder of a "ragged stranger," his wife and her unborn babe, to-day gets his last chance for life. Governor Small has granted a hearing at the request of W. D. Betholomew, Wanderer's attorney, who will make his final effort to save Wanderer from the gallows. Lloyd Heth, assistant States Attorney, is here from Chicago to insist on the death penalty.

BURNHAM CONSERVATIVE CHOICE; BEATS STRICKLAND 191 TO 152; DENNE DECLINES THE CANDIDACY THINKS BURNHAM TO GET SUPPORT OF WHOLE PARTY

A statement made by E. A. Peck, ex-M.P., this morning, on the choice of the Liberal-Conservative convention last night was as follows: "Burnham is the choice of the convention. He will, if elected, assist in maintaining the Meighen administration and its tariff policy. In the interests of the country he should be supported by every Liberal-Conservative in the riding and I believe he will be."

BOURASSA-LAVERGNE COMBINE IS DENIED.

(Special Despatch to the Examiner.)

MONTREAL, Sept. 29. — A straight denial was given here this morning by one of the editors of Le Devoir on behalf of Henri Bourassa, to the rumour that he and Armand Lavergne were joining forces to lead the farmer party in Quebec.

"I have heard of the rumour," he said, "and am authorized to give it a flat denial sa far as Mr. Bourassa is concerned. Naturally I cannot speak for Mr. Lavergne."

Mr. Lavergne was in Montreal this week for a few days but has returned to Quebec.

Mr. J. H. Burnham says that he was greatly shocked at the small representation of last night's meeting of the Conservatives who endorsed his candidature in February. It is true that soreness still exists amongst those Conservatives who resented what they considered desertion of the old party for a new one, but Mr. Burnham reminds them that the new party has disappeared, and hat he is just as much a Conservative candidate now as he was in February last. He also wishes to remind them that unless he gets their support and that of the large number of Conservatives who told Mr. Burnham that they had voted for Mr. Gordon, M.P., to make sure of the defeat of the Government candidate, there is no hope of success. Mr. Burnham says that he was in touch with Ottawa some days ago, and that it would be a great pity if there is not a large number of volunteers of the old guard on this occasion.

DOMINION AND PROVINCE SHOULD BE SEPARATE WITH RESPECT TO POLICY

CALGARY, September 29. — Canadian Press. — Addressing the farmers' convention at McLeod yesterday, George Hoadley, the Minister of Agriculture in the Alberta Cabinet, declared that in his opinion the Provincial Government was in office for the purpose of administering the affairs of the province, and not for participating in Dominion elections, and there should be no connection between the provincial government and the Dominion government with respect to policy.

CONVENTION ENDORSES PROTECTIVE TARIFF, AND EXPRESSES CONFIDENCE IN MEIGHEN AND FERGUSON.

DR. MORRISON IS ELECTED PRESIDENT OF ASSOCIATION

As announced on page three of to-day's issue, Mr. J. H. Burnham, ex-M.P., will again carry the standard of the Liberal-Conservatives in West Peterborough. At the annual meeting of the Liberal-Conservative convention, held last night in Victoria Hall, J. H. Burnham, R. Denne and J. F. Strickland were nominated, and a ballot was taken to decide the issue between Mr. Burnham and Mr. Strickland, with the result in favor of the former by thirty-nine votes.

The hall was filled nearly to capacity. Mr. T. E. Bradburn, retiring president of the Association, opened the meeting and later assigned the chair to Dr. M. A. Morrison, following the latter's election to the presidency.

Nomination Addresses.

In a brief nomination address, Mr. J. H. Burnham commented on the apparent indifference of mind with which many representatives go to Ottawa. "Let me say one of the reasons affairs have got into such condition to-day is because of this pernicious feeling on the part of candidates." "A representative in Parliament," he said, "must give his whole time and thought to the public service. He should study public affairs, everything that concerns the well-being of the people.

"When I went to Parliament I brought up the matter of old age pensons. A committee was appointed and for two years evidence was taken. We were encouraged and went on with it. Ultimately the bill was not less than $25,000. The evidence is all down—you can see it at the Public Library. I say if I had not devoted my time to that subject during two years I could have done nothing.

Thousands of Bills.

"I would further say the bills that are brought up in the House are of the utmost importance to the people of Canada. Thousands of bills came up that must be investigated. To be conversant with matters that constantly appear, Mr. Burnham advised the other nominees if they were elected, to spend as much time as possible in the library. A member should absorb much information and then go into the House and make his contribution. "Don't be merely a button on the coat of the ministry," he said.

A Broad Outlook.

Mr. Burnham said that members should have a broad outlook and if developments took place which they believed wrong to take a stand for the people. When he stood out on the G.T.R. question he said he believed that the government was mistaken. Recent investigations have borne out his opinion. "I was right, but I felt and knew there was those who would snarl and bite at me be-

BIG CROWD AND MANY NOVEL FEATURES AT JOINT FAIR OF SEYMOUR TOWNSHIP SCHOOLS

CHILDREN OF ELEVEN SCHOOLS MADE HOLIDAY AT CAMPBELLFORD'S EXHIBITION GROUNDS —LONG AND VARIED PROGRAMME ENTERTAINED FARMERS AND TOWNSPEOPLE.

THE PRIZE-WINNERS

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 29.—The pupils of the eleven Public schools in Seymour Township had the Exhibition Grounds here all to themselves on Wednesday for their annual Fair. They came from all parts of the township, accompanied by their parents and other relatives, and were joined by many of the citizens of Campbellford, who shared in the pleasures of the children, and by their attendance encouraged them in the work to which they have seriously devoted themselves this year. The fruits of their interest and efforts were displayed in the exhibition building, forming an imposing array of the products of the field and orchard, the handiwork of the boys, the baking and sewing of the girls, and other branches of their preliminary training.

The crowd was exceptionally large for such an event, and in the arrangements of the proceedings the Seymour School Fair Association having nothing to learn from other sections of the country. As an opening feature the pupils of each school, lead by their teacher, paraded in front of the grandstand, where, in their turn, they presented their drills and songs, school yells, calisthenics and other group effects. Only eight of the schools entered in this competition, the prize winners being first, school No. 5, Miss Lillian Locke, teacher; second, school No. 7, Mr. Thomas Chaplin, teacher; third, school No. 3, Miss Jennie Ballantyne, teacher. The other schools participating in this event were:—No. 1, Gladys Meiklejohn, teacher; No. 2, Jean Armstrong, teacher; No. 4, Beatrice Borland, teacher; No. 10, Viola Craven, teacher; No. 11, Nellie Jeffs, teacher.

Physical Drill Contest.

In the morning the physical drill competition for the Strathcona Trust prizes returned the following winners:—1st prize, school No. 2, Miss Jean Armstrong, teacher; 2nd prize, school No. 7, Mr. Chaplin, teacher.

In both these exhibitions the children showed marked proficiency. The afternoon contest apparently followed no sharply prescribed conditions. Each school's work evidently reflected the abilities and ideas of the teachers. The pupils of school No. 5, under the direction of Miss Locke, clearly made the best showing. They were dressed distinctively, the boys in complete Scout marching uniforms, even to Stetsons, and the girls in white. The boys wore red ties and the girls red sashes. Each pupil carried a branch of maple leaves in all their brilliant autumnal colors. Part of this performance was a well executed drill employing a tennis net and racquets, used by the older children taking part.

Mr. Chaplin's school went through various calisthenics and drill evolutions, and the other schools had their individual songs and formations.

The exhibition of fruits, vegetables and handiwork was altogether praiseworthy. Seeds for the grains and vegetables and most of the flowers had been supplied to the children during the spring term.

Under the Strathcona Trust Fund $30 was awarded to the schools of Northumberland County for physical drill competitions, and of this sum $6 was alloted to Seymour. Accordingly school No. 2 won $4 and school No. 7 $2. Mr. H. Sirett of Brighton, Agricultural Representative in the county, was manager of the Fair and handled all its details smoothly and effectively. He stated that the winner of the shield for the school whose pupils scored the highest aggregate of points in the exhibition would not be announced for a few days.

Good Horsemanship.

A long list of races was run off, and especially interesting was the contest for the best riding and driving of horses. This event brought out a rather large field and the judges had considerable difficulty in making their decisions. The skill of these children indicated that while the automobile has invaded the rural sections in legions there are young

CAMPBELLFORD GIRL GETS $100 DAMAGES HIT BY AUTOMOBILE

THREE CASES DISPOSED OF BY JUDGE WARD IN DIVISION COURT ON WEDNESDAY.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 29.—Damages of $100 were awarded Grace Vance, 18 years old, against Alexander Linn by Judge Ward of Port Hope in Division Court here yesterday for injuries suffered in an automobile accident, which occurred in front of the moving-picture theatre in this town one Saturday night last October. Plaintiff and Miss Grace Mack were crossing the street near the theatre about 11 p.m. when an automobile driven by Mr. Linn approached. According to her statement, the car was on the wrong side of the road. It stopped suddenly and the plaintiff and her companion also halted. They started to continue their way across the street, and the car also started at the same time. Both the women were struck, and Miss Vance was struck by a headlamp and thrown to the ground. She and Miss Mack were dragged from under the automobile. Miss Vance was treated by Dr. Haig. She stated that she had not worked since the accident, and that on the Monday following it she had intended to go to Cobourg to work. Mr. G. A. Payne appeared for the plaintiff and Mr. D. J. Lynch for the defendant.

Another Damage Case.

In the case of Joshua Archer vs. Ed. Quinn damages of $35 were allowed. Plaintiff claimed $60 for loss of apples estimated at seven barrels and also buckwheat, planted in the orchard, which damage, he stated, had been caused by a trespassing cow owned by the defendant.

A Potato Case.

In the third case, Covert vs. Rutherford, the plaintiff alleged that he had bought ten bags of potatoes for $10 from the defendant last fall when they were cheap. He said that one bag was rotten, asked for $5 damages and was awarded $2.50.

JUST RECOVERED FROM INJURY IN GAME AT OSHAWA

"PAT" KELLY BACK TO WORK AND JIM KERR OUT OF BED AGAIN

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 29.—Mr. James Kerr, proprietor of the St. Lawrence Hotel, was out for the first time today since the lacrosse game in Oshawa on the 17th of this month. Blood poisoning developed in an injury to his leg requiring him to remain in bed under the doctor's care since a week ago Monday. "Pat" Kelly has recovered from the effects of his experience in Oshawa and was recently able to resume his duties. The collapse of Campbellford's goaler at half time was due to a blow over the base of the head, which is charged against "Buck" Oliver, Oshawa's inside home, according to members of the team. This caused a congestion of blood in his head where he had received severe injuries during the war. Mr. Kelly and his friends realize that he had a narrow escape from a fatality as a consequence of the rough handling he went through.

"Dot" Phelan, coach of the team, returned to Cornwall this week, and will likely enter a business partnership there.

J. H. BURNHAM EX-M.P. WILL REPRESENT WEST PETERBOROUGH IN COMING ELECTIONS

J. H. Burnham, ex-M.P., will represent the Liberal-Conservatives in West Peterborough in the coming general election.

At the annual meeting of the West Peterborough Liberal-Conservative Association in Victoria Hall last night, J. H. Burnham, Roland Denne and J. F. Strickland were nominated. Mr. Denne withdrew, and in a ballot between Mr. Burnham and Mr. Strickland, Mr. Burnham received 191 votes and Mr. Strickland 152.

Conservatives from all sections of the riding filled Victoria Hall for the convention. A new executive was elected as follows: President, Dr. M. A. Morrison; 1st vice-president, James Lynch; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. Charles Wright; 3rd vice-president, W. H. Langford; secretary, V. J. McElderry; assistant secretary, J. W. Worth; treasurer, W. G. Howden.

Several amendments to the constitution were made, one of the most notable being that of allowing a larger representation of women to hold office.

J. H. Burnham was nominated by W. G. Morrow, seconded by Mrs. C. Wright; Roland Denne was nominated by W. G. Howden, seconded by John Edgar; James Fordyce Strickland was nominated by T. Brown, seconded by Frank Pratt.

IDA SCHOOL FAIR UNDER PETERBORO TEACHER WON FIRST PRIZE IN PARADE

PUPILS OF MISS EASTWOOD ADJUDGED IN LEAD FOR COSTUMES, MARCHING, DRILLS AND SINGING, AT IDA RURAL SCHOOL FAIR,

LIST OF PRIZE WINNERS

IDA, Sept. 28.—Between five and six hundred people attended the Rural School Fair at Ida on Tuesday, September 27th, the fine weather evidently tempting many to motor over and view the excellent exhibits. Then, of course, all parents who had children competing in the various events or who had made entries in the different classes, could not fail to be present because of their personal interest in the occasion.

The Parade.

Competitions were open to seven schools in the North Cavan district, and every one was represented in the parade when it assembled at 1.30 p.m. This was an especially good showing in every respect—in costumes, marching, singing, drills, school yells and physical culture exercise.

Colonel Odell, Captain McGill and Mr. David Hampton, who were the judges, had a most difficult task in deciding the prize winners since all made such a very creditable showing.

Colonel Odell, in whose inspectorate the Fair was held, after a few appropriate and pleasing remarks regarding the standng of the schools in the district, announced the results as follows:

1, Fairmount, S. S. No. 3; 2, Cairo, S. S. No. 9; 3, Beechwood, S. S. No. 4; 4, Mt. Pleasant, S. S. No. 2; 5, Matchett's, S. S. No. 7; 6, Cedar Grove, S. S. No. 1; 7, Cavan, S. S. No. 5.

Miss Eastwood of Peterborough, who is the popular and efficient teacher at Fairmount, had a busy time receiving congratulations when it became known that her school stood first, but all the teachers came in for a large measure of praise since every one deserved credit for the excellent demonstration made by his or her school.

Physical Culture.

Physical culture was judged separately and the following is the standing obtained:

1, Beechwood, S .S. No. 4; 2, Mt. Pleasant, S. S. No. 2; 3, Matchett's, S. S. No. 7; 4, Cairo, S. S. No. 9; 5, Cavan, S. S. No. 5.

In the Booth.

The exhibit in the tent, though perhaps a little smaller than last year, lacked nothing in quality, if the quantity was less. Recent frosts have unfortunately spoiled the flowers to a considerable extent, so the entries in this class were fewer than usual. But the baking deserves especial mention, being a most tempting array, reflecting great credit on the youthful cooks, who could scarcely restrain their impatience to have the tent opened so they could satisfy their curiosity and see whose cakes, buns, cookies, etc., bore the coveted prize ribbons.

The Prize List.

Asters (table bouquet)—1 Audrey Morton, 2 Mildred Moncrief, 3 Helen Rutherford, 4 Ruth Tulley, 5 Dorothy Morden, 6 Margaret Lang.

Phelox (table bouquet)—1 Alma Perrin, 2 Kathleen Sisson, 3 Given Hunter, 4 Mary Sharpe.

Guest towel (hemstitched and hand made)—1 Audrey Morton, 2

Thompson, chairman of the British Columbia division of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, were refuted by Hon. J. W. DeB. Farris, Attorney-General and Minister of Labor.

"The words attributed to Mr. Thompson completely misrepresented the state of affairs in this province and they are a serious reflection upon our workers," declared the Minister of Labor.

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., Sept. 29.—(Canadian Press.)—An instance of British postal delay, but an equal testimonial to its persistency, was the delivery here yesterday to J. The package indicated that during its 18 years of travelling it has been to India, New Zealand and nearly all over the globe.

ARGUMENT PRESENTED AGAINST WAGE REDUCTIONS

MONTREAL, Sep. 29.—(By Canadian Press) —Argument was presented here yesterday afternoon on behalf of the railway unions at the conciliation board appointed to look into the dispute in connection with the proposed reduction by about 12 per cent. in wages. The main argument was given by G. F. Wark, Vice-President of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, who contended that prewar wages should not be considered as a basis for present discussion since, he claimed, they had been altogether inadequate, while the advances in the McAdoo schedule did not keep pace with the advancing cost of living.

PLANNING FLIGHT AROUND THE WORLD

LONDON, Sept. 29.—(Canadian Press).—"We are leaving nothing to chance," was Sir Keith Smith's parting shot to an interviewer after outlining the precautions he and his brother, Sir Ross Smith, are taking to ensure the success of their flight round the world next spring.

"We are pretty certain that the flight will be made some day, and we are keen to have the honor go to a Britisher," said Sir Keith.

The route has not yet been decided, but Sir Keith favors crossing the Atlantic first to get the stiffest part of the journey over early. "Altogether it won't be a picnic," he said. "We are sure to come against some pretty bad weather, especially when encountering the steady winds along the Pacific coast of Asia, but it won't be worse than the Australian flight."

It is expected the crew will comprise the Smith brothers and Bennett, whom Sir Keith Smith describes as one of the most experienced mechanics in the world, that the Australians call "a bush blacksmith," because he can do repairs without tools or materials.

WILL ASK ASSISTANCE FROM CANADIAN PACIFIC

OTTAWA, Sept. 29.—(Canadian Press).—Active steps towards the relief of the unemployment situation are to be immediately taken by the Department of Railways and Canals, it was announced last night. Orders for steel in anticipation of the demand next spring are to be placed, and the rebuilding of sheds and repairing of equipment are to be proceeded with wherever such work may, in the opinion of the Department of Labor, alleviate bad conditions.

Hon. J. A. Stewart, Minister of Railways, has just returned from Montreal, where, with the Deputy Minister, he has spent a couple of days in conference with the chief executives of the Grand Trunk and Canadian National Railways. The unemployment situation in its relation to the National Railways, has been thoroughly canvassed, as also was the possibility of the railways so arranging their repair work and placing new orders so as to obviate

TRY ARBUCKLE ON CHARGE OF MANSLAUGHTER

JUDGE LAZARUS, HOLDING THAT EVIDENCE DOES NOT WARRANT MURDER BILL, REDUCES CHARGE

SAYS SOCIAL STANDARDS OF TO-DAY BEING TRIED

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 29th. — Canadian Press. — The murder complaint against Roscoe C. (Fatty) Arbuckle was reduced to manslaughter yesterday by Police Judge Sylvain Lazarus, who held him to answer to the Superior Court for trial on the lesser charge growing out of the death of Miss Virginia Rappe, following a drinking party in Arbuckle's hotel suite here.

Judge Lazarus held that the evidence introduced by the District Attorney during the six day hearing did not warrant the comedian's being held for murder. Miss Rappe, a Los Angeles motion picture actress, died September 9, four days after the affair in Arbuckle's rooms.

"I have decided to make a holding for manslaughter, finding there is enough in the defendant's conduct to warrant his trial on that charge," said Judge Lazarus. "I feel no rape or attempted rape, was committed by the defendant on Miss Rappe," he said.

"I feel also bound by the Grand Jury whose indictment for manslaughter was voted after having more evidence than I was permitted to hear."

Arbuckle heard the decision with out movement or comment.

The District Attorney moved that Arbuckle be released on his own recognizance, in view of the bail of $5,000 cash, or $10,000 bonds fixed in the Superior Court charge of manslaughter, growing out of the Grand Jury ind[illegible].

When the hearing was resumed, Judge Lazarus began a discussion of the case.

"We need not disguise the fact that this is an important case. In my opinion we are not trying Roscoe Arbuckle alone, the screen celebrity who has given mirth to the whole world. We are in a sense trying ourselves, our morals, our present day social standards. The question is even larger than the guilt of the unfortunate; it is a universal issue.

"The affair was the culmination of an orgy at one of the leading hostelries. And orgy, unrepressed by the management is, I take it, a common thing in our big cities.

"I had really hoped that the court would be the avenue for a full and complete revelation of all the facts

LAST NIGHT'S CONVENTION.

As a result of last night's convention of the Liberal-Conservative Association of West Peterborough, Mr. J. H. Burnham, ex-M.P., was nominated as the Government candidate in the coming general election. It is rather a strange twist of circumstances that brings the man who resigned from the Government, causing a by-election and the loss of the riding, back into the field as the official standard-bearer of the Meighen forces, but Mr. Burnham won the fight in the convention decisively and thus will face the electors once more. The convention was orderly and well attended, ans there was little time lost in disposing of the business of the evening. The attendance of ladies was, perhaps, not as large as might be looked for in these days when the women stand on an equal footing with the sterner sex, so far as voting is concerned, but nevertheless the women present displayed a keen interest in the proceedings, and one of them was chosen among the Vice-Presidents of the association.

There were three nominations in all, but Mr. Roland Denne withdrew his name and the contest lay between Mr. J. Fordyce Strickland and Mr. Burnham. The majority of 39 for Mr. Burnham out of a total vote of 743 indicates that the meeting was fairly well divided in feeling. What the ultimate result will be remains to be seen. There have been two wings of the Liberal-Conservative Party for some time; they were both strongly in evidence last night, and although the meeting was harmonious and with no open signs of ill-feeling the future alone will tell as to how far the two factions will go towards reconciliation and the burying of the hatchet.

The convention, at least, assures a straight fight between the Government and Liberal opposition in West Peterborough. There is no likelihood of Labour or Farmers entering the fight, and instead of a five-entry free-for-all as was the case in the by-election last winter West Peterborough will have an old-fashioned two-man campaign on this occasion.

FINDING EMPLOYMENT.

Although a number of factories in various parts of Canada which have been closed down for some time have resumed operations, there is no reason to hope that there will be anything like a general revival until next spring at least. Although some improvement has been noticed for the past few weeks in several industries, it is evident that the industries of Canada cannot be counted upon to do anything more towards providing employment during the winter months than is being done at the present time. Whatever improvement may take place in the situation between the present time and the coming of winter will hardly offset the increase in unemployment that will be caused when outdoor work is stopped. With the factories eliminated the responsibility of finding employment for the army of unemployed will depend upon the municipalities and the Provincial and Federal Governments. The issue is plain and cannot be dodged by the responsible parties.

In Peterborough the Council has recognised the seriousness of the situation, and is endeavouring to carry out a programme of civic work that will provide positions for many of the involuntarily idle. If they are successful in doing so, the local situation will be considerably improved —otherwise the conditions during the coming winter will not be pleasant, to say the least.

THE TIMBER PROBE.

The Drury Government has been criticised for its Hydro radial investigation as an unnecessary expense, but whatever may be the general opinion of that inquiry, there seems no reason, from the standpoint of the people of Ontario, to quarrel with the results that have followed the timber probe. Already it is reported that the Government has been successful in collecting from five lumber concerns a total of $124,111—an amount that would have never been recovered by the Province had it not been for the investigation ordered by the U. F. O. Government. The probabilities are that settlements will be arrived at with other companies named by the Timbes Commission, and that it will be possible, as a result of the information revealed by the probe, to force other concerns not yet mentioned in the controversy to disgorge some of their profits that belong to the Province.

The Commisison on the results already secured has amply justified its appointment, and the ordering of the investigation is one of the most successful operations that can be placed to the credit of the Drury Government. At the same time, care should be taken that there is no longer a chance for a repetition o fthe practices which deprived Ontario of a large amount of revenue.

"HUMAN CREATURES' LIVES."

Eleven children have been run down by automobiles and killed on the streets of Montreal during the last six months, and not a single driver of these eleven cars has been held on a charge of manslaughter.

It would be utterly unfair to presume that in each of these eleven cases the driver was blameworthy. The parents who allow their children to run foot loose on busy streets, the city which provides inadequate playground accommodation for the youngsters, and the children themselves, who disobey parental orders, must all bear a share of the blame. But after giving full weight to these considerations, there still remains a margin of responsibility for the drivers to shoulder. For it is not a question of shattered cars and damaged property, but of human beings. Little lives snuffed out in a twinkling canont be valued in dollars and cents any more than can the grief of mothers bereaved or playmates desolate.

The average driver of an automobile is as a rule careful, steady, cool-headed, and dependable. He does not tear through the city streets blowing a raucous horn which is a challenge from his advancing Juggernaut rather than a note of warning. He realises that pedestrians have a right to cross the road at street intersections and that children will continue to play upon the streets. On the other hand, there are a large number of drivers who have no more right to be at the wheel of a car than they have to carry dynamite through the crowded streets. They are unfitte, by temperament, by training, and by habits to drive. They are a danger to the community, and the State that allows them to run amok in town and country streets is culpably negligent in the performance of its duties.

Pedestrians have been long suffering in the past. They wait sometimes for considerable periods while chauffeurs with empty cars demand right-of-way before them at the street crossings. They show due humility when a high-powered limousine screams its approach. Yet they demand a little consideration. They will not put up with cars driven at the rate of thirty-five miles an hour that send children scurrying to safety —and laugh or swear at them if they do not get out of the way quick enough.

Eleven children were killed in six months by licensed and unlicensed drivers. It is a terrifying prospect for the children, and it suggests an indifference on the part of the authorities, that is reprehensible. —Montreal Star.

CROP REPORT

Following is a summary of reports made by the Agricultural Representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:—

The weather recently has been all that could be desired for corn cutting, silo filling, potato digging and general fall work on the farm.

Essex states that portion of the corn crop aready husked, has ripened in excellent condition.

The corn borer has been doing injury to the crop in Bruce, and is reported to be operating to some extent as far east as Victoria county Kent also reports that this pest has been doing much harm to late corn, more especially in the Chatham district. Norfolk says that the borer has been so bad on some of the late maturing corn that some factories are refusing a good deal of it on that account.

Hay is being bought in Bruce for $18 a ton and baled for shipment to Manitoulin Island. The Huron representative says that he was talking to a man recently who has 200 tons of hay to sell. He also tells of another farmer who got three tons of hay per acre from ten tons of timothy, and who recently made a second cutting which averaged a ton per acre—a most unusual experience for the district.

The Port Arthur representative ays that were given second cut red clover is found to be good in both yield and quality. Where examined for seed the crop promises to be of excellent quality also.

Buckwheat as a rule is a good crop taking the Province over, the grain being plump and satisfactory.

Elgin considers apples as being of poorer quality than usual. Evaporators in that county are saving 40c a cwt.

Livestock generally are being marketed slowly. Huron reports some sales and Bruce states that two carloads of steers averaging in weight around 1,700 lbs., were recently shipped from Lucknow to Great Britain.

Lanark reports that cheese sold on the Perth board during the week at 14 1-2 c a lb., the lowest price received for some time. The price on the Peterboro board was 15 1-4c

But few hogs are being marketed generally speaking; Elgin reports some shipments during the week. Prices range from $8.75 to $9.25.

Many well attended school fairs have been held during the last two weeks, and on most occasions the weather was all that could be desired.

Norfolk describes the acreage of fall wheat as about an average, and says that the crop was got in under ideal conditions. Huron says a large area has been sown. Peterboro places the acreage at about normal.

Norfolk is of opinion that there is now a surplus of farm labor, and Durham also says there are plenty of men for the work required.

so the public of the entire world would have the oportunity to ascertain this widely known defendant's guilt or innocence.

"The tesimony heard shows that during the whole afternoon there went on, let us charitably say, festivities. Men and women were coming and going so that witnesses are are unable to say who were the occupants at any particular hour.

"Much liquor was drunk and the complaining witness in particular was in an inebriated condition.

"Miss Rappe, according to the picture I have tried to draw of the event, went into room 1219 of this hotel, followed, without previous conversation, by the defendant.

"They remained in there about ¾ of an hour, according to Miss Zoh Prevost's testimony. No sounds were heard by the rest of the party.

"Then the complaining witness and Miss Prevost made a clamour at the door which was opened by the defendant, and these two ladies entered the room.

"They found Miss Rape lying on bed, fully clothed and apparently in agony. She was clutching at her clothing and with the assistance of her women companions she was completely disrobed. I thought some of the torn garments might bear on the point at issue, but from the prosecution's own witnesses it appears they must have been torn in being removed."

Assistant District Attorney Isadore Golden interrupted with the assertion that the evidence showed one of the garments must have been torn off.

The court said that he could not see any significance in certain other testimony introduced by the prosecution.

"He Corset" Latest.

PARIS, Sept. 28.—(United Press). —Georges Carpentier has adopted the "he corset"—the newest thing in wear for males.

From time immemorial, Frenchmen have worn the old-fashioned "galluses." During the war they discovered the advantage of the belt as worn by Americans. But the manufacturers went the Americans one better, and are making them about four inches wide, in fancy stamped leather or embroidered canvas and advertising them as "a great aid to the manly form."

Maurice Chevalier, the famous comedian, has also adopted the new style.

A Royal Commuter.

PARIS, Sept. 28.—(United Press). —King Alfonso of Spain has joined the ranks of royal air commuters. An air taxi, designed for his personal use, has been completed by a French firm. The machine will make 130 miles an hour and bears the royal coat-of-arms. Jaille, a well-known French pilot, will act as chauffeur.

HINT TO PROFITEERS.

PARIS, Sept. 28.—(United Press). —The all-night Monmartre dancing joints have hit upon a new supplement for their bills, which already included cover charge, luxury tax, obligatory bottle of champagne, and sometimes the date. In several cases it has been worked as follows: Tired business man takes wife to "see life." He isn't fond of dancing. Sleek young man in evening dress respectfully offers to dance with "madam." As a lark, "madam" dances. When the tired business man gets the bill it includes the item, "Dance for madam, 20 francs."

Fingerprint Tourists.

PARIS, Sept. 28.—(United Press). —If a project just announced by the Perfect of Police, M. Leullier, is approved by the Ministry of the Interior, every tourist coming to Paris for an extended visit will have to submit to fingerprinting before he, or she, can crculate without let or hindrance in this town of joy and light. As the law stands now, every visitor who intends to remain two weeks in France must obtain a carte d'identite, or certificate of identity, from the Perfecture of Police. French protests have induced the Reform-Perfect, as M. Leullier is known, to propose the institution of a new form of carte d'identite, which will include the holder's photograph and his, or her, digital impression. It will apply to foreigners as well as to natives.

ELECTION NEWS

DENIES DRAYTON WILL BE PASSED BY IN KINGSTON.

KINGSTON, September 29 (Canadian Press). — Referring to an article in the Toronto Globe, that Premier Meighen may personally have to find a seat for Sir Henry Drayton, as the Conservatives of Kingston, which constituency Sir Henry now represents, have made other arrangements, the Kingston Daily Standard publishes the following to-day:

"The Standard is in a position to say that there is absolutely no foundation for the statements in The Globe. There has been no meeting of Kingston Conservatives as yet, and no action whatever has been taken. Throughout the city, in both Conservative and Liberal ranks, there is a strong feeling in favour of General Ross for the Dominion House in the event that Sir Henry Drayton decides to run in another constituency, but no action has been taken, nor will any be taken until it is first learned what Sir Henry intends to do."

FIVE LABOR CANDIDATES.

MONTREAL, Sept. 29.—(Canadian Press.)—Alfred Mathieu, president of the Labor Party of Canada, Quebec section, stated yesterday that it was definitely decided to put five candidates in the field for the forthcoming federal elections. He added that the names of these candidates would not be given out before the annoucement of the date of the elections.

WOMEN SUPPORTERS OF MEIGHEN ORGANISE.

OTTAWA, September 29 (Canadian Press). — The Women's National Liberal and Conservative Association, successor to the Women's Win-the-War Association, which gave material aid to the Union Government in 1917, came into being at a meeting here yesterday.

It has one aim—to elect two supporters of the Meighen Government in Ottawa. To accomplish that end, complete ward organisations will be formed to carry on an election campaign of education and propaganda to influence the woman vote of the city.

KIRBY NOT ELIGIBLE

WINDSOR, Ont., Sept. 29.—(Canadian Press)—An aspirant for the honor of contesting North Essex against William C. Kennedy has been removed, according to a member of the executive of th Coservative Associatio. Barrister F. Kirby, who, it was announced, was one of three "possible candidates", is ineligible to accept nomination, it is claimed because he does not reside in Canada, although being in business at Windsor.

POSTERS URGE THAT EGGS BE BROUGHT FOR MEIGHEN

MONTREAL, Sept. 29.—(Canadian Press).—Posters are being distributed about this city bearing the legend: "Meighen is coming. Bring Eggs."

Liberals of prominence and others declare that no Liberals are behind the printing and distribution of this literature and that there is no intention on the part of Liberals to do anything to cause even the slightest disturbance at the Monument National on Friday, when the Premier is scheduled to speak.

THE LITTLE WHITE COTTAGE AT LAST.

Chapter 75.

It seemed as if Kent had been reading my thoughts.

"The cottage is ours at last, Babs. The papers were signed and everything settled up today," he told me eagerly one evening when I greeted him at the front door.

"At last, Kent—oh, I'm so glad," I declared fervently.

He slipped off his overcoat and hung it in the hall closet. Then he followed me into the living room.

My mind had rushed on into the future and I longed to jump immediately into the spring or in some way lessen the time before our home in the country would become a reality. I had waited so long already.

"Do you think we will have to wait until May, Babs? Couldn't we manage to go soon—maybe next month?" he suggested.

I rushed over to him and threw my arms around his neck. I just burst into tears. I couldn't help it. I just sobbed out all my pent-up longings on Kent's shoulder.

Kent was distracted. He held me close and patted the back of my head as I buried my face on his shoulder and let great, foolish tears of relief and thankfulness run down his collar. He tried to comfort me. Poor man, he had only told me of something which he thought I would be overjoyed to hear, and I was weeping copiously. I smiled and gulped back the tears and kissed him fondly. He glanced at me uneasily and looked decidedly nonplussed. His face was a human interrogation point.

"We won't go until May, Babs dear, if you don't want to," he consoled.

"Oh, Kent—now—now! Let's go right now," I ejaculated.

I saw the corner of a white handkerchief sticking up out of his breast pocket, and I pulled it out and started drying my tears away with it.

"But I thought," Kent started doubtfully.

"Yes, I know, that's why I was crying. I—I was so—so happy," I explained fervently. "I've wanted to go, wanted to go so badly ever since that awful man—and Nancy—I want to get away. I want to get out in the country." I put my arms around Kent's neck again and hugged him tightly for emphasis.

The black cloud of incomprehension and doubt faded from his face like a fog bank before a dispelling breeze. My words quickly swept away the tense expression of fear from his features. He took a long deep breath and a sigh of relief escaped his smiling lips.

"Well, I'll be darned!" he declared vehemently and with evident relief. Then he took his handkerchief and wiped every last trace of my tears away tenderly himself.

"There now—don't cry another bit, you dearest, funny, little wife," he teased, and pressed a kiss on each tear reddened eyelid.

"How long have you been feeling like this?" he demanded. "Why didn't you tell me before, dearest?"

"I thought we couldn't and I—I didn't want to worry you, but I'm so fearful of something else happening to the boy here in the city."

"Don't ever, ever keep your worries hidden from me again," he commanded earnestly, his arms around me.

"No, Kent! I never will again," I promised. "I have been too unhappy doing it this time."

"And, Babs dear, how do you like this?" Kent asked, watching my face as he drew some papers from his pocket. "Do you see your name there? Do you know it means that the little cottage belongs to you and that you can move right in the very minute you want to?"

"Oh, Kent," I exclaimed, the tears dimming my eyes so I could hardly see the writing.

"But you can't have it if you cry—not one bit more," he teased, and then he gathered me in his arms and declared that he really ought to spank me but that he guessed he would kiss me instead.

Tomorrow—Waiting and Dreaming.

SAYS ACID STOMACH CAUSES INDIGESTION

Excess of hydrochloric acid sours the food and forms gases.

Undigested food delayed in the stomach decays, or rather, ferments the same as food left in the open air, says a noted authority. He also tells us that Indigestion is caused by Hyper-acidity, meaning, there is an excess of hydro-chloric acid in the stomach which prevents complete digestion and starts food fermentation. Thus everything eaten sours in the stomach much like garbage sours in a can, forming acrid fluids and gases which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. Then we feel a heavy, lumpy misery in the chest, we belch up gas, we eructate sour food or have heartburn, flatulence, water-brash or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead, get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and drink while it is effervescing and furthermore, to continue this for a week. While relief follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used by thousands of people for stomach trouble wth excellent results.

Races and Sports.

A good programme of races and other sports brought to a happy finish the most successful School Fair yet held in North Cavan district. The executive in charge of these Rural Fairs consists of the manager, Mr. Patterson, of Port Hope; the secretaries, the Misses Oliver and Leghite, and Messrs. Snowdon, McGill and Galbraith, who judge the poultry, stock, vegetables, etc.

The judges for fancy work, flowers, baking, etc., vary with different localities.

At the Millbrook Fair Mrs. Sculthorpe and Mrs. Drury, of Port Hope, acted in that capacity; at Bethany, Janetville and Ida, Misses May Needham and Pearl Burnham are doing the work. Two others will be ready to carry on this interesting task as the Fairs move on to other townships.

The ladies of St. John's Church served an excellent hot dinner on the Fair Grounds at Ida, and Mr. McDowell, of Cavan, had a booth, where ice cream cones, soft drinks and confections had an almost uninterrupted sale throughout the afternoon.

Under normal conditions the practice is to place orders for steel rails and accessories in the early spring, but in view of the existing situation, the department announces that the Government will authorize the Canadian National and Grand Trunk to place their orders in the immediate future.

In addition to the repair work now being done in railway shops, it is the intention of the Government to authorize the management to place orders for rebuilding and repair of freight equipment wherever it is feasible, providing the Department of Labor, upon investigation, believes the local conditions may be thereby relieved.

The Government will also bring the question of unemployment officially before the C. P. R. management with a view of having it act along similar lines, and thus assist in steadying the industrial situation. The Department of Railways states that they confidently anticipate the co-operation of this immense concern, in view of its known public-spirited policy.

PIQUED AT DELAY.

VICTORIA, B. C., Sept. 29.—(Canadian Press).—Stating that the problem is really a national one and should be dealt with jointly by all the Governments, Hon. J. W. DeB. Farris, Attorney-General and Minister of Labor for British Columbia, yesterday expressed disappointment at the delay of Federal authorities in dealing with unemployment.

"Certainly we have done all we can to press the urgency of the situation," Hon. Mr. Farris said. "The conditions will be especially serious here in British Columbia, because of the tendency of the unemployed to congregate in our coast cities."

The Attorney-General held a conference with J. D. McNiven, Deputy Minister of Labor, who has just returned from Ottawa, where he reported the result of the Provincial Government's survey on unemployment.

MILE OF FILM SHOWS BATTLE OF JUTLAND.

By CLYDE A. BEALS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Sept. 29. — The film version of the battle of Jutland, in which the British grand fleet for the first time succeeded in engaging the German grand fleet, and which resulted in the return of the Germans to their stronghold, is now being shown in London.

One mile of film is used in showing the battle, and the miniature ships are manoeuvred with such smoothness and such realistic effect that the picture goes far toward giving the illusion that one is seeing the battle from high overhead.

The withering gunfire, the paths of torpedoes swishing through the water, the rapid wheeling of a column of ships to escape the torpedoes, manoeuvres to gain position and races to head off a column of ships, together with rearguard action to defend the escaping German main fleet, all interspersed with occasional pictures of actual ships at sea, give a highly realistic effect.

The film has been made with the aid of Major-General Sir George Ashton, formerly a professor at the Royal Naval College, Greenwich, England. The model ships were moved throughout by hand, and to move each one an inch and maintain the illusion and the smoothness of the film, it was necessary to move each sixteen times. It is estimated that 3,000,000 motions of the models had to be made. To prepare the data required two years, and to make the film, one year.

NEXT MOVE IN WATER CHARGES WILL BE DOWN

SO PREDICTS UTILITIES COMMISSIONER ROBERT HICKS IN PARLEY WITH COUNCIL IN COMMITTEE.

"We feel that the next move in water rates charges is going to be down instead of up," declared Chairman Hicks, of the Utilities Commission in discussion last evening with Council on the matter of hydrant service and charges for fire protection.

The commissioners, all of whom were present, saw no reason why four hydrants in protection of the Exhibition property, should not be installed, on the assumption that their rental wucld be paid for either by the Exhibition Board or by the city. Ald. Whitehouse thought the latter would be willing to pay for the service.

Regarding the request from North Monaghan residents on south side of Lansdowne street, east of Lock street, for water service, Commissioner Robert Hicks explained the Utilities' policy of charging the out-of-city consumers for connections with the city's mains and also charging them 50 p.c. in excess of rates to city consumers. But in this case there is no water main at present for city service, and the Commission did not wish to enter into any arrangement with North Monaghan which might not harmonize with Council's ideas or plans. Consequently they have deferred replying to North Monaghan's request.

It appears there are not sufficient houses in this neighborhood within the city limits to assure a revenue from consumers commensurate with the cost of laying a water main.

No definite action was taken by Council.

Fire Protection Charges.

Commissioner Hicks here suggested that Council have an independent engineering survey of our waterworks system so that Council might be satisfied that the charges against the city for protection are reasonable and thus avoid possible friction.

The Commissioners themselves having had such a test made, Alderman Hay objected to the city incurring the expense of a second survey, and the matter was left at that, confiding in the Commissioners' own survey.

Incidentally, Mr. Hicks explained that the Utilities had settled that a charge for fire protection of 33 p.c., the cost of operating the whole waterworks system was equitable.

Cheaper Here.

In regard to Kingston's claim that that city has a separate agreement with Hydro-Electric for power exclusively favorable to the limestone city, Commissioner Hicks understood that Hydro charges to Utilities were altogether standard in principle. Peterborough, he added, gets cheaper power than most localities by reason of its natural generating advantages.

Commissioner Sisson—"Kingstonians pay more than Peterborough consumers for domestic service."

UTILITIES TO SHARE IN AID

tem for improving street illumination.

Commissioner Hicks—"If Alderman Crowe will give Mr. Fisk the names of such places he'll be glad to write them for information as to condition under which such a system is operated.

Ald. Crowe agreed to this.

For Central Park.

In illuminating Central Park, Mr. Fisk thought that with magnetite arc lamps all around the place incandescent lamps would look sickly. "You'll have a magnetite lamp released from the bridge, he added, why not erect it in the centre of the park's cross paths? Such a light would illuminate the whole park pretty thoroughly."

This suggestion was approved of generally.

Nicholls Oval

To Ald. Whitehouse's hope that Nicholls Oval be lighted up at night Mr. Fisk replied, "That is simply up to the city to order and pay for the service; there's no electrical difficulty about wiring."

More Lights

Ald. Phelan put it up to Ald. Morrison, chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, that two lights are badly needed on the Monaghan Road, one at the head of Cedar street and another at Walnut street.

Ald. Morrison will probably recommend these lights to Council, together with another on Hunter street, opposite Mervin's butcher store.

There were present Mayor A. A. McIntyre presiding, Aldermen Frank Whitehouse, Nagel Phelan, G. L. Hay, H. Gainey, R. Morrison, Joseph Crowe and G. N. Gordon. Also Utilities Commissioners R. Hicks E. F. Mason; C. E. Sisson; Manager H. O. Fisk, Ross Dobbin superintendent waterworks; and George Henderson, accountant for the Commissioners.

BURNHAM CONSERVATIVE CHOICE

cause I was not subservient."

A member must always remember that it is upon the people the fabric of the country rests, he said. "If I made mistakes, and I have made mistakes, I would ask you to remember I was not afraid to do what I thought was right in the interests of the people."

Facing a Crisis.

Mr. Burnham's sincerity was first referred to by J. F. Strickland. "Canada is facing one of the greatest crisis she has faced in the past ten years," said Mr. Strickland. In 1911 she faced the Reciprocity pact. To-day, he said, condtions are similar to them. It is a period of adjustment following the war. "Is a low tariff in the interests of Canada at this time?" he asked. "I say it is not." If the tariff was lowered, a return to conditions as existed in 1874-78 would take place and Canada would find herself with no work for the mechanic, no market for the farmer. He referred to a meeting in Millbrook in that period when Hon. Alexander Mackenzie offered only this solution to the economic situation, "Work harder and eat less."

"If you want those conditions, go to the polls and support the candidates of Hon. Mackenzie King or Hon. T. A. Crerar." During the war, the speaker said, Mr. King could not get a seat in Canada and went to the States, where he found a situation that was "bomb-proof." (Applause.) "History repeats itself. William Lyon McKenzie once fled to the United States and in the last five year history has repeated itself."

The Tariff Issue.

The Liberal member assured his electors, Mr. Strickland said, that he stood for protection of their industries, but at the very first session supported the Fielding amendment, which was virtually the old Reciprocity pact. When brought up on this point in the public press, Mr. Strickland charged that he avoided pointed questions by another question.

"I will support the tariff policy of the Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen through thick and thin," pledged Mr. Strickland. He said politics should be fought cleanly and decently and asked if he was the candidate for the people to get behind him on a policy that means everything to Canada and its people at the present moment.

Support Government.

Before the vote was taken, Mr. John Edgar told the convention that till then Mr. Strickland was the only candidate who had pledged his support to Hon. Arthur Meighen and his protection policy. Mr. Burnham promptly refuted the allegation that he was not willing to pelge his support to the government "I don't think there's any question about that. I said so in the papers, and I say so now. I am a supporter of the Meighen government. To whoever is selected I will give my loyal suport."

There was a great deal of controversy over the best and most equitable means of recording the vote. A standing vote did not prove satisfactory and at last, a ballot was taken. Mr. Burnham's scrutineers were A. Reynolds and E. F. Reid, those of Mr. Strickland Charles Ackerman and W. J. Hancock.

Mr. Burnham secured 191 votes and Mr. Strickland 152.

"Let me thank you for your confidence. Let me remind you we are all Liberal-Conservatives again and all must lend a hand in the coming fight. I want a list of volunteer speakers so the riding can be flooded with speakers," said J. H. Burnham, amid rousing cheers.

J. F. Strickland thanked the convention for placing his name before them as candidate and he pledged his loyal support to Mr. Burnham, the Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen and a policy of protection.

Resolutions Passed.

At the convention the following resoltion, moved by S. T. Medd, was adopted:

"Resolved, that this meeting express its confidence in the Right Honorable Arthur Meighen, Leader of the Liberal-Conservatives of Canada, whose statesman-like qualities have earned for him the respect of not only all classes of Canadians, but of the whole British Empire, and who has shown himself so eminently worthy of the great trust imposed in him by the people of Canada, and who, we feel, will uphold the principles of the National Policy, which has brought prosperity to Canada, and which policy he has so ably expounded.

W. R. Morris moved a resolution pledging the support of West Peterborough Liberal-Conservatives to the Protection policy and W. G. Howden moved a resoluton expressing confidence in G. Howard Ferguson as leader of the Ontario Liberal-Conservatives.

Amendments to the constitution of the Association were passed, leaving the date of the annual meeting to be fixed by the executive, providing for at least one vice-president to be a woman, and opening to them other offices to which they might be appointed, decreasing the numbers of the executive by not having past members and past president members, but providing instead for ten members to be appointed by executive.

President Dr. M. A. Morrison in a brief address, said; "We cannot at this time afford to trade horses. We need stable government in Canada. We should have not only a tariff for revenue but a good deal higher. I think we endorse a government that will stand by the policy laid down by that old chief of the Conservative party, Sir John A. Macdonald.

U.S. PREPARING FOR ARMS PARLEY

ARMAMENT RELATED TO NEARLY ALL GOVT. DEPARTMENTS

By A. L. BRADFORD,
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—All departments of the Goverament, under orders of President Harding, are hard at work tabulating a mass of information for use of the American delegates at the conference on limitation of armament.

Officials have found that the armament question is related to virtually all phases of Governmental activity.

While the State Department is trying to clear up some diplomatic problems preparatory to the conference, the War and Navy Departments are compiling the latest information regarding fighting forces of the world.

The cost of war and preparedness is being tabulated for all nations by the Treasury. The effect of armament limitation on commerce and labor is being studied by Secretary of Commerce Hoover and Secretary of Labor Davis. The drain of war on the coal and oil reserves of the world will be shown by the Interior Department, while the Agricultural Department has figures revealing the effect of the last war on food production.

The greatest care is being exercised in picking advisors and experts for the American delegation who are thoroughly versed in every angle of all these problems.

With these physical preparations—even down to provision for the entertainment and comfort of the various delegations—being rushed, Secretary of State Hughes, head of the American delegation was beginning to see complete victory ahead for holding the conference in accord with American principles and plans.

Hughes has had two big difficulties to overcome in the negotiations he has conducted to pave the way for the successful opening of the Washington conference. These were:

1.—The desire of Great Britain, prompted by the Dominion Premiers, to hold a preliminary conference on the Far Eastern situation with the United States and Japan in London, a plan which was finally dropped because of Secretary Hughes' insistence that there be only one conference, and that that be held in Washington.

2.—Japan's hesitance to agree to a discussion among all the powers, in the conference, of problems in the Pacific and Far East, where Nippon holds she has a special position.

In accepting President Harding's formal invitation to the conference, Japan noted reservations to the proposed discussion of Pacific and Far Eastern problems, and this question has not been completely settled yet.

SYDNEY, Sept. 29. — (United Press). — Meat may be high elsewhere in the world, it is not in Australia. Imagine fillet de mignon steak at 22 cents a pound retail — according to the price fixed by the Profiteering Prevention Court—rump teak at 20 cents, sirloin at 18 cents, short loin chops at 16 cents, leg of mutton at 13 cents and shoulders at 11 cents. This does not take into consideration the depreciation in exchange. If that is done, these prices must be reduced by about 15 to 18 per cent.

CHIEF THOMPSON DENIES CHARGE AND THINKS POLITICS INVOLVED

DECLARES ACCUSATIONS ARE GROUNDLESS AND WELCOMES PROBE TO FREE HIM FROM SUSPICION.

(Special Despatch to The Examiner.)

WINDSOR, Sept. 29.—Immediate investigation into charges of irregularities made against Chief of Police Daniel Thompson at Monday night's Council meeting by Alderman Frank J. Mitchell will be welcomed by the Chief, he stated today. Chief Thompson flatly denied any of the accusations made at the Council meeting and said that an investigation will result in freeing him from any suspicion.

In connection with the direct charge made by Ald. Mitchell concerning the alleged disappearance of liquor from the Police Station following a seizure at the home of Henry Horne, 1355 Dougall avenue, the Chief stated that there was no ground for any such accusations being made and that he knows of no reason why Ald. Mitchell should condemn him for neglecting to raid the disorderly house, as was charged at the meeting.

Detailed Men to Watch House.

"Ald. Mitchell called my attention to his suspicions that a disorderly house was being run at 1355 Dougall avenue and I instructed my inspector to detail a constable in plain clothes to watch the house. He was placed on this duty on the night of April 15 and was stationed there, keeping the house under surveillance every night until June 22. We did not obtain any direct evidence that liquor was being sold in the house, but the officer's report showed that the house was being conducted suspiciously. A short time later we carried out a raid and seized a quantity of liquor. This was taken to the Police Station and a warrant was sworn out for the arrest of Henry Horne. We could not locate him as he had fled to the United States and knew that we were hunting for him.

Obliged to Make Return.

"A small quantity of liquor was returned to the house as a portion of what we seized was owned by a Miss Lawson, who at that time was rooming at the house. She had it there legally, but before we returned it we made a full investigation. However, we could not prove that she was keeping it there for sale and we were obliged to return it."

The Chief further stated that he talked the case over at that time with Ald. Mitchell, who, he said, advised him to return the liquor to Miss Lawson in view of the fact that there was no information in police hands against her.

"This liquor was released by the inspector and handed over to Miss Lawson by one of my officers. She took it home in an automobile. The other liquor, which belonged to Horne, is still in the store room, where it was taken at the time of the seizure," the Chief said.

Containers Reported Missing.

Two containers of liquor belonging to Miss Lawson were reported missing, the Chief added. He said that the fact that this quantity of liquor was missing first came to his attention this morning as a result of the charges made against him at the Council meeting.

"It was either missing at the time it was taken to the Police Station or when it was being taken out. It probably never reached the Police Station, and I know nothing whatever about it, as all the liquor was handled by my officers."

Chief Thompson stated that he is in a quandary as to the reason for the attack on him in view of his fearless record of service as Chief of the Police of Windsor. He intimated that the Alderman's attack may be directed as a good political move or the result of Judge George Smith's removal from the Police Commission.

Following is a verbatim report of the charges made against Chief of Police Daniel Thompson of Windsor, formerly of Peterborough, by Ald. Frank J. Mitchell before the Windsor City Council, as published by The Border Cities Star, Windsor:

"On Dougall avenue, next my home, there lived some very disorderly people," said Ald. Mitchell. "They first became obnoxious about last Christmas. I made many complaints to the Chief of Police about the condition of the place I speak of and the actions of the inmates. The Chief promised numberless times to look into the matter, but I could get no action. Finally I got a search warrant and somebody—I suspect the police themselves—gave them a tip. They pulled the raid, that night, and the police sat in the house and had a fine old time with all they wanted to drink. They left after spending some time there and taking no action.

Claims Raid Tipped Off.

"Next day I met the man of the house I refer to. He was kind enough to tell me who tipped him off to the impending raid. 'I had lots for them to drink when they came,' he said. Seven months elapsed with things going on as before. People drove up to the place at all times of the night and left in various stages of intoxication. Again I brought the matter to the attention of the Chief. He got a great number of reports from some famous sleuth he had on the job, but that was all he did.

"Finally, without any warning, I got several patrolmen, and after taking care that they did not get to the telephone, drove them to the house in my automobile. They did not go into the house as I told them there was a party in progress and that if they waited it would not be very long until some people would come out in an intoxicated condition. This proved to be correct. Pretty soon two men came out—two Detroit men with two other Detroit men's wives—and they attempted to drive off. The constables arrested them and entered the house where they seized nine gallon jugs of whiskey, five cases of Irish and 20 or 30 cases of beer.

"The two women and the two men were taken to the Police Station, and despite the fact that we got a confession from one of them in 15 minutes, it was three hours before I could prevail upon the officers in charge to lock them up. Next day they all confessed to the Chief, who admitted that he had enough evidence from them to convict the house.

"But I must not forget about what happened to the liquor which was seized," Ald. Mitchell continued. "It was driven down to the station in the patrol wagon, and while it was being carried into the building officers on the outside were busily engaged stealing some of it and putting it into a Ford car.

"The next move in the case was when the owners of the house, through their Windsor attorney, attempted to have me withdraw the case against them. They even tried to bribe me. Much to my surprise I found a few days later that W. H. Furlong, Windsor barrister, got in touch with the Chief and had the liquor returned to the people without a court order, although it had been seized by order of the court. It was returned to the people who went to live on Elm avenue.

"Last Saturday I took a witness with me and called at the house in question," said Ald. Mitchell. "There the woman admitted that the liquor had been returned to her without going into court. 'But,' said she, 'they stole two cases from me while it was at the Police Station.' She then told me of another seizure which was supposed to have been in safe keeping at the Police Station, which, she claimed, was interfered with. I found that half of it was gone. I thereupon came to the conclusion that it was time something was done and decided to take the bull by the horns."

That was the end of Ald. Mitchell's story. He then made some general observations regarding the police administration of the city.

Sees Justice To Few.

"It is my opinion that Chief Thompson is the biggest joke that ever was put over on Windsor," he declared. 'He is here giving justice to a select few. The ratepayers of this city should surely have some say in the administration of justice. We have, now, a 'kangaroo court' giving justice to a few people and a few only. It is run upon the most autocratic lines imaginable. It is time the City Council took action to bring such a state of affairs to an end. We have tripped the Chief upon a small thing, but it may lead to bigger things," Ald. Mitchell concluded.

ANNUAL SUNDAY SCHOOL RALLY —SPLEND D SERMON

KEENE, Sept. 30.— The annual Sunday school rally service was observed at the Methodist church, Keene last Sunday evening and was a splendid success. The scholars of the school with their teachers, occupied the centre front seats of the church, while Rev. W. E. Honey, pastor of the church, and Mr. David Edwards, superintendent of the Sunday school, with Rev. Vose of Indian River, occupied the platform. Mr. Vose gave a splendid address during the course of the programme, on the six loyalties. The following comprises the address as it was delivered:

Loyalty.

The topic assigned to me in this address is Loyalty, in its relation in six subjects. I will endeavor to define the term loyalty. My faithful dictionary tells me that devotedness and faithfulness are within the scope of its meaning while honesty also has a place in its definition. Taking these three terms in their meanings—1st, devotion, which is the focusing of our interests and energy, etc., on something illustrated in life:

2nd—Faithfulness, which some of us scarcely know the meaning to live it. Faithfulness—to be truer than finest steel, yielding to no bandishment, no flattery, no cunning to deviate us from our true self.

Last by honesty. Well honesty is not this: On one occasion a famous humorist was a guest of the Savoy club in London. For the text of his after dinner speech he chose the subject honesty. He related that when a mere boy he saw a cart in front of a store laden with watermelons, and no one about, on the spur of the moment he took one and ran away. "I soon got my teeth into the melon," but instantly a queer sensation assaulted me. My resolve was shaken, I went back to the cart and—and—I took a ripe one. Having thus explained something about the meaning of loyalty, I turn to its application to home.

Home—The place in all the world where he and I should be sure of each other; it should be the place where there is sweet communion, the spot where expressions of tenderness gush out, without any sense of awkwardness and without any dread of ridicule; (a) the average boy and girl is true to home and loyal, and generally does not need telling, but some possess a finer sense of loyalty than others. This loyalty does not consist in merely saying: Mother, I love you, just because meals are ready, etc. Loyalty to your father and mother demands sacrifice and plenty of it. Why be loyal to your home? It is the place you will turn when friends forsake, when the world is cold and when your own soul is burdened. Rev. David Haskett, now pastor in Toronto, is never tired of telling of his wonderful mother. "Our mother's hands were blisters," he says, with tears in his eyes, "blisters from work for the sake of me. I love the hands and I love my mother, and better still he tells of how he overheard his mother pleading for his soul one night. Oh, young men and women, and boys and girls be true to your parents. One more word on the home and loyalty. There is no such a thing as loyalty to the future home. I. Borehan leads us into his little palace beautiful and in it he shows us a room, whose window faces the east, the sunrise a room called 'hope,' and there he shows us a little child that is to be, a wonderful child. Then he says: I would like to take every young man in my congregation to that room, and show them the sweet and slumbering and angel-face and I would say, 'Take care when you are making love to the girl of your fancy. That you are securing for the little child that "is to be" a mother capable of maintaining the holy traditions of motherhood, one whom you can set with confidence before the child as the embodiment of all that is pure and noble and unselfish and true, and then, Mr. Borehan says, I should like to show every girl in my congregation the little child that "is to be" in this room, with its eastern window, and as she gazes tenderly into the sleeping face of the child I would say: Take care when you ally yourself with the lover of your fancy that you are securing for the little child that "is to be," a father to whom you may always point with motherly pride and affection, a father whom the child may copy, and in whose safe footprints he may plant his own. Take care, take care, and Mr. Borehan would have both young men and women to remember that whenever they yield to temptation they are striking a more terrible blow to the little child that "is to be" than they can ever do with a clenched fist, and when victory over temptation is won they secure the child a greater heritage. Take tenderest care, very great care of the "little child that is to be" and be loyal to your future home.

3—Loyal to our companions. We have to accept our homes, but we select our companions. These we admit to the inner circle of our acquaintance. We need them, as Bacon in his "essay on friendship" says, to have our thoughts marshalled more orderly when they are turned into words. Friendship demands love and loyalty. You will find Christ a great companion, and say it with all reverence, and if you cannot beloyal to Christ and your companions there is something wrong with your companions. Yes, I thank God for my friends who I know each night remember me before the throne of Grace to be true to your friends and they will be true to you, but I must pass on to the next subject, loyalty to the church. The word church, derived from Greek, 'Kunakon 5, means:

(a) Universal—all believers; (v) churches differing in doctrine, e.g., Roman Catholic, Greek church; (c) National church, as Church of England, etc. We go to church to worship, as public worship seems to be essential to every existence of religion. (a) It strengthens;)b) Channel through which all blessings flow. Why should we be loyal to our church? First, we get a blessing there: 2nd because of its work. Sunday school—If our Christians were to think and consider just what they owe the Sunday school they would be more loyal to it. A child of an intemperate father, just before death, asked two things of him: 1st to give up drinking; 2nd to pray. He knelt but said he could not pray. She prayed and had him reepat the prayer that she had learned in Sunday school. He became very earnest in prayer and when he arose the child was still in death, but he was saved. No man nor woman under value the power and strength that come from association with believers, but even if anyone could get along without the church, they are bound to consider others. Has any man in this world thought of himself alone calamity to see churches closed, services given up. But if you absent yourself from church you're disloyal. Take a share in the work, be loyal to your minister and to your own church. Lastly be loyal to your heavenly Father and Christ. He abideth faithful to us. Why should we be unfaithful to Him.

U. S. FINANCES SUGAR PLANTERS IN MANILA.

MANILA, P.I., Sept. 29.—(United Press). — The Philippine Government is preparing to loan $4,000,000 to sugar planters in the islands to save their sugar crop. Most of last year's crop has not been sold and the planters need money to pay their workmen, whom they owe four months' wages. The annual production of sugar in the Philippines is approximately 225,000 tons, of which more than half goes to the United States.

The Government investment in the industry consists of loans amounting to $17,000,000 granted through the Philippine National Bank to six centrifugal mills organized by Filipino planters.

INADVISABILITY OF HAMPERING TRADE WITH CANADA BY TARIFF IMPRESSED ON UNITED STATES

VISITS OF NEWFOUNDLAND PREMIER AND BRITISH MANUFACTURERS TO PROTEST HAS DEEPENED ALREADY STRONG CONVICTION THAT TARIFF WALL IS UNWISE.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—(Canadian Press.)— Visits of Sir Richard Anderson Squires, premier of Newfoundland, and of prominent British representatives of the "high speed" steel manufacturers for the purpose of setting before the Senate finance committee and high officials of the U. S. government their objections to high tariffs and especially to prohibitory tariffs, have served to deepen the impression, already strong in Congress and the country, of the unwisdom of any tariff policy which will serve to hamper trade relations with Canada. It is unusual for those outside the United States to take direct methods which have been taken in these instances to secure lower rates. It is noteworthy, however, that a mission of prominent men from Cuba has come to this country to oppose high sugar tariffs. The members of this mission have appealed directly to the Sttae department and to members of Congress.

The visit of the Newfoundland Premier, who saw the Prsident, Secretary of State Hughes, Secretary of Commerce Hoover and the Senate finance committee, has been the means of calling public attention not only to the desirability from the United States' standpoint of close trade relations with Newfoundland but it has also served to emphasize the desirability of close relations in commerce with Canada, as well. How much effect it will have on the finance committee is not yet possible to say. The republican membership of this committee is dominated by ultra-high tariff men, although even some of them are concerned lest a political mistake be made by the republicans in putting too high duties on products from other countries. Undoubtedly the heavy current of talk that the tariff measure may be allowed to drift along indefintely is partially accounted for by the fact that many republicans have misgivings about passing a tariff bill at this time, though they feel they cannot escape passing one within the next few months at most.

Sir Richard Squires declined to make a statement concerning his conversation with President Harding and Secretary of Commerce, other than that trade relations were discussed, but before his departure fro Washinfgton gave the following interview.

"The object of my visit to the United States was to pay my compliments to the President and to discuss with him the possibilities of increased commercial relationship between Newfoundland and the U.S. During the war, the tendency of Newfoundland business men was to develop trade relations with U. S. firms, and that U. S. firms desired the new market was evidenced by the aggressive manner in which they went after the business.

"It is a fact that there has never been any discriminatory tariff by Newfoundland against the United States, and this country has always been on the basis of a favored nation.

"During the recent years, when the value of English and continental money largely depreciated, and the value of the U. S. dollar largely appreciated, the Newfoundland tariff gave the United States a great practical preference in that import duty was charged on invoices taxed at par value; that is a pound sterling paid duty on the basis of $4.86, while the U. S. dollar paid duty on the basis of a hundred cents, a very substantial preference for the United States.

"From 1910 to 1920 the trade balance has grown very largely in favour of this country. It is estimated that the imports of Newfoundland from the United States in 1919 were of the value of $20,000,000, an increase of approximately sixteen million in a period of ten years. These exports represented goods made in the United States and secured either directly or through Canadian agencies. The exports from Newfoundland for consumption in the United States were of the value of about three millions dollars in 1919 and consisted aimost exclusively of codfish, herring and cod oil.

"The people of Newfoundland, upon hearing of the possibility of a tariff on these roducts so high as to make their export from Newfoundland to the United States impracticable, felt that the facts with repect to the development of trade between the two countries and the enormus trade balance in favour of the United States, had not been fully placed before the Washington officials. They believed the business men of the United States shared the desire of the Newfoundland business men to develop rather than curtail trade relations.

Among the ancient trade secrets are the Chinese method of making a brilliant vermillion coor, and the Turkish method of inlaying gold or silver on the hardest steel.

What The Mothers' Allowance Act Means To Widows of Peterboro

Corps of Trained Workers Travel Up and Down The Length and Breath of Country, Examining Claims, The Human Note.

One of the activities of Social Service workers, principally women, for which they fought hard for many years, and which has come into commission only within the last twelve months, is the Mothers' Allowance Act. This is a piece of social legislation which is still in the trial stages, but has already justified itself in the short term of its existence.

The commission, which dispenses funds derived partly from the Provincial treasuries and partly from the municipalities where the Act operates, maintains a corps of skilled assistants. There are seventeen of these "visitors" in Ontario, who go up and down the length and breadth of the country, examining claims and reporting on the various uses to which the money is put.

The beneficiaries are regarded as "employees of the Government" in every instance. The allowance is by no means large enough to be a maintenance, and is designed merely to assist women who find themselves in a position where they are unable to look after their children properly and have insufficient funds to clothe and feed their families. A widow with at least two children under the age of fourteen years, or a woman with children and an incapacitated husband is eligible for the allowance, which is rated differently, according to residence in city town or country. A foster parent or grandmother, also, who is unable to sufficiently support children who have been confided to her care, is regarded as a "mother" under the Act.

So that the money expended by Provincial and municipal authorities may be expended to the very best advantage, a considerable amount of supervision is exercised over the beneficiaries. If a woman proves herself to be a satisfactory homemaker and capable of putting the allowance to a good use, no restrictions whatever are placed upon her, but it is only just to those who pay the bill to see that their money is not squandered in foolish ways. And as the welfare of the child is the primary object of the whole innovation, the Government may be said to take the place of the paternal parent with these little wards, for the "visitors" supervise, to a certain extent, their general condition, their health and school attendance. One condition of the gratuity is that the mother shall not be employed away from home for the whole of her time.

There are seventeen of these "visitors" working constantly throughout the Province of Ontario, each with several counties to cover. They had a meeting in Toronto last May, and many curious things were recorded from observations made in their journeyings to and fro. The consensus of opinion, however, was that results achieved from the outlay of money for this purpose far exceeded expectations of the commission. Really marvellous effects achieved from the small allowance were reported in many instances, one in particular being that of a woman in a remote part of the Province who had been put on a "trial" pittance, and, encouraged by the help from an unexpected source, as so many of the women are, exhibited the results of her buying at a subsequent visit. She had expended every cent of the money in a sensible and business-like manner, having bought several suits of coarse but warm underwear for her little flock, fixed up two hats, purchased staples for her larder at the best possible prices, and generally proved herself a worthy beneficiary of paternal-minded authorities.

The human note that creeps in everywhere is manifested in many instances. There was the woman who appeared to be in the most dire poverty, who, upon receiving her initial cheque, immediately requested permission to hire help to assist her in cleaning house; the lady who insisted that several dollars weekly was a necessary item of expenditure for music lessons for her eight-year-old child; the one who admitted to a monthly ice-cream bill of nearly five dollars, and the tale of the romantic widow which went something like this: This woman had a few acres of land, but not much else. She had several children and was entitled through illness and inability to support them to receive the allowance. She became acquainted with a gentleman who professed a fond attachment for her and offered to put her little patch of land into crops. Upon investigation by local authorities, it was discovered that the extent of his labors had been confined to the sowing of one acre of buckwheat and the planting of an acre of potatoes, perhaps on the principle of providing enough spuds and pancakes for the coming winter. It being a rule that no beneficiary shall have only one male boarder, this lady was given the choice of renouncing her unselfish admirer or doing without the allowance. Prudence triumphed over affection and she bade him farewell.

In a little town recently where the cheques were a few days late in arriving, the "visitor" was confronted with many complaints from waiting beneficiaries, but she happened on one woman who said she had never previously realized just what she would do without the help received in this way, and was proportionately grateful.

Something that might supply a side-light on the selfishness of individuals towards those whom Governments are trying to assist in every possible way might be gleaned from the experience of the elderly woman who had one child stricken with fever. Unable to attend him herself, as she had to go out working every day, she engaged a nurse for two weeks only. The resulting heavy bill was scrupulously paid to the last penny, by some extra overtime washing done by the big, red hands, with only a little remark to the "visitor" that "she might have taken a little bit off, I think."

How true it is "that one half of the world doesn't know how the other half lives." How many think or care of one like the widow who had so much sickness and death in her family that she was compelled to put a mortgage on her home to pay the resultant $700 bill for doctors and hospital? And the selfishness that permitted the girl with a good salary to pay one dollar per week for board at home while her mother took in washing. The balance of the young lad's comfortable salary went to chiffon stockings and fur chokers in their seasons.

But all is not gloom at the offices of the Mothers' Allowance Commission. There is a brighter side to this, as to all charitable endeavors, and a little romance which took place in a far-away section of the Province illustrates the omnipotence of sentiment in most human relations. Here a young widow with the necessary two children applied for an allowance. She, however, had $1,000 in the bank and owned a small cottage. The thousand dollars, of course, would preclude the possibility of her getting the gratuity, as such a sum is considered to be a "liquid asset," but the "visitor," realizing that circumstances were such as to entitle the widow to the allowance, she made the suggestion that the lady should take part of this money and use it to fix up her cottage, which had fallen into a state of considerable disrepair. In this way, she might improve the appearance of her house to a great exent, and also become eligible for the allowance.

About three months later the "visitor" met this young widow in a railway carriage. The lady reported having taken the advice tendered her, expending some hundreds of dollars on improving her cottage, so that she had received several offers of a good price for the sale of same. She also said that she would appreciate very much if she could get the allowance for the preceding two months anyway. She appeared to have something on her mind, and, after a little pensive consideration, remarked that as she wanted to be quite fair with the commission, she wished to say that she was going to be married. The "visitor," being a woman, saw at once where the allowance would come in very handily in creating a trousseau, and began to consider ways and means by which the little woman might be accomodated. Finally she said: "Why don't you go and see the Chairman of the Mothers' Allowance Commission in your district? He is the very man to help you in this case." The widow blushed very becomingly, and said: "But he is the man I am going to marry." And it transpired that she had been quite unknown to this gentleman until she had interviewed him some months previously, with regard to her allowance, when he heard her story, sympathized with her loneliness, and forgetting all about the elder Mr. Weller's historical admonitions in regard to "widders," finally proposed to her. Whether the widow went to live in his comfortable home or whether she sold her own renovated cottage, is not recorded, nor is it known if the Mothers' Allowance Commission provided any of the subsequent trousseau.

In August of this year the sum of $89,000 was expended in the operations of the Mothers' Allowance Act, to a total of 2,422 homes throughout the Province.

ART VERSUS MOTHERHOOD

The assertion recently made by Mme. Helen Stanley that if she had to choose between art and motherhood she would give up her art without an instant's hesitation, has aroused such comment throughout the country that this popular soprano affirms she is sometime going to take a season off and write a book about the subject, says a New York exchange.

Letters by the score have come to Mme. Stanley accusing her of lacking in the true artistic soul. To which she replies that if she were lacking in the primary instinct of womanhood her artistic soul would be warped.

These writers claim that in giving first loyalty to her art a woman's depth of feeling for her child is increased. "I could not love thee dear so much, loved I not (music) more," is the gist of these letters which advocate that art should first, last and always be the motivating power back of every artist's life.

On the other hand, an equal number of letters upholding Mme. Stanley's attitude have been received by her. Which leaves the question where it has always been—up in the air.

KWANNON

(Kwannon, the Japanese goddess of mercy, is represented with many hands, typifying generosity and kindness. In one of these hands she is supposed to hold an axe, wherewith she severs the threads of human lives.)

I am the ancient one, the many-handed,
The merciful am I.
Here where the black pine bends above the sea
They bring their gifts to me—
Spoil of the foreshore where the corals lie—
Fishes of ivory and amber-stranded,
And carven beads
Green as the fretted fringes of the weeds.
Age after age I watch the long sails pass:
Age after age I see them come once more
Home, as the grey-winged pigeon to the grass,
The white crane to the shore.
Goddess am I of heaven and this small town
And here the children bring me cakes and flowers
And all the strange sea treasures that they find,
For "she," they say, "the merciful, is ours."
And "she," they say, "is kind."
Camphor and wave-worn sandal-wood for burning
They bring to me alone,
Shells that are veined with irises
And those curved like the clear bright petals of a rose;
Wherefore an hundredfold again returning
I render them their own—
Full-freighted nets that flash among the foam,
Laughter and love and gentle eyes at home,
Cool of the night and the soft air that swells
My silver temple bells,
Winds of the spring, the little flowers that shine
Where the young barley slopes to meet the pine,
Gold of the charlock, guerdon of the rain
I give to them again.
Yet tho' the fishing-boats return full-laden
Out of the broad blue east,
Under the brown roofs pain is their hand-maiden
And mourning is their feast.
Yea, tho' my many hands are raised to bless
I am not strong to give them happiness;
Sorrow comes swiftly as the swallow flying,
O, little lives, that are so quickly done,
Peace is my raiment, mercy is my breath—
I am the gentle one—
When they are tired of sorrow and of sighing
I give them death.

A TIGER KITTEN

When Pearl Watson, the lovable heroine of Nellie L. McClung's latest book, "Purple Springs," was a small girl she gave away a young tiger kitten to some neighboring lads who promised to be good to it. Following out their original intention, however, they killed the kitten to make a long-coveted rim for a cap. Instead of complaining to higher authority, Pearl took the law into her own hands and, being older and stronger, gave both youngsters a good hiding. She then compelled them to erect a memorial slab at the school for public inspection, inscribed as follows:

YOUNG TOM, TIGER CAT
Owned by P. Watson
Given away in good faith April 1st.
Wickedly killed to make a cap on April 15th.
Avenged by former owner May 1st.

HARD TIMES.

Stop right now talking about hard times, says The Gateway of Detroit, because we don't know what hard times mean. Throw away your smoked glasses. Turn on the bright lights and look forward to what we can do, if we only think we can. Recall the courage and confidence of Columbus, Washington, Lincoln. And when your vision becomes clouded, and your grip is slipping, and dark spots interfere with your eyesight, then—and only then—a little pink pill, judiciously administered, may miraculously restore to you that faith and courage, without which a man becomes a mouse.

The Intuitive Perception of Women

Intuitive perception and woman's capacity, or otherwise, to take advantage of it, has formed the subject of lengthy discussions in the columns of The London Daily Express, the final shot on behalf of incredulous man having been fired by Herbert W. Seaman, who asserts that authorities, from Elinor Glyn to Hugo Munsterberg, have agreed that woman's intuition was wonderful, but that she lacks the gift of reason that distinguishes man, thus making a virtue of a shortcoming. Mr. Seaman declares that the notion possesses as little foundation in truth as the belief that pigs see the wind.

Mr. Seaman goes on to say: "Before reaching these conclusions I spent many years in earnest research. In the interest of science I have observed women at Monte Carlo, Epsom, Havre de Grace, Havana, Dorval, Longchamps, Buenos Aires, various European kursaals and dozens of brokers' offices. Before my conversion I had even lent them money.

'I have played poker with women. Their intuition is singularly sterile when it is needed. During auction bridge I have watched narrowly for the faintest sign of the operation of the faculty. The only discovery I have to chronicle is that of a woman whose intuition led her to believe that my bid of one spade was an invitation to her to bid two diamonds, when she had only the deuce and six of diamonds in her hands.

"I have discussed the matter with a celebrated doctor of medicine (who believes that genius is caused by microbes), and he ascribes intuition to an atavistic endowment. He somewhat inconsistently mentions Eve and Ann Whitfield in the same sentence by way of epigram. After going to all this trouble he was quite insulted when I hinted he was trying to explain the existenre of something that did not exist. Yet I will bet all I have in my pockets that the dear doctor has never once in his life allowed a female nurse's intuition to tell him where to dig for an appendix.

"Hell hath no fury like a woman whose intuition hath slipped a cog. A popular journal recently had the temerity to challenge the idol in a joke column: Two women are talking. One says: 'I hear that Mrs. Titherington-Blobbs has eloped with Major Snow.' The other replies: 'How disgusting! I thought it would be Colonel Swish.' What, pray, disgusted the lady but the miscarriage of her intuition?

"Intuition, if it existed, would never miscarry; otherwise it would be a mere hunch, such as a man may receive. If woman's hunches were infallible the gift would have been capitalized long ago. Throgmorton Street mocks the wrecks of men who have tried to capitalize their wives' intuitions."

LADY ORATORS

The tables are being turned on the lady orators who used to get up in public and denounce the men for so many of their annoying ways. The other day Justice H. I. Dresscher of the Mecosta Probate Court in Big Rapids, Mich., hired a hall and extended a general invitation to the ladies of the town to be present at a meeting in which he scored them roundly for paying little or no attention to the moral condition of the locality. He demanded that reforms in dressing be instituted at once and that "cheek to cheek" and "head to head" dancing be stopped. The enforcing of the curfew law was another demand made by the speaker, who said that women were paying too much attention to foreign missionary societies and neglecting the evils which sprang up under their very noses.

Recipes

By A. L. WYMAN, M. C. A.

Up through the Lehigh Valley and over the mountains into the Wyoming Valley and Wilkes-Barre is the prettiest trip that we have made. On our arrival we were given a room that faces on the park that runs for miles along the banks of the Susquehanna river, and of all the places that we have visited, this looks more like home than any other. One of the best hotels in the state has a view from its windows of flowers, river, mountains and coal mines and from the cleanly kept streets and houses one would not know that they had coal mines if the mountains of mined coal and breaker houses did not take up so much of the landscape.

From the chef and pastry chef of this hotel I have added to my store recipes that are both practical and tasty.

Convenient Summer Soups.

This chef makes some very delicious summer soups without meat and one of the best is his tomato bisque that is made by melting four tablespoons of butter in a saucepan and cooking in it for five minutes two tablespoons of chopped onion, then add three tablespoons of flour, four cups of milk, three cloves, one and a half teaspoons of salt, one teaspoon of chopped parsley and a seasoning of paprika and celery salt. Bring to a boil one can of tomatoes or four cups of cooked tomatoes and add to them one-quarter of a teaspoon of salt. Combine the tomatoes with the milk and butter mixture and cook twenty minutes. Strain and serve in consomme cups garnished with a spiral of whipped cream.

Another cream soup is made by covering two cups of grated carrots with four cups of boiling water to which has been added six pepper corns, half a teaspoon of white pepper and a piece of bay leaf, simmer for one hour and press through a sieve. Place in a saucepan two tablespoons of butter and two and a half tablespoons of flour, blend and stir in slowly two and a half cups of hot milk and stir until smooth and thick. Gradually add the carrot liquid and when well blended serve with small squares of fried bread.

Stuffed Cucumbers.

Stuffed cucumbers served on squares of buttered toast were very good. These were prepared by cutting large, peeled cucumbers in three-inch lengths and scooping out the centers so that they form a box, this box is filled with a mixture of equal parts of cooked rice and finely chopped cooked veal, seasoned with pepper, salt, onion juice and curry powder. The stuffed cucumbers are placed in a baking pan that has a half of an inch of seasoned meat stock, the pan is then covered and the cucumbers simmered until tender. After placing on squares of toast pour over the gravy in the pan.

THIS is the real Green Tea

The rich yet delicate flavour of the perfectly prepared 'green' leaf will always be found in the sealed Salada packet.

Green Corn Omelette.

One of the most delicious omelettes was made with green corn. To make, select four good sized ears of green corn and with a knife cut down through kernels lengthwise and with the back of the knife scrape out the pulp. Beat the yolks of five eggs until light and foamy and add two tablespoons of cream, the corn pulp and a seasoning of salt and pepper. Place in an omelette pan two tablespoons of butter and while the butter is heating stir into the omelette mixture the stiffly beaten whites of the five eggs. Pour the mixture into the hot pan and lift the center with a knife and tip the pan so that it will cook evenly. As soon as the omelette is nicely browned turn out on a hot platter after folding in the pan. Garnish with melted butter and parsley.

New Combination Salad.

An odd combination for a salad was served at a luncheon given here this afternoon. It was a combination of equal parts of diced tart apples, bananas, pineapple, seedless raisins, canned cherries and blanched almonds mixed with a cream salad dressing and served in cups of lettuce set on grape leaves.

A. L. WYMAN

Another very tasty salad was made with one cup of diced celery, two cups diced pineapple, one finely chopped sweet red pepper, half a cup of chopped nut meats and half a cup of French dressing all thoroughly mixed and chilled. Place the mixture on lettuce covered plates and on top of each place a teaspoon of mayonnaise dressing.

Mustard Pickles.

As we are very fond of pickles and marmalades, we always try to secure the recipe of any that are good. The chef here makes a very fine mustard pickle with one quart of peeled and sliced cucumbers, one quart of sliced green tomatoes, one large cauliflower divided into small pieces, one quart of small onions and four chopped green peppers; these vegetables are covered with a brine made of four quarts of water and two cups of salt and allowed to stand for twenty-four hours. After twenty-four hours heat enough to scald and pour into a colander to drain. Mix one cup of flour with six tablespoons of ground mustard, one tablespoon of turmeric and enough cold vinegar to make a smooth paste, add one cup of sugar and enough vinegar to make two quarts in all. Bring this mixture to a boil and stir until thick and smooth, add the drained vegetables and cook until heated through. Place in jars and seal, store in a dark cool place.

Rhubarb Marmalade.

For rhubarb marmalade cut into one inch lengths seven pounds of peeled rhubarb and pour over it seven pounds of sugar and let stand over night. In the morning add two pounds of seeded raisins and one large piece of ginger root and cook until thick.

Grape Jelly—Spiced

For a spiced grape jelly boil until soft four quarts of grapes with two cups of vinegar, half an ounce of whole cloves and a small piece of stick cinnamon. Drain off the juice and boil for twenty minutes. Add three pounds of sugar and boil until it jells, about five minutes. This is a very fine jelly to serve with game or mutton.

Tomato Preserves.

Tomatoes are very fine and plentiful here and they have many ways of putting them up for winter use. The best, we think, are the tomato preserves. These are made by adding to five pounds of ripe, firm, peeled tomatoes four pounds of sugar, two lemons, sliced very thin and two ounces of very thinly sliced candied ginger and cooking very slowly for three hours. Place in glass jars, cover and store in cool dark place.

Iced coffee mousses was made by beating in two egg yolks with four tablespoons of sugar and half a cup of thick cream, when smooth beat in gradually one cup of cold strong black coffee and when smooth add the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs and freeze in a mold. Serve in tall glasses garnished with half a cherry.

CHANCE FOR ONTARIO TITLE FOR PETERBORO'

The Bankers, the winners of the local Juvenile League, are in good shape for their championship game at the Riverside Park on Saturday afternoon, with Young Varsity of Toronto, the Queen City juvenile title holders, and are hopeful of bringing the Ontario juvenile championship to Peterborough. Although the local league was finished many weeks ago the Bankers have practised steadily, keeping themselves in shape for the play-off and waiting patiently until the Toronto winners were decided. They deserve all kinds of credit for the way they have stuck to the job and the fans should be out in flocks on Saturday to root for the plucky kids in their efforts to bring an Ontario title here. It will be a real ball game. The battle is billed to start at 3 o'clock sharp, the Toronto outfit ariving at noon.

JOHN J. M'GRAW

VETERAN PILOT IN SIX WORLD'S SERIES, WHO MAY FIGHT HIS SEVENTH NEXT MONTH.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—(Associated Press).—The career of John J. McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, and one of the best known men in professional baseball, stands out as one of the most interesting in the annals of the national sport. McGraw was born at Truxton, N. Y., on April 7, 1873.

McGraw played his first professional game shortly after he discarded short trousers. He made such a reputation around his home town as a hard-hitter and skillful fielder that he was recommended to the Olean team, then in the New York State team, and in the spring of 1890 signed his first baseball contract.

McGraw says he never will forget the first game he played with Olean. Although only about 200 fans attended he felt more nervous than at any time in his life. In describing his first game the popular leader of the Giants said:

"That first game was one of the greatest events in my life, and I will remember it always. I was confident of making good until I went on the field. Then I was bewildered; it seemed that there were enough persons in the stands to populate the State of New York. I hoped that the batter would not hit the ball to me.

"When a grounder did come my way I felt as though I was rooted to the turf. I couldn't move. Finally it seemed like an age to me—I got started and picked the ball up in my bare hand, but threw it over the first baseman's head, in my haste to beat the runner."

The error lost the game for McGraw's team, but it did not discourage him. McGraw got $60 a month for playing with Olean.

After one year with Olean he went to the Cedar Rapids club, where the remuneration was slightly better. While with the Iowa team there was a remarkable change for the better in his playing. He performed at short stop and his playing there attracted the attention of a big league scout, and in August, 1891, he was signed by the Baltimore Club, of the National League, then last in a 12-club circuit.

Bill Barney was manager of the Orioles when McGraw broke into the "fast set." John finished the season of 1891 as a bench warmer.

In May, 1892, Ned Hanlon succeeded Barney and took a fancy to McGraw in spite of his small stature. First he tried him on second base, where he showed much speed and skill. He was transferred to third, where he played even more brilliantly, and there he stuck.

From that time until he withdrew from active service he was one of the best third basemen in the game, at one time being considered the top-notcher of them all. His ability to field bunts was uncanny, and no third baseman in the game ever has equalled him in that department. He always was a capable batter, but under Hanlon's direction he became one of the greatest in baseball. For years his average never fell below the .350 mark and he was very fast on the bases. His all-round good work was a big factor in Baltimore's string of pennants.

While a member of the Orioles he was surrounded by a coterie of stars who helped to set off his brilliancy. Hughie Jennings, who now is associated with him in the direction of the Giants, and Wilbert Robinson, manager of the Brooklyns, were among them.

McGraw and Robinson were sold in 1900 to the St. Louis club for a price reported to be $18,000. The sale displeased both men.

When the American League invaded the East in 1900, McGraw was one of the ablest lieutenants of Ban Johnson, the league President. While they were still in St. Louis, McGraw and Robinson were plotting to place an American team in Baltimore. Finally McGraw obtained backing and assembled a good ball team. He was appointed manager of the club, which was a most popular move in Baltimore, and in 1901 there was no stauncher American leader than John McGraw, now the premier leader of the National League.

In 1902 there was an open split between McGraw and Johnson. Not only were the Orioles weakened by suspensions, but many players were retired with injuries. McGraw was spiked three times in 1902, the last causing an ugly wound in his knee, which practically ended his days as an active participant in the game. In mid-season the affairs of the Baltimore team became so demoralized that McGraw quit and announced that he was through with the game forever.

About this time the Giants were going poorly. It was during the Freedman regime. The team played bad ball and the fans were not attending the games. McGraw's name was suggested to Freedman and he placed him in command of the team on July 10. He has led the Giants since.

When McGraw came to New York the Polo Grounds seated 12,000 persons. Now it seats 38,000, and frequently on big days the club is compelled to close the gates. The New York club considers John McGraw such a valuable asset that they have had his life insured for $100,000. The following table shows how McGraw's team has finished in the National League since he took hold.

HIGHEST BATTING AVERAGES MADE BY ATHLETICS IN '10

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—(Associated Press).—The highest batting average by a team in the world's series games since 1906 was made by the Philadelphia Athletics in the series of 1910 against the Chicago Clubs. Connie Mack's organization of youthful stars batted .317 in that year, 66 points better than the Cubs.

It is a significant fact that the pennant winning Cub teams of other days were great fielding organizations, and in all their world's series, excepting that of 1910, they outhit their opponents. This was noticeable in the 1918 series against the Red Sox, and although the Cubs lost they batted, as a team, .210 against the Sox .186. The Sox fielded remarkably in the series, however, having only one error chalked against them, with a fielding average of .996. This, by the way, was the best fielding performance of any team in a world's series since 1905.

In 1906, the Chicago Cubs outhit the Chicago Americans by four points and outfielded them 22 points, but they lost the series. Their punches were not delivered at the moments when they would have resulted in runs.

Detroit outhit Pittsburgh in 1909, but lost the series. The Pirates' base runners were much better than those of Detroit.

The Giants outhit the Red Sox by 50 points in the great series of 1912, but lost.

THIS TIME LAST YEAR.

Babe Ruth made his fifty-fourth and last homer of the season off Dave Keefe at Philadelphia. Six homers were made in the two games with the Athletics, the Yanks winning both.

National Commission decides to begin world's series in Brooklyn instead of on American League grounds.

SUDBURY LACROSSE TEAM

SUDBURY, Sept. 29.—(Special to the Examiner).— Sudbury Lacrosse team, champions of the north country, will play for the Intermediate Championship of Ontario against either St. Mary's or Oshawa in either of these towns on Saturday, October 8th. Word to this effect had been received from President Smith of the O.A.L.A. Sudbury has accepted and will make the trip. The team has started practice, all members have kept in good condition. The main object of participating in the provincial finals is to popularize the national game in the north country.

COPPERCLIFF IN TORONTO.

SUDBURY, Sept. 29.—(Special to the Examiner).—Secretary E. J. Birney, of the Nickel Belt League, who has just returned from Toronto reports that Coppercliff will enter either the finals or the semi-finals of the O.B.A.A. in a sudden death game at the Island Stadium, Toronto.

SPORT COMMENT

Jeff Hardill, a fourteen-year-old pitcher, who swept everything before him in the senior series of the Public School League, and has been performing creditably at second base for the Bankers, may draw a pitching assignment along with "Lefty" Turner, in the game against Young 'Varsity. The Bankers will go through another stiff workout at Riverside Park this evening, with St. Peter's nine as the opposition.

Some days "Babe" Ruth is just an ordinary player. In the 2 to 0 score that Urban Shocker slipped over on the Kilties, the circuit swatter went hitless in three times at bat. The Kilties play in Philadelphia to-day, and the Indians in Chicago.

Collegiate are putting a real punch into their workouts in preparation for their entry into the Inter-Scholastic Rugby League.

The Amateur Athletic Association of Lakefield will enter two teams in the O. H. A. The association will ask every player in the game to sign up with the athletic body.

Canadian Generals got away early this morning on their trip to Picton, accompanied by a small contingent of supporters. Everybody was enthusiastic, and quietly confident of ending the series with a win this afternoon.

In the Intermediate section Stouffville (Tri-county) will meet Milliken (Scarboro') in a sudden-death game on Saturday, probably at Aurora. Hebrew Lits (T. A. B. A.) will clash in a one-game series with Goodyears of the T. and Y. Industrial League at Kodak field on Saturday, and the survivors of these two sudden-death games will meet on the following Wednesday. The winner of the Picton-C.G.E. series will meet the winner of Wednesday's fixture, and the survivor will play Caledonia, who have swept all before them in Western Ontario, for the Intermediate championship.

LOUISVILLE CHAMPIONS OF AMERICAN ASSOCIATION

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sep. 29. — The Louisville Colonels yesterday clinched the American Association pennant by winning both games of a double headers from Kansas City, 7 to 3, and 13 to 9. Should the club lose the four remaning games of the season and Minneapolis, the runner-up win its five scheduled games, the Colonels still would be in the lead by one and a half games.

Beginning next Wednesday, October 5, the Colonels and the Baltimore International League Club begin a four-game series for the minor league championship. The teams then will go to Baltimore for the remainder of series of nine games.

STAR HOCKEY DEFENCE.

KINGSTON, Sept. 29.—Entering Queen's University shortly to take a course, Clarence Boucher, the star defence of the Sudbury Wolves, will prove a valuable acquisition for Queen's hockey team.

ALL STARS PLAY

CLEVELAND, Sept. 29.—(Canadian Press).—The American League All-Star Baseball Team defeated the All-Stars of the National League, 6 to 2, in a game staged by the All-Star Service League to raise money with which to buy athletic equipment for poor children.

AT THE THEATRES

AT THE ALLEN.

To take life or to preserve it; to set oneself up as an arbiter over the lives of others, or to pursue the course of enriching one's own existence by enjoying the common experiences of us all, are some of the questions that find solution in the new Goldwyn picture, "Ace of Hearts", by Gouverneur Morris, which is being shown at the Allen Theatre, this week.

Mr. Morris has presented a group of well-meaning but misguided reformers who will stop at nothing to gain their desired ends. Though aims may be altruistic and noble, their methods are evil. Consequently, there arises the old question of "Does the end justify the means"

The author of "Ace of Hearts" has developed his story consistently. As in all human activities, there is a very human slip between the conception and the execution of the group's plans. It is brought about by the beautiful love of two of their members, played by Leatrice Joy and John Bowers. Through the agency of another member, played by Lon Chaney, their evil methods meet an evil fate, and the lovers find a new basis for their future life.

The story is interestingly developed, and has been given an excellent production by the Goldwyn organization.

In "Ace of Hearts", the Goldwyn photoplay by Gouveneur Morris, which will be shown at the Allen Theatre for 3 days, beginning today, there are three leading parts instead of the usual one. The story calls for two leading men and a leading woman, with the interest and the story emphasis centred on the three as a group. The sympathy of the audience goes to all three characters, enmeshed as they are in a probem that involves them all equally.

Lon Chaney plays an unusual character part, that of a dreamer who suddenly finds himself hopelessly in love with a girl, played by Leatrice Joy, who is not interested in any particular man. However, the time comes when one of the men, facing the danger of almost certain death, convinces the girl that it is he whom she loves. John Bowers was chosen to play the lucky man who escapes death and wins the girl. Other well known actors in the cast are Hardee Kirkland, Edwin N. Wallack, and Roy Laidlaw.

"Ace of Hearts", which has only one woman in the cast, was well directed by Wallace Worsley.. The sets were designed by the art director, Cedric Gibbons, and the photography was under the supervision of Don Short.

AT THE CAPITOL.

To-day the Capitol offers a splendid feature production, "The Rider of the King Log," Jimmy Aubrey comedy and two big vaudeville acts.

A visualization by Holman Day of his own novel, this is the most authoritative picture of the North Woods, and the romance of the great logging industry, ever made. It is a story of Maine—that beautiful land of hills, rushing waters and giant trees.

There the Timber Barons of Wall street tried to have their way with a rugged son of the forest—old X.K. the rider of the king log. When he died, his daughter took up the battle that was waged with the mighty forces of Nature as its weapons.

"The Rider of the King Log" has the parent love of "Humoresque", the strength of "The Barrier", and a dramatic power that belongs to itself alone .It is a genuine picture, made by a genuine man, with two thousand genuine Maine lumbermen, and it takes its place among the genuine productions of a great screen age. It is right there with a score of punches and a "knock-out".

This big 7-reel super production and a funny two reel comedy "The Tourist" with that king of laugh makers "Jimmy Aubrey" the balance of the short reel pictures as usual are of the splendid variety always seen at the Capitol and two excellent double Vaudeville Acts, combined with the usual high-class musical selections rendered by Mrs. Foster's excellent orchestra. FAN! FAN!

GEORGE CAIRNS HOLDS THE WHATTAM CUP NOW

George F. Cairns secured possession of the Whattam Cup last night by defeating W. J. Mayneord by the score of 22 to 14. Mayneord's rink, picking up the challenge filed by Tom Curvin, who has gone West, brought the cup back to Peterborough from Port Hope, only to lose it at once to their club mates. The next game is with Reg. Hayden, of Port Hope, and must be played by Friday night. Last night's rinks were:

A. Gilliam	R. Elliott
A. Ross	E. Taylor
W. J. Oke	R. G. Sturgeon
W. J. Mayneord	G. F. Cairns
Skip 14	Skip 22

By the way, several of the bowlers after witnessing Bob Sturgeon clean up the club's expert shot putters, including T. McArthur, are wondering if a match could be arranged with their favorite and Dr. Frank.

ROAD RUNNERS IN WORK-OUT TO-NIGHT

LEAVE THE "Y" AT 8 O'CLOCK WITH CHARLIE THORPE IN CHARGE.

The proposed road races for Thanksgiving Day are practically assured. At the Y.M.C.A. on Monday night some twenty-five juniors reported to the physical director, Doug. Loomis, and there were also four or five seniors, with more in prospect.

To-night these harriers will hold their first workout together, accompanied by Charlie Thorpe. Everybody who desires to get into the road racing game is invited to turn out at the Y.M.C.A. at 7.45 o'clock. Practices will be held twice a week, on Monday and Thursday evenings. Mr. Roper, of the Y.M.C.A., has kindly placed the "Y" facilities at the disposal of the runners, and non-members need feel no hesitation about joining the squad. They may undress there each practice evening until the road season is over. Nearly all the juniors are already members of the Y.M.C.A., whose physical department is turning out most of the city's athletes in track and field work. If there are any other runners working out alone, or intending to do so, they are requested to notify Mr. Thorpe in order that the prospects for the senior race may be fully ascertained. In this work it is preferable, not only from the social but also from the speed and conditioning aspects, that the runners turn out in a body.

Mr. Thorpe's services should be appreciated to-night by a big turn out. The pack will leave the "Y" at 8 o'clock prompt.

FOOTBALL NOTES.

BEAUTIFY GROUNDS ON EXHIBITION LOT

CULTIVATE SHADE TREES AND SHRUBS, DEVELOP A PARK, AND CHANGE NAME TO EXHIBIT.ON PARK.

In response to President Denne's invitation for suggestions for improvements in Peterborough's ever-improving Exhibition, the thought is offered that some attention might be directed toward beautifying the grounds. While considerable money has been expended on additional buildings and enlarged grand stand, commanding entrances, and public conveniences, together with commendable electrical illumination, the lot itself, apart from an excellent speedway, does not present an attraction in which ornate nature plays its part. Therefore, would it not be an innovation worth while to plant and cultivate always acceptable shade trees and altogether beautiful shrubs in a variety of species — flowering and purely foliage — which would in time create of these grounds a beauty spot in public attraction and appreciation manifestly potential.

Were this improvement adopted, these spacious grounds would develop into a charming park where visitors during the Exhibition period could spend happy days amid delights of stately maples, say, and varied tinted shrub foliage, with a touch of nature's own inimitable rich bloom coloring here and there in consistent keeping with the products of farm, field and orchard on exhibit. Such a spirit of grounds-beautifying manifested by the directors would keep apace with the exhibition's progressive development in other directions and enhance the value of the exposition to all concerned.

And this leads to the thought that with the lot eventually assuming in foliage and maybe horticural ornateness the picturesqueness of a well-cared-for park, the name "Exhibition grounds" might be consistently converted into "Exhibition Park," an appelation not infrequently found for lots of this character in the Old Land.

WEINER ROAST LAST EVENING

About 75 of the members of St. John's A.Y.P.A. held a very enjoyable weiner roast last evening. They gathered in the Sunday School Room of the church, and from there had a hike across London Street Dam to the point of land directly below Smith Street. Permission had been obtained from Mr. R. W. Cormack, superintendent of the Quaker Oats Company, to use this as a picnic ground, and here two bonfires were built. At one weiners were roasted, and at the other the young people popped corn. Apples and coffee were provided, and the groups sat around and sang camp songs and told stories for a jolly hour. Much of the success of the evening was due to the efforts of the management: Mrs. D. Thompson-Curry, Miss K. Cuffe, Messrs. J. Yarnold and B. Graham, and the popular president of the society, Miss Jean Horsfield.

QVARANTINES TO BE ENFORCED BY HEALTH OFFICER

That there is legislation to compel citizens to observe quarantines imposed by the Medical Officer of Health was the emphatic statement of Dr. T. W. H. Young this morning, and the doctor declared that he will take measures to see that the laws in this regard are stringently adhered to.

In the case of scarlet fever, if the patient is removed to the hospital, the house must be quarantined for ten days, and in the case of diphtheria there must be no communication with others for twelve days.

If the case is treated at home the quarantine period for scarlet fever is six weeks, and diphtheria cards must stay up till two successive swabs in 24 hours show a negative condition.

Dr. Young said the Provincial laws are stringent and the penalties are severe. If any cases of non-observance come to his notice, prosecution will follow.

Dr. Young stated that permission was given the bread-winner to allow him to go to work, providing he was not a carrier. If, however, he found the bread-winner working without his permit, the law would be resorted to, for it is by such laxity that the disease is spread. The law requires all other members of the family but the bread-winner to remain in quarantine, and Dr. Young said he intended to see it was carried out.

There is not as much scarlet fever or diphtheria as people have been scared into believing, the doctor said to-day. In the hospital there are about 22 cases, while last summer there were as many as 32.

There is not a case of smallpox in the city at present, Dr. Young said.

GOOD PROSPECTS FOR MOTOR PLANT LOCATING IN CITY

Byron Lederer, representative of the Birmingham Motors of Jamestown, N.Y., has returned to the city from a successful demonstration of the Birmingham car and those interested in bringing this automobile industry to Peterborough can see Mr. Lederer at the Empress.

Capital is coming forward more readily now and there is every prospect of the plant locating here, Mr. Lederer said to-day.

The first test of the Birmingham no-axle car was made yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock before a crowd of about 3,000 spectators, who thronged over the lot at North Capitol and L streets to witness the tests. The big touring car stood the rough trip over the especially built log obstacle road successfully, and finished at thirty-five miles per hour.

Before the final event, the three representative models went through the tests of acceleration from standing still, gears locked in high, and also demonstrated small turning circles. On a first test, one of the cars, fully loaded, accelerated from standing still to seventeen miles per hour in ten seconds, forward motion being obtained by "slipping" the clutch. On a second trial, the same car, similarly loaded, picked up to twenty miles per hour.

The tests were conducted with the aid of Washington newspaper men, and E. Lawrence Phillips, the jovial baseball park announcer, helped handle the crowd and megaphoned the "stunt" information.

There will be a similar series of tests this afternoon and to-morrow afternoon at 5 o'clock.

CLERK DESCRIBES MURDER AT TRIAL

TELLS OF SHOOTING OF WODOVA AT PORT WELLER

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 29. — At the Port Weller murder trial this morning Peter Martin, clerk in the store where the hold-up and murder occurred on the night of May 21, vividly described the affair.

It was the night of pay day on section one of the Welland Ship Canal, and the canal workers were in the store buying supplies. "The first thing I heard was a shot, following a command, "Hands up," said Martin. The command was from Peter Holli, one of the prisoners. "I put my hands up with the rest. Peter Wovoda was about in the middel of the store. Wovoda made for the door leading to the kitchen, but fell to the floor before he got there. Holli jumped behind the counter and garbbed the box with the money in it and beat it from the store." Sam Haruch, another of the prisoners, was at the store door and when Martin tried to get out, Haruch stuck a gun into his face and Martin collapsed on the floor.

CONSOLIDATE ALL FORMS OF SPORT

ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION WILL OPEN BIG DRIVE FOR MEMBERSHIP.

As previously stated the Peterboro Amateur Athletic Association intends to make a drive for an extensive membership in this association. This is the first real attempt to consolidate under one association all forms of sports and athletics in this city.

It is absolutely a Peterborough association and is for the benefit of all its citizens. Other large municipalities throughout Ontario are endeavoring to do just what Peterboro has now under way and if all of the Peterboro citizens will come to the association's support our municipality will be in a position to give the citizens the best brand of sport of which Peterboro is capable.

In unity there is strength and this is what is needed at the present time; the association will not only develop all the material in their branch and line of sport but at the same time will provide a healthy and sane kind of amusement for everybody. All of the young men and boys of Peterboro will receive an education in athletics and true sportsmanship which if worked along right lines, as it is hoped if the drive is successful, will make them better citizens, and better citizens will make a better Peterboro.

ORGANIZE DRIVE ON CORN BORERS

EXTENSIVE CAMPAIGN LAUNCHED IN ELGIN

(Special Despatch to the Examiner.)

ST. THOMAS, Sept. 29. — Hundreds of farmers of Elgin County, alarmed at the great damage caused by the European corn borer this year and the reports from the entomological experts that the corn production of the district will be completely ruined unless drastic combative measures are employed, are organizing for the great drive against what is declared to be one of the worst pests in the history of Ontario.

The rules issues by the government experts are being closely followed and the spring will see the campaign carried on along even more extensive lines.

ORPHAN GIRL FOUND CARE AT MUNRO HOUSE

Had Wandered From Children's Shelter and Could Not Disclose Her Identity.

Wednesday night about 11.30 a pretty little hatless girl, aged about 10 years, wandered into the Munro House rotunda and seated herself on a chair. She sat there demurely and practically alone until the post office clock struck the hour of midnight. Mr. Jack McMillan then, after closing the bar and cafe, tried to interrogate the child, but owing to the latter's shyness, could elicit no information as to her name or address. The only clue he could get was that when he asked, "Have you a father" The child's eyes filled with tears as she replied "No." Thinking, possibly the child might be wating to be called for my some belated farmer, Mr. McMillan waited until 12.30 and then, after getting the little one a substantial meal, put her to bed in the hotel. This morning Mrs. Munro ascerfained from the child that she had wandered from the Shelter and learned by 'phone that the wanderer is a daughter of a Mr. Palmer, who lost his life in an accident recently out west. Mr. McMillan's ward was this morning returned to the Shelter.

NEW SUPERINTENDENT AT NICHOLLS HOSPITAL.

Miss Elizabeth M. Beamish, who has resigned her position as superintendent of Nicholls Hospital, leaves to-morrow for Palmerston. She has been for the last ten years identified with the staff of the hospital, first as assistant and later as superintendent, three years of that time having been spent in overseas service, while her position was held for her here, and her services have always been of the most efficient character. Her resignation was accepted with regret at a recent meeting of the Board of Management.

Miss Beamish is succeeded by Mrs. E. M. Leeson, who has been acting as assistant for the past year, with Miss Eva Archer as assistant superintendent.

Oils supplanted rails as the market leaders before noon. Transportations continued to be bought, however, on further favourable August statements.

Oats started unchanged to 3-8c lower, December 36½, and then scored further losses.

MONTREAL.

MONTREAL, Sept. 29.—(Canadian Press). — Trading on the local Stock Exchange during the first half-hour this morning was again very quiet, and only Atlantic Sugar and National Breweries of the leaders put in an appearance. The former was unchanged at 28, but the latter advanced a quarter point to 51 3-4.

A smooth sea never made a skilful mariner, neither do uninterrupted prosperity and success qualify for usefulness and happiness.

THINK SAFELY ACT SAFELY

THINKS MOTORISTS SHOULD BE READIEST TO COOPERATE

HAMILTON, Sept. 29.— Motorists said Chief Whatley last night during an address to members of the Hindoo Koosh Grotto, should be the readiest of all who use the streets to co-operate with the authorities in making traffic safer for everyone, and, at the same time, to assist in the enforcement of traffic regulations.

Chief Whatley said he feared that the average motorist looked on the average traffic officer as a hobgoblin sort of individual, who was always waiting to lay some sort of charge against auto drivers.

He would like to emphasize that his traffic officers were not overzealous in any such direction as that They had to enforce the laws, but he himself felt that if the coopera tion of motorists were given the traffic authorities, the fines imposed on the former would substantially decrease.

HURT IN MOTOR SMASH

BELLEVILLE, Sept. 29.—Mrs. (Col.) H. B. Wilson was injured on the Trent road when her motor upset in a ditch as a result of the derangement of the steering gear. She was taken to Belleville General Hospital, where several stitches were put in for facial injuries.

CUT IN AUTO SMASH

ST. THOMAS, Sept. 29.—Milton Gray, this city and K. Burdick, an aged Aylmer man, were badly cut about the face and head when a motor truck that Gray was driving collided with a street car. The truck was badly damaged.

AGED WOMAN, STRUCK BY RACE HORSE, DIES

BELLEVILLE, Sept. 29.—Mrs. Maggie Fitzpatrick was fatally injured and her daughter severely bruised when they were struck by a horse crossing the track at Marmora Fair grounds before the horse races. Mrs. Fitzpatrick was cut about the head and face and generally bruised. She was rendered unconscious for some time, and, owing to her advanced years, recovery was doubtful from the first. She was taken to her home in the township of Marmora, where she died late last night of a fracture of the skull. She was 77 years of age. She leaves two sons and three daughters. Mrs. McLaughlin will recover.

WOLVES BOLDER AROUND APSLEY

NUMEROUS PACK CIRCLED CLOSE TO THE VILLAGE ON TUESDAY NIGHT.

A pack of wolves estimated at 75 in number or thereabouts approached within 300 yards of the village of Apsley on Tuesday night, according to the new County Constable Moore brought back with him to-day. Residents of the neighborhood told him 52 sheep and two calves had been destroyed by the wolves during the last week. It is unsafe to go out after dark, and the men who do venture forth are always armed with rifles and plenty of ammunition. According to Mr. Moore's story there was music on the outskirts of the village which the marauding wolves heard and "tongued to" in their baying. A posse of villagers was formed and an attack made on the pack but with unknown results.

"I Like That Store"

"Because It's Up-to-the-Minute and Dependable"

A Statement recently made by a discriminating Woman to a new resident of our City. Words of commendation like these are pleasing and profitable.

The Business Policy of BARRIE'S, LIMITED, was well expressed by this lady, and the result proves that the Public eventually learn of, appreciate, and respond to Fair and Honest Treatment.

Just now we would emphasize the advisability of securing Furs at the Low Prices Prevailing at present.

At the Raw Fur Auctions held this month in Montreal, New York, and London, Eng., advanced prices ruled—from 10% on some Furs to 50% on others. Very few remained stationary, and none went lower than the early Spring quotations.

Financial conditions last year brought Fur Prices down with a swoop, and many were forced to sell away below actual normal worth, considering the growing scarcity and demands. Now these Furs are reacting to the normal demands, as was inevitable, and will rule higher in prices on all future merchandise.

We have a Full Showing of High-class Fur Garments and Sets of Our Own Manufacture and of the Most Modern Styles, in Seal, Sable, Squirrel, Beaver, Mink, Marten, Mole, Otter, Opossum, Persian Lamb, Kolinsky, Fox, Wolf, Bear, etc.

All are at your disposal at the Present Prevailing Low Prices, based on early Spring purchases of Raw Fur Skins.

We solicit an Inspection and Careful Consideration of Buying Now for present and future needs.
You will find our Store Service—Sound, Efficient, Safe.

FI HERMEN ASKED FOR THEIR OPINION

Mr. T. Tooms, M.L.A., informed the Examiner that some suggestion had been made to him that the local waters be closed to fishing for a whole year. The reason given was that too many young fish were being caught and in consequence re-stocking was not having its fullest effects. Mr. Tooms wishes to obtain the sentiment of the public and especially of those intersted in fishing and its perpetuation.

IN MEMORIAM.
McILMOYLE.—In memory of Private Walter McIlmoyle, of 38th Battalion, who was killed in action three years ago to-day, September 29, 1918:

Our country called you darling,
Far away o'er the deep blue sea,
Where our nation's sons were fighting
For land and liberty.

And amid the din of battle
Nobly did you fall,
Far away from those who loved you
None to hear your call.

Who would whisper words of comfort,
Who would soothe your pain,
Oh, the many cruel fancies
Ever in our brain.

If we could see him now in glory
With the Lamb that once was slain,
Though we loved him ten times dearer,
Would we wish him back again.

If we saw the palm he's waving
And the golden crown he wears,
It would hush up all our sorrows
And wipe away our tears.

Oh, we miss him and how sady,
Bleeding hearts alone can tell.
Earth has lost him— Heaven has found him,
Jesus has done all things well.

Dear is the spot where he is laid,
And sweet to breathe his name,
In life we loved him dearly,
In death we do the same.

WEDDING BELLS

FISHER—STOREY.
SIMCOE, September 28. A very pretty wedding took place at 6:30 this morning in St. James Methodist Church, Rev. D. A. Moir officiating, when in the presence of immediate relatives and friends, Miss Nettie Jean, only daughter of Mr. James Storey and the late Mrs. Storey, became the wife of Mr. Henry James Fisher, the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fisher of Cobourg, immediately after which the happy young couple set out by motor on a honeymoon trip to Detroit and Cleveland.
The bride entered the church on the arm of her father wearing a suit of tailored navy tricotine and burnt henna hat and veil, with a corsage bouquet of orchids and ophelia roses. Her bridesmaid was Miss Olive Beatrice Corbett, of St. Catharines, who was gowned in tan velour, fur trimmed with tangerine hat and a bouquet of pink roses. The groomsman was Mr. Stanley Fisher, brother of the groom.
The groom's gift to the bride was a wrist watch in a case of carved gold; to the bridesmaid, a sapphire in gold bar pin, and to the groomsman, gold cuff links.
In the bride of this morning Nature's generous gifts of personal charm have been augmented by acquired talent of more than passing notice and her services for some ten years as a soprano in the choir of St. James, her regular attendance and helpfulness in the Epworth League and latterly as a teacher in the Sabbath school, have compelled admiration, and brought recognition which during the past weeks, since her approaching leave taking drew near, has been fittingly expressed in gifts and hearty good wishes for the future. Very many friends will miss her cheerful helpfulness.
Mr and Mrs. Fisher will take up their residence presently on King street, West Cobourg, where they will be at home to their friends after November 1st.

BRITISH REPLY INDUCES HOPE OF SETTLEMENT

BRITISH AND IRISH UNANIMOUSLY SUPPORT STAND TAKEN BY LLOYD GEORGE.

DAIL MEETING TO-DAY IS EXPECTED TO ACCEPT

By Lloyd Allen.
United Press Staff Correspondent.

LONDON, September 30. — Mr. Lloyd George has wiped the Irish slate clean by his note to Sinn Fein yesterday, is the view of the British press to-day.

De Valera should not accept without hesitation, the British invitation to an untrammeled conference.

The British Premier has practically the unanimous backing of the press and the public here as a result of his invitation to a conference October 11 in which he made no conditions nor stipulations.

Only the Morning Post excoriates Lloyd George, calling his invitation a "new surrender to the Irish rebels."

Reports from Dublin were that the Dail Cabinet would meet to-day and despatch its reply. It was believed it would acept the Britsh proposal.

"Lloyd Georges' reply was that all well wishers for a peaceful Anglo-Irish settlement had hoped. It clears away all preceding aguments and corespondence and presents a new and free invitation," said the Daily Mail to-day.

The hope that De Valera will answer with a plain "yes" without any mystic phrases was expressed by the Daily News.

The Daily Chronicle said "Sinn Fein can only refuse by declaring itself irreconcilable."

"The unofficial mouthpiece" praises Lloyd George for clearing up "the fog of words and ambigous fencing without departing from his fundamental position."

IRISH COMMENT FAVORABLE.

United Press.

DUBLIN, Septembe 30. — The Irish newspapers to-day favored acceptance of the invitation to a conference received from Lloyd George by the Daily Cabinet yesterday.

The Irish Independent said: "Mr. Lloyd Georges reply avoids and eliminates his previous tendency to specify conditions. For this reason both parties should come to real business.'

The Irish Times said: "Mr. Lloyd George has given final proof of his anxiety for a settlement. The tone and the temper of his telegram was most conciliatory without a sacrifice of principle."

The Freeman's Journal said: "Each side has now defined itself, but has not required the other to recognize its self recognition. This is reasonable."

ULSTER PAPER PESSIMISTIC.

BELFAST, Sept. 30.—(Canadian Press).—Fear that a solution of the Irish problem would not be reached at the proposed London conference, was expressed by the Northern Whig to-day. In commenting upon Lloyd George's note, it stated the Prime Minister had not permanently averted the grave crisis in the negotiations by his reply, and that unless some one is prepared to make a big surrender he has only postponed it.

Fred Pardee To Succeed Dewart?

(Special Despatch to The Examiner).

SARNIA, Sept. 30.—It was stated here to-day on good authority that Fred. Pardee, M.P. for West Lambton, is slated for the position of leader of Ontario Liberals, to take the place of Hartley Dewart, now leader, but, according to reports, slated for entry into the Federal arena.

It is declared by men close to him that Mr. Pardee would not be unwilling to accept the leadership.

Those who should know say that Mr. Pardee has not yet made up his mind whether he will contest his present seat in West Lambton.

FIRE DESTROYS A SUMMER COTTAGE

HOME ON THE OTONABEE WIPED OUT THIS MORNING

A summer cottage on the Otonabee river at the foot of Park St., owned by Miss A. M. Jackson, 550 Romaine street with its contents was totally destroyed early this morning. The total loss partly covered by insurance was estimated by Miss Jackson at $1,800.

A call at 4.05 a.m. from the south part of the city appealing to the fire department for help, was promptly responded to but the frame cottage was wrapped in flames when the department reached the building or contents could not be saved. The firemen, however, kept the fire from spreading to a boathouse just across the road from the cottage.

Fire Chief Grange was unable to determine the cause of the fire. Evidence was that the fire started in the centre of the cottage and spread out to the walls and it was surmised that the fire had started from a cigar or cigarette butt dropped by midnight visitors. To-day nothing but a few charred posts were standing, so he said it was impossible to say how the fire began.

AUXILIARY MET THIS AFTERNOON

ABOUT 75 DELEGATES PRESENT —ADDRESS OF WELCOME

A meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of St. John's Church for the Deanery of Northumberland took place this morning and afternoon in the hall of St. John's.

About 75 delegates were present from Campbellford, Colborne, Hastings, Cobourg, Havelock, Lakefield, Perrytown and Otonabee. Miss Amy Halliday occupied the chair.

The morning session was opened by prayer from Rev. R. B. Grobb, of All Saints' Church, followed by an address of welcome from Dr. R. C. Blagrave, and from Mrs. Stewart Cameron, acting president, in the absence of Mrs. A. W. Turner.

A very interesting discourse on her work was given in the morning by Miss Lennox, a returned missionary from Mid Japan, and Mrs. Yeoman, of Toronto, addressed the meeting in the afternoon.

The ladies are being entertained at luncheon and tea in the basement of the church by the Women's Auxiliary of St. John's Church.

COUP BY KING IN MARITIMES NOW REPORTED

SAID TO HAVE WON SUPPORT OF FARMERS IN COLCHESTER, HON. F. B. M'CURDY'S CONSTITUENCY.

LIBERALS TO CONTEST ALL MANITOBA SEATS

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

HALIFAX, N. S., Sept. 30.—Mackenzie King did not make a speech Wednesday night when his car was switched off at Truro for the night, but, according to a repost from there to-day, he accomplished more than he could have by any speech. The report is to the effect that as a result of a conference, the Farmers will not name a candidate in Colchester, but support the Liberal candidate there.

At the Provincial election last year Colchester was the only county in which the Liberals did not name a candidate, and the Farmers captured both seats from the Conservatives. At the by-election later in the year, when Mr. McCurdy was made a Minister, the Liberals again left the field to the Farmers, but Capt. Hugh Dickson, their candidate, was defeated, almost entirely by the votes in the town of Truro.

The belief now is that the Farmers will reciprocate for past favors and leave the field to the Liberals. Everybody expects a Government defeat there in a straight fight, though up till now Colchester has been regarded as the one Nova Scotia riding which the Conservatives could claim to be anything like a safe one.

Mr. McCurdy, it is reported, may try his luck in Halifax.

GOVERNMENT RALLY.

BRANTFORD, Sept. 30. — (Special). — Brantford Liberal-Conservatives had a rousing rally for their annual meeting last night. Nominations will be held in two weeks. Rumor has it that Fred. Douglas, ex-Reeve of Onondaga, is in the running as the Government candidate in Brant.

WALKERTON, Sept. 30.—(Special).—A meeting of the supporters of the National Liberal-Conservative Government in South Bruce will be held at the Town Hall here on Tuesday, October 11, to nominate a candidate. R. E. Truax, M.P., the present member, was recently nominated by the Liberals.

N. BRUCE LIBERALS MEET.

TARA, Ont., Sept. 30.—(Special).—A convention of Liberals of North Bruce will be held in the Town Hall on Tuesday, October 11, to nominate a candidate. Prominent Liberals will address the meeting. Col. Hugh Clark is at present here and will run again as Government candidate.

LIBERALS TO CONTEST ALL SEATS IN MANITOBA.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 30.—(Canadian Press).—Manitoba Liberals will contest every seat in the Province in the coming Federal election, it was decided last night.

MEIGHEN IN OTTAWA.

OTTAWA, September 30. — Canadian Press. — The Prime Minister is back in Ottawa and presides at a Cabinet meeting to-day at which it is stated the date of the election will be decided. It is not thought likely that the date of the election will be held before the second week in December. The draft of the manifesto has been prepared and the manifesto itself will probably be issued during the week end.

The Premier goes to Montreal to-night.

KING IN WINDSOR

WINDSOR, N. S., Sept. 29. — (Canadian Press). — Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Liberal Leader, accompanied by Hon. H. H. Beland, M.P., for Beauce; D. D. Mackenzie, M.P. for Cape Breton North and William Duff, M.P., for Lunenburg, arrived in Windsor yesterday from Truro.

Yesterday afternoon Hon. Mr. King and other members of his party addressed a meeting in the Armouries.

THREE IN NORTH OXFORD.

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

WOODSTOCK, Sept. 30.—A three-cornered contest is assured in North Oxford in the coming Federal election. George F. Mason, secretary of the North Oxford Reform Association, announced this morning that a Liberal candidate would be placed in the field to opose E. W. Nesbitt, who will in all likelihood be the Government nominee, and John Lillico, the U. F. O. candidate. A meeting of the executive of the association will be held next week to arrange for a convention, at which the candidate will be selected. Already some names are mentioned, amongst them being the names of three women.

Land In Desert Sold For Farms

ASSESSED AT 75 CENTS AN ACRE, SOLD IN EDMONTON FOR $35 AN ACRE.

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

EDMONTON, Sept. 30.—That over ten thousand acres of desert land in California have been sold by a promoter to residents of the Edmonton district, and that a large colony from this section of the Dominion was planning to go to California this fall to settle on their land, is the startling information which reached Edmonton to-day.

The poignancy of the situation is added to when it is stated that the gullible clients of the smooth-long-promoter have paid $35 an acre for the land, whereas it is actually assessed at 75 cents an acre in the recorder's office at San Bernardino, California. The first intimation of the swindle which has evidently been perpetrated comes here in the form of a copy of "The Daily Facts," published at Redlands, California. This publication gives full details of the bare-faced robbery which would appear to have been "put over" on a large number of Edmonton people, and states that the tract of land which has been sold for colonization is located near Twenty-Nine Palms on the desert in California.

Enquiry at the Board of Trade headquarters, local real estate offices and police headquarters this morning failed to reveal any information as to the identity of the promoters who have apparently visited here and sold thousands of acres little better than a desert.

ROLLER SKATING RINK WILL OPEN TO-MORROW NIGHT

WITH A BAND OF FIFTEEN PIECES FOR SKATING — REVIVAL OF POPULAR SPORT.

Throughout the province roller skating, once so popular, but which fell off during the war, is showing signs of revival, and rinks are opening up at many centres.

The Arena Rink Limited, owners of the Brock street rink, have put this rink in first class shape for roller skating, and until ice comes this winter it will be operated for rollers.

Mr. Len Pitcher, who was overseas, and one of the best floor managers in the province, will be in charge of the floor.

The rink will be conducted in a gentlemanly manner and a great revival of roller skating is expected.

For to-morrow night, The Peterborough Melody Concert Band of 15 pieces, will furnish the music.

There will be no charge for spectators, but for skaters, 25c.

HARRIERS ENJOYED LAST NIGHT'S RUN

GENERAL INVITATION EXTENDED TO ALL WHO WISH TO TAKE UP ROAD RACING TO TURN OUT MONDAY NIGHT.

Charlie Thorpe took a group of harriers for a canter last night from the Y. M. C. A. through the north end of the city. They were out only twenty minutes, and enjoyed this first workout for the Thanksgiving Day road race. Some of them were eager for sprints and more distance, but Thorpe refused to let their enthusiasm run loose. Speed and distance, he told the class, would be gradually increased as the boys became hardened to the work. Monday night will bring the attendance up to twenty-five. This number is very encouraging, but there will be a hundred youths taking advantage of these Monday and Thursday night runs. The Y. M. C. A. has shown their interest by permitting all these candidates for the road race to undress there, and Mr. Thorpe is giving his time in the hope that road racing will be revived in this city.

Only a few seniors have turned out so far, but there are others practising alone in different parts of the city.

LAST RITES TO PARLIAMENT TO BE PAID TO-DAY

PREMIER MEETS HIS COLLEAGUES IN COUNCIL TO DISSOLVE CANADA'S THIRTEENTH PARLIAMENT.

DATE OF THE ELECTION MAY BE ANNOUNCED, TOO

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

OTTAWA, Sept. 30. — Premier Meighen returned from the West this morning. At two o'clock this afternoon he will meet his colleagues in Council. Dissolution will be announced, though it is not certain whether the date of the election will be given out. Neither is it at all sure that Senatorial vacancies will immediately be filled. The desire of the Government is to keep its followers working as long as possible, and Senatorial appointments are not so conducive to work as the prospect thereof.

Premier Meighen will be accompanied on the platform at Montreal this evening by Hon. C. C. Ballantyne, Hon. D. G. Belli, Postmaster-General, Sir Thomas White, former Minister of Finance, and others. The meeting will be the first public meeting which the Premier has addressed in Montreal, for many a long day. Threats of "rotten egging" are not taken seriously here, and it is anticipated that the Premier will receive quite a respectful hearing at the Quebec metropolis.

The Premier will return to Ottawa to-morrow to clean up his business prior to his departure for the Maritime Provinces.

It has been rumored here that Sir Henry Drayton, Minister of Finance, may seek re-election in Ottawa. In political circles the rumor is not given much credence. Sir Henry received an acclamation in Kingston when he succeeded Sir Thomas White as Minister of Finance. He is now pretty well settled in Ottawa, having purchased a house.

TORONTO POLICE PROBE REPORTED BY INVESTIGATOR

CROWN ATTORNEY AND INTERPRETERS, EXCEPT MARKWITZ, EXONERATED

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

TORONTO, Sept. 30.—His Honor Judge Ward declared in his report to the Attorney-General that Crown Attorney Corley has been indiscreet "in going to the houses of interpretors and associationg with them on terms of equality." He finds, however, that there is not the slightest foundation for any imputation against Mr. Corley for not attending to his duties as Crown Attorney, and conducting his cases in an able and proper manner.

The Judge recommends that Markowitz, the Russian interpretor, should not be officially appointed as interpretor in the Police Court. He finds nothing in the charges against Mrs. Grace Bagnat, Italian interpretor, which reflects in any way on her character of work, and he recommends that she be reinstated.

He also clear Mrs. Markowitz of any charges against her. The Judge scores the detectives and police who participated in the parties held at the Markowitz house, and says that in the absence of any denial from them the statements made about them must be accepted as true.

His Honor declared that Alderman Singer was justified in asking for the enquiry, and deserves credit for his action in bringing the matter up.

TERRIFIC STORM SWEEPS DISTRICT OF ST. CATHERINES

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 3. — (Canadian Press.)—A storm of hurricane strength broke over this district before noon to-day, tearing roofs from buildings, smashing windows, dismantling chimneys and shifting buildings from their alignment in the city, and laying bare orchards in the country. The damage is expected to reach many thousands of dollars.

RUMOR FOLLOWS DOUG. AND MARY

CHERBOURG, Sept. 30.—"Doug" and "Mary" and a rumor arrived here to-day. Mr. and Mrs. Fairbanks were greeted by the local authorities in an unofficial reception, and little children came to the quai with armfuls of flowers for the "world's sweetheart." Doug and Mary were all smiles and appeared healthy, while the rumor—that a shadowy, long-legged bird had flapped along after the Olympic and was expected around the Fairbanks flat—was also getting strong.

HOLD FESTIVAL AT ST. LUKE'S

VISITING CLERGY AT MOST IMPRESSIVE SERVICES IN HISTORY OF CHURCH.

The annual Harvest Festival of St. Luke's Church was held last evening. The church was appropriately and beautifully decorated for the occasion by the Chancel Guild, and the whole services were carried out in one of the most impressive ceremonies in the history of the festival. he choir rendered some special music, under the direction of Mr. William Thompson, organist of St. Luke's, with a lovely rendition of the "Magnificat" and the "Nunc Dimittus."

Attending clergymen who took part the services were: Rev. Geo. J. Bousfield, pastor of St. Luke's, Rev. R. B. Grobb of All Saint's; Rev. W. R. Courage of St. George's and Dr. Blagrave of St. John's. Rev. Thos. G. Wallace, rector of St. Stephen's Church, Toronto, gave an exceptionally fine address from John 12:24 "Except a corn of wheat fall into the ground and die, it abideth above but if it die, it bringeth forth much fruit," illustrating the truth that great things are gained only by service and sacrifice, for if Christ had not set a shining example in these respects, His Word would not have brought forth the results achieved by it.

WANDERING CHILD RETURNED TO MOTHER

The report in yesterday's Examiner of the little 10-year old girl who wandered into the Munro House on Wednesday, and found kind care for the night, was incorrect in stating that she was an inmate of the Children's Shelter. It appears that her home is at 272 Water street, to where the child had not returned on leaving school in the afternoon. Her mother, Mrs. Wm. R. Palmer, was nearly frantic at the little one's absence, of which she had notified the police, who Thursday morning took the little wanderer home on learning from the Munro House that she had found protection in that hostelry over night.

MAY SETTLE WAGE DISPUTE WITHOUT HELP FROM BOARD

MONTREAL, Sept. 30.—(Canadian Press.)—It is possible that the dispute between the railways and employees over the wage reduction may be settled without the aid of a Board of Conciliation. A joint committee of the men is meeting to-day to select six members to confer with a similar number of representatives of the companies. Therefore the Conciliation Board has adjourned until Wednesday next.

WILL SEND DELEGATES TO CONFERENCE IN LONDON ON TUESDAY, OCTOBER 11.

DIRECT CONFERENCE NOW NEXT STEP IN PARLEYS

DUBLIN, Sept. 30. — (United Press.)—Eamonn De Valera, on behalf of the Irish Republic, to-day accepted Lloyd George's invitation. Sinn Fein delegates will be sent to meet the British Cabinet in London, Oct. 11.

The Irish leader's telegram to Lloyd George to-day brought to an end the lengthy interchange of notes between the two countries, and the next step in Irish negotiations will be a direct conference.

De Valera's telegram to-day was in reply to one received from Lloyd George by the Dail Cabinet yesterday.

TROLLEY BUSSES UNDERGOING TEST

AND MAY BE OPERATED IN PETERBORO' ON EXTENSIONS

Sir Adam Beck told a local deputation in Toronto yesterday that a trolley 'bus line now under experiment in Windsor might be adopted in Peterborough if the tests are successful. Mayor McIntyre, Aldermen Hay and Phelan and City Clerk Armstrong presented to the Hydro chairman this city's needs of improved transportation service, especially to Ashburnham. Sir Adam Beck replied that a trolley 'bus line could be operated at least 25 per cent. cheaper than the gasoline 'busses, more power would be secured, especially for plowing the snow in winter.

THE GRAVEYARD OF NEWSPAPERS FULL

The Wellesley, Ont. Maple Leaf has ceased publication. In its farewell notice, H. W. Kaufman, the publisher, said: "After a struggle of over twenty-one years, the Maple Leaf has gone the way of most country papers during the past four years. During these four years the cost of production has increased two hundred to three hundred per cent., while the income is practically the same. This has caused the suspension or amalgamation of over 200 newspapers in Canada during the past few years.

"The reason the newspapers graveyard is so full is shown by an editor who has been investigating the cause of the high mortality. He figures out that in 1907 wages were at a 100. In 1914 they had advanced 178, and in 1921, the figure was 393. Newsprint from 100 jumped to 177 in 1914, and to 623 in 1921. Newspaper postage, which cost the normal of 100 in 1907, was 147 in 1914, and 337 in 1921. Ink was 100 in 1908, 200 in 1914, and today stands at 331.

Editorial expense advanced from 100 in 1907 to 120 in 1914, and 241 in 1921. Miscellaneous expenses went from 100 in 1907, to 125 in 1914, and to 244 in 1921. By taking the average of all newspaper costs, it was found that while the average or index number of 1907 was 100, in 1914 it was 159, and in 1921 it reached the high mark of 411.

"More than 4,000 newspaper publications have thus gone out of existence in the United States and a corresponding number of them in Canada."

E. RILEY WON PRIZE WINDOW DRESSING

Eddie Riley is to be congratulated upon having been awarded a prize for his display window of Jack Primeau's fashion craft store on Hunter Street, last June. This was the gratifying result of Mr. Riley's skilful endeavors in a window display competition, one of many conducted by the Forsyth De Luxe Shirt Company of Kitchener, twice a year, and in which competitors from the Atlantic to the Pacific enter. In these competitions window dressers who produce the most effective showing of De Luxe shirts are awarded prizes which Mr. Riley, from experience as a winner, can testify to being worth the effort.

Eddie's windows, as photographed, shows an artistically designed exposition of these high grade masculine garments in varied colors—only shirts with a relief setting of handsome parlor tables bearing an elegant piano lamp—not much to work with, but for all that, the whole combining in a specimen of tasteful window display creation which irresistibly attracted and held the eye of the passerby.

The judges were W. R. Perry and E. P. Burns, of Toronto, whose commendation as men in the front ranks of display art carries far greater value than the prizes accompanying their decision.

TURPENTINE, AND HOW IT IS MADE.

The operation of turpentining pine trees does not lower the strength of resin content of the wood, according to information obtained by the Forest Products Laboratory at Madison, Wis. The crude turpentine, or oleo-resin, is not drained from a store in the tree, but is manufactured under the stimulus of the wound by living cells in the sapwood immediately adjacent to the cut on the trunk.

The major part of the tree is not appreciably affected, and the loss due to death of trees or to a reduction or degrading of lumber is very small. Furthermore this loss is more than offset by the additional revenue obtained through turpentining. The greater part of the wood that is chipped away would not have become finished lumber but would have gone into slabs and edgings at the sawmill. With proper treatment, the turpentined faces remain healthy, and the wood underneath does not become saturated with resin to any great extent.

APSLEY MEN HUNT WOLVES

LARGE PACK CAME CLOSE TO THE VILLAGE--SEVERAL SHEEP KILLED.

NEWS FROM APSLSY

APSLEY, Sept. 30.— Wolves are becoming quite a serious menace, several sheep having been killed last week. On Friday evening the howling of what must have been a large pack ,was heard quite close to the village, and at three o'clock in the morning they were again in evidence, waking the villagers with their hideous howls.

A "battue" was organized early Saturday morning and nine of the stalwarts of the village armed with rifles of every description, set out with the determination to secure the government bounty for wolves, but met with no success. They may have succeeded, however, in scaring them farther afield, as they have not been heard near here since.

Thanksgiving Service.

The Harvest Thanksgiving service was held at St. George's church on Friday evening, when the church presented a very pleasing spectacle, being lavishly decorated with the first fruits of the harvest. A large congregation was present. The service was fully choral. The anthem, "I Will Feed My Flock," by Simper, was well sung. Mr. E. L. Spence presided at the organ.

At the Races.

Apsley was well represented in the horse racing at Coe Hill fair, there being no less than four entries from here, viz., Tommy Lean, Vernal Windsor, Ivan Whitmore, and Herb. Tucker. Tommy Lean succeeded in securing second place and Whitmore third. Herb. Tucker took second prize in the riding contest.

Guests Registered.

The following guests registered at the Union Hotel during the week: Giles Stone, Peterborough; Fred Johnston, Young's Point; J. W. Stuart, Peterborough; W. J. Boyle, Oshawa; A. E. Thompson, Hamilton; Geo. N. Hart, London; W. G. Pearse, London; Tom Jeffery, Oshawa; Bill Grout, Toronto; D. Charlton, Lakefield; G. R. Davidson, Dan Cameron, Toronto; J. K. WINDSOR POLICE PROBE IS IN AIR

POLICE COMMISSION NOT OFFICIALLY NOTIFIED YET

WINDSOR, Ont., Sept. 30. — (Canadian Press).—Owing to the absence from the city of Mayor H. W. Wilson the meeting of the police Commission yesterday was postponed until to-night. Judge W. B. Gundy, chairman of the Commission, stated to-day that the Commission had not so far been officially notified of the investigation asked for by the Council into alleged irregularities of the Police Department.

LIBERALS CONTEST YORK

TORONTO, Sept. 30.—(Canadian Press).—Toronto Liberals will contest all ten Federal ridings in Toronto and York.

VICTORIA CROSS WINNER MAY BE CHOICE OF U.F.O.

CHARLES RUTHERFORD, NOW FARMING NEAR COLBORNE, MAY BE NOMINATED AT WARKWORTH CONVENTION—CONSERVATIVES OF NORTHUMBERLAND ALSO PREPARING.

MEETINGS NEXT WEEK

CAMPBELLFORD, September 30. —The Federal campaign in Northumberland county opens with two conventions at Warkworth next week. On Monday the Conservatives will prepare for action at a meeting in afternoon, at which the Examiner was informed, preliminary arrangements for a later convention would be mapped out. The U. F. O. have called their convention for Tuesday and, it is understood, are ready to proceed with the selection of a candidate. Nothing is definitely known as to the intentions of the Liberals, but it is declared by some members of this party that it cannot afford to remain unrepresented if it is to continue its existence as a political entity in the county.

The U.F.O. at this stage are apparently the most decided in their plans and quite an imposing list of aspirants for the nomination is mentioned by farmers who speak with an air of finality that is supported by the reports from other quarters. Fred Slade of Haldimand County, ex-Warden of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham, is named by some as the favorite. There is also Alex. Macklin, who has been reeve of Brighton, and several others from along the lake front. Among those who, it is said, will be presented to the convention is Charles Rutherford, V.C., one of Canada's most distinguished soldiers in the war, who is now farming near Colborne. The fact that he is one of the comparatively few Canadian winners of the Victoria Cross, elevates him to a position which his friends aver would reflect honour upon the constituency and upon his membership in the Commons if he were elected. It is further felt that he would secure the support of the returned men throughout the riding, not only in the rural sections, but also in the towns.

Mrs. Charles Macoun, who lives few miles out of Campbellford, will also be tendered the nomination, but it is felt that she will not allow her name to go on the convention ballot. Mrs. Macoun is a thoughtful and fluent speaker and has a Dominion wide reputation for her activities in womens' affairs.

The Examiner also learned that Mr. Thomas McKim, former pastor of the English church at Hastings, who is now farming near Colborne, would be a strong contestant for hte U.F.O. candidature.

Conservative Possibilities.

Three names are most frequently mentioned for the leadership of the Conservative party. They are C. A. Munson ,the present member, Warden Maybee and Mr. I. A. Humphries, a Campbellford lawyer, who is well known throughout Northumberland County and the entire Trent district.

Owing to the recent illness of Mr. Munson some doubt is expressed as to his renomination. Both Mr. Humphies and Warden Maybee are considered prominent figures in the Conservative ranks but the choice of the party will remain in doubt until the convention.

Sam Clarke Spoken Of.

Political gossip here indicates hesitancy or something akin to apathy among the Liberals. The only rumour so far heard is the possibility of Sam Clarke resigning from the Legislature to contest the Federal seat as the Liberal standard bearer, but Mr. Clarke's friends scout that idea.

FIRE SWEPT PINE LODGE

SUMMER RESORT NEAR TRENT RIVER WIPED OUT—CAUSE UNKNOWN.

TRENT RIVER NEWS

TRENT RIVER, Sept. 30. — On Tuesday night, about 11 o'clock, a big fire occurred at Mud Lake, about two miles east of here, when the handsome new summer resort, Pine Lodge, owned by Mr. McCune, of Toronto, was completely destroyed including all contents, among which was a handsome piano. Nothing was saved. The barns were also swept by the terrific blaze. Mr. McCune and Mr. Ned McCann were the only occupants at the time, Mrs. McCune having left for Toronto a short time ago. The cause of the fire is unknown, and very little insurance.

Pine Lodge was built last spring, and was a handsome structure — about twenty-eight bedrooms and throughout the entire building was laid hardwood floors, and all furnishings were up to date.

The lodge was built on elevated land, and set amongst a grove of immense pine trees, and all that is left is one lovely pine, smouldering away. It is stated Mr. McCune does not intend to re-build.

Want Hydro Lighting.

Through the efforts of Mr. E. H. Fairbrother, of Toronto, who owns a summer residence here, a petition is in circulation, waiting for signatures of all ratepayers, from here and Havelock Road, who want to be connected up with Hydro lights. There are several questions to be answered in connection with the number of horse power required by each subscriber. The petition can be seen at any time at Mr. Geo. Chiles' general store.

A number from here attended Marmora Fair Tuesday.

Mr. Walton Kennedy was down from Toronto this week for a few days at the Kennedy Cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hendry left yesterday by motor for Clarkston, after spending a few days at the Cook Cottage.

WOODEN SHINGLE A FIRE MENACE?

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 30.—(Canadian Press).—A discussion on the question of the wooden shingle, its menace from the point of view of fire danger and its utility and economic value, occupied the attention of the delegates to the annual meeting yesterday of the Dominion Fire Prevention Association.

It was generally admitted by those taking part in the discussion that the wooden shingle was more or less of a menace, but it was pointed out that the question of getting something to take its place at an equal cost had not yet been solved. It was stated that it would be a hardship to the building public to prohibit the use of shingles unless an equally good and cheap substitute could be provided.

WANDERER PLAYS CARDS ON LAST NIGHT OF LIFE

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—(Canadian Press.)—Carl Wanderer, who is to hang this morning for the murder of E. J. Ryan, the "poor boob" whom he hired for $5 to stage a fake hold-up, spent his last night playing cards.

When told that Governor Small had denied a plea for reprieve, Wanderer said:

"Well, what of it? I am ready to go."

Then turning back to his guards, with whom he was playing, he remarked: "That last trick's mine. I played the Ace of Spades."

FARM IMPLEMENT PRICES ARE REDUCED

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—(Canadian Press.)—The International Harvester Company has announced reductions ranging from 10 to 20 per cent. in practically all lines of farm implements. The cut is effective October 1.

This is the company's second general reduction this year. In March and April prices of agricultural machines were cut ten to fifteen per cent. and in July reductions were made on all types of tractors.

"These prices were made after a careful study of market and labor conditions," the Harvester Company's announcement of the latest cut says, "and represent our judgment of the lowest possible raw material and production cost that can, under the most favorable conditions, be forecast for the manufacturing season of 1922."

COAL STRIKE SETTLEMENT TERMS ARE IN DISPUTE.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—(Canadian Press). — A deputation of South Wales coal mine-owners discussed with the Mines Department of the Government yesterday the misunderstanding over the terms of the settlement of the recent coal strike which, under the Government's interpretation, calls for an additional £750,000 from the owners for wages.

After the conference the Mines Department issued a statement adhering to their interpretation of the settlement but intimating the Government's willingness to refer the question to the chairman of the National Coal Board for a decision.

WOOD SAYS MEIGHEN'S PLAN IS TOO NEBULOUS

CALGARY, Sept. 30. —(Canadian Press.)—"The whole thing is too nebulous a state to pass any opinion about it," declared R. W. Wood, president of the United Farmers of Alberta, when his opinion was asked regarding the Canadian wheat pool suggested by Premier Meighen in his Portage la Prairie speech.

"If the Premier can work out a plan that will accomplish what he says, all well and good," continued Mr. Wood, "but until he is in a position to bring this forward no purpose would be served by discussing it. At the present time it is merely an idea; the idea is good, but farmers will want to see the plan," he said.

Mr. Wood refused to enter into any criticisms of the prmeier's speech in general, merely commenting that "there is nothing in it to inspire hope and confidence in the supporters of the Meighen government."

GRAIN PROBE HALT AWAITS COURT RULING

ARGUMENTS CONCLUDED IN APPEAL OF DOMINION AGAINST INJUNCTION OF MANITOBA COURT.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 30.—(Canadian Press).—Arguments of appellant and respondent were concluded yesterday afternoon and the appeal of the Dominion Government against the injunction of Mr. Justice J. P. Curran restraining the Royal Grain Enquiry Commission from continuing its investigation now awaits the decision of the Manitoba Court of Appeal.

Good government was a comprehensive term, E. L. Newcomb, K.C., Deputy Minister of Justice and counsel for the Government, said in his reply to respondent's argument, and power was held by the Government to inquiry into any matter pertaining to the peace, order and good government of Canada. Consequently, he said, it was authorized to investigate the grain trade as it was not solely a Provincial subject; it affected the entire country.

H. J. Symington, K.C., counsel for the United Grain Growers' Company, Ltd., closed his argument, citing three reasons why the Commission should be declared ultra vires, namely, the grain trade was a private business and could not come under Governmental investigation; prior delegation of power to investigate had been invested in the Board of Grain Commissioners, and the ineligibility of one commissioner rendered the entire Commission invalid.

BRITISH NOTE CONCILIATORY

THIS IS VIEW OF BOTH LONDON AND DUBLIN

LONDON, Sept. 30.—(Canadian Press).—"Wholly conciliatory" is the view expressed both in London and Dublin of Mr. Lloyd George's latest note to Eamon De Valera, in which the Prime Minister invites the leaders of the Sinn Fein to a conference in London, October 11, in an endeavor to settle the Irish controversy.

Mr. Lloyd George makes as the basis of the note, the offer of a conference, "with a view to ascertaining how the association of Ireland with the community of nations known as the British Empire may best be reconciled with Irish national aspirations."

It is understood that various members of the British Cabinet are of the opinion that there is nothing in the communication to prevent the proposed conference. This certainly appears to be the belief held by the London public and press; and the comments thus far received from Dublin speak of "the extreme gratification" the communication is causing there.

Unionist opinion in Ulster, according to Belfast reports reaching London, is that the note makes it easier for Mr. De Valera to agree to another meeting.

FIRES AND MOTORISTS.

Chatham apparently is troubled with the same difficulty as Peterborough in regard to motorists who persist in rushing to fires when the bell rings, and not only putting the lives of pedestrians in peril, but also hampering the Fire Department by blocking the streets. To overcome the nuisance, the Chatham authorities have decided to discard the large fire bell for a month, and to permanently do away with it if the experiment proved a success.

The same plan would not be out of place in Peterborough. The ringing of the bell of the town clock tower to give general warning of a fire is a custom dating back from the old days before there were paid fire brigades or electric alarms. It is a convenience to the public, of course, and before the advent of motor cars the sounding of the bell caused no trouble. Nowadays nearly every motorist who hears an alarm rung in scurries for the scene of the blaze, and the Fire Department has often found it difficult to get all its apparatus through without annoying delays caused by cars blocking the street. Chief Grange will probably follow the working out of the Chatham experiment with a great deal of interest.

THE NEED OF PRECAUTION.

There is no occasion to be panic-stricken because of the presence in the city of quite a large number of cases of scarlet fever and diphtheria. The authorities are exercising every precaution to prevent the spreading of infection, and there is no fear of the outbreak approaching epidemic proportions if the efforts of the Medical Officer of Health are backed by the co-operation of the public. The chief source of danger is furnished by the people who think only of their own selfish interests and ignore the menace their action presents to the public health, neglecting to call in medical assistance, and thus escaping the annoyance of being quarantined. In most of these cases the patient is only suffering from a mild form of the disease, and the services of a physician may not be required. But the failure to call in a medical man and consequently the absence of all precautions that would tend to prevent infection, makes such cases a peril to the community. Unfortunately infection from a mild type of the disease often causes a most malignant form of the same disease, and every home that is not quarantined may be a death trap for those who may be brought into contact with those who are carrying germs of scarlet fever or diphtheria.

A CHANCE TO HELP.

A week fro mto-morrow, on Saturday, 8th October, the annual tag day of the Children's Aid Society will be held in Peterborough. The date usually selected is the Saturday preceding Thanksgiving Day, but as that holiday falls in November this year, the society has decided to stage its annual collection at the same time as usual. It is not necessary in these columns to say much about the great work of the Children's Aid Society. What it has accomplished on behalf of children who would be without a chance in the world were it not for the society, is too well known to require any extended references here. All that is needed, perhaps, is to remind the public that a very large percentage of the revenue needed to finance the society's operations is derived from the Tag Day effort, and to urge the citizens of Peterborough to display their usual generosity when they are called upon a week from to-morrow. The tag day method gives every one an opportunity to assist this splendid cause, and it is expected that the response this year will be indicative of general appreciation of the services of the society.

SOUND COUNSEL.

In his annual address to the students the other day, Sir Robert Falconer, President of Toronto University, gave some sound advice that applies with equal force to those outside the college walls. Referring to athletics, Varsity's head pointed out to the new students that they should not confine their efforts merely to looking on, and that they should ever keep in mind that the game was the thing, and true sportsmanship not merely the winning of games. That is counsel that Canadians everywhere need to heed. There is not enough active participation in manly games, far too many people are satisfied merely to sit in the grand stand and watch others play. There should be more opportunities for people generally to get the exercise and recreation that the proper development of their bodies requires. And Sir Robert's admonition that the mere winning of games is not the spirit of sportsmanship is also timely.

In some instances, at least, Canadians seem to be drifting away from the British conception of sport and inclining to the American attitude, which is chiefly concerned in winning and pays little attention to the means adopted so long as the results are secured.

THE BRITISH CENSUS.

The last British census was taken on June 19, and its totals have recently been made public, says Herbert N. Casson in Barrow's. It reveals a population of 42,767,530 in England, Scotland and Wales.

No census was taken in Ireland, but the estimated population there is 4,500,000. This would make a total for the British Isles of over 47,000,000.

As the latest estimate of the population of the whole world is 1,646,000,000, the British people are only 3 per cent. of the human race.

They are a most effective 3 per cent., as they now control more than one-quarter of the earth, and are at the moment gathering in Arabia and Mesopotamia.

The British Empire, in short, is about ten times as populous as the British Isles; and it is about 130 times as big.

The British people are now at the highest point of their history. Never before have they had so many people under their flag or so vast an area of control.

But their census has had its surprises, too, as well as its satisfactions. The first surprise was the small rate of increase. Never, in any previous census, has it been so low.

The net gain in the last 10 years has been only 1,815,000. This is only half as much as it had been expected to be.

There was a loss of over 500,000 by war, and twice as much by a lowered birth-rate. The loss by emigration was over 600,000; but this was probably quite made up by incoming people.

London has had an increase. There are now 7,476,168 people in her 700 square miles; but the rate of increase is the lowest on record — only 4.4 per cent.

Several industrial cities, such as Rochdale and Halifax, have actually a smaller population than they had 10 years ago. Only one city—Birmingham, has shown any signs of rapid development.

Taken as a whole, London and Lancashire are almost at a standstill; and the increases are mostly in the smaller, non-industrial towns, such as Blackpool, Southend and Eastbourne.

England has always before her the warning of France, which has 2,500,000 fewer people than she had 10 years ago; and consequently, this drop in the birth-rate has been an unwelcome surprise.

The extraordinary surplus of women, too, has given the British people a shock. They have no prejudice against women, but they do not care to have nearly 2,000,000 more women than men. In England, there are now 11 women to every 10 men, which is a most unique and abnormal situation.

There is no political nor industrial danger in this preponderance of women, as the day of the suffragettes is over, but the British are afraid of the social effects of having 2,000,000 extra women; and they have no remedy to offer except to urge women to go to the colonies.

The third surprise of the census was the falling off of the farming population. In spite of all the exhortations to feed herself, Britain still refuses to make a better use of her land.

In England, especially, the census reveals a tendency towards excessive urbanization. Half of the people live in 60 cities. All told, four-fifths of them live in cities and small towns.

In this small island, not as large as one-half of Texas, there are now 25 cities with more than 200,000 population. And there is one vast city, London, which contains more people than Australia and New Zealand combined.

Britain was never so dependent on foreign countries for her food as she is to-day. Her own soil is idle, for the most part. It produces the most delightful scenery in the world—the most charming small fields and wooded hills; but it produces the smallest percentage of crops of any country.

As the Saturday Review very aptly says—"there are exactly 42,767,530 reasons why we should have industrial peace at home and absolute freedom of trade with the world outside."

The fact is that Britain depends on her export trade for her food, not only for her comforts and luxuries; and the census has now made it clear that unless there is a better distribution of population and more appreciation of scientific agriculture, there may come a day when hunger shall become an unwelcome guest in this island.

In a word, the main warning of the census is that Britain must either lower her standards of living or increase her foreign trade.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The dollar is worth more now than it was two or three years ago. But it is also harder to get.

"The old game of piracy may be reviving," says the Kansas City Star, "but it is a futile endeavour. Sooner or later the pirates will have to land, and then the profiteers will get them."

The baseball scores seem to be causing more interest than the unemployment situation.

Many swing hard, but few are Babe Ruths, is the baseball version of the old proverb.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

It will soon be necessary to frame a law penalizing the cows that put a kick in thier milk by eating cider apples.

The irony of fate seems to be well represented in the case of the minister out west who was arrested for trying to pass a counterfeit $2 bill he got in the collection plate.

An ancient mariner dropped in on a restaurant and ordered soup. The waiter brought it.

"What is this?" said the old mariner after tasting it.

"Soup," said the waiter.

"That's funny," said the old tar. "I have been sailing in this stuff for forty years and never knew what it was."

Since men's coats have been made with tight sleeves, poker games are much safer.

The college graduate, the day after commencement, swaggered into a bank and asked to see the president. He was told to wait in an anteroom, where a small boy was chewing gum.

"'Boy,' he said after a bit, 'do you know if there's an opening in the bank for a college graduate?"

"The boy, chewing grimly, answered:

"'Dere will be if dey don't slip de extra five spot wot I'm askin' for in me next pay envelope, see?'"

LITERARY GEMS

SAND.

Large numbers of people have brilliant qualities; they know a great deal, they are well educated, but they lack sand, staying power. They can't stand by a proposition and see it through thick and thin to the end. They lack that bulldog grit which hangs on until they triumph or die. They lack the clinging ability that never lets go, no matter what comes. They work well when things go smoothly; they are fair-weather sailors but are terrified in storm, paralyzed in an emergency. Staying power is the final test of ability.

MOPLAH REVOLT VIEWED AS SERIOUS BY MADRAS.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—(Canadian Press).—It is officially announced that the military authorities at Madras take a serious view of the strong resistance of the Moplahs in India, which may entail more vigorous prosecution of the campaign to suppress the revolt.

The recent action of the rebels shows their resistance is framed on guerilla lines, accompanied by plunder and terrorization. Armed gangs are getting stronger, and it is surmised that the rebels are swelling in numbers.

Liquidate the Mortgage by Means of Mutual Life Insurance

TAKE the case of a young family in one of the Ontario cities. The father and husband died, leaving a home only partly paid for and little else of realizable value. The widow, lacking means to pay off the mortgage or even to continue the interest payments, found the home that the husband had provided an added burden, rather than a comfort—a liability, rather than an asset. The bereaved family were obliged to sell their equity at a sacrifice.

The Loss Could Have Been Avoided

Now, there was no real necessity for circumstances overwhelming that little family in this way. The Mutual Life would have gladly issued a policy on that young man's life, which would have saved that home for those dependent on him. He could have taken out either an ordinary "straight" life policy, a ten, fifteen or twenty-year payment life policy or an endowment policy.

Any one of these Mutual policies at a comparatively small cost would have provided a fund at his death to liquidate the balance of the mortgage and pay the numerous expenses incidental to that time.

In the case of the endowment policy, had he lived to the expiration of the period stipulated, he would have received the full face value of the policy, plus the accrued participating profits, which the Mutual shares with policyholders in full.

In the case of ten, fifteen or twenty payment life policies, his heirs would always have received the full face value of the policy, while, had he lived, there would have been no more premiums to pay, at the end of the period named.

In any case, Mutual Insurance would have liquidated the mortgage on that home without the slightest strain upon the bereaved family's resources.

Perpetuate your home, safeguard your children and protect their mother with a policy in the Mutual Life.

GRAIN SCREENINGS ARE DUMPED IN LAKE.

WINNIPEG, Man., September 30 (Canadian Press). — A local paper publishes the following from Fort William:

"Giving up hope of being able to sell grain screenings, local elevators to-day are commencing hauling this by-product out into Lake Superior and dumping it. Worth $22.00 a ton eighteen months ago, screenings now have no value, though they were exported to the United States for many years and yielded revenue to Canadian farmers and grain companies of nearly $1,000,000 annually. The southern market has fallen flat, due to the decline in the market price of sheep, which were extensively fed on screenings. Last year 51,000 tons of screenings were exported, but even then the shippers took a loss. The year before, 22,000 tons were exported, and sold for $22.00 a ton.

"District fish dealers and fishermen are to-day protesting against the dumping of grain screenings in the bay, declaring that it is likely to destroy trout and white fish."

WAITING AND DREAMING.

Chapter 76.

The next few weeks were filled with dreaming and planning.

I had no one now to leave our boy with so Kent had to make two or three trips to Connecticut by himself and arrange everything without me. We had decided to move about the last of March.

"My, but it's bleak and cold up there in the country," Kent declared one day when he had just come back from making arrangements for having coal put in the cellar and a few other final touches.

"Hurry up into dinner, dear. I have a fine hot oyster stew that will put warmth into you," I answered, hurrying down the hall toward the kitchen.

"Come dear," I called again when I had everything on the table.

Kent was some time in coming and I had to go after him. I found him in the nursery leaning over the side of Kent, Jr.'s little bed. He smiled across the room at me and I motioned for him to hurry.

"I'm sorry he isn't awake to say goodnight to you, Kent. He has a little cold and seemed feverish and tired to-night, so I put him to bed early,' I explained as we sat down to dinner.

"I wonder if we ought to move before the warm weather. It will be beautiful up there in the spring," Kent questioned a little doubtfully.

"Oh, yes, don't let's wait a day longer," I urged. "Kents cold is just a tiny one and he'll be all right surely in three more weeks.

"And, Kent, somehow I want to be there when the spring comes. I want to be there waiting for it like—like I waited for all the deepness and understanding of your love to unfold itself before me. There is something strangely wonderful about seeing the beautiful things of nature reveal themselves slowly but always surely."

Kent caught my hand across the table and held it a minute in his, but he did not answer.

I knew there were little idealistic moments in a woman's life when a man could not quite understand her. Even when two souls were so closely bound together as Kent's and mine, there is always that romantic feminine point of view and the practically masculine.

I smiled back at Kent across the table.

"Am I a little hard to understand, dear?" I teased.

His forehead puckered.

"There, Kent— women are quite distractingly inconsistent. One minute I'm weeping down your neck for sheer, undiluted joy, and then again I'm romancing and dreaming of spring, while the March winds are still howling and the thermometer remains at freezing. Don't mind me—except please don't change the date of our moving. I can't wait another single day," I pleaded.

"All right, little mother, don't worry about it. You know very well that youalways have your own way," Kent chided sweetly. "In fact, I'm just beginning to believe I'm decidedly henpecked," he added, but his dear, brown eyes, laughed and told me how much he loved me.

"But Kent, do you know there is justone thing which makes me feel badly about leaving the city," I said, the thoughts of it making me suddenly very serious.

"Yes, Babs, I know," he answered slowly. "It's leaving the Barneys, and I don't like it myself."

"And there is going to be someone else who will miss his Uncle Barnee very much," I suggested.

"Don't let's talk about it, Babs," Kent ejaculated. He got up from his chair and paced back and forth nervously. "I guess it's just life, Babs, to always be running across sorrows and disappointments all mixed up with the big happy things."

To-morrow—We Say "Good-bye."

YANKS WIN WHILE INDIANS LOSE; CLEVELAND'S CHANCES EVAPORATES; PIRATES ELIMINATED IN NATIONAL

YANKS SHUT OUT PHILADELPHIA 5 TO 0, WHILE CHICAGO WHITEWASH CLEVELAND BY SAME SCORE—PENNANT VIRTUALLY WITHIN HUGGINS' GRASP.

NEW YORK, September 30. — Canadian Press. — The New York Americans are virtually certain to be the Giants' opponents in the world's series.

By winning yesterday while Cleveland was losing, the Yankees now can lose only by dropping three straight games while the Indians are winning three.

New York has two more games to play with Philadelphia and one with Boston, while Cleveland has three more with Chicago.

As the Yankees have a postponed game with Washington which will not be played off, it will be possible for the New York team to finish the race on even terms with Cleveland in games won but capture the pennant by having one less defeat. This will happen if the Yankees win one of their three games and the Indians take three straight.

YANKEES SHUT OUT PHILADELPHIA 5 TO 0

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 30. — (Canadian Press.) — By defeating Philadelphia 5 to 0, New York tightened its hold upon the American League lead.

As Cleveland was beaten yesterday by Chicago the Yankees need but one more victory to clinch the pennant. Shawkey allowed the Athletics but four hits, and these he kept well scattered. At no time was he is troble. Such fas not the case with Harris. The Yankees garnered nine hits, three of which were for extra bases.

New York confined its scoring to three innings, the second, third and seventh. In the second, Pipp was safe on Dykes' boot, went to second on Ward's sacrifice and scored on McNally's triple. Shawkey's single scored McNally.

Miller's triple and Meusel's single accounted for a run in the third. Peckinpaugh's home run scored Fewster ahead of him in the seventh.

Babe Ruth was not in the limelight, owing to illness. He is expected to join the club to-night.

CHICAGO VIRTUALLY RUINS CHANCES OF CLEVELAND

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—(Canadian Press.)— With "Little Dick" Kerr pitching a masterly game, Chicago virtually ruined Cleveland's chances in the American League pennant race when he shut out the world's champions, 5 to 0, in the first game of the final four-game series.

Cleveland, to beat out New York in the scramble for the flag, must win its three remaining games and the Yankees lose their remaining three. The margin between the pennant contenders to-night was two and a half games.

Kerr celebrated a day set aside in his honor, by holding Cleveland to six hits, and with the aid of sensational fielding did not allow a Cleveland player to pass second. The Indians threatened in the fourth, but Kerr started a double play which shattered their hopes.

After the Sox scored two runs in the first Cleveland played a listless game. In the first Johnson led off with a single and took second on Strunks out. After Collins had flied to Evans, Hooper drove a single to centre, scoring Johnson, Hooper taking second on the throw to the plate. Sheely followed with another single over second, scoring Hooper.

With runners on first and second in the second inning, ad two out, Manager Speaker sent Stephenson to bat for Pitcher Sothoron. Caldwell assumed the pitching burden in the second and fared well until the sixth when, after two were out, Chicago scored another run. Mostil singled to left and Mulligan followed with a hit to the same place. Mostil raced home when Evans booted the ball.

The Sox scored another run in the seventh after two were out. Strunk hit to centre and as a result of Speaker's slow fielding, stretched it into a double.

Collins scored Strunk with a single to centre. In the eighth Mulligan grounded to Caldwell, who threw wide to Burns, permitting Mulligan to reach second, Schalk's triple scoring him. Score:

PITTSBURG ELIMINATED.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 30. — (Canadian Press.)—The Cardinals eliminated Pittsburgh as a pennant hope by winning a double-header, 5 to 4 and 3 to 1, the second game going but six innings due to darkness. By the double victory to-day the Cardinals provided themselves with the chance of tying the Pirates for second place, which may be accomplised by winning the remaining three games from the Pirates in the present series. BY COURTESY OF C.P.R.

It is officially announced that Canadian Pacific Steamships Limited has been definitely chosen as the new name for the former Company known as the Canadian Pacific Ocean Services, Limited. Mr. G. M. Bosworth will continue as Chairman of the Board of Directors, and the organisation and personnel will remain as at present. It is understood that this is a further step in the desire to maintain the closest relations between the railway and the steamships.

The Canadian Pacific has a large fleet of ships on the Atlantic Ocean, the Pacific Ocean, on the Great Lakes and on several of the lakes in British Columbia.

In summer the Canadian ports of the Atlantic service are Montreal and Quebec; in winter the port is St. John, N.B. The ports in Great Britain and on the Continent are Liverpool, Glasgow, Southampton, Havre, Antwerp and Danzig. The Canadian Pacific and the Navigazione Generale Italiana operate a combined service direct from Canada to Genoa, Naples and Trieste.

The steamships of the Atlantic service are Empress of Britain (15,850 tons), Empress of France (18,500 tons), Empress of Scotland (25,000 tons), Minnedosa (14,000 tons), Melita (14,000 tons), Metagama (12,600 tons), Victorian (11,000 tons), Tunisian (10,600 tons), Pretorian (7,000 tons), Scandinavian (12,100 tons), Corsican (11,500 tons), Scotian (10,500 tons), Sicilian (7,350 tons); Montreal (Italian service) is 9,500 tons. Three steamships are nearing completion or being fitted out, the Montcalm, Montclare, and Montrose, of 16,000 tons each. (Ships carrying freight only are the Bosworth, Dunbridge, Bothwell, Bolingbroke and Batsford).

The quickest time across the Pacific is maintained by the Empress of Russia (16,850 tons), Empress of Asia (16,850 tons), Empress of Japan (6,000 tons), Monteagle (6,160 tons) and these will be augmented very soon by the Empress of Canada (22,000 tons), which is now almost ready for service; the Empress of India (17,500 tons), and the Empress of China (19,000 tons). Regular passenger service is between Vancouver and Yokohama, Kobe, Nagasaki, Moji, Shanghai, Manila and Hong Kong. In addition there is a supplementary freight service to Singapore, etc., by the steamships Methven and Wattawa.

The St. Lawrence Route.

Additions are being made to the Atlantic fleet to meet the increase in traffic and the requirements of the present.

The fame of the St. Lawrence route is spreading to such an extent that many wealthy American tourists and business men are commencing to use this route in preference to those from American Atlantic ports. The chief feature of attraction, apart from the comfort and service of the Canadian steamers, is the novelty in the fact that ships plying between Liverpool and Quebec can make the trip within six days, during which time they are only out of sight of land two and a half days. The trip up the St. Lawrence with its beautiful scenery, the absence of sea-sickness and the perfect organization all make a powerful appeal. Passengers in the first and second classes, pass the immigration inspection while sailing up the river from Father Point, also have their steamer tickets exchanged for railway transportation, and their luggage examined and checked, so that they walk from the steamer to special trains in waiting, and may be on their way to their home destinations within one and a half hours after the steamer is docked.

The Empress of Scotland.

The Empress of Scotland, 25,000 gross tonnage, will be the largest ship to enter the St. Lawrence when she runs to Quebec next summer. She was purchased a few months ago by the C.P.R. from the Reparations Commission, and was formerly the German liner, Kaiserin Auguste Victoria. During the first year after the armistice, the K.A.V. (as she was known for short), ran under the flag of the Cunard Line.

Her purchase outright by the C. P. R. indicated the policy of the C.P.R. namely to meet all competition in the St. Lawrence route with an increased fleet composed of large and modern liners.

The Empress of Scotland, before running to Quebec will make a winter cruise to the Mediterranean under the charter of a New York tourist agency.

The new liner will be the largest in the Canadian Atlantic service. Her dimensions are: Length, 700 feet; breadth, 77 feet, and draft of water, 34 feet.

The Empress of Canada.

The new C. P. R. liner, the oil burning Empress of Canada is built especially for the Pacific service. The appointments will be the finest and most luxurious possible to-day, with particular regard to the C. P. R. standard of "Safety, Speed, Comfort."

She has an overall length of 653 feet, is 87 feet, 9 inches in breadth and 53½ feet in depth to the bridge deck; she has a straight stem and cruiser stern, three funnels and two pole masts. There is a continuous shelter deck with bridge, promenade and boat decks over, the former extending for the full length of the ship; two complete between decks and lower and orlap between decks at the fore and aft ends. The "Empress of Canada" has a gross tonnage of 22,000 tons, and is arranged to carry about 490 first class, 166 second class, 238 third class and 932 Asiatic steerage passengers, and crew of 547. Of the cargo spaces, a large portion has been fitted for the carriage of silk and refrigerated cargo. Her speed is about 21 knots. She is built to the highest class of Lloyd's Register full Board of Trade requirements.

The first class accommodation is arranged on the shelter deck and in addition to the single, double and family rooms, there are several special rooms and private suites, which comprise bedrooms, sitting rooms and bathrooms. The staterooms are fitted with the very latest type of open washbasin, with a supply of hot and cold water. The public lavatories and bath rooms have the most modern improvements in sanitary equipment. A complete system of telephones is connected with a central exchange to the rooms and offices.

The dining saloon is on the upper deck and will accommodate 325 persons. A large reception room is situated forward of the dining saloon; the passenger elevator is at the fore end. On the upper deck is also a large swimming pool, 30 ft. by 18 ft., with adjoining gymnasium and dressing rooms similar to the best clubs. The other public rooms are arranged on the promenade deck with special view to convenience and comfort. The large lounge will provide ample room for concerts and moving picture performances, with complete moving-picture operating room. There is a long gallery, specially designed room for children, Drawing Room, Writing Room, Smoke Room and Verandah Cafe, and all are luxurious and attractive in every way. Long promenades and recreation spaces for games, dancing and sports are reserved for the use of passengers.

The second class accommodation is situated on the shelter deck aft, arranged in two and four berth rooms. These staterooms are fitted similar to the first class. The Dining Saloon is on the upper deck and will accommodate 100 persons. The Lounge is on the Bridge deck aft.

In addition to a large laundry, dispensary, hospital, dark room for camera enthusiasts, etc., there are innovations in the steerage, food, kitchen and pantry service. A perfect system of mechanical ventilation is installed and all the supply and exhaust fans are capable of changing the air throughout the ship at such frequency as to assure practically pure air at all times. All thermotanks and supply fans have an approved disinfecting apparatus. Electric radiators are fitted in the first and second class state rooms.

The cargo equipment is of the most modern type as well, the cargo derricks being operated by twelve powerful electric winches. The steam steering gear, manoeuvring and warping machinery are also improvements on any now in use.

Throughout the ship particular attention has been devoted to the fact that the "Empress of Canada" is for Trans-Pacific and semi-tropical service; therefore the rooms are large and airy and specially designed.

The "Empress of Canada" has been preceded by two other oil burners, the "Empress of Britain," now in service, and the "Montcalm," which was launched last year, and will set a new pace in comfortable passenger steamships for ocean service. Two others of the popular "M-boat" type are in course of construction. The oil fuel bunkers of the "Empress of Canada" have a normal capacity of 4,500 tons of oil.

The Princess Louise.

No event in the history of shipbuilding on the Pacific coast has caused more interest than the launching of the new Canadian Pacific Railway coastwise passenger ship, Princess Louise, which took to the water recently at the Wallace Shipyards, North Vancouver. The launching was attended by the usual ceremony. The yards were as usual thrown open to the general public. The silver band of the Wallace Shipyards was in attendance to play the ship into the water. The Princess Louise is in an advanced stage of construction, and in a very short time after launching will be ready to hand over to her owners.

The steamer Princess Royal took the invited guests to the Wallace yards. Four hundred invited guests were present at the launching of the Princess Louise. The ship presents a gorgeous spectacle in her black and red hull, with white superstructure. A band of gilt encircles the ship, and the letters "Princess Louise" show up prominently.

The Princess Louise is a British Columbia product, and it will cost about $1,500,000 to complete the ship. Every effort has been put forth by the builders to make the ship the equal of any vessel of similar size and construction on the coast. It was indeed a compliment to British Columbia and the shipbuilders that the Canadian Pacific Railway decided that no better work for the same financial outlay could be done anywhere else. It is a well known fact that the big corporation aims to secure the best in any such purchase, and British Columbia is filling the order. In all probability Old Country yards will never again build coastwise passenger steamers for use on the British Columbia coast.

The Princess Louise will be the finest ship of the B. C. Coast Service. Only one ship is longer. The vessel is 330 feet overall, 48 feet beam, 18.6 deep, 4,200 gross tons. She is single screw and with a 4,500 horse-power engine which will develop a speed of nearly eighteen knots. The Charlotte is 12 feet longer, but her tonnage is 500 tons less than the Louise. With the exception of the steel and the hardwoods and glass, the materials which are going into the construction of the ship were supplied in British Columbia. When completed the ship will carry 300 passengers.

The construction of the Princess Louise is a big achievement for Canadian enterprise, and one of which Andrew Wallace, proprietor of Wallace Shipyards, may be proud.

It is just 32 years ago since Mr. and Mrs. Wallace came to Vancouver. Their first home was on Richard Street. They lived there for 11 years and then moved to their present residence at 1165 Davie Street. Mrs. Wallace was Miss Eliza Underhill, of Grimsby, England, and married Mr. Wallace in 1886. They have two sons, Mr. Clarence and Mr. Herbert Wallace.

Mrs. Troup, wife of Captain J. W. Troup, of the C.P.R. coast fleet, was sponsor for the Princess Louise; Mrs. Brodie, wife of Mr. H. W. Brodie, general passenger agent of the C. P. R., at Vancouver, was assistant sponsor.

Address by D. C. Coleman.

Mr. D. C. Coleman, Vice-President of C.P.R., paid a high tribute to Captain J. W. Troup and to Mr. Wallace — the one for his efficient handling of the Canadian Pacific Railway's coastwise fleet, and the other for his success in building the splendid new steamer.

"There is no creation of man's hands and brains in which he takes so much pride as in a ship," said Mr. Coleman, referring to Capt. Troup, "and there is no creation of his for which he is disposed to have so much affection as for a ship. The owner, the designer and the master craftsman must feel in common a thrill of exultation when a new ship takes to the water. And even for the spectator who has no direct interest, a ceremony such as that we have just witnessed must carry with it a whiff of the romance and the mystery of the sea. That feeling descends to us, of course, from our ancestors; from the mariners of old who adventured on the bosom of the sea into the unknown; to lift the veil, and to find strange lands, to lay the foundations of far-flung empires and to open the way, often through blood and suffering, for the peaceful fleets of commerce.

"While these are more prosaic times it is to be hoped that the maritime spirit will always be instinct in our race. The ship which we have just launched is not intended to plow distant seas, but she is designed to spend her life in waters which were discovered, explored and chartered by some of Britain's greatest sailors, and surely no ship was ever built which promised to fulfil its destiny on a scene of more surpassing grandeur and more bewitching beauty.

Vancouver's Future.

"The owners appreciate the fact that so many citizens of Vancouver and of Victoria have given an afternoon to be present at this ceremony. Speaking to a newspaper on one occasion I said 'The future of Vancouver lies on the ocean.' When we have failed since to agree with some persons about the proper measures to be taken for the development of the port, that sentence has been quoted with a view to our discomfiture. But I still believe it to be true, and if it was an indiscretion, as these critics suggest, to have said it just then, it is an indiscretion of which I am not ashamed. I believe the future holds much in store for this city and for this coast in the way of the growth of seaborne commerce. Some observers say that the future will see a greater increase in shipping on the North Pacific than on any other sea. I hope you will forgive what may seem to be boasting when I remind you that for many years the Canadian Pacific has held for Canada the blue ribbon for supremacy in service on the North Pacific. And while prophesies are often dangerous and sometimes foolish I venture to predict that it will be a long time before any other company or any other nation will wrest that ribbon from us.

"Jim" Hill's Tribute.

"The coast steamship service of the Canadian Pacific, in which service the Princess Louise is to be employed, was once described by a none too friendly critic of our company, Mr. James J. Hill, as the finest service of the kind in the world. As to whether or not that was an exaggerated compliment I shall leave you to judge, but I must say that the service owes its efficiency very largely to the ability and the exertions of one man—I refer to Captain J. W. Troup. When he took charge the fleet was practically nothing but a name, and supported by the wise generosity of two successive presidents of the company, he has brought it after years of enthusiastic and capable work to its present condition. Of all the officers of character and efficiency who have devotedly served the company, there is none of whom we are most justly proud. We regarded it as only appropriate that some one very dear to him should have a part in this ceremony, and we, therefore, felt gratified and honored when Mrs. Troup, who is so universally esteemed and admired, consented to act as a sponsor for the 'Princess Louise.'

"The building of a ship of this character at Vancouver is an outstanding achievement. When it is completed, I think you will agree that it is the first ship built in the Americas which will compare in design and finish with the best product of the great yards in the British Isles. You have every right to be grateful to Mr. Wallace and his associates for this demonstration of what can be done in British Columbia, and on your behalf and on behalf of the owners, who are more than satisfied with what he has done, I wish to offer Mr. Wallace our sincere congratulations and our very best thanks."

In his reply Mr. Wallace declared that it had always been his ambition to do things which no one else had done. There were one or two things he wanted yet to do before he left this terrestrial sphere for a better world. The building of the Princess Louise was a step toward them. It was changing from building freight steamers to the more difficult work of constructing passenger liners. From rivet boy to superintendent the employees of his yards had tried to make the Princess Louise the best on the ocean. He hoped at some time in the future to be called upon to build ships as big and as fine as the Canadian Pacific "Empresses."

D. C. Coleman, Vice-President of the C.P.R., at the launching of the "Princess Louise."

J. W. Troup, Captain of the C.P.R. British Columbia Coast Fleet.

GERMAN INDUSTRY FLOURISHING; IDLE HAVE DECREASED GREATLY

GOVERNMENT FINANCES, HOWEVER, IN BAD STATE, WITH LITTLE PROSPECT OF IMPROVEMENT.

By CARL D. GROAT,
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

BERLIN, Sept. 30.—Germany's industrial situation is booming.

Its Governmental finances, however, are in a ruinous condition, with scant prospect of improvement in the near future.

German industry has been gradually but surely coming to the fore since the revolution. Two summers ago everybody, except the far-seeing and those who had no propaganda to turn out, were saying that Germany was "ruined."

But her industrialists have not been idle in the meantime. And the workmen, formerly obsessed with "strike fever," have long since passed the stage where they hope to achieve their ends by strikes on any and all occasions. In place of this strike fever has come the old pre-war "Arbeitslust"—willingness or desire to work—until now Germany has only around 400,000 unemployed.

As a result of the growing reconstruction, Germany is now doing a tremendous business abroad and at home. She is cutting into the South American trade of America and England, due mainly to the fact that her exchange is so depreciated that these countries cannot compete with her.

Stinnes, Krupp, and von Haniel have been busy consolidating small-er concerns, improving their processes and organizing for a campaign that comprehends serving of a large slice of the world's trade.

Take Krupps, for instance! The world knows Krupps mainly for its guns and munitions, for its "Big Bertha" of wartime. But Krupp, while always employed to a certain extent on warlike work, has ever been a trenmendous peacetime steel industry. Its products have been known the world over because of the secret processes which made their steel superior. Today, Krupps employs about 99,000 workers, or 18,000 more than before the war. This increase is partly due to the fact that extra shifts must be installed to meet the eight-hour day requirement. But, it also means that Krupps is now on a full peace footing and "going strong." The last vestiges of gun manufacture have been swept away. Now, Krupps is a mammoth steel plant, making locomotives, car wheels, freight cars, machinery of various kinds.

Krupps is merely a sample. What is true of the achievement of this concern is true of virtually every line of German industrial endeavor. The only industry suffering a slump is shipbuilding. This is dull, owing to the fact that Germany can now buy tonnage cheaper than she can construct it. She has, however, already placed the nucleus of a new commerce fleet upon the seas, and every indication is that within the next few years she will again have "a place in the sun" as respects ocean carrying.

Germany has talked much of socialization since the revolution, but has done nothing important to achieve it. The great consolidations undertaken by such men as Stinnes and von Haniel are socialistic in the sense of their all-inclusiveness, but are quite under private control. These consolidations are so tremendous as to rival the romantic combinations of vast industries in America.

It can truly be said that German industry is flourishing. But, on the other side of the picture, Germany's finances are in a despairing condition. Swamped with debts and reparations, her budget is sick. It is estimated that to meet her debts, including reparations, Germany must raise at least 100,000,000,000 paper marks a year; and must do an export business of 2,000,000,000 to 2,500,000,000 marks more annually than before the war.

The German task is immense. Her industrial leaders, however, are striving to readjust their methods to meet the new requirements. These requirements, aided by bad exchange, are making business for Germany. Her leaders say that, if she is compelled to go to the bitter end with reparations, she will have acquired an industrial technique and ability which will give her a supreme place in the world's business.

FOUR DOCTORS GAVE HER UP

Through a Neighbor's Advice This Woman Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Kenosha, Wis.—"I suffered with a female trouble and at last was in bed for six weeks with what the doctors called inflammation of the bowels. Four of them said I could not live. A neighbor told me to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it helped me from the start. When the doctor came I told him what I had taken and he said 'Throw my medicine away and keep on with the Pinkham medicine.' I did and it relieved me. If more women would take your medicine they would not suffer so. I have recommended the Vegetable Compound to lots of people and they have been satisfied." Mrs. Mary Rhafstock, 270½ Wisconsin St., Kenosha, Wisconsin.

When a woman is beset with such symptoms as irregularities, inflammation, ulceration, a displacement, backache, headaches, bearing-down pains, nervousness or the "blues" she should treat the cause of such conditions by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

ART TO A NATION IS WHAT A HANDSOME GOWN IS TO A GOOD-LOOKING WOMAN, SAYS LADY BYNG

Miss Katharine Wallis, Canadian sculptor and artist, held an exhibition of her work yesterday afternoon in the Chateau Laurier, under the auspices of the Art Association. Her Excellncy Lady Byng formally opened the exhibition shortly after three o'clock.

Miss Wallis, who is a native of Peterboro, is said to be the foremost Canadian sculptor. She received her education in Paris. Recently she sold a number of her models to the National Art Gallery. The palm room at the Chateau Laurier made an excellent background for the watercolors and the figures of bronze and marble that were displayed. Among those that took instant favor was a marble study of a child rising triumphantly from the arms of its mother. It was called "Fleur and Racine". Its very boldness of creation spoke strongly to those who looked at it. Another favorite and the joyous figure of Puck looking down on the war lords, and it was entitled "What fools these mortals be." Although Miss Wallis' watercolors were exceedingly lovely, it was apparent that her field lay in sculpture. The striking quality of her work was its immense sincerity.

Miss Rachel Walpole, newly elected president of the Art Association made her maiden speech yesterday when she asked for the co-operation of the members for this winter's work. Directly after Miss Walpole spoke, Lady Byng said a few words congratulating the Art Association in having Miss Wallis' display, and encouraging them in more work of the kind. She stated that now that the people of Canada had a little leisure after making this country, it was time they took up the arts more seriously. 'Art to a nation is what a handsome gown is to a good-looking woman," she concluded.

Among those who wese interested in the exhibits were Mrs. Arthur Meighen, Lady Borden, Lady Davies, Mrs. C. J. Doherty, Mrs. J. B. Simpson, Mrs. Macpherson, Major and Mrs. Willis O'Connor, Miss Nanno Hughe Mrs. A. G. Parker, Miss McGillivray, Miss Lily and May Stratton, Mrs. J. M. SACRED BAMBINO WAS STOLEN FROM CHURCH.

But Subsequently Recovered—Is Image of Infant Jesus By Praga.

ROME, Sept. 30.—The "Sacred Bambino" of the Church of Holy Mary of the Victory has been stolen but recovered. It is the revered image of the infant Jesus by Praga and is believed by many Italians to possess miraculous power of effecting cures among the people who worshipped at its shrine.

So revered was it that hundreds of pieces of jewellery were placed at its feet, draped about its body and placed in close proximity to it as marks of gratitude from the faithful who were convinced they had received healing.

One morning lately, the thieves gained access to the altar where the "Bambino" is placed and made away with jewels and everything.

Discovery that the adored image was not at its accustomed place was the signal for a general alarm, and hundred of devout persons in the neighborhood of the church made their pilgrimage to the altar to pray for the restoration of the 'Bambino.'

The Church of Holy Mary of the Victory was erected to commemorate the victory of Lepanto, when the Crusaders defeated the Turks at sea. It is just in the shadow of the American Embassy.

WORLD'S FIRST EXHIBITION OF PREHISTORIC ART.

The world's first exhibition of prehistoric art, now in progress in Madrid consists of reproductions of the paintings in the caves of Altamira, about two miles from Santillana del Mar in the province of Santander.

The Altamira paintings were first discovered, accidentally, by the little daughter of the archæologist, Sautnola. The remarkable skill of this prehistoric art at once attracted world-wide attention, and interest in these and other specimens discovered in various parts of the country, encouraged by the prince of Monaco and others, has steadily grown; so that in the last 10 years alone 30 works in Spanish and French have appeared on the subject.

The figures have, in most cases, been admirably reproduced. They include what seem to be Iberian letters—those, for instance, of Fuencaliente—spirited fishes and suns (which seem to have been the favorite subject of art at Las Batuecas); horseshoes, women wearing short modern skirts, pictures of the chase and of the dance, tiny and most artistic stags from the eastern regions of the peninsula, and the magnificent, nearly life-size wild boars and bison of Altamira, in the northwest. The coloring of many of these figures is often extremely interesting. An interval of thousands of years divides some of the drawings from others; but all are very remote.

EXPLOSION NEAR KANSAS CITY; FOUR DEAD

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 29.—(Canadian Press).—Four men are reported killed today in an explosion five miles south of Dodson, a suburb south of here, at the Excelsior powder manufacturing plant. Homes in Independence, Mo., about ten miles east of here were shaken.

Voice of the People

Dear Sir: In looking over the items in last night's Examiner, I came across one that drew my attention in regard to the doctors, sanitary inspector, etc. They say they are short of quarantine cards. If they were not so anxious to put them on some houses where the disease never existed, nor any sign of it, they would have some cards left. It's a pity about them.

GREAT POWERS ARE BATTLING FOR CONTROL OF THE PACIFIC OCEAN

CABLES AND MODERN FLEETS MAKE THE PROBLEM ONE OF NATIONAL LIFE OR DEATH—PRACTICALLY EVERY ROCK AND REEF IN DISPUTE.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—(United Press.)—Practically every rock and coral reef in the Pacific Ocean is involved in the forthcoming Washington conference on limitation of armaments and Far Eastern affairs. The much-discussed Pacific question is not so much a question of the ocean itself as the innumerable large and small islands dotting it. It may easily be a question of life or death for the interested powers.

It was not until a generation ago that the great powers perceived the immense value of the Pacific islands, the National Geographic Society declared in a comprehensive review of the Pacific angle of the conference made public to-day.

"If modern fleets had to be operated 6,000 miles from home without fuel bases, or if cables had to span such distances under water without relay stations, offensive naval warfare and telegraphic communications over wires would be practically impossible," the survey stated. "The great powers of the world woke up to this fact in earnest about a generation ago and began taking over island bases and stations in the Pacific that had previously seemed of little more significance than stages for exotic dances and cannibal feasts. Before this, islands an the lands bordering the world's greatest ocean had been acquired chiefly with the idea of exploiting their products, and only the larger areas were considered important. With the realization of the valuable parts that naval bases and relay stations might play in the future, there developed a keen interest in even the tiniest rocks and coral rings.

"As landlords of the domains that bound the vast bowl of the Pacific now sit three great vitally interested powers—the Uinted States, Great Britain and Japan. In addition there are four nations hardly less interested—China, Russia, Holland and France. Among those countries whose interests are by no means negligible are Mexico, Chile and the other west coast Latin-American states. Spain and Germany have passed from the Pacific; but in passing each has accentuated the problems of the United States.

"What may be called the 'stakes' of the various countries whose lands hem in the Pacific vary greatly on a basis of their coast lines. The United States leads in miles of frontage on the Pacific with more than 4,00 miles, counting both the sweep of the Aleutian Islands and the part of Alaska above them. The Philippines add a direct frontage of about 1,000 miles more on the other side of the great ocean.

"Asiatic Russia is second with approximately 3,500 miles from Behring Strait to Chosen (Korea), counting the coast line of the sea of Okhotsk, comparable in size to or own Gulf of Mexico.

"Across the southwestern corner of the Pacific, British territory stretches from Dutch New Guiena to New Zealand, a distance of about 3,500 miles, but with a break of over 1,000 miles between Australia and New Zealand. In a way, however, Australia may fairly be considered entirely a Pacific land, giving Great Britain by far the greatest coast line. The continent has for protection a coast line of approximately 8,000 miles, easily reached by fleets from the Pacific, and it matters little from a naval point of view that half the water that bathes this long shore line is called the Indian Ocean. Canada adds approximately 500 miles to British Pacific coast lines.

"The islands that constitute Japan stretch from near the tip to Kamchatka to the southern point of Taiwan (Formosa), and thus have a frontage on the Pacific of about 2,700 miles. The coast line of Japan is much greater, however, due to the western frontage on the Sea of Okhotsk, the Sea of Japan, and the Yellow and Eastern Seas.

"Screened by the Philippines and the British possessions in northern Borneo, the Dutch possessions have a direct frontage on the Pacific of only about 1,000 miles; but their total coast lne, counting that on the Indian Ocean, is many times that figure. China's coast line, too, is screened by Japan. It amounts to about 2,000 miles. French Indo China, behind the Philippines, has a coast line of about 1,000 miles on the China Sea.

"On the eastern side of the Pacific, Mexico has a coast line of more than 2,000 miles, while that of Chile is more than 2,500 miles. The aggregate Pacific coast line of the remaining Latin-American countries amounts to about 3,500 miles.

"But it is the small scattered islands controlled by these bordering nations that constitute the crux of the 'Pacific problem.' Practicallly all the islands in the Pacific proper are under the control of Great Britain, France, the United States and Japan. All of the French and most of the British holdings are situated south of the equator, leaving the United States and Japan in close competition above that line. Guam is practically surrounded by newly acquired Japanese islands, formerly owned by Germany; and Japanese lands skirt the Philippines on three sides. The United States is not a large holder of Pacific islands, but it owns the group which is by far the most important strategically — Hawaii."

FROM CAMERA TO SCREEN

Most people, and especially those who have to wait until Monday for the kodak prints which the corner drug store man promised them on Saturday, know that when the cameraman turns the crank of his machine in the studio he exposes negative films from which positive prints have to be made before any pictures can be seen in a theatre, but there are few who have any more than a vague idea of how the thousands of feet of positive film in a photoplay are obtained from the milky-white negative that comes out of the camera. The negative is developed, of course, and then printed, but a good deal more than the little black trays, tin tanks and wooden frames familiar to amateur photographers is involved in the process. And the present laboratory machines and methods by which duplicate positives often more than a mile in length and divided into hundreds of scenes are obtained have not been spontaneously arrived at. They are the result of as much invention, adaptation and industry on the part of the laboratory men as have contributed to the perfection of the camera itself and the dramatic development of photoplays.

Lewis E. Physioc, Superintendent of the Goldwyn laboratory in Culver City, Cal., has supplied this department with an account of how the laboratory began and how it has grown to meet the demands of the studio and the theatre. He says that in recent years the laboratory has developed more than the camera, the present machines for taking pictures being only improvements of the earlier ones, whereas the laboratories are radically different in many particulars.

"In the early days," says Mr. Physioc, "films were printed on primitive machines operated by hand, of the stop or intermittent motion type, exposing a single frame at a time at the rate of about eight frames a second. Their capacity under the best conditions was 4,000 or 5,000 feet of film a day, and after a negative had been run through one of them to make a few positive copies it was hardly fit for further use.

"When the method of cutting scenes into reels was changed more speed was necessary, and motors were attached to the printers. This change led to other improvements, which made their own difficulties.

"At first each scene was printed separately as many times as it was required for the duplicate copies of the photoplay to be exhibited, but splicing the scenes in their proper order necessitated so many joints in each positive that it frequently came apart as it was running through the projection machine. The introduction of the fade-back and other short scenes, some of them only two or three feet in length, aggravated this trouble, and finally led to the joining of the negative into 200-foot rolls, with all scenes assembled as they were to be shown. In this way the splices in the positive were reduced from 100 or more to five or six, but as the scenes in the negative were of varying density, an uneven, positive resulted when the printing was done with an unvarying light.

"It was therefore found necessary to devise some means of changing the intensity of the light as the scenes changed and this was accomplished by recording degrees of light intensity at certain relative positions of light to negative and later by means of the rheostat. A notch in the side of the negative warned the operator when a new scene was approaching the printing aperture, and he changed the light to suit it. As crude as this method was it was a great improvement, but it was trying on the operator.

"Nowadays we have magnificent printing machines, with automatic light changes, silently turning out 15,000 feet of film a day. No part of the negative's surface is touched in the process, so scratches are avoided. Conditioned air surface and thermostat systems that maintain perfect drying conditions in all temperatures and conditions of weather are also used."

Mr. Physioc adds that chemical evolution has kept pace with that of laboratory equipment. He says:

"Films were first developed on great drums that required large, open, shallow tanks which exposed so great an area of the developing fluid to the air that it was constantly undergoing rapid oxidation. Its power and quality differed for each drum put into it, and uniformity in developing was therefore impossible. Now, however, we have machines protected against dust and air, through which the film passes automatically without being touched by hands.

"Also, in the beginning the developers were compounded in ignorance, the operators naturally using the same formulae for the large quantities required that they had been accustomed to use for smaller quantities in still photography. Foggy, grainy and contrasting negatives were the result, until it was learned that new formulae had to be worked out for the larger quantities. Manufacturers of chemicals have also learned to maintain a standard of purity in their products hitherto unknown.

"The quantities of these chemicals used can hardly be appreciated by the outsider. For example, as much as 2,400 pounds of hyposulphite of soda is sometimes used in one bath, and from $200 to $600 worth of silver is reclaimed from this after it has been exhausted."

A developing bath, Mr. Physioc adds, often contains as much as 250 gallons of fluid, the chemicals in which must be the same today and tomorrow and every day that it is used.

For Table Decoration.

New things for table decoration are in Venetian glass made from old designs in candlesticks, compotes, etc. They come in blue, in soft shades which look to be pale yellow or just old glass, and different pieces are decorated with little designs of flowers or fruits in colors. There is a lustre ware, also of glass, which comes in many different pretty shades, in rather large, low bowls for flowers or fruit, and candlesticks in decorative designs and tall compotes. This ware is from Czechoslovakia.

SAGE AND SULPHER DARKENS GRAY HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Restore Colour, Gloss and Attractiveness.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural colour and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome. Nowadays by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients at a small cost.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, and attractive.

THE BUSINESS WOLRD

A "Two-Story" Bag.

A big leather firm gets out a "two-story" bag for a company making a small popular typewriter. The bag is in appearance a handsome one of a good leather and regular shape. The upper part is the bag proper and the lower story underneath is for the typewriter. There are fastenings at the side holding upper and lower stories together and when these are undone the bag tips back to reveal the lower part, which is perhaps three inches deep, with partitions at the two ends to hold firm the little typewriter which is in the centre.

New Kind of Belt Buckle.

The popularity of silver belt buckles is as great as it was a year ago, and for that reason manufacturers are designing new ones every day. The latest to makes its appearance in the local market is a buckle through which the belt cannot slip no matter how hard it is tugged. When the leather is in place a slight movement of the buckle causes it to click, pressing a piece of the metal tightly against the strap. The one-tenth sterling face wholesales for $7 a dozen and the sterling silver or gold-filled sell for $27 a dozen.

Capes For Sports Wear.

Capes figure in various ways in connection with different sports garments for women. One of these, of a soft wool material in an indeterminate plaid, has the simple sports skirt and a cape of the material with what may be called a sweater front. It is straight, short, rounding out at the neck, and with no opening down the front. The cape which falls a little below the hips buttons on at the sides at the top. The cape has a fur collar and little fur balls to match finish silk ends which can be tied. The edge of the cape and the pockets of the skirt are bound with silk.

Trunks School Pupils Use.

Luggage houses advertise trunks, &c., for school and college use at this time of the year. There is nothing special for this purpose, but students of the present generation require space for their belongings. A half-grown boy going away to school recently selected a big square commercial traveler's trunk to hold his sporting togs, &c. Trays in these trunks are fitted to suit individual buyers, and the boy decided upon a single tray for his convenience. His linen was to go elsewhere. The big trunk was 38 inches long by 23 high and wide. It is the school and college girl who goes in for wardrobe trunks.

Good for the Bead Men.

No matter what conditions other manufacturers or wholesalers are experiencing, bead importers joyfully admit they are reaping a harvest. Everything in the way of trimmings for the Fall points to beads. Dresses are covered with them, hats have them in spots and shoe buckles are also decorated with them. Jet, in accordance with the proposed sombreness of the coming Winter, is in greatest favor, but a demand has recently been noted for a small Brazilian shell. This is the kind that was formerly used in children's necklaces, and sold for about a dime. Now, because of the demand, they are being offered for $1.50 a gross.

The reopening of the schools has had a marked effect upon ribbon manufacturers, for now again, after a lull of over two months, they are busying themselves supplying the hair-ribbon needs of the little girl pupils. During the Summer months the girls played around with their tresses flying, but at school, it seems, they must have them tied up. Nothing radically new has been manufactured in this line. Moires, satin stripes and jacquards are all selling well. In telling of the colors that predominate—brown, navy, pink, white, &c. one merchant added black, but he quickly corrected his error. "The children haven't gone in for black yet, but one can't tell what's liable to happen."

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

THE PASSION PLAY.

The Great War was too recent fo, The Passion Play to have its decennial production at Oberammergau, Bavariar last year with any chance of financial success. Now, however, with what our American friends delight to call "normalcy" approaching it is believed that plans may be made to resume a spectacle world-wide in its appeal and thirty performances of The Passion Play are being arranged for next year by the committee of twenty-one which is directing the spectacle, but this number will be increased if the attendance demands, as was the case both in 1900 and 1910.

It will require an outlay of 1,500,000 marks to stage the Oberammergau play, and the villagers are extremely anxious about the German political situation, lest conditions keep foreigners away.

The 360 burgers who constitute the descendants of the original peasants who made the vow to produce the play decennially personally assume the responsibility for this expenditure, and the failure to attract sufficient visitors to meet the cost would result in the bankruptcy of practically the entire village, as the Oberammeragau folk have slight resources. Most of the burghers are wood carvers, potters, painters, sculptors, farmers, merchants and small shopkeepers. Only the descendants of the villagers who were saved from the plague in 1633 take part in the Passion Play and assume responsibility for its production.

Next October will be a fateful month, for then the names of the villagers who are to have the leading roles in the spectacle will be announced. To be selected to enact the role of Jesus Christ or one of the Apostles is a far greater honor to an Oberammergau man than election to the Presidency of Germany or any other office within the gift of the entire German people. And any woman of Oberammergau would far rather be chosen to play the role of Mary, or Martha, or Mary Magdalene than to be in the position of Frau Ebert as mistress of the President's palace in Berlin.

Many of the actors in the Passion Play next year will doubtless be the same as those in the cast when the play was last produced, in 1910. Anton Lang, who enacted the role of Jesus Christ in 1900 and 1910, will probably be chosen for the part again, as he is still young enough to undertake the arduous task and looks the part so well that younger aspirants are not likely to displace him.

Ottilie Zwink, who played the role of Mary in 1910, has married since that time. No married woman can play a role. Consequently, all the young women of Oberammergau with ability and experience as actors are eagerly trying to qualify for the highly important part. Paula Rendl, daughter of Peter Rendl, the sculptor, who was Joseph of Arimathea in the play of 1910 and enacted the role of St. John twenty-one years ago, is one of the most promising candidates for the role of Mary. Fraulein Rendl has shown great ability in minor religious plays, which are produced constantly by the Oberammergau folk as a means of training actors for the Passion Play.

Marie Mayr, who played the role of Mary Magdalene in the 1910 production is married and living in Chicago. Marie Schmid, who was the Veronica in the last production, has also married.

Eighty-two of the Oberammergau men died during the war, and many of the older actors of the last production will be disqualified by age for important roles. Consequently, there are scores of places in the cast to which young men with ability as actors may aspire. They have begun to let their hair grow. Wigs and make-up are not permitted by the directors of the Passion Play.

Practically all the older men who had important parts in the last production have never cut their hair. Many of them have retained their long beards and pride themselves on their resemblance to the Biblical characters they have depicted.

WORLD'S OLDEST UNIVERSITY IS IN CHINA.

The oldest university in the world is in China, where scholarship was held in high regard in the days when European nations were just emerging from savagery. The White Deer Grotto university in Kiangsi Province, 400 miles up the Yangtze River Valley, was founded in 960 A. D., antedating Salerno, the oldest European university, by two centuries; as a school it was opened about 900 A. D.

It received its name from a famous poet, Li P'o, who came with his brother, early in the Ninth Century, to the lovely spot where the university was afterward built. Li P'o had a tame white deer, which followed him everywhere and earned for him the name of Peh Lu Sien-sen, or Waite Deer Gentleman. He and his brother made their home on the hillside, in a cave, which has been known ever since as Peh Lu Dong, the White Deer Grotto. In the Fourteenth Century, an image of a deer, hewn out of stone, was placed there, and it remains there to this day.

FOUR-DAY SERVICE ACROSS OCEAN NOT LIKELY.

LONDON, September 29 (Canadian Press). — Sir MacLaren Brown, of the Canadian Pacific Steamship Lines to-day stated that the announcement by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce regarding a fast steamship service between Canada and the United Kingdom was made without his knowledge. General opinion at present regards the proposal of a four-day service as outside the range of realisation.

Madrid, Spain, is the highest city in Europe.

SELFISH WOULD TAKE LAST STICK OF TIMBER

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 30.—(Canadian Press.)—That there was a selfish commercial spirit rampant in Canada which would take the last fish out of the streams and the last stick of timber off the land, if there was a profit to be made, was stated by Sir George Foster at the luncheon yesterday of the Dominion Fire Prevention Association at the Chateau Laurier.

Sir George, who was speaking on the necessity of conserving and husbanding the natural resources which were far from illimitable and inexhaustible and the methods to be adopted in spreadng the gospel of fire prevention, added that if there was a selfish commercial spirit, there was also a patriotic comercial spirit which was in the ascendant. The best lumber companies in the country were carrying out a programme of conservation in the reasonable cutting of timber. Sir George incidentally laid emphasis on the value of the film as one of the best agencies to propagate the doctrine of fire prevention.

LABOR LEADER SUGGESTS COMPROMISE FOR PEACE.

LONDON, Sept. 30. — (Canadian Press). — That many of the Labor leaders lacked the moral courage to preach what they believed was the statement of J. Havelock Wilson in his presidential address to the Sailors' and Firemen's Union to-day. If the Labor movement had been wise, he said, when the war ended, it would have made a compromise with employers to secure industrial peace. There were many who wanted nothing but turmoil from end to end of the country, but "such ideas are those of fools and mad men."

ERASMUS FOND OF ENGLISH GIRLS' KISSES

Erasmus, as a theologian of the Middle Ages, could admonish the faithful as follows: "It becometh not therefore the persons religious to follow the manners of secular persons, that in their congresses and common meeting or departings done use to kiss, take hands and such other touchings, that good religious persons should utterly avoid."

But as a man to his friend, he is found writing from England to Faustus Andrelinus in 1499 in quite a different vein: "Here are girls with angels' faces, so kind and obliging that you would prefer them to all your Muses. They have a custom, too, which can never be sufficiently recommended. On your arrival you are welcomed with kisses, on your departure you are sent off with kisses. If you return, the embraces are repeated. Do you receive a visit your first entertainment is of kisses. Do your guests depart, you distribute kisses among them. Wherever you meet them, they greet you with a kiss. In short, whichever way you turn, there is nothing but kissing. Ah! Faustus, if you had once tasted the tenderness, the fragrance of these kisses, you would wish to stay in England, not for a 10 years' voyage like Solon's, but as long as you lived."

NEW USE FOR BANANA FIBRE.

Samples of hand-woven cloth made in East Africa from banana fiber have been brought to Australia by Captain Hydahl, and growers on the northern rivers of this State have become interested in the possibilities of utilizing the by-product of the banana fiber have been prepared and Captain Hydahl believes that portion can be used in the manufacture of artificial silk. Experiments are being made to ascertain the commercial value of banana by-products in the manufacture of cloth, silk, rope, twine and paper.

JOE MILLER, FAMED COMEDIAN, DIED IN 1738

Joe Miller was famed as a comedian during the reign of Charles I. After his death in 1738, his family having been left destitute, one Jog Mottley was employed to gather in an old, stray or current jests about town, which he published in a book entitled thus:

"Joe Miller's Jests, or the Wit's Vade-Mecum. Being the collection of the most Brilliant Jests: the Polite Repartees; the Most Elegant Bons Mots, and Most pleasant short stories in the English language. First carefully collected in the company, and many of them transcribed from the mouth of the Facetious Gentleman, whose name they bear; and now set forth and published by his lamentable friend and former companion, Elijah Jenkins, Esq.; most humbly inscribed to those choice-spirits of the age, Capt. Rodens, Mr. Alexander Pope, Mr. Prof. Lacy, Mr. Orator Henley and Joe Baker, the Kettle-drummer, London; printed and sold by T. Reid in Dogwell-court White Friars, Fleet Street (1739). Price one shilling."

FALL OF JERUSALEM BORE OUT PROPHECY

Wrested From Turk When Waters of the Nile Were Brought In, Says Colonel Lawson.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Bas as the unemployment situation is in England, it is apparently worse here in proportion to the population, said Lieut.-Col. Edward Frederick Lawson, son of Lord Burnham, proprietor of The London Daily Telegraph, who is in America for the first time since the war. Colonel Lawson served in the Gallipoli and Palestine campaigns and won the D. S. O.

The unemployed in England now number about 1,200,000, Colonel Lawson said, but he thought that conditions were improving.

"Some people think," he added, "that the present industrial activity is more or less a false prosperity, due to the attempt to catch up with back orders. But, although times are hard, there has not been nearly as much suffering as in former periods of depression. This is partly due to the Government doles and partly to the fact that people saved something during the war and have been able to tide themselves over what otherwise would have been a time of great suffering."

Colonel Lawson sailed from New York for England either half an hour before or half an hour after war was declared, he was not quite sure which. He served first with the Buckinghamshire Yeomanry and later commanded the Middlesex Yeomanry. He saw his first fighting at Gallipoli, and then went to Egypt and Palestine. He was present at both attempts to capture Gaza, and later took part in the battle which won Jerusalem.

"There was a curious prophecy which was fulfilled with regard to Jerusalem," he said. "It was prophesied that Jerusalem would never be freed from the infidel until the waters of the Nile were brought there. A pipe line was built to bring our water all the way across the desert from the Nile, so that prophecy was fulfilled. Also General Allenby's name spelt backward meant in Arabic "the prophet," and I think those two things had a good deal to do with getting the final result. They are a superstitious people."

Whatever is done in Palestine must be done slowly. Colonel Lawson believes, for the country is very small, and the Arable land lies along the coast in a belt not more than fifteen miles wide. "It would be impossible to send a large number of Jews there until the land is made ready for them, which would require much money and tijme," he said, "for the country would not support them. And it must be remembered that people from cold climates simply cannot work there. However, much can be done, and I have no doubt is being done to improve the land. The stories we hear of conflict between the Arabs and the Jews should not be taken too seriously, for much worse affairs occurred under the Turks. The standards of the East are different, and they do not think so much of murder there as we do. Their standards of civilization are not what you would call high."

THE HUMORIST

The door in journalism is always wide open, declares a lecturer. Yes, drat it, and the draft on a cold day is sometimes something fierce.

When a fellow begins to feel that he couldn't live without a certain girl, he ought to marry her and see.

MEAN? DECIDEDLY.

"Yes, my dear," said the sarcastic husband, "you may have made the cake all alone, as you say, but who helped you lift it out of the oven?"

PREPAREDNESS.

"What do you do with your evenings way out there in the wilderness?" asked the city man.

"We don't have any," replied the commuter. "By the time we get through with dinner it's time to go to bed so as to get up early enough to catch the 6:38 in the morning."

TRUE PRAISE.

"I don't believe she liked your jelly."

"Why not? She praised it very highly."

"I know that; but I notice she didn't ask you for the recipe."

WELL PLANNED.

Father (sternly)—My daughter, sir, will remain under the parental roof."

Suitor—That's very kind of you. With the acute house shortage, that will be very convenient for us both.

AN INSIDE BATH MAKES YOU LOOK AND FEEL FRESH

Says a glass of hot water with phosphate before breakfast keeps illness away.

Physicians the world over recommend the inside bath, declaring this is of vastly more importance than outside cleanliness, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing ill health, while the pores in the ten yards of bowels do.

Men and women are urged to drink each morning, before breakfast a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, as a harmless means of helping to wash from the stomach, liver kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible material, poisons, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the alimentary canal before eating more food.

Those who wake up with bad breath, coated tongue, nasty taste or have a dull aching head, sallow complexion, acid stomach; others have bilious attacks or constipation, should obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store. This will cost very little but is sufficient to show the value of inside bathing.

SUBSCRIPTION LIST IN AID OF HORTICULTURE

CITIZENS APPRECIATE ACTIVITIES OF LOCAL ORGANIZATION

At the meeting of the Board of Directors of the Horticultural Society last Wednesday evening, the President, Dr. J. E. Middleton, reported on the marked increase in the activities of the Society during the past season. The membership is now 339, being the second largest number since the inauguration of the Society in 1895.

Although the government grant to the Society for this year has been only one third that of last year, the activities of the Society have shown an increase recognized by the whole city in the alterations made in the flower beds in the Central Park, the corner of Park and Reid streets, and at the south west corner of Inverlea Park. The president said that a number of the citzens had already remarked that the progressive policy of the Society was thoroughly appreciated and that they would be pleased to assist good work financially, and sugested that a subscription list should be opened.

After discussion, and believing that there were a great number of citizens who would welcome such an opportunity, the following resolution was adopted:

Grant Decreased.

"That owing to the decrease in the government grant of 1921 to the Society and the increase in activities of beautifying of unsightly corners throughout the city, and the institution of lectures by prominent horticulturists;

"We, the Board of Directors of the Peterborough Horticultural Society, desire to give the citzens an opportunity of expressing their appreciation of the activities of the Society by opening a public subscription list ,through the courtesy of the Examiner."

The resolution was no sooner passed than the first subscription was communicated by the President, being $5 by Mr. J. J. Turner, he being also responsible for 11 other subscribers of $5 each, the $60 to be used for a special purpose in beautification, the details of which will be given out as soon as possible.

First Subscribers.

The directors have now opened the list and the following subscriptions have been received:

J. J. Turner	$5.00
Dr. J. E. Middleton	5.00
J. Smyth	5.00
K. Simpson	2.00
L. Frazer	2.00
T. E. Bradburn	5.00
Total	$24.00

A subscriptoin was also gratefully received from Mr. W. H. Young in the form of 100 potted begonias, which will be disposed of by the Society in the near future.

ROCK HEAPS INDICATED WATER

In traveling over the plains of western Texas one now and then comes upon little isolated heaps of rock, in twos, that at first glance seem not at all remarkable. After a time, however, one notices that one heap is generally about three feet high and the other about a foot lower. The two are always within a few feet of each other and usually on an elevation or a plateau commanding a view of the country for five miles or more. The rocks are roughly heaped together, as if left by children at play, says the Christian Science Monitor.

In time one learns the significance of these rocks heaps, as he talks with some of the Indians, who know by heart all the legends and customs and deeds of their people. According to these Indians, when the Great Spirit lapped up the mighty rivers of the plains, he left springs and water basins here and there for the antelope and the Indians. These the antelope easily found by scent, but the Indian had to search long and anxiously for them. Once found, they were seldom lost, thanks to these rude rock heaps.

You may see an Indian crouch down behind the taller heap, sight over the low one and mark the farthest object in a straight line which is likely to be a clump of bushes on the horizon. Then he rides toward these bushes and finds—not water, as he expected, but two other heaps of rocks. Sighting as before, and taking a rock-faced cliff, perhaps toward the southwest as a goal, he rides a couple of miles farther, and there, trickling out from beneath the cliff's rocky brow, is a spring of fresh, clear water.

It is said that whenever a band of Indians came upon a new spring they built the rock heaps along the trail. At any rate, it appears that these rude signposts lead either to water or to places that show traces of a former watercourse.

RECITAL AT ST. MARY'S CONVENT

Tastefully decorated for the occa- "Choosing the Right Path," by sev- at St. Mary's Convent was filled last evening with an interested throng of parents and relatives of the pupils of the school, who gave a recital in honor of the eighth anniversary of the consecration of His Lordship, Rt. Rev. M. J. O'Brien, Bishop of Peterborough. The programme, embracing all classes, from tiny tots to the senior pupils, was splendidly rendered, showing an excellence of training and attention to detail that reflects great credit on the children and on the sisters who spent so much time in preparing the different numbers.

The pretty greeting chorus, "Festal Wishes," was prefaced by a little address in rhyme, delivered by Miss Kathleen Burke, while two dainty little maidens, Isabel Glover and Dorothy Finn, presented His Lordship with a beautiful basket of pink roses. Miss Grace Read rendered "Love's Dream" by Lizst, with splendid technique, and this was followed by an Allegory, entitled measures of the old dance, with the en of the senior pupils, Misses Mary G. Donoghue, Madeline Guiry, Dorothy Garden, Marcelle McNulty, Madge Tobin, Mary Donoghue and Kahtleen Burke. These young ladies, with Vera Hiland, who recited the prologue, gave a moving word picture of the struggle of the soul in its upward journey, depicting separately the dangers encountered by the way, the stormy path through the forest and the final peaceful goal. Rendered in poetical prose, this was one of the most effective numbers of the entire programme, and received loud applause. Miss Madeline Guiry's solo, in a rich mezzo soprano, "Sweet Spirit, Hear My Prayer," with chorus, was very appealing in its soft sweetness.

Miss Ernestine McManus was enthusiastically encored with two numbers in her pretty, birdlike voice, "There Are Fairies in Our Garden" and "Will o' the Wisp," two dainty songs finely executed.

The cunning little minuet by eight little tots in quaint old-fashioned costumes, with powdered heads and serious small faces, was the hit of the evening. Little Ruth Tracey introduced it with a cleverly-spoken little recitation, "When Grandma Danced the Minuet," and the little damsels went through the stately measures of theold dance, with the stiffly rustling gowns and grave-eyed dignity of ancient days. Andree Houedry and Hilda Sullivan in green, Josephine Lynch and Helen Archambault in yellow, Olive O'Connel and Clare McPherson in pink, and Marion Fitzpatrick and Marcelle Tobin in blue took part in the minuet. Miss Mary Donoghue played soft music.

"The Fairy Pipers" was a lovely, lilting number by eight young ladies: first sopranos: Misses Ernestine McManus and Mary Donoghue; 2nd sopranos, Misses Mary Galvin and Madeline Guiry; 1st altos, Misses Ania LeGendre and Mildred Archambault; 2nd altos, Misses Eileen McCabe and Olive Bacon.

A pianoforte number, "Espana," a difficult, staccato performance, was brilliantly rendered by the Misses Grace Read, Marion Hayes, Florence Giroux and Florence Leahy, and the pleasing programme was concluded by a chorus in Latin, "Sub Tuum Praesidium," by the choral class.

Accompanists for the different numbers throughout the evening were the Misses Marion Hayes, Florence Giroux and Mary Donoghue.

Awarding of diplomas for music, received at the midsummer examinations from the Canadian Academy of Music, were made as follows: Miss Florence Giroux, Part One, A.C.A.M.; Miss Eileen McCabe, Intermediate Vocal; Miss Alma Archambault, Junior Theory with honours; Miss Ernestine McManus, junior theory; Miss Vera Hiland, 1st class honors; the Misses Clotilde Collins, Margaret Carroll, Madeline Guiry, Mary Donoghue, Junior piano; Miss Margaret McPherson, honors in junior piano; the Misses Mary Scollard, Lucille Nolan, Alma Archambault, primary piano with honors; Master Peter Scully, preparatory piano; the Misses Bernardine Snider, Olive O'Connell, Josephine Lynch, Veronica Scollard, preparatory piano with honors; Miss Kathleen Hynes, elementary piano; Master Adolph McFadden, and Eileen Foley, elementary piano with honors; the Misses Isabel Flint, Marie Gallegher and Hilda Sullivan, elementary piano with first class honors.

His Lordship, Bishop O'Brien, congratulated the different classes on the beautiful programme they had presented, and the teachers whose training had made it possible. He also spoke of the beneficial effect exerted by the study of music in the class room.

Monsignor W. J. McColl and Rev. F. O'Sullivan of Port Hope also spoke a few words in commendation of the excellent entertainment, Father Sullivan remarking that twenty-three years had passed since his attendance at a concert at St. Mary's Convent, when mothers of some of the present small ladies were among the performers.

Attending clergymen present with His Lordship were: Rt. Rev. Mons. McColl, Fathers Gillogly, Cantillon, Costello, McHenry, Jno. J. O'Brien, J. V. McAuley of Ennismore, M. J. O'Brien of Lindsay and Father Frank O'Sullivan of Port Hope.

HIS DILEMMA

There are still one or two of the old time "stock" theatrical companies touring the smaller towns. One of these has at least 20 plays on its list. Recently it was giving a show in a village hall.

The performance was pretty bad, but the villagers found it quite interesting till at the great climax in the third act the hero forgot his part.

After an embarrassing silence of about two minutes he hissed audibly to the prompter:

"What's the line?"

"Whats the play?" the prompter hissed back from his little box, as he grabbed a pile or two or three dozen books and began to run through them feverishly.

The new Republic of Germany is in reality a country without a national emblem.

MAGNA CHARTA FAMOUS CHARTER OF LIBERTIES.

Magna Charta was a charter of liberties given by King John to the English people in 1215; it was only one of a number of similar charters given by the Norman and Plantagenet kings in those early days when the people began to assert their rights and demand recognition of them by the kind. The great length of Magna Charta, however, and the circumstances under which it was gained, for generations thereafter gave it a unique place in the minds of English speaking peoples. The veneration accorded Magna Charta grew with subsequent confirmations by successive kings, until in the time of the Stuarts it was regarded as sacrosanct, embodying the very ideal of English liberties. Its provisions, whether real or imagined, formed the standard toward which Englishmen strove.

The causes underlying the grant of Magna Charta were in a general way the growing insularity of the barons, now no longer holders of estates in Normandy, and an unpopular king who demanded money to be used in wars abroad from which followed dishonor to English arms instead of honor.

The actual crisis which brought about the historic scene at Runnymede arose from a quarrel between King John and Pope Innocent III., regarding the appointment of a new archbishop of Canterbury. This famous document either granted or secured very important liberties and privileges to every order of men in England—to the clergy, to the barons and to the common

LITTLE WANT ADS.

At this time of the year, there are any number of things that are badly needed, either by the man or woman.

These things can be done without, but the Summer is going to be not quite so happy without them, and they need not cost you nearly as much as you think, if you only use the Want Ads. to get them.

So many people lose a vast amount of pleasure simply because they have never learned the value of a simple little appeal to the Examiner Want Ad. Column. Don't let this bright month of June go by without satisfying little extra Summer wants through the Want Ads.

SINGING TO WIFE, WANDERER HANGED

"MURDERER OF THREE" DIES WITH NO SIGN OF REPENTANCE

CHICAGO, Ills., Sept. 30.— Carl Wanderer, with a song to the wife he murdered on his lips, was hanged at the Cook County Jail at dawn today.

The murderer of three — Mrs. Wanderer, her unborn babe and the "poor boob," went to his death without a show of fear or an outward sign of repentance. As he stood on the scaffold and the hangman's noose was being adjusted, Wanderer was asked whether he had anything to say. He responded singing, in a clear, resonant voice, the chorus of "Old Pal, Why Don't You Answer." A death-like silence settled on the crowd which packed the little enclosure where the scaffold was erected, until the last note was finished.

As the hook was adjusted, Wanderer repeated clearly the prayers intended for him by his pastor. He stood erect, with his head and shoulders thrown back. The trap was sprung at 7.01 a.m. and he was pronounced dead five minutes later.

"The gamest man who was ever hung in this jail, was the comment.

THE WEATHER

NEW YORK, September 30. — Canadian Press. — The hottest September 29th in 37 years was experienced yesterday when the temperature rose to 81 degrees at noon. Humidity of 50 and lack of a breeze contributed to the discomfort of the unseasonable weather.

Temperature of 83 degrees was recorded here September 29, 1884. Yesterday's high mark of 81 was surpassed in 1881 by a temperature of 87. Relief from showers was predicted by to-morrow night.

CHICAGO, September 30. — Canadian Press. — The weather Bureau records of 23 years for September 29, were broken yesterday, when the thermometer reached 85 degrees, at 3 p.m. The heat was broken last night by a thunderstorm.

Peterboro's highest temperature yesterday was 81 degrees. It was only one of a number of warm days this month. Last night was also quite warm, the lowest being but 65 degrees. This summer and fall have had more than their due share of hot days, and these conditions have been not local but general.—W.P.

TANLAC ACCOMPLISHES REMARKABLE RESULTS IN GEO. H. NICKEL'S CASE

PROMINENT WISCONSIN MAN SAYS TANLAC PROMPTLY RELIEVED HIM OF BAD CASE OF STOMACH TROUBLE OF SIX MONTHS STANDING—GAINS 27 POUNDS AND FEELS FINE AS A FIDDLE.

GEORGE H. NICKELS.

It is an unquestionable fact that Tanlac is now being more widely endorsed by well known men and women than any other medicine on the America market. One of the latest to testify is George H. Nickels, well known lecturer, residing at 227 Wells street, Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

"Tanlac has not only completely restored my health, but I have actually gained 27 pounds in weight," said Mr. Nichols in referring to the remarkable benefits he had derived from the medicine.

"For something over six months, my stomach was very badly disordered. I suffered terribly from Indigestion and Dyspepsia. At times I would be in great distress and I would invariably experience an uncomfortable bloated feeling for hours after eating. I had no appetite scarcely and the little I ate would often make me deathly sick. My head ached until I felt like it would burst and I was so nervous I trembled like a leaf. When I got up in the mornings, I was so weak and dizzy, I couldn't trust myself to walk around and I just hurt all over.

"Tanlac has brought about a wonderful change in my condition for I am now enjoying the very best of health. My appetite is splendid. I relish my meals. Everything agrees with me perfectly. The nervousness headaches and dizzy spells are gone and I never have an ache or pain. I am only too glad to tell others about the wonderful good Tanlac has done. It has no equal."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by the W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd., and by leading druggists everywhere.

SPIDER IS EXCELLENT FORECASTER.

The spider is an excellent weather prophet. Henri Fabre, the wonderful old man who found out so many of the secrets of insects and their kin, tells that the threads of the spider's web used for catching its prey are made useless by too much dampness. These threads, so tiny as to be almost invisible, are really hollow tubes filled with a sticky fluid which oozes through the walls and holds whatever touches the thread. This fluid readily absorbs the moisture from the air, and would soon lose its sticky nature in the rain or fog. So the wise spider, loath to waste the precious material, waits until the wet weather is virtually over before weaving the ensnaring threads. How it knows what the weather is to be is still one of the mysteries.

POLITICS AS PLAYED IN CHINA

By STANLEY E. ELLIS.

While the Government at Peking is supposedly the ruling power in the country, it is in reality a clash of factions, is weak in administration, of little consequence as a directive influence in national life, and absolutely under the thumb of militaristic leaders. The "Chihli" party is in power as opposed to the "Mnfu" party which was turned out of office a year ago. The latter were turned out, not by popular election, but by rifles and machine guns in the streets of the capital. Since the new Government assumed control one of its chief amusements has been that of chasing, and executing wherever possible, the leaders of the "outs." Certain charges have been preferred against them of course, such as embezzlement of public funds and the mortgaging of national resources to foreign nations—all of which are only too true, but nothing more than the party now in power is also doing. The people are only pawns in the game. That another Government exists in Canton in apparently deadly opposition to that of Peking is of little consequence to the country at large, who pursue the even tenor of their way in so far as military manœuvres and poorly staged battles will permit them.

The "Over-lords."

The controlling powers behind the Government vary as first one set of generals and then another succeeds in gaining supremacy in the army. At present these "super-tuchuns" or "overlords," as they are called, are Marshal Chang Tso-lin, High Pacification Commissioner for Mongolia Marshal Tsao Kun, High Commissioner for certain northern provinces, and General Wang Chan-yuan, military governor of Hupeh province. These three have recently held a conference in Peking with the Government on the problems facing the nation, with the result that each was presented with several million dollars for carrying out "important tasks." Every one knows where the greater part of the funds will go—certainly not into the good of the country. Shortly after General Wang's return from this conference two outrages occurred in his province, one in the city of Ichang and one in the city of Wuchang, which have angered the countryside. Wang's own soldiers broke loose and made a hell of each town, looting, burning, and murdering for one whole night, killing and injuring hundreds of people and doing property damage that ran into millions of dollars. Some foreign-owned property shared in the sacking, but no foreigners were injured. Certain military divisions were about to be disbanded, so it is reported, and as the soldiers had not received their wages for some time they decided to get what they could in their own way. And General Wang had $3,000,000 in his pocket at the time out of Peking chests.

In Broad Daylight.

The loot was carried out of the towns the morning after in broad daylight, a steamer being chartered in the one case and special trains being used in the other, and with no interference whatever on the part of the officials. The Governor, in what may have been an attempt to save his face, carried out a dastardly manœuvre from which even the Chinese recoil as a brutally inhuman deed. He allowed a train load of looters to proceed quietly out of Wuchang (his official residence, by the way), then telegraphing ahead ordered the train side-tracked at a small town, where the engine was uncoupled and the train made the target for volleys of machine gun and rifle fire from all sides. The box cars filled with human beings, even though criminals, were riddled through and through, while those who tried to escape were shot as they ran. Even the survivors of the firing, it is said, were searched out and bayonetted. Three hundred are reported to have been killed. The Chinese still bear out their reputation of being a long-suffering people, but these two outrages in one province within five days have aroused them for once. Wang's dismissal and punishment are demanded; so is the disbandment of the great majority of the indolent soldiers feeding on the nation; while appeals are being made to the Foreign Legations requesting that certain cities be declared to be foreign concessions so that native military forces can be forbidden entrance thereto. The Government sent a commission to investigate the affairs, the only result of which up to the present has been to whitewash the Governor and implore him to remain at his post as the only possible guarantor of order.

Devour National Funds.

When military tuchuns and supertuchuns devour national funds in this way is it any wonder that nothing is left for public improvements, such as railways and good roads, and for relieving their own citizens in the throes of famine or for carrying out famine preventive measures. Peking teachers went on strike a few weeks ago, not for higher salaries but as a protest against not having received the salary due them. The only thing they have yet received as a result of their protest was a beating by the President of the Republic's bodyguard when they appeared at that official's door to lodge their complaint.

Nor is it any wonder that provincial independence movements are under way in different parts of the country. These are movements of secession from the Central Government, the province concerned claiming entire freedom to rule itself and appoint its own officials from governor down. There is much that is hopeful in this for in time it may lead to a federation of provinces with a federal government somewhat after the pattern of the American Union. Yet there is also good room for pessimism—who will guarantee that officials will not continue to be the same old selfish squeeze-loving type that they have always been, no matter by whom appointed?

Question Mark Grows.

The question mark is growing bigger all the time—Can China save herself from herself for herself, or will some other nation or group of nations have to step in and bid her be good? The latter fate seems to be the inevitable culmination of the present drift of circumstances. The tragedy of it is this—the nation that China considers her most deadly enemy, namely Japan, is the one most likely to assume control. Korea has already succumbed to Japan. Shantung province, the birthplace of China's grand old man Confucius, is wholly under Japanese influence. Such influence is growing by leaps and bounds in all quarters—by trade activities, government loans on national securities, and by diplomatic pressure. If Great Britain and the United States (perhaps assisted by France) would insist on sharing the task with Japan the future for China and the world would be much brighter.

Nation-wide Move.

One nation-wide movement inherent with good possibilities is the Student Movement that has spread like wildfire from one end of the country to the other. By refusing to study, by street demonstrations, and by boycotts of Japanese goods the students have sought to demonstrate their patriotism and register their protest, as they have succeeded to quite an extent in making themselves a power to be reckoned with. Rightly counselled and guided this movement would be the brightest spot in China's present night, but unfortunately wise counsel and right direction are just exactly what are lacking. A recent incident near here illustrates the lengths to which they sometimes go. A student in a mission school, being fired with enthusiasm for the way in which Westerners do things, wrote a proposal of marriage to a girl teacher in the Government Normal school of the same town. The lady either did not cherish the same enthusiasm as he did, or did not consider the suit attractive, or for some other unknown reason, turned his letter over to the Student Union. This august body immediately proceeded to arrest the culprit, imprisoned him in one of their schoolrooms, then met in solemn conclave to pass judgment on the crime, and sentenced him to death. Had it not been for the vigorous interference of the missionary, who brought the matter before the proper official authorities, the boy would certainly have suffered the death penalty at the hands of his fellow students. A movement that considers itself capable of going to such limits is no better than the system in vogue against which it is protesting, and makes one very skeptical of the ultimate good it will accomplish.

The public life and movements of this nation seem fundamentally to lack leaders of incorruptible integrity and unselfish devotion to the public good, and until such are developed all efforts toward either social or political reform are foredoomed to failure. If Canada can help China in this regard she will have done a world-wide service.

CUSTOM COMPELS BRIDE TO LEAVE HUSBAND.

According to some tribal laws of Borneo the dowry required by the parents before they will part with their daughter is very large. Cattle gongs, jars, bright colored cloth, beads, a knife or even a gun, may be asked in payment for a wife. Sometimes the dowry runs into more than 100 different articles.

But when the happy day arrives a great stir runs through the village. If the bride is of a different village from that in which the bridegroom lives sweepers set out early on the morning of the wedding day, and brush the path between the two villages as clean as they can brush it. Then with a great deal of dancing and singing along comes the bridal procession.

All afternoon and night long the festivities are kept up in the bride's village, and then the bridegroom takes his bride to his own village. The very next morning, however, the bride—according to a savage etiquette—runs back to her father's house.

Perhaps half a dozen or more women of her husband's village follow the bride. Right up to the father's house they run, and argue with her to return to her husband's home. At last she permits herself to be persuaded, and back to her husband's house she goes—only to run away two or three times more.

It isn't until the bride has run down the well-swept path to her own village several times that native custom allows her to settle down as a happily mmarried woman in the home of her husband.

HARVEY BRIGHT PUGILIST, HAS A DUAL AMBITION.

To Practice Medicine and Win Featherweight Championship.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—(Associated Press).— Harvey Breitman, of Brooklyn, known in the world of pugilism as Harvey Bright, has a dual ambition for the achievement of which he sets himself a limit of two more years—to become a practising physician and featherweight boxing champion of the world.

In a little more than a year, during which he studied medicine, Breitman has fought his way up through 28 fistic encounters to a position which, it is said, places him in line for a match with Johnny Kilbane. All this Breitman did while supporting his mother and contributing to the education of a brother and sister.

In 1915 Breitman, then a high school graduate, became physical culture instructor in a New York school. With the passage of the Walker bill legalizing boxing in the State, he turned professional pugilist with such success that his income from his first year's efforts as a boxer is said to have been nearly $20,000.

First-class Scout—Well, you see they couldn't have the ocean tied if there were no knots.

LACE IN TIME OF HENRY IV.

Under Henry IV and Louis XIII, in spite of numerous royal edicts designed to check extravagance in dress and decoration, lace was used on cuffs, collars, gloves, doublets, breeches and even boot-tops, to an exaggerated degree, not only in costumes for men and women, and for altar decorations in churches, but also on furniture, beds especially, as interior trimmings, and along the great window sashes of coaches. Henry IV was vexed at these absurdities, yet wished to encourage the industries of France, realizing better than his ministers that the money for "the men and iron of war" comes from trade, even from lace. Louis XII, narrowly religious, did all he could to discourage lace-makers and wearers.

But it was Louis XIV who, with the aid of Colbert, his great minister, moved the centre of the lace world from Venice to France, and under his reign the lovely French point lace, de France, d'Alencon, d'Argentan, de Bruxelles, and d'Angleterre, reached their height of charm and elegance. Colbert, through the French ambassador at Venice, sent a few of the daughters of the best lace-makers of France to Venice to be taught, and some years later wrote, "I have gladly received the collar of needle-point lace in relief you sent me, and I find it very beautiful. I will have it compared with those now being made by our own lace-makers, although I may be to tell you beforehand that as good specimens are now being made in this kingdom." Colbert brought thirty teachers from Venice and 200 from Flanders, and placed them in suitable French towns at government expense. Modern governments might take a hint from Colbert.

ROWELL ATTENDS MISSION MEETING

INTERNATIONAL COMMITTEE CONVENES AT LAKE MOHAWK

LAKE MOHAWK, N. Y., Sept. 30.—(Canadian Press).—Hon. N. W. Rowell of Toronto is among the delegates to the International Missionary Committee, representing mission boards and groups throughout the world, which opened a week's session here today.

Sixty-five delegates from 15 countries are in attendance. The committee represents agencies maintaining about 25,000 missionaries and expending about $40,000,000 annually for mission work.

One of the questions to be considered by the gathering, over which the committee's Chairman, Dr. John R. Mott, of New York, will preside, will be the possibility of international missionary co-operation.

The offices of the committee, which was organized during the last year, are in London.

Among the delegates named to attend the meeting are the following representing Great Britain:—Bishop King, Secretary of the Society for the propagation of the Gospel, of the Church of England; Sir Robert Williams, President of the Church Missionary Society of Great Britain; Dr. J. H. Ritson, Secretary of the British and Foreign Bible Society, London, and Rev. S. K. Datta, National Secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association in India.

Other delegates include Count Molke, Denmark; Baron Von Boetzelaer, Holland; Professor J. du Plessis, of Stellenbosch, Union of South Africa; Dr. Karl Fries, of Stockholm, Sweden, and Bishop Uzaki, of the Japan Methodist Church.

VOTERS' LISTS

OTTAWA, Sept. 30.—(Canadian Press).—The importance of understanding the provisions of the Dominion Elections Act in reference to the preparation of voters' lists, is being impressed upon all election officials by the Chief Electoral Officer, Col. O. M. Biggar, in his instructions, which will be forwarded to election officials and candidates as soon as the writs for the forthcoming general election are issued.

Provision was made in 1920 and 1921 amendments to the Dominion Elections Act for the use of Provincial lists, where such exist, and where these have been compiled within two years of the date of holding the Federal election. In this way, it was pointed out in the House, there would be a saving of many thousands of dollars to the Dominion. The Provincial lists, where such exist, are used as the basis for the new Federal lists and names are added or taken from the lists as necessary to bring them up to date.

Saskatchewan and Prince Edward Island are the only two Provinces where no such lists are available. In Saskatchewan, it is stated, there are no officials in charge of voters' lists to whom the Dominion authorities can apply for copies, and Prince Edward Island has no Provincial voters' lists. In Ontario the lists used in the 1919 election are out of date, all of them dying out before a Federal general election could be held, but there have been other lists made up since in this Province which will be the basis of the new Federal lists.

Section 32 of the Dominion Elections Act, which covers the making of lists of voters, provides for the use of Provincial lists not more than two years old. Where these lists do not exist, it is set forth that entire new lists must be prepared. The rules governing personal registration of voters and revision, applicable only to urban polling divisions, provide for the appointment of one registrar in each city, town or incorporated village with a population of from 2,500 to 4,000 persons, and one for each additional 4,000 persons. The registrar so appointed is to sit for six consecutive days (except Sunday) for the purpose of registering voters as required by the Act.

Applicants for registration must take an oath or affirmation and answer such questions as are provided for in the forms supplied to the registrars. The registrar has the right to refuse applicants if he considers that they are not entitled to registration. If he does so, however, the refused applicant has a right to demand a certificate of such refusal which must state the reason for refusal together with other particulars.

Rule 5, which is of importance to the general public, states that "If any person who claims to be entitled to be registered is unable personally to attend the registration sittings by reason of sickness, disability, or necessary, temporary, unavoidable and bona fide absence from the city, town or incorporated village wherein he is entitled to be registered, any other person who is a relative or employer of such first-mentioned person and who has a personal knowledge of the facts, may appear before the registrar, who shall administer to him, orally, under oath or solemn affirmation the interrogatories contained in Form No. 15 of this Act, and if he substantiates (a) the cause of absence to be such as is in this rule set forth and (b) all things requisite to the registration of such first-mentioned person, saving personal appearance, that person may be registered as if he had personally appeared."

In cities and towns classed as urban districts, it is pointed out, only those may vote whose names are on the lists, therefore it is important to voters that they see the voters' lists as soon as these are issued, and if their names are not included, make application for registration as provided in the Act.

The revising officer is appointed to go over the lists prepared by the registrar. Any persons who have been refused registration by the registrar may make their appeal before the revising officer, and in the case of anyone applying to have his or her name added to the lists, it is permissible to add that name at the discretion of the revising officer, whether or not the application had been previously made to a registrar. The revising officer is also given power to strike names off the lists where he is satisfied that such should not be included and to correct any errors he may find.

It is provided in the Act that the work of revising the lists shall be undertaken by the following:

In the judicial districts of Quebec and Montreal, Province of Quebec, by the judge from time to time performing the duties of the Chief Justice or Acting Chief Justice thereof.

Elsewhere in the Province of Quebec by Superior Court judges of the districts and by the senior judge if there are more than one.

In the Yukon Territory by the judge of the Territorial Court.

Elsewhere by the senior judge of the County or District Court. These judges are given power to appoint substitutes to do the work for them, and it is provided in the Act that these substitutes shall have all the powers of a judge of a court of record.

For rural polling divisions it is provided that one registrar for each division shall be appointed. Beginning fourteen days before the date of polling, the rural registrar is required to open sittings for the purpose of revising the lists as may be necessary and to continue these sittings for five days. Up to the tenth day before polling, the rural registrar if he is satisfied that there are names which should be added to or struck off the lists in his division, is required to make these alterations.

Rural voters, whose names are not on the lists, may have them added on polling day. They must, however, be vouched for by an elector whose name is on the lists and who resides in that polling division, and also must be sworn as required under the Act. Would-be voters who refuse to be sworn are not allowed to vote, under the Act. Provision is also made in the Act respecting women, naturalized by marrying British subjects, though not themselves naturalized, that they must secure certificates from a judge having jurisdiction in naturalization proceedings before they become entitled to vote.

There is no change in the provisions requiring posting of the voters' lists so that every voter may have an opportunity of seeing that his or her name has been included in the list for his or her polling division.

IODINE IN MODERATION

By M. JESSIE LEITCH.

The man who was working at his new chicken house dropped his tools rather hastily and hurried toward the house. He was holding one hand as he came and his wife, ironing at the kitchen table, read the signs.

She ran for the iodine bottle, appearing again at the foot of the stairs almost instantly, and saying breathlessly, "How did you do it?"

The man's handkerchief was red with blood and his face was white and frightened looking.

"The hatchet slipped," he said. "I don't think it's very bad, but of course—" And he held out his hand for the iodine.

His wife was very brave and insisted upon applying the iodine herself, but her fingers trembled a little, and the man was impatient.

"Don't be so stingy," he said, and tipped the bottle across his hand. The cut was rather long, but not very deep, and the bleeding was soon stanched.

"I'll just put on a little more for luck," said the man, beginning to enjoy the sensation of being fussed over, for his wife was bringing bandages and gauze, and looking for the scissors and saying, "Dear, dear, I'm glad it isn't any worse. You should be more careful, dear. You might have cut an artery."

And so, a little more iodine was applied for luck, though the man's wife murmured, "I think you have enough on now."

And then the hand was bandaged.

The pain, however, increased. In half an hour it was well-nigh unbearable. The man was pacing wildly up and down and his wife, her ironing forgotten, was telephoning for the doctor and getting more excited because she could not get central.

The doctor was out of town. It was a small town, the type of place where, failing to locate the doctor one turns to the druggist, and this is just what the woman did.

The druggist paused in his pill-making long enough to say that it sounded like an iodine burn to him, as cuts were not usually so painful, and that he thought Bill had better trot down and let him have a look at it.

Trotting at the moment was out of the question. For Bill was well-nigh mad with pain, and had quite decided that the hatchet must have been dipped in the rankest poison. He scoffed loudly at the idea of an iodine burn.

"That's the stuff they gave the soldier's to put on their wounds in No Man's Land," he declared. "And if a little is good, more must be better."

But his wife was listening to the druggist, who was asking about ointments.

"I haven't a thing except cold cream and cocoa butter," the woman said.

"Tell you what you do. Pour some castor oil into a saucer and stir in an equal part of corn starch—or enough to make a smooth ointment. Stir it with a silver knife. Protect the cut with a piece of dry gauze, apply the starch and oil ointment generously to the burned part of the hand, and ring me up in an hour."

The hand, all blackened, and most painfully burned, was dressed as directed. The pain left it as if by magic. For it was an iodine burn, and in future the man was more careful, and took occasion to warn all friends to apply iodine in moderation.

OCTOBER 8, CANDY DAY

CHICAGO, Sept. 30 — (United Press).—There is to be a new national holiday in the United States. Candy Day. The National Confectioners' Association has selected October 8 to be "the sweetest day of the year."

All other holidays in the calendar, say the confectioners, have a political sentimental or religious background. Candy Day is for everybody without respect to age, sex, religion race or politics. Everybody on that day is expected to receive a gift of candy from somebody. Incidentally, of course, the candymakers will profit.

SOUTH AFRICAN FINANCES GIVE GOVERNMENT TROUBLE

CAPE TOWN, September 29 (Canadian Press). — In reviewing South Africa's financial position to the Civil Servants who met him regarding the abolition of the war bonus, Premier Smuts pointed out that as the Customs returns would probably be a million and a half sterling below the estimates and other sources of revenue showed decreases, the position had become worse since last year. Although retrenchment must be enforced, he was not despairing of the future.

You Need a Good Engine

You can't realize the money-saving value of a good farm engine until you've seen how much more quickly and efficiently you can clear up the numerous odd jobs about the farm.

For milking, separating, churning, sawing, grinding, sharpening tools, mixing cement, shelling corn, filling the silo—there's nothing I know of that will give better service with so little attention as a Toronto Engine. And they operate on either kerosene or gasoline.

Let me explain in detail these sturdy little workers next time you pass my way. Don't forget to see their able assistants—The Toronto Saw and the Toronto Grain Grinder—at the same time.

By HENRY L. FARRELL,
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 30. — Right up to the threshold of the American League pennant room, the New York Yankees were ready to push the door in to-day. With the prospect of having Babe Ruth, the big shover, back in the game to-day, the Hugginites felt sure of enough force to swing the barried on its hinges and walk in over the prostrate backs of the Philadelphia Macks.

Thanks to wee Dick Kerr, who was not a pillow lifter in 1919, the Yankees were within one game of the world's series with the Giants, who clinched the National League pennant yesterday.

With Carl Mays, the bulky underhander, ready to work, the Yanks were a chipper lot around their hotel this morning. They are not taking the world seriously and they didn't need to. They showed it in every smile and in every move.

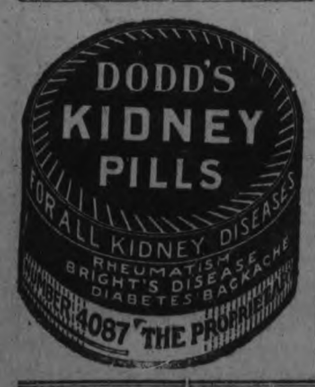
Banjo Bennet, the little hunchbacked mascot, who was called from New York in the middle of the last western trip, was the only boastful one of the squad.

"I never lost a pennant," he said. "The Yankees cinched it upon their hired men."

Miller Huggins, the petite pilot of the club, would not talk.

Babe Ruth, the swat king, who was missing from the line-up yesterday, is ex pected back this afternoon, when the second game of the series with the Macks is played at Shibe Park.

The Yanks were hardly back to their hotel last evening when the Big Bam was on the 'phone with a message of congratulations and good wishes. He wired again this morning that he hoped to be in a uniform this afternoon. Although the fans were razing Connie Mack yesterday with "What you doin', betting on the Yanks," "Why don't you give 'em the rest of the story and let the team rest," the Athletics put up an earnest attempt to break the prospective champions yesterday. But Shawkey, former Athletic, wouldn't let them do it.



HOW TO LIVE HAPPY, GIRLS!

Girls, a new method for plumbing the depths of matrimonial happiness has been discovered.

If you want to find out justwhat there is to the supposition that "they lived happy ever after," become a nurse and acquire the information firsthand.

An eastern girl, a recent visitor in Winnipeg, has totalled up the receipts and disbursements of married life and the balance comes out on the wrong side of the ledger.

In other words, according to the summing up of this nurse, matrimony is not a success.

She states that the percentage of unhappy marriages is greater than those in which the connubial bliss rules the roost.

Read and inwardly digest for future guidance some of the stumbling blocks that interject themselves in the way of the matrimonial ship, bearing in mind the conditions under which these observations were made, for it must be admitted that a home where illness has interrupted the smooth tranquility of domestic relations might not reflect truly the conditions that obtain in the average family.

First of all the majority of men are selfish and quertulous, or to speak plainly—they are "ornery." No matter how attentive a wooing swain may be he invariably becomes selfish after marriage. He declines to give up pre-nuptial pleasures, such as going out evenings, attending "stag" parties, and sitting in the well-known indoor pastime, known as poker. He declares his wife would spend more than he could earn and he is averse to staying in and tending the baby occasionally to enable her to see a show. Her place is in the home and he believes she should stay there. He must not be disturbed in the evening while perusing the paper and he is not to be expected to dry the dishes occasionally, order the coal, buy the groceries; in fact, he does not consider he should do anything about the house.

On the other hand most women become "naggers," criticizing at every opportunity small deviations from her standard of conduct. She is suspicious every time her husband goes out in the evening, for fear he might be sneaking off to drink home-brew or shuffle the pasteboards. She barks at him for spilling ashes on the rugs, whines at him because he forgot to put his slippers away, warns him about decorating the furniture with his clothes after he discards them, wonders when he ever took a bath before he was married, criticizes his ties, his hats and his general appearance, while expecting nothing but praise for what she wears. In fact, she tells him quite plainly that it is luck for him that she got him, for no other woman would put up with him.

After this criticism of both sexes and their respective faults, it is needless to say that this young lady plans on steering her own ship without the aid of a pilot.

To become an all-round man, be on the square.

FINANCIAL AND MARKETS

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—(Canadian Press).—Initial prices in the Stock Market to-day were mixed, but a firm tone soon developed on renewed buying of Rails and Oils. Coppers, Motors, Equipments and Rubbers were firm and Food and Chemical issues led the stronger specialties. Local tractions were not affected by the Transit Commission's plan to merge all city lines. The feature of the foreign exchange market was a further rally of German marks.

On the rise of the first hour, Baldwin, Republic Iron, Gulf States Steel, Houston Oil, Kelly Springfield, Ajax Rubber, Endicott Johnson, Food Products and International Paper gained one to two points. The leaders became reactionary before noon. Trading in Liberty Bonds and Victory Notes fell away sharply. Call money opened and renewed into next week at five per cent.

Coalers and Coppers were features of the dull mid-session, gaining one to two points. General Electric and American Sugar were the heaviest Industrials. Call money rose to 5 1-2 per cent.

HYDRO SURPLUS $127,000.

TORONTO, Sept. 30.—(Canadian Press.)—In a report to the Commissioners the manager of the Toronto Hydro system states that last year there was a net surplus of $122,727. The progress of the year was checked by the power shortage, but consumers increased by 7,500.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—(Canadian Press.)—Foreign exchange irregular, Canadian Dollars 9 per cent. discount.

MONTREAL.

MONTREAL, Sept. 30.—(Canadian Press). — The local Stock Exchange was very active during the early trading this morning, the first half-hour being the busiest since last month. Abitibi opened fractionally stronger at 30, while Brompton ran up a half point at 21 1-8. Laurentide remained unchanged at 72½. National Breweries was particularly strong, advancing a point from yesterday's closing quotation.

TORONTO.

TORONTO, Sept. 30.—(Canadian Press.) —Considerable activity and strength develcped in Abitibi and Winnipeg Rails on the local stock exchange this morning. Abitibi advanced to 31. Winnipeg was 3-4 higher at 38. Steel of Canada, continuing yesterday's strength, advanced to 57 1-2. Brazilian was held to small fractional changes and closed 1-4 off at 22 3-4.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—(Canadian Press.)—Opening wheat quotations which varied from unchanged figures to 1 1-4 cent lower with December 1.22 1-2 to 1.22 3-4 and May 1.26 1-2 to 1.27 were followed by more losses all around.

Corn and oats were easier with wheat. Corn, after opening unchanged to 1-2 cents lower, including December at 50 to 50 1-8, rallied a little, but then sagged again. Oats started unchanged to 1-4 cent lower, December 36 5-8 to 36 3-4.

Predictions were current that receipts in the Northwest would increase during the next week, consignment notices being much larger. The close was heavy, 1 3-4 to 2 3-4 net lower, with December 1.20 1-2 to 1.20 3-4 and May 1.25 1-2 to $1.25 3-4.

BEAUVAIS, CO-RESPONDENT IN STILLMAN DIVORCE, WANTS CANADIAN HEARING

MONTREAL, Sept. 30.— (Canadian Press.)—Fred Beauvais, co-respondent in the Stillman divorce proceedings, stated to-day that he hoped the commission would be appointed to take evidence in Canada. "I a sure we can get enough evidence in Canada to quash charges brought against Mrs. Stillman and myself," he said.

THE EXAMINER

PETERBOROUGH

SAM HARUCH PUT ON STAND TO-DAY

TO EVERY QUESTION REPLIED HE WAS TOO DRUNK TO REMEMBER.

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 30. — Sam Haruch, prisoner on trial in the Supreme Court, charged with being one of the gang of robbers who murdered Peter Wovoda in a store hold-up at Port Weller on the night of May 21, was put on the witness stand by L. B. Spencer, counsel for the prisoners, this morning. He spoke through an interpreter. Haruch is the man who was identified by Peter Martin, store clerk, as being the robber with a gun in his hand at the back door. Haruch to-day said that he was so drunk that he remembered nothing that happened the night of May 21. His boarding mistress at Thorold told him officers had been at the house looking for him. "So Monday morning Holli and I went to St. Catharines to find out what the police wanted us for," said Sam. Cross-examined, Haruch gave the sterotyped answer to every question, "I don't remember, I was too drunk."

TREES DESTROYED AT KING GEORGE SCHOOL

SUCH ACTS OF VANDALISM MEAN SERIOUS TROUBLE FOR CULPRITS.

Some of the vines and trees on the King George school property have been destroyed by some persons of whose identity the Board of Education has certain information which is being investigated, Mr. A. A. Fowler told the Examiner this morning. The trees were saplings planted when the new school was built, and were attaining vigorous growth. The vines had also developed well and were beginning to beautify the school and grounds. Mr. Fowler stated that the Board intended to prosecute the vandals who have been guilty of these acts, and in the meantime issued a warning that any damage to school property will bring trouble to the offenders.

THREE-CORNERED FIGHT IN WEST HASTINGS

BELLEVILLE, Sept 30—It looks as though Labor and the National Progressive Party will join hands in the Federal Election in West Hastings. A Belleville branch of the Independent Labor Party has been organized and when discussing I. L. P. platform J. W. Galloway of Trenton, asserted that the Farmers' Party are anxious to combine with Labor in the riding.

The meeting appointed a committee from the U.F.O. on the question of putting an Independent Labor and U.F.O. candidate in the West Hastings' field; and of holding a joint convention shortly.

TREATMENT.

This story was told by one of the doctors attending the convention in Boston. A candidate for medical honors was having a hard time answering the questions that were put to him. Finally one of the professors asked: "How would you sweat a patient for rheumatism?"

Of the 110,000 war-time inventions submitted to the U. S. Government during the world war, 109,890 were found worthless on first examination. One hundred and ten were sent to committees for further examination. Of these only one was put into operation—the Ruggles Orientator a mechanism for testing aviation candidates' ability to sustain the dizzy motion of flying.

Walter Bunton, 27 years of age of Laporte, Ind., who discovered a process for tempering copper, recently completed an agreement with the United States Steel Corporation whereby he will receive $1,000,000 and a royalty of two cents per pound for his patent rights. Bunton without technical training, stumbled on the process which had been lost since the days of the early Romans.

DEFECTIVE MOTOR LUBRICATION IS NOW VERY SELDOM EXPERIENCED

OILING SYSTEM SELDOM GOES WRONG: PRINCIPAL CAUSE OF TROUBLE IS THINNING OF OIL FROM LEAKING GASOLINE AND ACCUMULATION OF GRIT IN OIL BASE.

The most serious defect that could occur with the lubricating system is failure of the pump, but, fortunately, this rarely occurs. The pumps are small affairs, but sufficiently rugged as their work is light. Certainly they never fail for lack of lubrication because they run in a bath of oil.

Two Kinds of Pumps.

There are two kinds of pumps in engine oiling—the gear and the plunger types. The gear pump has two gears revolving, one of them being driven by a shaft which runs down from the cam shaft. The gear teeth catch the oil and carry it around until they mesh with each other when the oil is squeezed out. The plunger type is worked directly from the cam shaft. It has two check valves. As the plunger moves toward the cam shaft, the oil is sucked into the body of the pump, one of the check valves opening to admit it. This valve closes when the plunger stops. The plunger is now forced in by the cam on the cam shaft and the oil goes out by the other check valve. In case a piece of dirt gets by the strainer and passes into the gear pump, the shaft will break. The plunger pump is more rugged, but it depends upon a spring for the return of the plunger. If dirt enters it is apt to jam the plunger.

Failure of the pump is indicated immediately on the dash at the pressure gauge or sight feed. But this must not be confused with another trouble—an air-bound pump. Where the pump is set above the oil level there is always danger of its becoming filled with air. It then fails to pump oil, making a dangerous condition for the engine. It is customary, in such cases, to unscrew the oil pipe at the sight gauge and to inject oil from the squirt can. This runs down and fills the pump, "priming" it, as we say. The pipe is then replaced, the engine started and the gauge watched. If now the pump does not operate it is broken or jammed and must be taken apart for inspection.

Clogged Pipe Trouble.

Another serious trouble is a clogged oil pipe, which does not often happen, as the oil must pass through a strainer before it can enter the pump. A stuck piston or a burned out bearing may follow this trouble, and there is no way of detecting it until the damage is done, but fortunately it is rare.

A recent development in lubricating troubles is gasoline in the oil, owing to the difficulty of evaporating the heavy gasoline now in use. This works down from the combustion space if the cylinders or rings are at all worn, if the mixture is too rich or the engine cold. It condenses in the oil base and thins the oil, increasing the friction and so cutting down the power. Occasionally some of the oil should be drawn off on the hand or on a piece of paper and inspected for thinness. Of course it will be seen to grow blacker with increased mileage, but should not be any thinner. As soon as you are satisfied that the gasoline is mixing with it you should change it immediately. It is of small value compared with the gasoline which must be burned to overcome the increased friction.

Base Becomes Filled.

As time goes on and the car piles up its hundreds of miles the oil grows dirtier and thicker, unless there is gasoline condensation. Dust gets in from the outside, carbon comes down from the cylinders, the lighter parts of the oil evaporate and in time the bottom of the oil base becomes clogged with a heavy muck. This has been known to obstruct the flow of oil to the pump, stopping the circulation entirely. The usual (and thoughtless) way to remove this deposit is to drain off the engine under its own power. This loosens the muck so that some of it may then be drawn out when the oil base is drained, but it also splashes the fine grit into the bearings, where it acts as a fine grinding compound.

The one way to remove this muck and grit is to drop the oil base and take it out by hand. This is a troublesome process, but is far better than stirring up the grit and splashing it into the bearings.

ARE ALL THE CHILDREN IN?

The darkness falls, the wind is high,
Dense black clouds fill the western sky;
The storm will soon begin;
The thunders roar, the lightnings
I hear the great round raindrops dash—
Are all the children in?

They're coming softly to my side;
Their forms within my arms I hide;
No other arms are sure.
The storm may rage with fury wild,
With trusting faith each little child
With mother feels secure.

But future days are drawing near;
They'll go from this warm shelter here
Out in the world's wild din;
The rain will fall, the cold winds blow,
I'll sit alone and long to know
Are all the children in?

Everyone reads quite a bit lately about the power of thought and the more we read the more we become convinced that a man's thoughts do re-act very strongly upon himself for good or evil as the case may be.

For a while the idea rather bothered us that if anyone should take a dislike to us through circumstances beyond our control, and should throw evil thoughts in our direction, we would quite unjustly, suffer from these evil thought forms. However, this idea has been refuted by modern religionists and psychologists. It seems that if you have no evil in your mind to attract a like force coming toward you, it does not reach you and consequently does no harm. It is only when we hold hatred for an enemy that his evil thoughts can do us any harm. Consequently we see that to return good for evil is the happiest solution to all our problems.

Sometimes among events that move so swiftly and with our desire to get away from old fashioned ideas and keep always abreast of the times, we became a little careless in our classification of what old fashioned ideas are and as a consequence we are losing sight of many of the sacred things out of life.

Let us not sell our birth right for a "mess of pottage" for after all many of the things which seem so important and for which we sometimes sacrifice a great many worth while things are only fads and not worth a passing thought. Let us be sure before giving up an old and tried ideal, that it is not worth more to us than any new one which we may select to take its place.

One of the best Italian restaurants that we have found is located on Fifth Avenue, Pittsburgh, Pa. The dishes served have a flavor seldom found in restaurants of this character, a flavor that only an artist in blending foodstuffs and condiments can achieve. The chef who is responsible for the delectable foods that have made this restaurant famous in this part of Pennsylvania was for many years chef of one of San Francisco's leading cafes and it was like meeting an old friend to talk with him.

Italian Cutlets.

One of his hot weather specialties is an omelet made by slicing wafer thin one cup of Italian squash; this is heated in an omelet pan with two tablespoons of butter and when it is half cooked three well beaten eggs are added and the pan is set in a hot oven; when the egg is set place the omelet on a dish, garnish with thin slices of tomato dipped in French dressing.

Luncheon Salad.

A salad for the principal dish of a summer luncheon is made by mixing in a bowl that has been rubbed with a clove of garlic, one cup of cucumber dice, one cup of cold cooked sweetbreads cut in dice, half a cup of finely chopped celery, half a cup of wafer thin slices of red radishes and half a cup of French dressing. After adding the dressing allow the salad to stand in the ice box for half an hour, then drain off all the dressing and serve on a bed of watercress and cover with a good cream mayonnaise.

This chef serves with roast lamb sliced tomatoes that have been dipped in mint sauce and dusted with paprika.

Popular Salad.

A salad that is very popular here is made by mixing equal quantities of diced grape fruit, fresh seedless grapes, chopped seeded raisins, and diced orange with French dressing. Chill thoroughly and serve on a lettuce covered plate and garnish with grapes and orange quarters.

Italian Lamb Stew.

A very nice lamb stew is made by stewing two pounds of lamb cut in three-inch pieces with plenty of water, half a cup of vinegar and one chopped onion and a seasoning of salt and pepper. When lamb is tender stir in two tablespoons of flour, two cups of tomatoes, one tablespoon of chopped parsley and one finely chopped green pepper. Let boil up once and serve in a dish bordered with cooked rice.

A Delicious Breakfast Dish.

Mix one cup of finely chopped ham with one cup of chopped cooked tongue, a teaspoon of chopped parsley and half a cup of bread crumbs, moisten this with a little sweet milk and season with salt and paprika. Cover well buttered shirred egg dishes with this mixture and break two eggs over each dish. Place in a moderate oven and bake until whites are set.

Apple Cake.

Fresh apples are coming into the markets and some very nice coffee cake made with them was served at our hotel. This was made by sifting four cups of flour with six level teaspoons of baking powder, half a cup of sugar, one teaspoon of cinnamon, and one teaspoon of salt. Rub into this as for biscuits, four tablespoons of butter and when it is well rubbed in add one beaten egg and two cups of milk, work to a smooth dough and spread on a shallow baking pan. Spread the top with melted butter and four tablespoons of sugar mixed with one teaspoon of cinnamon. Cover this with one cup of chopped seeded raisins and cover raisins with peeled, cored and sliced apples. Bake in a medium oven thirty minutes.

Fruit Slices For Afternoon Tea.

Beat until light four eggs and one and a half cups of sugar. Sift one cup of flour with one and a half teaspoons of baking powder and add to the first mixture with one teaspoon each of ground nutmeg, cloves, allspice, two teaspoons of ground cinnamon, half a cup of sliced blanched almonds and half a cup of chopped seeded raisins. Mix well and spread on flat baking pans. Bake in a medium oven and when cold cut in slices three inches long and one and a half inches wide.

Beef—Italian.

A dish of boiled beef that one would go out of the way to get is prepared by boiling a three-pound piece of top round of beef in water until the scum forms on top. Skim off the scum and add two cups of tomatoes, one small clove of garlic, three medium onions, three or four outer stalks of celery, one carrot cut in small pieces and a seasoning of salt and pepper. Let it simmer slowly for three hours. An hour before serving remove the beef and place in a covered dish near the heat. Strain off the gravy and bring to a boil and add to it half a cup of rice and cook until the rice is tender. Add to the cooked rice four tablespoons of grated cheese and one tablespoon butter. Place the beef on a hot platter and pour around the rice and garnish with finely chopped parsley.

Green Peppers with Shrimps.

Stuffed green peppers with shrimps are prepared by cutting off the tops of half a dozen bell peppers and removing the insides. Place the peppers in cold salted water and let stand for three hours. For the dressing, brown two tablespoons of butter in a saucepan and add two cups of tomato pulp, a seasoning of pepper, salt, chopped parsley and onion, boil up once and then set to one side half of the cup of soft bread crumbs and one small can of finely chopped shrimps. Fill the drained pepper cases with this mixture, sprinkle bread crumbs over the tops and place on each a small piece of butter. Place the peppers on a flat baking pan with very little water and bake until tender, basting often. Place the peppers on a hot plate and pour around the remainder of the tomato sauce.

Barbecued Lamb.

As served here this is very nice. Place in a baking pan a shoulder of lamb and pour over it two cups of salt water, place in the oven and bake until brown, basting every few minutes. When nearly done add to the water four tablespoons of vinegar and baste well with it. For the sauce place in a saucepan two tablespoons of sweet butter and when melted stir in six tablespoons of Worcestershire sauce, six tablespoons of chili sauce, three tablespoons of boiled mayonnaise. Serve this sauce over each slice of the lamb.

We have just completed a trip through the richest agricultural and manufacturing section of this state and we were served many good and wholesome meals at the hotels ansd wayide inns in the towns that we visited, meals that will always be remembered for the bountiful service of fresh fruits, vegetables, poultry, the best ham and bacon, home cured, and dairy dishes that we have ever tasted.

In the Cumberland valley, just outside of Carlisle, we stopped for dinner at an old time tavern and the salad of green vegetables was served with a dressing that was so good we asked the proprietor if we could interview the cook and secure the recipe. The cook was his wife and she very gladly gave the recipe and some others that were favorites of hers.

Honey Salad Dressing.

The salad dressing was made by beating an egg with two tablespoons of honey until smooth, place in a saucepan and stir in one-quarter of a teaspoon of mustard, half a teaspoon of salt, quarter teaspoon of paprika, and half a cup of lemon juice, stir over a slow fire until the mixture reaches the boiling point Remove from the fire and stir until cold. Add one cup of whipped cream. Good for all vegetables and fruit salads

Buttermilk Cakes.

For her hot cakes she uses two cups of sifted flour mixed with one cup of corn meal, one teaspoon of soda, the well beaten yolks of three eggs and enough buttermilk to make a rather stiff batter. Beat the batter until smooth and add the stiffly beaten whites of three eggs. Use a large mixing spoon to pour onto a hot well greased griddle. Bake to a nice brown on both sides and serve with maple syrup.

Old Fashioned Marble Cake.

For dinner she served an old fashion marble cake with a dish of fresh peaches covered with whipped cream. For the cake beat to a cream three-quarters of a cup of butter and one and a half cups of sugar, add three well beaten eggs and three cups of flour sifted with four teaspoons of baking powder and a quarter of a teaspoon of salt. Add one cup of rich milk, beat smooth and flavor with one teaspoon of vanilla extract. Remove to another bowl one-half of the batter and to this add one tablespoon of molasses, one tablespoon of melted chocolate, one cup of chopped seeded raisins and half a teaspoon of ground mace. Drop by spoonfuls into a deep, greased and floured cake pan, alternating the two batters. Bake forty-five minutes in a moderate oven. Frost with a white icing to which add some chopped nut meats and seedless raisins.

LARGE BARN AND CONTENTS DESTROYED

LINDSAY, Sept. 30.—John O'Halloran's large barn and contents were totally destroyed yesterday by fire, said to have been caused by a spark from a G.T.R. locomotive igniting the roof of the building, situated just on the southwestern limits of this town. Besides the barn, Mr. O'Halloran's loss includes a Dodge car, eight tons of hay, 500 hides, a cutter, buggy, and harness.

Mr. O'Halloran carried some insurance on the barn, but none whatever on its contents.

PICTON WINS IN THE ELEVENTH SERIES WITH THE C. G. E. TIED INTERMEDIATE O.B.A. TEAMS WILL HAVE TO PLAY SUDDEN DEATH GAME TO DECIDE ISSUE--YESTERDAY'S BATTLE WAS A THRILLER.

After what the Picton fans pronounced the most thrilling battle ever staged on the Picton diamond, the Canadian General team were forced to yield the decision to last year's intermediate champions at Picton yesterday, the home team winning by 7 runs to 6 in the eleventh innings and evening up the series. A "sudden death" game will have to be played to settle the question of which team will go into the semi-finals of the intermediate O.B.A.A. The two clubs were unable to agree upon where the game is to be staged, Peterborough holding out for Port Hope or Cobourg, while Picton wanted Belleville. The O. B. A. A. will have to decide the issue.

Yesterday's game was a thriller all the way with teams see-sawing in the lead, good fielding, sharp hitting at times and clever pitching by Croft for Picton and "Bun" Frost for the Canadian General. The Peterborough crew got off in front by scoring in the first, but Picton came back in the third with two. A double home run and triple in a row gave C.G.E. three runs and the lead in the fifth, and when the score remained at 4 to 2 until the last of the eighth, the General looked all over winners. A desperate rally gave Picton a quartette of runs in that session, putting them two to the good, and the C. G. E. with only one innings, were apparently beaten. But they rallied, scored two in the ninth, tying the score, and blanked Picton in their half, making extra innings necessary. Manager Webb's crew should have won out in the tenth when they had the winning run on third with nobody out but Croft got out of the hole by fanning Frost and McCarney and getting Johnston on an infield roller. Picton won the game in the eleventh on two hits and a stolen base, Croft having the satisfaction of winning his own game by crashing out a sizzling double that sent the much-needed tally over.

Croft delivered a fine brand of pitching for the winners. He had good control, nice speed and a puzzling submarine ball that bothered C.G.E. considerably. Outside of the first and fifth innings he kept their hits well scattered, and in the last six innings he held the losers to three singles.

Frost also pitched excellent ball, and while fourteen hits are marked against him four or five were scratchy, one a misjudged fly that came with bases full and cost two runs. Frost whipped ten of the opposition and his only charity was to Hudgen, who got hit by a pitched ball in a way that indicated that he was trying for that very thing.

Frank Barrie was the bright light for the C.G.E. team. He was responsible for four of his outfit's runs, had three hits and a sacrifice fly, one of his safeties being a clean homer, and he did some great work on the defensive, his catch of Campbey's line drive in the fifth being a feature. Foley was in the limelight with a sensational one-handed pick-up of a hot drive from Croft's bat.

Baseball is taken very seriously in Picton. A half-holiday was declared yesterday so that everybody went. They know how to rook, too, down in Prince Edward County, and yesterday they were alternately on the blissful heights or down in the depths as the leadership fluctuated from one team to the other.

Both teams played snappier ball than in Peterborough, and the game was as fast and exciting a struggle as the most ardent fan would wish to see.

C. G. E. got off to a nice start in the first innings. Barrie opened by a clean single to right and a theft of second. Dugan and Corrin both whiffed but Helson cracked a single to centre that was long enough to let Barrie score from the half way station. Helson took second on the throw to the plate and then stole third but Frost fanned.

Picton came back with two in the third. H. Campney started the rally with a long drive to left for three bases. Mulholand fanned but Croft rolled to McCarney and got a cheap hit when the short stop held the ball too long in keeping Campney from scoring. R. Frederick cut a single through short scoring Campney. Croft collided with Foley at third and when the third baseman, as a result let Legon's throw get away Croft registered, putting the Prince Edward county crew in front. Hudgin fanned and Barrie threw out Harrigton to end the innings.

The C. G. E. outfit shot to the front again in the fifth. Foley first up fanned but Primeau doubled to left and Barrie cracked one to deep right centre for a homer, sending Primeau ahead of him. Dugan missed three but Corrin tripled to right and completed the circuit on C. Frederick's high throw to third. Helson hunted safely and stole second, but Frost fanned.

The Peterboro crew held their lead until the eight and up to that inning looked like sure winners. R. Frederick started the rally that put last year's champions in front again. He cracked a single down the third base line, Hudgin was hit and the runners advanced on Harrington's in field out Corrin making the play unassisted. Welsh's tap in front of the plate went for a hit filling the bases. H. D. Campney doubled to centre. Dugan misjudging the drive and Frederick and Hudgin scored tying the count. Foley mussed up C. Frederick's slow top, and Welsh carried the run over putting Picton in front 5 to 4. H. Campney's long sacrifice fly to Legon sent H. D. Campney home. Mulholland's roller to Corrin terminated the excitement

When the ninth opened Picton led by 6 to 4. Johnston batted for Legon and bunted getting a life when Mullholland dropped the pitcher's throw. Foley tapped one to Croft who fumbled and then threw wide to first. Johnston going to third and the batter to second. Primeau cracked one to C. Frederick and Johnston scored. Frederick's throw home being useless as it was too late to cut off the run. Primeau stole second. Barrie's sacrifice fly to centre scored Foley with the tying run. Primeau going to third. Dugan, however, popped to Croft in trying to bunt and Corrin grounded out.

The Electricians lost a great chance in the tenth when Helson led off with a single over second, stole second and went on to third on Frederick's poor throw. However Frost and McCarney struck out Welsh tossed out Johnston. Picton did nothing in their half of the tenth although H. D. Campney singled with two out.

C. G. E. went out in order in their half of the eleventh and then Picton preceeded to win battle. H. Campney started the fireworks when he singled sharply over second. Mulholand fanned. Campney stole second and then Croft won his own game by exploding a double between short and second on which Campney easily scored the winning run. The score.

BABE RUTH BACK ON THE JOB NOW

AHKOOND OF SWAT JOINS YANKS IN PHILADELPHIA

NEW YORK, Sept. 30. — Babe Ruth is back on the job.

Following a day's sentence in bed as the result of a severe cold, he was so far recovered to-day that he palnned to join the Yankees in Philadelphia and resume his place in the line-up.

"Raring to go," was the Babe's comment when asked how he felt to-day.

Word that Ruth was sufficiently recovered to get back in the game spread quickly through the city and gladdened the hearts of the fans who, despite assurances yesterday that the Behometh's confinement was merely precautionary, had feared he might be in worse shape than officially reported.

There was some speculation as to whether Miller Huggins would allow Ruth to get into uniform to-day anway, because of the possibility of him over-exerting or sustaining an injury. The club phyiscian was expected to make the trip to Philadelphia with Ruth.

NOTICE.

The newly elected officers and executive of the William Hamilton Athletic Association held their first meeting last evening.

Various sporting activities for the ensuing year were discussed. The inter-shop bowling league, which proved so successful last year, is to be re-organized for the fall months.

Among other items brought before the meeting was a resolution endorsing the membership drive of the Peterborough Amateur Athletic Association and wishing them every success.

WILL START BIG DRIVE TO-NIGHT

ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION IS ENCOURAGED ON EVE OF MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN.

A meeting of the P. A. A. A. will be held at 7.15 this evening in the Y. M. C. A. to start the machinery for the membership drive. Already, a large number of prospects have been approached, and at this stage of the campaign there is no lack of encouragement and promises of co-operation.

The meeting will also deal with the Rugby situation. The Collegiates have been notified that the team has been grouped with Oshawa and Belleville, in the Interscholastic series of the O. R. F. U., and that the schedule calls for a home game for the locals on Saturday, October 8th, with Oshawa.

Writing in the Toronto Star, W. A. Hewitt has this to say: "The Peterborough Amateur Athletic Association has launched a campaign for 1,000 members, and it should have no difficulty in making the grade. This organization should have the solid support of the whole community, as the salvation of amateur sport depends upon it's being under proper control and guidance."

At The Theatres

AT THE CAPITOL.

"The Rider of the King Log" at the Capitol for the last three days of this week is an interesting picture of the Maine woods, a Holman Day special production. It is a romance of the great logging industry of this section of the U.S.A. with a real, fighting timber king and his equally combative daughter, he conflict between the "Rider of the King Log" and the timber wolves of Wall street offers some splendid opportunities for thrilling scenes.

Jimmy Aubrey is the comedian in "The Tourist," an excellent comedy, and a couple of splendid vaudeville acts, with an artist on the accordion and some good singing and dancing, complete a pleasing programme.

AT THE ALLEN.

"Dangerous Curve Ahead," Rupert Hughes great picture of married life, contains some of the finest humor that ever registered before a camera. Yet in its sincerity, its realism and its profound exposition of human failings, it is more than comedy. You will rock with laughter—and then suddenly find yourself thrilled by an intensly dramatic situation. It will be here at the Allen Monday and no true lover of the photoplay will miss it.

FILMS GUARDED LIKE MINTED GOLD

In Making Outdoor Scenes For "Ace of Hearts," Goldwn Film Is Never Left Out of Sight.

Few people realize how carefully newly made negative films are guarded until duplicate prints have been made. A good example of the preciousness of these exposed strips of celluloid may be seen in the way some original outdoor scenes in the Goldwyn picture, "Ace of Hearts," weer guarded from the time of exposure until they were safely locked in the studio fire-proof vault. This Gouverneur Morris photoplay, which was directed by Wallace Worsley, will be shown at the Allen Theatre for two days more.

As the spot chosen to take the outdoor scenes was snowed in, the director had to take along a complete caravansary from the Goldwyn studios. This includes a chef and provisions to last a few days. Three trucks, loaded with bedding, food and various properties, besides seven touring cars carrying the personnel, made up the procession.

The camera was carried in a car, with supplies, between two other machines. The reason for this is that if anything happens to the camera car the photographic outfit may be transported either in the leading or the trailing car.

In returning to the studio after the outdoor scenes had been taken, the camera with its exposed films, was transported in the same way as on the outward journey. The men in charge of the films never let it out of their sight until it was safely locked in the studio vaults; for not only was the expense involved high, but it would have been impossible to duplicate the scenes.

AT THE GRAND.

"JOHNNY ON THE SPOT."

On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday next week the Rex Stock Company will present a comedy called "Johnny on the Spot." It sounds like a live-wire show, and glancing over the press notices, it likely will live up to the name. There is a very funny scene in which the rough, uncouth cow-puncher in "hand-me-down" clothes, appears in one of Long Island's most exclusive sections. Fancy a beautiful home, correct society and the embarrassment of the newly-arrived westerner. The comedy is a clever one. Rex has many opportunities to create laughs. Miss Vaughn is an exceptionally clever, attracting maid, and all the other members of the cast have good roles.

KILLED OVERSEAS REMAINS BROUGHT TO BOBCAYGEON

PRIVATE W. E. EDGAR, LIVED IN PETERBORO—ENLISTED IN THE U. S. ARMY.

BOBCAYGEON, Sept. 30. — The funeral of the late Pte. Wm. Earl Edgar, of the 112th Battalion, 28th Division, American Army Corps, took place from the Methodist Church here on Sunday. Earl was an old Bobcaygeon boy before he went to the United States. When the States entered the war he signed up with the 112th Battalion, and went to France a short time before the armistice was signed.

The funeral arrangements were in charge of the Militia here under Major Kelly and Lieut. Fairbairn. The Great War Veterans and the 45th Regiment comprised the escort and bearers. Everything was carried out splendidly, and much credit is due officers and men on their appearance. The escort under the command of Sergt.-Major Simms met the body at the church. Drawn up on both sides of the road at the rest-on-your-arms reversed, with bowed heads they stood while the body and mourners passed through. The bearers in charge of Sergt. Kingsborough were: T. Edgar, S. Cameron, H. Reynolds, W. Hill, W. Bardeau and W. Lyle. W. Gendern and E. Sawyer carried the numerous wreaths. The body was born shoulder high to the church door.

Rev. Whyte preached the funeral service and paid a fitting tribute to the dead soldier. He drew the congregation's attention to the casket bearing the flags of the two greatest Anglo-Saxon races of the world to-day, side by side, covering the body of one who fought and died in one of the greatest causes for which a soldier can die.

After the service the escort was drawn up opposite the church and stood at the present while the body was placed in the hearse, then they moved ahead at the slow march with arms reversed. Behind came the hearse with the bearers on each side, followed by the officers in command and the relatives and friends. At the cemetery gates they were halted and faced, then stood at rest on your arms, reversed, while the cortege passed through, then with reversed arms again proceeded to the graveside.

There they again stood at rest with their arms reversed until the body was lowered into the grave. Then the order, fix bayonets, present arms, was given, and stood steady at salute until the "Last Post" was sounded, one of the last tributes paid a soldier by his comrades. Then with fixed bayonets the men were marched away. Mr. E. Brooks sounded the "Last Post." It was one of the best conducted and most impressive funerals ever held in Bobcaygeon.

William Earl Edgar attended school in Peterborough for a number of years, and with the other members of his family, was well-known here. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Annie Edgar, of Toronto, four sisters, Mrs. Jos. Herron, Mrs. H. Gordon, Mrs. Wm. Tougas, and two brothers, Oscar and Orwall.

GIANTS CARRYING 5 SCALPS ON BELT

BUT HAVE WON WORLD'S SERIES BUT ONCE

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—(Associated Press).—The New York Giants have won five pennants in the National League including and since 1905, but they have been victorious in only one world's series play. McGraw won the world's title with his team in 1905 against the Philadelphia Athletics, and though he has had greater organizations since, the American League champions overcame them.

The series of 1905 consisted of five shutout games, of which the Giants won four. Christy Mathewson turned in three of the victories. Only 91,723 persons saw all five of the games and the total gate receipts were a mite over $68,000, but it was a series that will stand as one of the greatest in baseball world series history.

New York won the first game 3 to 0 and was turned back by the same score in the second contest. They won the third, 9 to 0, the fourth 1 to 0 and the fifth 2 to 0.

In 1911 the Giants again met the Athletics in the series and were defeated. They won the opening game, played on their home lot, by a score of 2 to 1, and lost the second, played at Philadelphia, by 3 to 1. The third game went 11 innings and was won by the Athletics 3 to 2. The Athletics won the fourth, 4 to 2, but New York made a great effort and won the fifth, at 10 innings by 4 to 3. The Athletics pounded out enough hits to make 13 runs in the deciding game and New York tallied but twice.

Many believed the Giants should have won from the Boston Red Sox in 1912, but the luck favored the Bostonians and they were acclaimed world's champions after eight games had been played, one a tie in 11 innings and the final, which Boston won 3 to 2, in 10 innings. Boston won the opener, 4 to 3, and the second was a 6-6 tie. New York won the third, 2 to 1. Boston won the next two, 3 to 1 and 2 to 1, respectively. New York won the sixth and seventh, 6-2 and 11-4. The result of the 8th game already has been mentioned.

For the third time the Giants were pitted against the Athletics in a world's championship in the games of 1913 and New York took but one game of the five. They won the second game, 2 to 0, in 10 innings. The Athletics won the first, 6 to 4; the third, 8 to 2; the fourth, 6 to 5, and the fifth, 3 to 1.

The Giants met the Chicago White Sox in the series of 1917, and after losing the first two games, 2 to 1 and 7 to 2, won the third and fourth by shutouts, 2 to 0 and 5 to 0. The White Sox won the fifth and the sixth, 8 to 5 and 4 to 2.

GOOD SCORES AT COLF CLUB

The field day at the Golf Club yesterday was a highly successful one. Notwithstanding the unfavorable conditions that prevailed owing to the high wind, many excellent scores were made. The honors of the day were carried off by Mr. W. C. Ackerman, who succeeded in carrying off the handsome trophy presented by Mr. Fred. Brown, of Montreal, as well as the pair of shoes donated by the Taplin Shoe Company of Belleville. His score was easily the best of the day. For the second prize, a golf bag donated by Mr. Ackerman, there were three tied—Messrs. McDermid, Widdifield and Dela Fosse, and a game of eighteen holes will be played by these gentlemen to decide who is the winner of the trophy. For the third prize, five gallons of Polarine oil, Mr. Stratton and Mr. Abbott were tied, Mr. Stratton being finally adjudged the winner. For the driving contest, Mr. Abbott easily led the field, and receives six golf balls, presented by Mr. Mason. A box of cigars, donated by C. G. Graham, for the highest net score, was won by Dr. Sutton. Dr. Sutton romped home in a canter, misfortune having dogged his steps throughout the contest.

The day concluded with a dinner at the club house, at which most of the contestants were present. The thanks of the members of the club are due to the generous donors of the various prizes, who made the holding of the field day possible.

WORLD CHAMP. MANAGERS

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—(Associated Press).—An interesting sidelight on world series of other years is concerned in the managers of the pennant winning teams, whose employment of baseball cunning in the various games has been one of the invisible yet most potent factors in the great events.

Connie Mack, the slender boss of the Philadelphia Athletics, can lay claim to the greatest world series honors. Three of Mack's teams have won the series since the National Commission took hold of baseball in 1905. Twice Mack found himself pitted against the wily John McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, and Mack won on both occasions. Another of baseball's greatest leaders, Frank Chance, of the Cubs, lost a series to the Mackmen.

However, Chance was one of the select few who led their teams to world series victory on two occasions. In 1907 and 1908 his Cubs turned back Hughie Jennings' Detroits. Chance's outfit was defeated in the series of 1906 by Manager Jones' Chicago White Sox. The Cubs were woefully weak in that series, taking into consideration the fact that they had set a new record for games won in winning the National League pennant.

Bill Carrigan won two series in 1915 and 1916 with the Boston Red Sox. The following table shows the winning managers since 1905:

1905—McGraw, New York Nationals.
1906—Johnes, Chicago Americans.
1907—Chance, Chicago Nationals.
1908—Chance, Chicago Nationals.
1909—Clarke, Pittsburg Nationals.
1910—Mack, Philadelphia Americans.
1911—Mack, Philadelphia Americans.
1912—Stahl, Boston Americans.
1913—Mack, Philadelphia Americans.
1914—Stallings, Boston Nationals.
1915—Carrigan, Boston Americans.
1916—Carrigan Boston Americans.
1917—Rowland, Chicago Americans.
1918—Barrow, Boston Americans.
1919—Moran, Cincinnati Nationals.
1920—Speaker, Cleveland Americans.

AMERICAN LEAGUE TEAMS WON TITLE TEN TIMES IN 16

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—(Associated Press).—Champions in the American League have been victorious in ten of the 16 world series played since 1905, while the National League pennant winners have six series to their credit.

Representatives of Greater New York in the National have been unsuccessful against American League opponents six times. Not since 1905 when the Giants won the event from the Athletics has a New York National team won.

The Giants, pennant winners in 1911, 1912, 1913, could not win the series, although they were in a hairbreadth of the world's championship against the Red Sox in 1912. Brooklyn has tried and failed on two occasions.

The Philadelphia Americans made the smallest number of runs in any series—three against the Giants in 1905. Once Detroit made but six against Chicago and the Athletics made but six against the Boston Nationals. Brooklyn scored only eight runs against Cleveland last year.

A record of games and runs beginning with 1905 of the winning clubs is as follows:

Year.		G.	R.
1905	New York Nationals	4	15
1906	Chicago Americans	4	22
x1907	Chicago Nationals	4	19
1908	Chicago Nationals	4	24
1909	Pittsburg Nationals	4	34
1910	Philadelphia Americans	4	35
1911	Philadelphia Americans	4	27
x1912	Boston Americans	4	25
1913	Philadelphia Americans	4	23
1914	Boston Nationals	4	16
1915	Boston Americans	4	12
1916	Boston Americans	4	21
1917	Chicago Americans	4	21
1918	Boston Americans	4	9

DIFFICULTIES OF TRAINING FLEAS

The great thing about flea training is that you must catch your flea first.

Some people may think that is easy, but I have the greatest difficulty in keeping up the supply. If I could use cat and dog fleas I should be in clover; there are always plenty of those. But they have no stamina. Take them away from their natural victims and they die.

No, the kind of flea I like is the one that likes you—the kind that spoils your night's rest and makes you sit up and look for a slipper. Next time you have an adventure with one don't be too hard on him. Remember that he has an up-and-down sort of life and has to find his victims as best he can.

Don't kill him. Just put him in a bottle, and when you have caught several send them to me. I will pay you threepence each for the little dears, and perhaps some day you will have the pleasure of seeing them perform.

You did not know fleas performed? Certainly they do. At the present moment I have a troupe of twenty-seven doing all sorts of funny things. I have them harnessed to cabs, carts, and lorries. Others turn wheels, walk the tight rope, and draw buckets out of wells. Fleas are willing little things. They will do anything for you.

Of course, a flea is like a human being. He likes his own way, and he is happiest when he is jumping. Now, the jumping trick is no use to me, so I first put him into a glass tube, and let him leap about for two or three days as much as he likes.

At the end of that time he is fed up with jumping, and is prepared to walk about like other well-behaved insects. He is amenable to reason. Then the training period begins; also the weeding-out process, for not every flea is a born performer. He must be sound in wind and limb—which is not always the case, owing to the clumsiness of the person who damaged him in capturing him—and he must have a good constitution, because it's hard work pulling cabs about, even if they are only small ones.

Having selected my flea, I proceed to put his harness on. This consists of wire so thin that you can hardly see it. If the harness is put on too loosely the flea slips out; if it is too tight he won't work. If one of his legs is caught he can't walk. In fact, it takes hours to harness a flea properly, but after that my work is easy. He soon comes to understand what he has to do, and does it without a murmur.

The question of food was once a great difficulty. A flea will turn up his nose at the finest beefsteak. He doesn't care for chicken, and he has no taste for vegetables. He carries his old habits right through his circus life, and when he is performing I have to let him feed twice daily on my own arm. Yes, I have got used to it now, but it's a bit trying at times.

One of the things a flea likes best is a race. I organize a good many when people come to see my troupe. Each one is attached to a different colored cab, and the onlookers choose beforehand which one they will back. Then I raise the barrier and the race starts. Laugh! You would squeal if you saw a flea race. One of my performers is a real Persimmon—must have lived as a jockey in his palmy days. Anyway, he always wins easily, and one or two people have won a lot of money on him by persuading friends to back the others.

But, as I said before, my greatest difficulty is to get fleas. I remember once when I was at Margate, my stock nearly ran out. One day I met a chum who said he had had no sleep for a week. "Just the man," I said to him. "Go back ato your boarding-house and there's sixpence for every flea you catch."

He went off in high glee. Next day I saw him looking very gloomy. "Have you got those fleas?" I asked "Not one," he said. "I was right in the middle of a bunch when the landlady came up and asked me what I was doing. When I told her, she said 'There's no fleas here,' and kicked me down the stairs."

Still, mine is an interesting business. I have proved that even a flea will do you a good turn if you go the right way about it.

CALM IN IRELAND.
(United Press).

DUBLIN, Oct. 1.—A calm settled over Ireland to-day as a result of Eamonn De Valera's latest peace move in accepting the invitation to the Lloyd George conference.

These same critics of the "President of the Irish Republic" who last week were finding fault with his telegraphic policies in exchanging notes with Lloyd George instead of rising to action to-day were congratulating him on his handling of the situation.

The Cork Examiner, a Nationalist organ, declared, "Ireland looks forward to the conference with the greatest of hopes." "Delegates to the Dail Eireann will be charged with heavy responsibility," it states. "They will have to yield points as well as make them."

The Belfast Irish News declared that great opportunities have arisen in the present situation. "They must not be lost through miscalculations, faults and follies on the part of the Nationalist organization," it declared.

"Release of the interned Sinn Feiners is the best method of maintaining a peaceful atmosphere," the Freeman's Journal suggested.

NEW APPOINTMENTS TO STAFF OF ST. MICHAEL'S

REV. FATHER HURLEY, SON OF MRS. T. HURLEY, THIS CITY, WILL LECTURE ON DOGMATIC THEOLOGY.

Four new appointments have been made to the teaching staff of St. Michael's College in Toronto. Father Basil Sullivan, M.A., a recent graduate from the Catholic University of America at Washington, will take lectures in Latin and religious knowledge; Father W. J. Roach, formerly of Toronto, a graduate of the U. of ., who has been transferred from ssumption College, where for many ears he was professor of ethics, nd who also held the post of president of St. Thomas College, Chatam, N.B.; Rev. A. P. Dumouchel, graduate of Assumption College, who joins the new staff of the heology faculty, and Father Hurley, who has done post-graduate work at ome, after preliminary courses at t. Michael's and Assumption Colges. Father Hurley, who is a son f Mrs. T. Hurley, Hunter Street, ill lecture on dogmatic theology.

Changes of some importance have een made at St. Michael's College his season. Heretofore, all graduates of the College who were candidates for holy orders, were compelled to go to Assumption College at Sandwich, to obtain their theological work. Instructions were recently received from the headquarters of the congregation of St. Basil, Detroit, ordering the removal of these preparatory courses to Toronto, so that it will now be possible to qualify for the priesthood without deserting the mother university.

During the summer, extensive alterations have been made to the interior of the building, the infirmary and one of the chapels having been partitioned off so as to provide accommodation for about 34 extra students. The residence will be divided into two sections, one for each of the two faculties.

STRAIN EVERY POINT TO AID UNEMPLOYMENT

SO PREMIER PROMISES AT CONFERENCE WITH VETERANS' ORGANIZATIONS IN MONTREAL.

SAYS GOVERNMENT GIVES CHIEF ATTEYOION TO IT

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 1.—Following his public meeting last night, Premier Meighen held a conference, lasting an hour, with representatives of the Returned Soldiers' Associations. The unemployment situation was under discussion.

Mr. Meighen at one stage of the conference elicited cheers with the declaration that "we intend to strain every point and even strain the law in so far as is possible to meet conditions. Mr. Meighen referred to unemployment as the biggest question before Canada to-day, even though conditions are better here than either in Great Britain or the United States.

The Government was giving its chief attention to an effort to find the most practical solution. The Prime Minister did not agree with suggestions that letting of contracts were much too limited to allow the accomplishment of any real relief from this source.

Practical relief is to be achieved by bringing about conditions that will encourage the private employer to take on more men, and it is the attainment of such conditions that the Government is addressing itself, he said.

Huge Arbuckle Demonstration Merely a Fake

GOSSIP IN FILM COLONY IS THAT IT WAS BY 'SUPES.' HIRED TO CHEER COMEDIAN.

(United Press).

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Oct. 1.—Rumors ran through the Hollywood film colony to-day that the demonstration "Fatty" Arbuckle received upon his arrival yeserday was a staged affair, with hired "supes" doing the cheering.

This gossip originated at the Hollywood Hotel, where many film stars make their headquarters. It was wholly denied by friends of the comedian, who is out on $5,000 bail, charged with causing the death of Virginia Rappe.

"Fatty's" arrival in Los Angeles has in fact caused a sharp division in the ranks of the movie people. Some favor Arbuckle; others denounce him. Meanwhile, Arbuckle is remaining in the seclusion of his West Adams Street mansion. He was not alone, however.

His friends thronged the house. In addition to his wife, Minta Durfee Arbuckle, those present included Buster Keaton and his bride, formerly Natalie Talmadge, Slim Summerville, Eileen Percy, Hank Mann, Mrs. Walter St. John, Director Eddie Cline, and other film celebrities.

Arbuckle's anxiety to avoid the limelight did not prevent him from admitting newspaper men and press photographers to the house in large numbers. The boom of flashlights resounded through the corridors.

The Famous Players-Lasky interests, holders of "Fatty's" movie contracts, refused to make any statement as to whether the contracts would be cancelled. It was understood no action would be taken until after Arbuckle's trial.

LIQUOR CHARGE TO BE MADE AGAINST ARBUCKLE.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1.—(Canadian Press).—Assistant Attorney-General McCormick announces that he will soon bring a complaint against Roscoe Arbuckle on a charge of having liquor unlawfully in his possession. Two other men will be charged with him, one prominent business man of this city.

Federal officers announced that they have traced liquor drunk at Arbuckle's party to Vancouver, and are conducting a search for a cache of liquor valued at $100,000, said to have been brought from Canada along the coast.

LET U. S. CUT HER THROAT IF SHE WISHES TO

JEPORDIZING EXPORTS FOR ITS FEW IMPORTS

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

HALIFAX, N. S., Oct. 1. — "If the United States wants to cut its own throat to the extent of jeopardizing a $20,000,000 export trade to Newfoundland by prohibiting a $3,000,000 import trade from here, let them go ahead with the Fordney [illegible] Sir Richard Squires, Premier of Newfoundland, here last night on his way home from New York and Washington, where he had conferences regarding the proposed high tariff bill which would shut out Newfoundland fish from the United States.

The ancient colony, he said, sells only about $3,000,000 worth altogether to the United States, while they consume $20,000,000 worth of American goods yearly. A protective tariff, Premier Squires said, may be good for a country wishing to keep others out of its home market, and to sell only in that market, but if export trade is wanted a free trade policy such as Britain has had for generations is a necessity. Sir Richard said that the export trade of Newfoundland to the United States was worth making efforts to retain, but its loss would be by no means a knockout blow under the circumstances.

FEAR NEW ATTEMPT BY KARL TO SEIZE AUSTRIA'S THRONE

(United Press).

VIENNA, Oct. 1.—Austria expects the Allies to prevent former Emperor Karl from using West Hungary as a base of operations in a new campaign to regain the Hungarian throne.

The Austrian Government to-day sent a note to the Council of Ambassadors in Paris, calling attention to West Hungary's action in proclaiming itself independent. Austria fears that Karl's adherents are behind this movement, and that if Karl can get from Switzerland to West Hungary he will be proclaimed King there and will attempt to extend his rule over the rest of the country.

The territory which has proclaimed its independence has been claimed by both Austria and Hungary. The Budapest Government denies it had anything to do with the declaration of independence.

Raise Monument To Simon Fraser

HUDSON BAY COMPANY HONORS EXPLORER OF CANADA'S GREAT WEST.

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

CORNWALL, Ont., Oct. 1.— A monument to the memory of Simon Fraser, the noted explorer of the Great West of Canada, has just been placed in position in the old cemetery at St. Andrew's West, some six miles north of Cornwall, where lie the remains of Mr. Fraser and his wife.

Mr. Fraser was born in the State of Vermont, when it was a British possession, and his father, who was in the King's Royal Regiment, was taken prisoner during the Revolutionary War, and died in durance. His widow fled with her family, including Simon, then an infant in arms, and settled in St. Andrew's West, where the boy grew up, as did so many of the young men in this section. He joined the North-West Fur Company, and remained in its service until it was amalgamated with the Hudson Bay Company, when he resigned and returned to St. Andrew's, where he died.

In the course of his extensive travels he discovered the river known by Indians as the Great River, which he explored until it emptied into the Pacific Ocean, and which now bears his name. He also discovered a tributary to the Fraser, which he named after David Thompson, astronomer of the North-West, who, on his return from the West, settled in Williamstown, where he bought the house now occupied by Farquhar Ruberton, of Montreal. This house was originally a Presbyterian manse, the first in Upper Canada. On this route Fraser established the principal posts of the North-West Company, in what is now known as British Columbia, to which the Hudson Bay Company succeeded in course of time. In his journeying, he was accompanied by a man named Stewart, uncle of the late Lord Strathcona, and gave his name to a large lake and river. The monument is of grey Barrie granite, about six feet in height, and was made by Fallon Brothers, Cornwall. The inscription is in raised letters in black of imperishable material.

It is in every respect a worthy memorial to a great man. It was erected by the Hudson Bay Company, principally through the representation of Col. McGregor, of Martin Town, who has followed the footsteps of the great explorer, and knows more of his achievements than any other living man.

The inscription is as follows: "In Memory of Simon Fraser, Explorer, born 1776, died 1862. While in the employ of the North-West Company, he conducted important exploration and pioneer work principally in the area now known as British Columbia, which he helped to secure for the British.

"He led the first exploring expedition to descend the Great River which bears his name, reaching the Gulf of Georgia on July 2, 1808. This monument was erected in 1921, by the Hudson Bay Company, over the grave where he and his wife were buried."

JAPAN'S AUTO RULES ARE WORTH COPYING

A resident in Osba, Japan, sends Japanese rules governing autos which might be observed by drivers of speed cars in this city.

The rules are published in English and in French, and the first rule reads:

"At the rise of the hand of the policeman stop rapidly, do not pass him by or otherwise disrespect him."

The second rule: "When a passenger on the foot hove in sight, tootle the horn trumpet to him, melodiously at first, if he still obstructs your passage tootle him with vigor, and express by word of mouth the warning, Ha Hi."

The third rule reads: "Beware of the wandering horse, that he shall not take fright as you pass by, do not explode the exhaust box at him, go soothingly by, or stop by the road side until he pass by."

The fourth rule has a touch of pathos: "Give big space to the festive dog that makes sport in the roadway, avoid entanglement of the dog with your wheel spokes."

Another of the rules contains an awful warning against skidding: "Go soothingly over the grease mud for there lurks the skid demon, press the foot of the brake as you roll the corners to save the collapse."

TAXES BETTER PAID IN THIS YEAR, REPORTS

$599,428 OF $659,269 PAID IN UP UNTIL YESTERDAY, COLLECTOR TELLS FINANCE COMMITTEE.

TO INVESTIGATE NEW MUNICIPAL BANK PLAN

The taxes this year have been met by taxpayers almost as well as last year, and a great deal better than in 1919 and 1918. A statement from Tax Collector W. J. Green at a finance meeting last night showed that of the total roll of $659,269.38, there had been paid to September 30, $599,428.11, leaving a balance of $59,841.27.

The total per cent. of the taxes paid is 90.92, compared with 94.5 per cent. in 1920, 54.5 in 1919, and 67.8 per cent. in 1918.

The committee extended W. J. Green's appropriation for office expenses to $520 for the salary of an assistant in the office during September and October. On motion of Aldermen N. Phelan and R. Morrison, the further grant was made.

Mr. Green asked for a week's holidays during October, while he has an assistant, and, on motion of Ald. F. Whitehouse, this was granted.

Municipal Banking.

City Treasurer F. Adams was asked by Ald. Turner to investigate the scheme of municipal banking as carried on in Birmingham, England, where the municipality secures money at per cent. per cent. from its citizens, which it would, by issue of debentures, have to pay six or seven per cent. for. Ald. G. N. Gordon's letter in this regard with other information was referred to Mr. Adams for analysis.

An increase in the rate of interest on the $33,000 park debentures, which have not been offered for sale yet, was made from 5½ to 6¼ per cent. A by-law will be introduced in Council to change the rate of interest on these debentures.

Ald. J. J. Turner presided, with Mayor McIntyre, Ald. N. E. Phelan, Ald. G. L. Hay, Ald. R. Morrison, and Ald. Frank Whitehouse present.

The work of moving this section of the bride will begin on Monday, under the superintendncy of Reeve Holland, of Ennismore. Dan Whitung, Jr., stated that the ferry would be working for those who [illegible] transport their cars, but others feel quite satisfied with leaving cars on the Ennismore shore.

Trent Towns With New Rinks And Others Mooted, Looking Forward to Winter Sports

Lakefield with a new $15,000 rink, Warkworth with its $6,000 one, Norwood with pledges amounting to $4,000 also for rink purposes and both Havelock and Hastings inclined to get busy in the same direction, comprise a list of Trent district preparations for winter sports that is highly encouraging.

From all accounts the Lakefield rink, affording separate accomodation for hockey and curling, is rapidly nearing completion. Warkworth's new structure is built on the Fair Grounds and will be formally opened on Thursday, October 6th, by the Hon. Manning Doherty and Mr. Lockie Wilson. It is equipped with collapsible stalls, which, after accomodating some of the stock exhibited at the Fair, can be pushed back against the wall, leaving everything set for winter. The sheet of ice will be of O.H.A. regulation size, and ample room has been set apart for spectators.

Both Lakefield and Warkworth are going in for the best hockey they can provide. The northern village is talking both intermediate and junior O.H.A. teams, and as for the curlers, they are looking forward to a bigger season than ever, in keeping with their city-sized rink.

Other Plans in Air.

Norwood is seriously considering the construction of a new rink, but it is not definitely known whether the promoters of the scheme have overcome the financial obstacles. They look toward their smaller neighbour, Keene, and find the Otonabee men well equipped for the winter games. On the other hand, Norwood's curlers, Wildman, Jack McKelvie, Tom Finlay, Fred. Kempt and the rest of the faithful who have been keeping their hand in the game under the greatest disadvantages, feel that they are entitled to a new rink however modest.

Hastings is stirring to the conviction throughout the Trent district that adequate accomodation for winter sports and games is not only an attraction for the young people, a desirable social and healthful influence, but is also needed by the older folks, especially by those men who follow curling.

Campbellford's Prospects.

After one of the biggest lacrosse seasons in Campbellford's history, which practically every citizen feels should have brought the intermediate championship to the Trent, the fans are gradually realizing that they have the nucleus of a good hockey team, Cliff. Weston, Len. Hill, Johnston Graham and three or four other prospects would make a tidy intermediate O.H.A. team, and other material not yet fully uncovered may be available. It is stated that one of the seven famous Schnarr brothers of Kitchener has been working in Campbellford this year. Barney Cannon of the lacrosse team is credited with hockey ability and experience. As far as players go the hockey crowd are confident that they can turn out a couple of fast teams, intermediate and junior, providing they can make satisfactory financial arrangements with the owner of the rink.

It is generally admitted that Campbellford should have a more commodious hockey and skating rink. The curlers in their separate quarters are comfortably fixed, and although the area of the hockey ice is satisfactory, the accomodation for spectators requires obvious improvements for the benefit of the public, and also to enable the hockey teams to collect enough money for their ordinary expenses. Local fans state that something should be started as soon as possible instead of waiting until December when any efforts would be too late for the approaching season.

RURAL SCHOOL FAIR AT JANETVILLE ONE OF THE BEST IN THE DISTRICT

GENERAL HUGHES OF BOWMANVILLE AND MAJOR SNIDER, OF PORT HOPE, WERE THE JUDGES

THE PRIZE-WINNERS

JANETVILLE, Oct., 1. — A happy spirit of enthusiasm prevailed throughout the entire day of the Rural School Fair, for the North Manvers district, which was held at Janetvlle on Thursday, September, 29th.

The attendance was estimated at between three and four hundred people, and on all sides was heard the comment that this was, without doubt, the most successful school fair ever held in that section.

Six out of the seven schools competing were represented in the parade which was an admirable one from every standpoint, and for which Major-General Hughes, of Bowmanville, and Major Snider of Port Hope acted as judges, finally announcing their decision as follows: 1st North Janetville S. S. No. 16; 2nd Janetville, S. S. No. 7, 3rd Fleetwood, S. S. No. 6, 4th Bethel, S. S. No. 10 5th Franklin, S. S. No. 11; 6th Yelverton S. S. No. 1.

For physical culture the standing was 1st Franklin S. S. No. 11; 2nd Bethel, S. S. No. 10; 3rd Fleetwood, S. S. No. 6.

The Exhibits

The exhibit in the tent was especially good, and the judges found the task of awarding the prizes a difficult one since both quantity and quality were excellent; some of the reguar fall fairs in the larger centres could hardly show a better, or more tempting, array of cooking, particularly layer cakes, than were exhibited on Thursday. The boy's driving contest had an unusually large number of entries, and was watched with keen interest.

The silver cup goes to Franklin school this year and Miss O'Brian, the teacher, was justifiably proud of the honor of carrying home the coveted trophy after the decision was announced.

The Prize Winners

BUTTER UP 5-8 CENTS.

MONTREAL, Oct. 1.—(Canadian Press).—The tone of the market for oats was easier, with prices down ⅛ cent a bushel. A feature of the flour market was the increased demand for Canadian spring wheat grades, but the domestic market was without feature. A fair business is passing in millfeed, and the market for rolled oats is steady. There is nothing new in the baled hay market. A steady demand with good trade prevails in eggs, and the demand for potatoes is better. Prices are up 5-8c per pound for butter, and a much stronger feeling obtains for cheese.

CANADA LIKELY TO WIN FIGHT AGAINST ARTICLE TEN

GENEVA, Oct. 1. — (Canadian Press.)—Hon. Chas. J. Doherty, Canadian representative at the league of nations assembly, has reduced to a minimum the chances of final rejection at this session of the assembly of his amendment which would eliminate Article Ten from the covenant of the league of nations. The sub-committee having this matter in hand had decided upon rejection and adopted an interpretative resolution to the effect that Article Ten was never intended to perpetuate geographical and political divisions as they now exist, but merely as a safeguard against external aggression.

IRISH OUTLOOK THOUGHT BRIGHT

SINT FEIN ACCEPTANCE DRAFTED IN VERY SHORT PERIOD--NO CONDITIONS ATTACHED.

DUBLIN, Oct. 1. — (Canadian Press.)—Although the Dail Eireann "cabinet" sat for nearly three hours yesterday and Eamonn de Valera and Arthur Griffith did not leave the Mansion House until a late hour last evening, the discussion of the reply to Mr. Lloyd George's invitation to a conference occupied only a short portion of the proceedings, which were devoted mainly to other business. Decision on the reply to the prime minister was unanimous, all argumentative points by general consent, having been ignored.

Besides the full "cabinet" only Propaganda Minister Fitzgerald and Secretary Kevin O'Higgins were present at the meeting. Harry Boland of New York saw the leaders after the meeting and bade them farewell. He is returning to the U.S.

During the day some telegrams from English smpathizers with the Irish cause were received. These urged the cabinet to accept Mr. Lloyd George's invitation without argument.

The Irish reply raised no question as to the status of the Sinn Fein delegates, and no further correspondence between the prime minister and the Irish leaders is expected.

"Our respective positions have been stated and understood, and we agree that conference, not correspondence, is the most practical and hopeful way to an understanding," said Mr. De Valera's message in announcing that the Irish delegates would meet Mr. Lloyd George on the date the prime minister had set.

MEIGHEN APPEALS TO QUEBEC FOR SUPPORT, BASING PLEAS ON TARIFF AND FORGIVENESS

ATTACKING CRERAR AND KING'S TARIFF POLICY, HE DECLARES CANADA CANNOT AWAIT U.S. TARIFF.

BALLANTYNE REPLIES TO KING ON MARINE

MONTREAL, Oct. 1.—(Canadian Press.)— Speaking here last night, Hon. Arthur Meighen, Prime Minister, made a strong plea for the support of Quebec and reiterated that the tariff was the vital issue in the campaign.

Mr. Meighen believed the people of Quebec wanted conditions to improve with concord and good feeling. There was abundant evidence of that desire, but there were some who appeared determined that it would not be accomplished. "There are some who appeal in language that is no better than treason to the electors of this province to rise up and be revenged on the rest of Canada. I ask, I implore you to remember that the men who make these appeals are politicians," the prime minister urged when suggesting to his audience and to the people of the other provinces as well such politicians should not be taken seriously. Votes were the only objects of appeals. But such conduct was treasonable whether defined in this manner or not. It was treasonable to Canada, "the land we love."

The other provinces did not feel, nor could they be brought to feel that there was cause for revenge either way. The other provinces wanted to join with Quebec in deciding the issues of the day and not the issues of the past. The other provinces wanted to take that course because it was best for Canada. "I hope I won't be misunderstood when I ask you all to respond to their aspirations," the prime minister appealed, when asking that the big men of Quebec meet him on this ground and conduct a battle that would carry no memories of the lamentable divisions of the past. A failure either way would be a calamity beyond repair.

Tariff Vital Issue.

The tariff policy rested at the base of all hope of stability and prosperity in Canada. Every province in the dominion would lose through a wrong decision on the tariff issue, but no province would lose more than Quebec. The tariff issue was extremely vital. There was a party headed by Mr. Crerar and Mr. Wood, although Mr. Meighen felt he should reverse the order of these names, who had conducted for several years most determined propaganda aimed to reverse the tariff policies of this country. This party hoped to achieve this goal by means of the coming election. They had built up a great organization. They

THREATEN JUDGE IN ARBUCKLE CASE

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1. — (Canadian Press).—A number of threatening letters have been received by Police Judge Sylvain J. Lazarus, who conducted the preliminary hearing of the murder charge against Roscoe C. Most of the letters were precipitated by Judge Lazarus' action in reducing the murder charge to manslaughter, he said. The letters were not made public.

STORM SWEEPS FROM ONTARIO TO THE OCEAN

GALES BLOWING FROM 50 TO 60 MILES AN HOUR WRECKS BUILDINGS AND CUTS COMMUNICATION.

AUTOMOBILES BLOWN ABOUT IN MONTREAL

MONTREAL, Oct. 1.—(Canadian Press). — Accompanied by a fifty-mile-an-hour gust of wind, a rainstorm of tropical violence struck this city yesterday afternoon around 4 o'clock, felling trees, smashing windows, tearing copings from roofs, and even blowing conveyances across the roads. No serious injuries are reported as yet, although three pedestrians were struck by a Ford car which was blown onto the sidewalk, but very considerable damage has been done.

The telegraph companies are the principal sufferers, most of the wires out of Montreal being out of commission. The tramway service was held up for some hours, and in some parts of the city the lighting was seriously affected.

At St. Anne's, near here, the same conditions obtained, while at Vaudreuil a coping was blown from a house and many trees were felled.

At Brockville the roof of the Opera House was blown clear off the building.

Chiropractic and Health

The Solution of the Health Problem is contained in the BODY ITSELF.

This is the principle of the Chiropractic Profession and it is followed in every adjustment.

We realize from the insight that our studies have given us that internal disorders cannot be eliminated without annihilating the cause.

We do that in conjunction with nature itself.

CALM IN IRELAND.

(United Press).

DUBLIN, Oct. 1.—A calm settled over Ireland to-day as a result of Eamonn De Valera's latest peace move in accepting the invitation to the Lloyd George conference.

These same critics of the "President of the Irish Republic" who last week were finding fault with his telegraphic policies in exchanging notes with Lloyd George instead of rising to action to-day were congratulating him on his handling of the situation.

The Cork Examiner, a Nationalist organ, declared, "Ireland looks forward to the conference with the greatest of hopes." "Delegates to the Dail Eireann will be charged with heavy responsibility," it states. "They will have to yield points as well as make them."

The Belfast Irish News declared that great opportunities have arisen in the present situation. "They must not be lost through miscalculations, faults and follies on the part of the Nationalist organization," it declared.

"Release of the interned Sinn Feiners is the best method of maintaining a peaceful atmosphere," the Freeman's Journal suggested.

STRAIN EVERY POINT TO AID UNEMPLOYMENT

SO PREMIER PROMISES AT CONFERENCE WITH VETERANS' ORGANIZATIONS IN MONTREAL.

SAYS GOVERNMENT GIVES CHIEF ATTEYOION TO IT

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 1.—Following his public meeting last night, Premier Meighen held a conference, lasting an hour, with representatives of the Returned Soldiers' Associations. The unemployment situation was under discussion.

Mr. Meighen at one stage of the conference elicited cheers with the declaration that "we intend to strain every point and even strain the law as far as is possible to meet conditions. Mr. Meighen referred to unemployment as the biggest question before Canada to-day, even though conditions are better here than either in Great Britain or the United States.

The Government was giving its chief attention to an effort to find the most practical solution. The Prime Minister did not agree with suggestions that letting of contracts were much too limited to allow the accomplishment of any real relief from this source.

Practical relief is to be achieved by bringing about conditions that will encourage the private employer to take on more men, and it is the attainment of such conditions that the Government is addressing itself, he said.

NEW APPOINTMENTS TO STAFF OF ST. MICHAEL'S

REV. FATHER HURLEY, SON OF MRS. T. HURLEY, THIS CITY, WILL LECTURE ON DOGMATIC THEOLOGY.

Four new appointments have been made to the teaching staff of St. Michael's College in Toronto. Father Basil Sullivan, M.A., a recent graduate from the Catholic University of America at Washington, will take lectures in Latin and religious knowledge; Father W. J. Roach, formerly of Toronto, a graduate of the U. of T., who has been transferred from Assumption College, where for many years he was professor of ethics, and who also held the post of president of St. Thomas College, Chatham, N.B.; Rev. A. P. Dumouchel, a graduate of Assumption College, who joins the new staff of the theology faculty, and Father Hurley, who has done post-graduate work at Rome, after preliminary courses at St. Michael's and Assumption Colleges. Father Hurley, who is a son of Mrs. T. Hurley, Hunter Street, will lecture on dogmatic theology.

Changes of some importance have been made at St. Michael's College this season. Heretofore, all graduates of the College who were candidates for holy orders, were compelled to go to Assumption College at Sandwich, to obtain their theological work. Instructions were recently received from the headquarters of the congregation of St. Basil, Detroit, ordering the removal of these preparatory courses to Toronto, so that it will now be possible to qualify for the priesthood without deserting the mother university.

During the summer, extensive alterations have been made to the interior of the building, the infirmary and one of the chapels having been partitioned off so as to provide accommodation for about 34 extra students. The residence will be divided into two sections, one for each of the two faculties.

Huge Arbuckle Demonstration Merely a Fake

GOSSIP IN FILM COLONY IS THAT IT WAS BY "SUPES." HIRED TO CHEER COMEDIAN.

(United Press).

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Oct. 1.—Rumors ran through the Hollywood film colony to-day that the demonstration "Fatty" Arbuckle received upon his arrival yeserday was a staged affair, with hired "supes" doing the cheering.

This gossip originated at the Hollywood Hotel, where many film stars make their headquarters. It was wholly denied by friends of the comedian, who is out on $5,000 bail, charged with causing the death of Virginia Rappe.

"Fatty's" arrival in Los Angeles has in fact caused a sharp division in the ranks of the movie people. Some favor Arbuckle; others denounce him. Meanwhile, Arbuckle is remaining in the seclusion of his West Adams Street mansion. He was not alone, however.

His friends thronged the house. In addition to his wife, Minta Durfee Arbuckle, those present included Buster Keaton and his bride, formerly Natalie Talmadge, Slim Summerville, Eileen Percy, Hank Mann, Mrs. Walter St. John, Director Eddie Cline, and other film celebrities.

Arbuckle's anxiety to avoid the limelight did not prevent him from admitting newspaper men and press photographers to the house in large numbers. The boom of flashlights resounded through the corridors.

The Famous Players-Lasky interests, holders of "Fatty's" movie contracts, refused to make any statement as to whether the contracts would be cancelled. It was understood no action would be taken until after Arbuckle's trial.

LIQUOR CHARGE TO BE MADE AGAINST ARBUCKLE.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1.—(Canadian Press).—Assistant Attorney-General McCormick announces that he will soon bring a complaint against Roscoe Arbuckle on a charge of having liquor unlawfully in his possession. Two other men will be charged with him, one prominent business man of this city.

Federal officers announced that they have traced liquor drunk at Arbuckle's party to Vancouver, and are conducting a search for a cache of liquor valued at $100,000, said to have been brought from Canada along the coast.

LET U. S. CUT HER THROAT IF SHE WISHES TO

JEPORDIZING EXPORTS FOR ITS FEW IMPORTS

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

HALIFAX, N. S., Oct. 1. — "If the United States wants to cut its own throat to the extent of jeopardizing a $20,000,000 export trade to Newfoundland by prohibiting a $3,000,000 import trade from here, let them go ahead with the Fordney

Squires, Premier of Newfoundland, here last night on his way home from New York and Washington, where he had conferences regarding the proposed high tariff bill which would shut out Newfoundland fish from the United States.

The ancient colony, he said, sells only about $3,000,000 worth altogether to the United States, while they consume $20,000,000 worth of American goods yearly. A protective tariff, Premier Squires said, may be good for a country wishing to keep others out of its home market, and to sell only in that market, but if export trade is wanted a free trade policy such as Britain has had for generations is a necessity. Sir Richard said that the export trade of Newfoundland to the United States was worth making efforts to retain, but its loss would be by no means a knockout blow under the circumstances.

FEAR NEW ATTEMPT BY KARL TO SEIZE AUSTRIA'S THRONE

(United Press).

VIENNA, Oct. 1.—Austria expects the Allies to prevent former Emperor Karl from using West Hungary as a base of operations in a new campaign to regain the Hungarian throne.

The Austrian Government to-day sent a note to the Council of Ambassadors in Paris, calling attention to West Hungary's action in proclaiming itself independent. Austria fears that Karl's adherents are behind this movement, and that if Karl can get from Switzerland to West Hungary he will be proclaimed King there and will attempt to extend his rule over the rest of the country.

The territory which has proclaimed its independence has been claimed by both Austria and Hungary. The Budapest Government denies it had anything to do with the declaration of independence.

Raise Monument To Simon Fraser

HUDSON BAY COMPANY HONORS EXPLORER OF CANADA'S GREAT WEST.

(Special Despatch to The Examiner)

CORNWALL, Ont., Oct. 1.— A monument to the memory of Simon Fraser, the noted explorer of the Great West of Canada, has just been placed in position in the old cemetery at St. Andrew's West, some six miles north of Cornwall, where lie the remains of Mr. Fraser and his wife.

Mr. Fraser was born in the State of Vermont, when it was a British possession, and his father, who was in the King's Royal Regiment, was taken prisoner during the Revolutionary War, and died in durance. His widow fled with her family, including Simon, then an infant in arms, and settled in St. Andrew's West, where the boy grew up, as did so many of the young men in this section. He joined the North-West Fur Company, and remained in its service until it was amalgamated with the Hudson Bay Company, when he resigned and returned to St. Andrew's, where he died.

In the course of his extensive travels he discovered the river known by Indians as the Great River, which he explored until it emptied into the Pacific Ocean, and which now bears his name. He also discovered a tributary to the Fraser, which he named after David Thompson, astronomer of the North-West, who, on his return from the West, settled in Williamstown, where he bought the house now occupied by Farquhar Ruberton, of Montreal. This house was originally a Presbyterian manse, the first in Upper Canada. On this route Fraser established the principal posts of the North-West Company, in what is now known as British Columbia, to which the Hudson Bay Company succeeded in course of time. In his journeying, he was accompanied by a man named Stewart, uncle of the late Lord Strathcona, and gave his name to a large lake and river. The monument is of grey Barrie granite, about six feet in height, and was made by Fallon Brothers, Cornwall. The inscription is in raised letters in black of imperishable material.

It is in every respect a worthy memorial to a great man. It was erected by the Hudson Bay Company, principally through the representation of Col. McGregor, of Martin Town, who has followed the footsteps of the great explorer, and knows more of his achievements than any other living man.

The inscription is as follows: "In Memory of Simon Fraser, Explorer, born 1776, died 1862. While in the employ of the North-West Company, he conducted important exploration and pioneer work principally in the area now known as British Columbia, which he helped to secure for the British.

"He led the first exploring expedition to descend the Great River which bears his name, reaching the Gulf of Georgia on July 2, 1808. This monument was erected in 1921, by the Hudson Bay Company, over the grave where he and his wife were buried."

JAPAN'S AUTO RULES ARE WORTH COPYING

A resident in Osba, Japan, sends Japanese rules governing autos which might be observed by drivers of speed cars in this city.

The rules are published in English and in French, and the first rule reads:

"At the rise of the hand of the policeman stop rapidly, do not pass him by or otherwise disrespect him."

The second rule: "When a passenger on the foot hove in sight, tootle the horn trumpet to him, melodiously at first, if he still obstructs your passage tootle him with vigor, and express by word of mouth the warning Fi Hi."

The third rule reads: "Beware of the wandering horse, that he shall not take fright as you pass by, do not explode the exhaust box at him, go soothingly by, or stop by the road side until he pass by."

The fourth rule has a touch of pathos: "Give big space to the festive dog that makes sport in the roadway, avoid entanglement of the dog with your wheel spokes."
